Volunteers Battle Multiple Fires In Week

by Kevin C. Horton

The Glen Cove Fire Department, aided by neighboring departments and Glen Cove EMS had a very active week battling large fires, burning cars, and building fires.

On Saturday March 30 at 1:45am the Glen Cove Volunteers were alerted to a "signal 8," an unknown type of fire at Ellwood Street and Valentine Street. According to second assistant Chief Philip Grella Jr, Tom Kenary, Glen Cove Fire Dispatcher #4 received multiple calls for a big fire on Valentine Street so he upgraded the alarm to a General Alarm, "Possible house fire," at 26 Coles Street.

Firefighter and next door neighbor Robert "Rabbit" Budzenski saw that the rear of the next door neighbor's house was on fire and two occupants were on the porch roof. He asked if anyone else was in the house and they stated no.

Budzenski then got a ladder from his garage as 3rd assistant Chief Robert Marino arrived at the scene and declared the fire a "Signal 10," a working house fire. Firefighter Budzenski put his ladder up and escorted the homeowners down unhurt and safe.

mand while Chief of Department Rodni Leftwich took up operations in front and Chief Marino took up operations in the rear of the building.

Engine 525, according to Grella, was first due. They were ordered to lay in a 4 inch supply line and stretch two 1 ¾ hand lines to the rear of the building. Ladder 5211 was 2nd due. They started the truck operations while engine 528 was ordered to lay in another 4 inch supply line front the fire hydrant and stretch a 1 ¾ hand line to the front door.

Mutual aid was provided by Sea Cliff Fire Department for a Fast Team to the scene while Glenwood Landing Fire Co. was dispatched for one ambulance to Glen EMS Headquarters to take in all other alarms while Glen Cove EMS assisted at the scene.

The GCVFD had four engines, one ladder, 1 rescue, 1 fire police unit and four chiefs on the scene with approximately 175 members. The Nassau County Fire Marshall was called in and the fire is under investigation.

24 Ravine Avenue

On Wednesday April 3 at 7:44pm the GCVFD was alerted to a possible house fire at 24 Ravine Avenue in Glen Cove. Dispatcher #1 and Chief of Department Rodni Leftwich received multiple calls for a house fire and possible car burning next to the house.

1st Assistant Chief Joseph Solomito was on scene first and right behind him was 3rd assistant Chief Marino, and 2nd Assistant Chief Philip Grella. Chief Solomito transmitted a "signal 10" with heavy fire coming out of the attic windows. Chief Grella went inside and conducted a search for victims on the first, second and third floors. Chief Marino was outside running operations while Chief Solomito set up command.

Chief Grella radioed that no victims were found in the primary search of the first and second floor but he couldn't make it to the attic due to the heavy volume of smoke. Chief Grella ordered two 1 ¾ hand lines to the rear of the house up to the second floor so they could make it to the third floor. First due 525 stretched the lines to the rear of the building, ladder 5211 set up on the side of the building with hose lines in place. The truck company was hitting the fire with water.

Sea Cliff Fire Department was called for a Fast Team, Glenwood Fire Co. Was called for a tower ladder to the scene which wet up in front of the fire building and Roslyn Rescue was called for an engine to stand by at GC headquarters. Locust Valley was called for an ambulance at Glen Cove EMS headquarters. The GCVFD had five engines, 1 ladder, 1 rescue truck, 1 fire police unit and three chiefs at the scene. About 100 volunteers battled the blaze.

The Nassau County Fire Marshall was called in and the fire is under investigation.

69 Clement Street

On Sunday April 7, at 1:54pm the GCVFD was alerted to a possible building fire at 69 Clement Street. Glen Cove Dispatcher Marvin Tate stated it was a possible garage fire but it was on Valentine Street. Chief Rodni Leftwich who was first due on the scene. Chiefs Solomito, Grella, and Marino all went to Valentine and Engine 528 first due provided a line to the rear garage. Ladder 5211 set up in front of the building and the fire was knocked down in about 16 minutes.

The GCVFD had two engines, 1 ladder, 1 rescue, 1 fire police unit and four chiefs on the scene.

