Glen Cove High School inducted 21 students into the National Honor Society on May 16, recognizing their stellar academic record and commitment to community service.

Acting Principal Roseann Cirnigliaro and Mayor Ralph Suozzi were on hand to congratulate the inductees on their impressive achievement of joining such a respected organization. Francine Perez, advisor of NHS, shared some examples of the positive impact NHS members have made in the community during her "Year in Review" presentation. Students Michael Burrell and Angad Sodhi explained the significance of character, scholarship and leadership, respectively, with Elias Blinkoff discussing service and character during the candle lighting ceremony.

"To be a part of National Honor Society is a great opportunity because these students are so involved in a lot of community service – not just honor society, but so many other clubs and activities. The students here really want to give back to the community, to help out in all populations, in all groups," Perez said. "They get back as much as they give. These students are so willing and generous with their time and effort."

Author, journalist Paul Cuadros visits Friends Academy

Author of "Home on the Field" talks to Upper Schoolers about race, poverty and prejudice

LOCUST VALLEY — Award-winning investigative journalist and author Paul Cuadros transported nearly 400 Friends Academy Upper School students and faculty to the deep south with his remarkable account of how a small-town team of "underappreciated young Latino soccer players in an all-football town overcame poverty, prejudice, and the odds, to become champions."

Currently a professor of Journalism at University of North Carolina – Chapel Hill, Cuadros became interested in the changing demographics of the country back in 1998 when it was still "an underground story" and began studying worker safety issues, specifically at chicken processing plants.

After receiving an Alicia Patterson Fellowship, Cuadros moved to rural North Carolina to continue researching his book, "Home on the Field" and then took the unusual step of getting involved in the story. "I started coaching a boys soccer team, comprised of immigrant boys from Mexico. Many had crossed the border by themselves."

Facing racism and discrimination, Cuadros ultimately led the soccer team,

Los Jets, to a championship title in only three years and eventually helped turn the tide of prejudice in a town whose Latino population had skyrocketed from 1.2% in 1990 to 50% in 2010.

Cuadros also addressed issues of driver's license laws in NC with regards to immigrants in a Q&A with students. Later on that afternoon, Cuadros visited the Upper School journalism class, as well as participating in an Upper School Lunch-and-Learn discussion, where he fielded questions from students on a range of immigration issues.

Enrolling 779 students from age 3 through Grade 12, Friends Academy is guided by its Quaker heritage and the principles of integrity, simplicity, patience, moderation and a peaceful resolution of conflict. The school is located on 65 acres at the intersection of Piping Rock and Duck Pond roads in Locust Valley/Glen Cove. To learn more about the school or to schedule a tour, please visit the Friends Academy website, www.facebook.com/friendsacademyNY or call (516) 676-0393.

50th Anniversary Concert Wesley Bell Ringers

The Wesley Bell Ringers will perform at the Sea Cliff United Methodist Church on Monday, June 24, 2013 at 7:30 p.m. The church is located at the corner of Carpenter and Downing Aves. in Sea Cliff.

Although the group has been in existence for 50 years, this concert will be the final concert on the choir's 48th annual concert tour. The group originates from Christ United Methodist Church in Salt Lake City, Utah where the 37 current ringers are the most recent of the 473 youth who have participated in the choir. The 48 summer tours have taken the choir to all 50 states and most of the Canadian provinces. They have performed at the US Capitol, Cathedral of the Pines National Monument, Mt. Rushmore, Disneyland and Disneyworld. The choir has participated, as the featured choir, at numerous handbell festivals around the United States, and performed for The National Music Educators convention. Performances with The Mormon Tabernacle Choir and The Utah Symphony Orchestra have been repeated honors over the choir's history.

The 50th anniversary concert includes sacred, classical, jazz and secular repertoire, including a few of the signature pieces the choir has played over the years. The church is air-conditioned. Admission to the concert is free, but a free will offering will be collected.

White Cap Awards in Sea Cliff

Compiled by Carol Griffin

June 13 proved to be a very exciting evening when two couples active in the Sea Cliff community were honored with Sea Cliff's prestigious White Cap awards for their many volunteer contributions to the community. Each year Sea Cliff Civic Association presents an outstanding volunteer or volunteers with the coveted award.

The first awards were presented to Sally and Charlie Davies, an outstanding couple who have contributed much, many times in their own private ways, to the Sea Cliff community. Laura and Mark Fay said Sally and Charlie's "personal commitment to respond and reach out to others in need regardless of age or circumstance is both admirable and an inspiration."

Charlie Davies

"This year's first honoree is Charlie Davies, born in his home on Maple Avenue. Charlie is a lifelong resident of Sea Cliff and has been an active member of the community. As a 53 year member of the Sea Cliff Fire Department, Charlie has served as Chief of the Department, and several other offices in the department's Hook and Ladder Company as he moved up the ladder. He has also been the department's delegate to the 5th Battalion for more than 10 years. Charlie served as a Village Trustee for 2 years and as a member of the Sea Cliff Civic Association. For the past 34 years Charlie has been an active member of North Shore Kiwanis, during that time he served as president and was designated by Kiwanis as past distinguished president. For the past 10 years Charlie has chaired the Annual Kiwanis Pancake Breakfast, the organization's fund raiser for the children of the community. He has also been a Kiwanis volunteer for the Mini Mart and most recently for the "Relay for Life" race. During the past 5 years Charlie has volunteered his time as a P.U.P. (pick up person) delivering trays of food donated by the Swan Club to North Shore INN, Interfaith Nutrition Network in Glen Cove. This is just another example of where he has seen need and found a way to fill it. His commitment to the children of Sea Cliff has involved Sea Cliff Junior Baseball and the Cub Scouts. As a member of the Sea Cliff Methodist Church, Charlie has volunteered his time.

"With his quick wit, his amazing sense of humor and his willingness to go out of his way to help someone, Charlie Davies has been an example of one who demonstrates his love for this wonderful village we call Sea Cliff."

Sally Davies

The second honoree, Sally Davies, has known Charlie for more than 56 years and married to Charlie for 47 years. Sally has lived in Sea Cliff since she was five, moved to Brookville and then returned to Sea Cliff with Charlie as a married couple. Sally is an active member of the Sea Cliff Civic Association for many years and served the community in many capacities, such as a member of the board, coordinated wine them with total commitment."

Because of their dedication and support of one another, they have been an outstanding example of what it means to and cheese refreshments for the "Artist of the Month" receptions. She has also chaired the SCCA Progressive Dinner many times and as a member of the Sea Cliff Good of the Village Association she presently serves as secretary and has assisted in their annual Antique Sales. Presently, she serves as president of the Sea Cliff Beautification Committee.

Along with former Whitecap winner Linda Parsons she was a Cub Scout leader and a den mother. She is a vital member of the Sea Cliff Methodist Church, she has served for many years as someone to offers Communion at Sunday worship and works in the church's Thrift Shop every Wednesday. Sally also take it upon herself to learn of members of the community who are ill or have lost a loved one and visits them with soup or dinner and offer words of support and comfort. "Her genuine caring and thoughtfulness has meant so much to the residents of Sea Cliff. With all these things she does give something back to the community said the presenters.

Before receiving their award, their son Andy came forward and read a short message of congratulations from their daughter, Holly, who was unable to be present at the awards ceremony.

Barbara Murray

The next presenter was Dan Maddock who read the many contributions of Barbara and Frank Murray to the audience. While describing Barbara Murray, he shared the fact that Barbara has been a volunteer member of the Sea Cliff Village Bulletin staff for its quarterly publication since 2001, stepping up as managing editor in 2009. This entails meeting with the staff and Village officials, conducting a production schedule that includes, sending out notices to Village organizations and groups, receiving the articles, editing them and transmitting the to the printer, receives proofs for correcting and makes-up sheets for layout and positioning, and finally supervises set up and transportation to the post office for mailing--a big job.