The Chiefs' office of the GCVFD would like to thank all the officers and members from Glen Cove, Sea Cliff, Glenwood, Roslyn, Locust Valley, Glen Cove EMS and GCPD for their assistance at all the fires.

Downton Abbey At the North Shore Historical Museum

The newly opened North Shore Historical Museum on Glen Street in Glen Cove was recently host to Amy Driscoll who gave a slide presentation titled Downton Abbey Meets Locust Valley. The old courthouse overflowed with guests, and it was standing room only for this popular presentation.

Discoll compared the lifestyles of Downton Abbey's fictitious Lord and Lady Grantham and their servants; albeit based on the real English aristocracy, to the wealthy estate owners and their staff in the era of the Gold Coast in Locust Valley, Glen Cove and beyond.

English teapots were displayed in the showcase on loan from NSHM vice president, British born, Victoria Crosby. Several board members wore traditional costume in keeping with the event, historian Monica Randall, videographer Barry Rivadue and Eve Califano, who displayed a copy of the deed of her home which is the original Latting House for which Lattingtown was named.

Following the presentation a delightful traditional English tea with scones, lemon curd, berry preserves and clotted cream was served along with Scottish shortbread.

This event was organized by Linda Darby, a board member of the North Shore Historical Museum.

An exhibit of glamorous gowns and accessories from Monica Randall's Gatsby era collection will be featured at the museum from May until Labor Day with a preview reception on Friday May 3.

NSHM is open on Wednesdays and Saturdays,

Friends Academy Middle School jazz band swings into FL 21 student musicians accepted, perform at Disney Magic Music Days

In mid-March, the Friends Academy Middle School jazz band traded a few blistering days in New York for the hot sounds of Disney Magic Music Days, as they performed for the first time on a Disney stage and participated in a special Jazz workshop.

"This is the first time we have been accepted and played at Disney Magic Music Days," said Jazz teacher Jesse Tennyson. The students were required to record two songs and submit each to Disney for approval.

The FA jazz band was the first ensemble to perform for Disney's new spring season and students (or cast members, as Disney organizers referred to them as), were also able to tour the backstage inner workings of Disney World.

"Our students played a 25-minute set of music and sounded amazing," said Tennyson. "There was a professional sound crew helping us with an introduction by a live MC," he added. The students ultimately drew quite a crowd of listeners as more people began to walk over to hear the band's five-song set, including Duke Ellington's "It Don't Mean a Thing," Neil Hefti's "Cherry Point," Duke Ellington's "Satin Doll," Tito Puente's "Oye Como Va" and Neil Diamond's "Sweet Caroline."

During their second day, students headed to a recording studio to participate in the "Jazz It Up!" workshop, in which the band members sight read five Disney classics such as "Kiss the Girl," "It's a Small World," and "Reflection."

For seventh grader Andrew Becker (Old Brookville), who plays the drums, the opportunity to record was the highlight. "My favorite part about the trip was working in a professional workshop," said Becker. "We got a chance to try something new by recording our songs and it sounded great. And I was surprised by how fun it was to play in front of a crowd," he added.

An on-site clinician and professional jazz trumpeter taught the student musicians everything from sight reading to improvisation to how to record in a studio. A sound engineer helped create a CD of all of the songs the students had worked on, as well as syncing their selection, "Kiss the Girl" with the original animated film. "I was so impressed with our students' professionalism," remarked Tennyson. "And the clinician and sound engineer were too... saying that our middle school students sight read the music better than most high school groups."

Enrolling 779 students from age 3 through Grade 12, Friends Academy is guided by its Quaker heritage and the principles of integrity, simplicity, patience, moderation and a peaceful resolution of conflict. The school is located on 65 acres at the intersection of Piping Rock and Duck Pond roads in Locust Valley/Glen Cove. To learn more about the school or to schedule a tour, please visit the Friends Academy website, www.fa.org, their Facebook page, www.facebook.com/friendsacademyNY or call (516) 676-0393.