For ten years she has been an active member of the Sea Cliff Arts Council, helping to arrange exhibits of work. Since 2008, she has served at Treasurer. She also has volunteered as a docent at the Sea Cliff Village Museum for the past five years, is a member of the Sea Cliff/Glen Head Lions Club holding the position as Corresponding Secretary and arranges the semi-annual Defensive Driving Course and volunteers as the organization's chief fundraiser. for the past three years, she has volunteered at the Mutual Concerns Senior Lunch Program helping to set up, serve food and clean up.

Following writing her parents experiences as Holocaust survivors, she contributed documents and photos of her family to be included in the Holocaust Museum in Glen Cove. She currently acts as a docent as well as occasionally works with donated documents and artifacts to catalogue them. In addition she volunteers in the library weekly. She has been involved in the Museum for 12 years. Quite a resume.

Professionally, she is a retired New York City school teacher who currently works as a part-time Court Clerk in the Village of Sea Cliff. She has two daughters, Sherri and Meaghan. Meaghan is here tonight. "I'm pleased to announce a 2013 White Cap Award to Barbara Murray," said Maddock.

Frank Murray

Dan also had the privilege to introduce the second half of "this dynamic duo," Frank Murray, as he put it.

"Frank Murray became a member of the Sea Cliff Library Board of Trustees in 2001, helping the transition from then Library Director Linda Kundla to Arleen Nevens, the current director. Since 2009, he has served as President of the Library Board working diligently with the Village Board on the Library building restoration project and updating the Adult Library and the refurbishment of the Children's Library.

He is a regular volunteer with Sea Cliff's Senior Action Committee providing transportation for seniors to medical appointments. Since 2002, he has been a volunteer member of the Sea Cliff Village Bulletin staff, writing articles, editing and assisting the Editor in the layout and publishing of the quarterly newspaper.

He serves as a docent at the Mutual Concerns Christmas House Tours. When his daughter Meaghan was young, he served as assistant coach in the Sea Cliff Girl's Softball program.

Frank was born and raised in Brooklyn and worked for the City of New York Department of Education for 33 years as an English teacher. He is current an Adjunct Professor at Brooklyn College in the Education Department. Today, he is also an avid tennis player.

SCFD Music on the Harbor

By Carol Griffin

Sea cliff Fire Department's recent Music on the Harbor held at Sea Cliff Beach was once again very successful. The beach was crowded with people who came to hear the music and support the event. Sitting out in the mellow warm breeze on the beach was very relaxing and refreshing, and reminded everyone of how wonderful it is to live near the beach. Music played throughout the evening with "Live Stock" and Chicken Head that wrapped up the evening. The fire department was selling their delicious specialty of sausage and peppers and other beach fare.

Author Paige Snider Visits Fifth-Graders at Connolly

Author Paige Snider made a special visit to Nancy Cox's fifth-grade class at Connolly Elementary School in Glen Cove on April 8 to talk about acceptance. Emphasizing tolerance of all people, Snider read her book "My Special Friend" to the class. Snider, a college freshman, originally penned the book in fifth-grade in order to support awareness and acceptance of those with autism, including her two older brothers. The visit highlighted National Autism Awareness Month, teaching the students about the need to accept everyone regardless of any differences.

"I think it is important to start teaching children about autism at a younger age so that they will accept it more as they get older," Snider said.

Local Fundraisers Benefit Mutual Concerns

To The Editor,

On behalf of the Mutual Concerns Committee, I would like to express my sincere thanks to Carol Vogt, Ed Lieberman, Bruce Kennedy, and Kathleen DiResta for organizing the SpringFest on June 9th. This event showcased the many volunteer organizations and artists in the community. The proceeds of this event were donated to Mutual Concerns. A week later, the Art Exhibit and Live Auction was held at the Sea Cliff Yacht Club and once again, the proceeds were donated to our organization. I would like to thank the artists who donated their beautiful artwork, Nanette Bass, Robin Maynard, and Kathleen Diresta for arranging this event.

I am continually overwhelmed by the generosity of this community. They have embraced our little organization for many years now. We may be small, but we accomplish a great deal. The MCC provides a very popular lunch and social program for adults 60 and over. Aside from the nutritious lunches served twice weekly, we include programs such as yoga, cards, bingo, and provide blood pressure and health assessments once a month. We stock an emergency food center, which assists people in need regardless of age, sometimes on a weekly basis. At holiday time, we deliver food baskets to those in need. Many people do not realize that there are people that need help living in this area. Some are seniors living on a limited income, some are handicapped residents that need extensive help, some are single parents just trying to make ends meet, or some are people between jobs that just need a helping hand.

Frankly, we could not do what we do without the help of this wonderful community. We, and those we serve, deeply appreciate your generosity.

Peggie Como, Mutual Concerns Committee

Sea Cliff, small town U.S.A.?

To The Editor,

Despite today's age of cyber electronics, with people opting to text rather than to speak with their friends, the Village of Sea Cliff is becoming more small town and old fashioned than ever before!! The Springfest on Sunday June 9th was a perfect opportunity to meet many of Sea Cliff's artists, see their work and talk to them. Every Saturday morning locals make a bee line to the John Burns Village Green for the serendipitous "Off Beat Artifacts" sale which gives all the proceeds to our library! Volunteer, Mike Lennon has done an amazing job of displaying everything from big heavy items like a wrought iron bedroom set, a traveling salesman's suitcase complete with wheels from the 1920's, vintage mirrors, solid wood armoires, two magnificent southwestern wooden chairs, slabs of marble to smaller items like cd's, jewelry, vintage Christmas decorations. You'll never know what treasures await you unless you stop by! Everything is priced to go, Mike doesn't want to have to take anything home. It's a win, win situation for recycling stuff you don't need that someone else might have the perfect home for!! Best of all, the money all goes to the library!! Locals love to walk by with their dogs, children and coffee. There's no need to text anyone, because everyone seems to be there! The free Sea Cliff "Sunset Serenade" in Memorial Park every Thursday starting at 7, where local talent is showcased, is a throwback to the 'good ole' days of bands playing, locals picnicking and children dancing on the lawn! The Village of Sea Cliff doesn't need texting to get the word out, everything is by "word of mouth"!!

Geri Reichgut

Thank You

To The Editor,

Nice work Sea Cliff! Thank you Sea Cliff for shopping at the Friends of the Sea Cliff Library book sale on Garage Day, June 1, 2013. The Friends raised over $900 for the Library. Your book donations and your shopping for book bargains made that all possible.

Thank you Sea Cliff for donating and shopping at Mike Lennon's "Off-beat Artifacts" sale on Saturday mornings. Bravo for Mike for spending many hours getting the artful objects, displaying them and delivering them. Mike's sale raises thousands of dollars for the library. All the money goes directly to the library and serves to help our beloved Sea Cliff library thrive in these very difficult economic times.

*Yours truly,
Carol Poll*

President of the Friends of the Sea Cliff Library

Thank You North Shore

To The Editor,

I want to thank all North Shore residents for entrusting me to 4 terms as a Board of Trustee at the North Shore Schools. I have enjoyed the experience and sharing my knowledge to hire the right professionals to educate our children and to manage our schools in a fiscally sound way. I also want to thank those 1,300 plus residents who voted for me during this election, and thank all school teachers and administrators who I interfaced with during my tenure.

*Thank you,
George Pombar*

Moretto Jr. was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer. Walt passed away in April 2012 after fighting a courageous battle with this disease. The family is working to keep up his fight.