HS Ceramic Artist Takes Top Prize at NCC Fair

Congratulations to Glen Cove High School junior Rayvaun Satterfield, who recently won first place in the Ceramic Sculpture category at the Nassau Community College Annual Arts Fair, held on April 6.

"Rayvaun is a student with an outstanding attitude," said his ceramics teacher, Vicki Gordon, who spoke about how his original sculpture was accidentally destroyed when it fell from a pedestal while on display at NCC. Rayvaun re-titled the piece "The End of the Journey," which is currently in pieces and on display in a case at the NCC gallery with a picture of the project in its original state.

The theme of the gallery is "Journeys: Travel to Outer Spaces, Middle Spaces and Inner Spaces," which will be running for the next two weeks at NCC.

"Rayvaun is an exceptionally talented student who visualizes the world around him in a way that enables him to create dramatic and challenging 3D ceramic pieces," added Ms. Gordon.

"I like the challenge of doing things that people think cannot be done," said Rayvaun. "I use my imagination to establish my goals."

College Bound Student-Athletes Get a Leg Up

The Glen Cove School District Athletic Department and the Booster Club sponsored a workshop for college bound student-athletes who have aspirations of playing sports in college. Pat Grecco, a member of the Long Island Junior Soccer League's Hall of Fame who is instrumental in helping numerous student-athletes find the college of their interest, ran the workshop. Under Ms. Grecco's advisement, many student athletes have received full scholarships.

Ms. Grecco, along with a panel of student-athletes and college coaches, explained to parents the difference between Division I, II and III college programs for student-athletes. The panel also outlined the role of the parent in the college search and educated parents regarding scholarships, financial packaging, and helped distinguish between the types of commitments students may make to colleges. Also included was a discussion of what colleges are looking for in a recruit, and an academic overview with SAT/ACT updates. Each student-athlete received an information packet from the NCAA and was able to participate in a question-and-answer session at the end of the workshop.

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Will Sampson. He appeared in the production of "Black Elk Speaks" with the American Indian Theater Co. in Tulsa, Oklahoma, where David Carradine and other Native American actors like Wes Studi ("Dances with Wolves"), "The Last of the Mohicans" and Randolph Mantooth ("JAG", "Battlestar Galactica", "Baywatch") starred in stage productions. He was also an artist. His large painting depicting the "Ribbon Dance" of his Muscogee people is in the collection of the Creek Council House Museum in Okmulgee, Oklahoma. His artwork is currently displayed on-line by The Kyskvny ("kuskuna") Association. In an interview in TV Ontario's series Film 101, "Hollywood Asylum, Explored or Exploited?", film actor Brad Dourif, who played "Billy Bibbit" in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest", stated that Sampson had been imprisoned for a crime he did not commit. After he was pardoned, after serving ten years, his release came without apology or compensation. Sampson reportedly observed the cast on set and noted, based on behavior, that he and Dourif truly understood what it meant to be institutionalized. After undergoing a heart and lung transplant, he died on June 3, 1987, of post-operative kidney failure. He was 53 years old.

This week's celebrity was born Feb.16, 1909 in Lawrence, Kansas. He began his career in show business by performing in theaters, night clubs and on the radio in 1931. He attended the University of Chattanooga in Tennessee, but left when his position on the football team was changed. He later attended the University of Southern California, and graduated with a Master in Theology degree in 1946. He began acting in motion pictures in 1940, appearing in over three dozen films. Many of these roles were not credited. He worked along with another future TV dad, William Bendix, in the 1946 film, "The Blue Dahlia" along with Alan Ladd. In 1946-47, he starred in five films as private detective "Michael Shayne" taking over the role from Lloyd Nolan. Later, he acquired his best-known role as the archetypal philosophy-dispensing father in a well-known 1950's sitcom. His Theology degree came in handy for that role.

Making More Happy Faces

Known throughout the area as Miss Kim, Kim Leary has put smiles on the faces of kids for nearly 20 years through Glen Dance Studio located at 3 Park Plaza in Old Brookville. Now, teaming up with her husband Michael she's helping to capture smiles, through Happy Faces Photo Booths, a new venture the couple are embarking on with smiles on their faces.

It all happened when the couple went to a wedding, saw one of the photo booths and how much joy it was producing. "This looks like a lot of fun," and it was born.

Happy Faces Photo Booths brings a real arched style photo booth (Brand new but retro style) to your party, event, etc. and guests ham it up with supplies hats, etc. viewing everything on a giant 19inch screen. Photos are then printed out within seconds and can be e-mailed instantly. Michael says its a lot of fun seeing people enjoy the booth and it becomes a great keepsake for the hosts of the party as they can receive a flash drive of all the photos the booth captured as well as album etc. (depending on the package).

For information about Happy Faces Photo Booth visit www.HappyFaces-PhotoBooths.com or contact Michael via e-mail at: HappyFacesEntertainment@gmail.com or call (631) 220-4343.

Help Local Residents

Local couple Josie and Joshua, (who announced their engagement in the Gazette recently), are in a contest through KJOY radio to win a dream wedding at the Sea Cliff Manor (formerly Sans Souci) and are looking for our readers help to win.

Josie said, "Josh and I are trying to WIN! It's a DREAM WEDDING contest by KJOY radio station and Josh & I are determined to win! 1st of all Josh's loving Mommy on her death bed told me to go for it and give it all I've got so that's incentive for me. I personally don't really like doing contests but because of her I am going at this one with all I've got! So far we have made the top 12... We are trying to get into the top 3 and WIN! I post everyday on FB to remind people to vote... I even have our very own Sea Cliff's Mayor Bruce Kennedy and his lovely wife Robin voting everyday for us to win!... The truth is that Josh & I spent most of our wedding funds visiting his Mom, back-and-forth to Florida and unfortunately she passed a couple of weeks ago. The point of you printing this story is to encourage our neighbors to VOTE for us! We are Sea Cliffians we met here, fell in love here and should be married here!"

Below is the story the couple submitted (written by Joshua) and the link so you can check out the contest and its major prizes!

"Once upon a in time, in a magical land called Sea Cliff, a small hamlet hidden away on the North Shore of Long Island, I felt her gaze upon me, she's was driving north on Sea Cliff Ave. I was crossing the avenue when our eyes met. I smiled and she smiled back... and then, in a split second she was gone. I hopped into my Chevy and made chase. luckily, she drove only seconds before pulling over, I jumped out of my vehicle and said, "Hey... hello there..." Her response was to flee... and flee she did... but the stars had already communed and agreed upon our fate. WE... were to be engaged.

"You see, weeks before, the idea was already planted into my sweet fiancé's heart by our local soothsayer... Sea Cliff's own bearded and tattooed cupid- the gentle Reverend Neil MacPheron, that she was to meet her soulmate by the month's end. So, she fled upstairs to her humble dwelling only to return seconds later on the prompting of her partner in crime... Her excuse... she had heard her daughters voice from upstairs walking down the street. "HEY BABY" she called out, supposedly toward her daughter but loud enough for me to hear... I naturally responded as only the gods would allow, and spun quickly on my heels and floated over as if pulled by her gravitational force and in a millisecond I stood before her... and her daughter, Trinity. Although overwhelmed by her unearthly beauty I stood and held ground, butterflies inside my stomach but I remained cool, calm and collected on the outside. "Ciao bella," I said utilizing what little Italian I knew. She responded with a soft, soothing "ciao." I rattled on about this and that, made up some lie as to why I chased her down. Something about wanting to move to Sea Cliff and needing an apartment. To my surprise she gave me her number and said she may know of something. Perhaps it was the afternoon sun, but I proceeded, even after she gave me her number, even with her 8 year old daughter now growling at me like my old mans pit bull. I asked her, "May I buy you a drink sometime?"... WOW ..It almost ended right there and then, for I was unwise to the ways of an 8 year old daughter... Josie looked at me as if I just grew 8 heads from my skinny neck. "WHAT?? What I say?" "Call me," she said and walked away, with her 8 year old in tow.

To vote for Josie and Josh go to: <http://www.kjoy.com/kjoy-wedding.aspx>

To show appreciation the couple will be handing out fresh bakery cookies to neighbors this Sunday April 14th in front of the adult Sea Cliff Library at 1pm and if anyone needs help signing up they will be there with a laptop and friends to help anyone sign up to vote.

Portledge Celebrates Visual & Performing Arts Week

Portledge Middle School (Locust Valley) celebrated its annual Visual and Performing Arts Week with activities involving art and music. Sixth graders completed a Jackson Pollock group painting. Seventh graders played Diego Rivera Jeopardy with a tenth grade Spanish class. The Spanish class prepared a lesson on the famous Mexican muralist Diego Rivera, where they explained Diego's life, discussed his paintings, and taught them Spanish art vocabulary. Finally, the eighth graders worked on Diego Rivera-themed ceramic plates.

The music department shared the film "Pulse: A Stomp Odyssey," which explored the language of rhythm around the world, featuring performances on five continents--from gumboot dancers in South Africa and tabla players in India to Japanese taiko drummers, Spanish flamenco dancers and British bell ringers. Students were charged with bringing in "found" percussion items the following day for workshops. Banging recycling bins and chairs, shaking card file cases, scraping chains and fan screens, and creatively using sports equipment, students composed ensemble pieces and competed for prizes. Mr. Myers's sixth grade advisory group (Isaiah Alonzo-St. Surin (Williston Park), Spencer Hall (Great Neck), Isaac Herzog (Lloyd Harbor), Ashley Oden (Brookville), Pedro Pedernera (West Babylon), Nur Raees (West Hempstead), Kamila Sukhov (Westbury), and Aaron Vinsky (Westbury)) was recognized for "Creativity" and Ms. Maiello's six grade group (Kyle Chang (Great Neck), Victoria Dam (Bellerose Village), Chase Diliberto (Glen Cove), Eve Fine (Upper Brookville), Andy Li (Locust Valley), Zoe Meshel (North Hills), Gabriella Rabito (Huntington), and Michael Venuti (Mill Neck)) won for "Best Overall Performance"! Other citations went to Jack Schwartz '18 (Massapequa) ("Best Sounding Instrument"), Dasha Dlin '17 (Upper Brookville) ("Most Unusual Instrument"), Chase Diliberto '19 (Glen Cove) ("Most Creative Instrument"), Justin Hall '17 (Great Neck) ("Most Surprising Instrument"), Isaiah Alonzo-St. Surin '19 (Williston Park) ("Special Dance Performance") and James Treanor '18 (Huntington) ("Most Skillful Instrumentalist"). Members of the Upper School Jazz Combo helped out in the fun and acted as judges.

The arts as a whole play an important role in the lives of Portledge students every day as they participate in concert band, jazz band, string ensemble, orchestra and chorus lessons or take classes in visual arts, whether studio art, architecture, ceramics, photography or sculpture, or perform in creative dramatics or theater arts. There is something for everyone, and students may explore new topics as well.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
Some of my friends attended a book discussion with members of libraries from all over Long Island's North Shore community. What a great idea- to have scores of people read the same book and then gather to discuss it and share insights. Were you there and what book was chosen for this year's event? Sorry to Have Missed It

Dear Sorry,
 Oh yes, I would not have missed the annual Long Island Reads event which once again took place at the Metropolitan in Glen Cove. Readers from Locust Valley, Sea Cliff, Bayville, Glen Head, Roslyn, Glen Cove, the Brookvilles, Oyster Bay, East Norwich, and Glenwood Landing were in attendance and the book discussed was SUTTON by Long Island author J.R. Moehringer. It was great fun and John Canning did a masterful job in moderating the discussion. SUTTON is a fictional recapturing of the life and times of the infamous bank robber

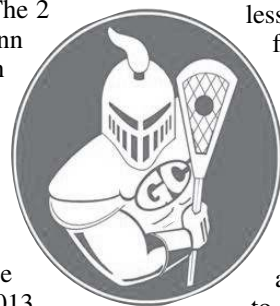

Willie Sutton. Told from the perspective of Sutton himself, the novel takes place on Christmas Eve, the day Sutton is released from Attica Prison. He and a young idealistic reporter and a world weary photographer revisit fourteen sites that played pivotal roles in Sutton's life. We travel through time and place from his childhood in the early 1900's in downtown Brooklyn to all the boroughs of New York City in 1969. The anger felt by so many (including Moehringer himself) towards the banking industry permeates this book. Throughout time there has been a fascination with the "good crook" - think Robin Hood- and Willie Sutton certainly qualifies as such. A fascinating read!

Glen Cove Junior Lacrosse Club 'Wee Knights' Win Home Opener

By Brian 'Condo' Neice

The Glen Cove Junior Lacrosse season started off with a double header of lacrosse action this past Sunday on their new home field at Connolly School, aka Condo Stadium. The 7th & 8th grade 'Late Knights' took to the field against Point Lookout/Lido and were quickly reintroduced to the game of lacrosse. The scoring was fast and furious and unfortunately mostly for the opponent as the final score was 14 - 2. The 2 scores were by Ryan Feldmann and Russell Perciballi, both unassisted, thus showing the lack of teamwork. With the amount of talent the team possesses we're sure they'll bounce back and be prepared for their next game.

The 3rd grade 'Wee Knights' kicked off their 2013 season with a 7-4 win over Plainview. All of the hard work the boys put in during the winter helped get them the first win of their young lacrosse careers. While all of the boys played well as a team, there were a few standouts in the win. Andrew Epifania lead Glen Cove with a hat trick and he also added 5 ground balls. Right behind Andrew in scoring was Ryan Houghton, who was 'gazelle-like' up and down the field, adding two goals. Will Feldmann and Joseph Thom each had a goal from the attack. Jacob Bruce and Jacen Braja also played well at attack in the victory. The foundation for the Knights victory was their defense, anchored by goalie, Christian Maiorano. Christian stepped up and was a wall in goal making eight saves. Dominik Williams, Nicholas Kodis, Kelly Larkin and Victor Scarmato all played well on defense to hold off Plainview's attack. Ciaran Green, Micah Stone, Charlie Benazzi, Eamon Doyle and Jaden Thom all played well at the midfield position.

The 5th & 6th grade 'Mid Knights' travelled to Franklin Square to open their season and were also greeted with a lesson in team lacrosse as they fell by the score of 4 - 1. The defense played well enough to keep them in the game but the lack of offense was evident without anyone cutting or moving to get themselves open. The lone goal came off of a nice assist from Seamus Fallon to Bobby Kiaer to give the Knights some inspiration for their next game. Another bright spot was the goaltending by Jack Coyle and rookie Felipe DeLaFuente. Together they combined for 15 saves with Felipe pitching a shutout in the 2nd half.

Next week's action begins with the Late Knights taking on Lindenhurst at noon and the 2nd grade 'Two Knights' playing their first ever lacrosse game at 1pm against Port Washington at the Connolly School Field. The victorious 'Wee Knights' will try to continue their winning ways on the road in Floral Park along with the 'Mid Knights' who are away again in Cold Spring Harbor.

Gribbin Students Get a Lesson in Healthy Eating

Adopting the theme “Healthy Mind, Healthy Body” for the 2012-13 school year, Gribbin Elementary School in Glen Cove has been participating in many activities during the year that highlight the need for proper nutrition, exercise and overall health. Students throughout the school had an opportunity to enjoy an afternoon of healthy eating, featuring a variety of nutritious snacks. Classes made everything from smoothies and trail mix to yogurt parfaits, with students assembling their own snacks. Every class shared their healthy snack with another class in their grade.

Teachers have been discussing the importance of maintaining a healthy diet and lifestyle with their students. The initiative serves to educate the students on healthy choices and food options in everyday life.

Gribbin Elementary School kindergarteners put together trail mix for the “Healthy Eating Afternoon” on March 15, which had each class in the school preparing a different healthy snack. This activity emphasized the school’s initiative to highlight the need for proper nutrition, exercise and overall health.