Several Glen Cove residents traveled to Delaware to support the event along with the family. MaryAnn Banach, Valerie Michelsen, and former Glen Cove residents Doris Reicherter and JeanMarie Solomito Mohrman worked as volunteers. Landing Third-Graders Showcase Science Research

Showcasing their science knowledge for parents and peers, third-graders at Landing Elementary School in Glen Cove presented their projects, which covered an assortment of scientific disciplines, during the annual science fair on May 17. The fair highlighted the students' talents and scientific abilities, while serving as a supplemental enhancement to their regular classroom learning. Third-graders selected a topic of their choice, conducting research and an experiment to display at the fair. Projects ranged from "How Does a Circuit Work?" and "The Floating Ball Air Pressure" to "Oil Spills and Ocean Life."

"The science fair gives the students an opportunity to pick a topic that is interesting to them," said Interim Principal Martin Malone. "There are a whole range of those topics, so it is exciting that they are engaged and being thoughtful to what they want to learn more about. When you listen to the students actually tell you about their project, it shows you what they really learned and that they can teach it to you, which is the fun part of having them present it today."

Students at Landing Elementary School in Glen Cove participated in the third grade science fair on May 17, which featured a variety of student projects covering a range of scientific disciplines.

Bethpage Federal Credit Union Donates $20,000 To Sco Family Of Services To Support Children And Youth Literacy Programs

Donation to Support the SCO Fashion Show Benefit to Take Place at the Nassau Country Club on May 1, 2013

SCO Family of Services, the non-profit human service provider based in Glen Cove, New York, today announced the receipt of a $20,000 donation from Bethpage Federal Credit Union in support of SCO's upcoming Fashion Show benefit on May 1st. The benefit, which will be held at the Nassau Country Club, is dedicated to raising funds in support of literacy programs throughout SCO's programs for children and youth.

Bethpage Federal Credit Union, a major supporter of Long Island-based community programs for children, is recognized by SCO as the event's "Literacy Champion" for the generous gift.

"We are delighted to sponsor the SCO Fashion Show benefit, and support SCO programs and services to bolster youth literacy across Long Island," said Linda Armin, Senior Vice President, Bethpage Federal Credit Union. "Bethpage is a long-time supporter of children's charities on Long Island, and we are proud to partner with SCO to help children get the education and confidence needed to succeed in life."

"We are extremely grateful to Bethpage Federal Credit Union for its support of our programs focused on improving literacy skills for children and young people," said SCO Family of Services Executive Director Gail Nayowith. "By helping children read and succeed - the theme of this year's Fashion Show - you can make a significant contribution toward their success in school, on the job, and throughout their lives. We are very proud to partner with Bethpage on this common goal to enrich the lives of vulnerable young people in our community."

The 24th Annual Fashion Show, to be held May 1st at the Nassau Country Club in Glen Cove, is a popular fundraising event in support of SCO programs on Long Island and throughout New York City. This year's Fashion Show honors the memory of Pat Brown of Port Washington, Long Island, a long-time SCO volunteer. The theme of this year's event is "Helping Children Read and Succeed." A college-bound teen selected from SCO programs will receive a scholarship at the event. The Fashion Show features a cocktail hour; silent auction; dinner and a fashion show with volunteers modeling clothing from North Shore boutiques. You can buy tickets online at www.sco.org.

SCO Family of Services helps 60,000 vulnerable New Yorkers each year build a strong foundation for the future. SCO gets young children off to a good start, launches youth into adulthood, stabilizes and strengthens families and unlocks potential for children and adults with special needs.

Name the Celebrity

If this week's celebrity was still with us, she would have been celebrating her 148th birthday on June 19th. Born in Liverpool, England in 1865, she was an English stage actress who appeared in numerous films in later life, achieving recognition in several character roles. She made her first major Hollywood film appearance, recreating her stage role in a film "Night Must Fall" (1937), which also starred Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell. She received a nomination for an Academy Award for Best Supporting Actress in that role. This led to several supporting roles in films including that of 'the vanishing lady', "Miss Froy", in Alfred Hitchcock's "The Lady Vanishes" (1938) with Margaret Lockwood, Michael Redgrave and Paul Lukas. Following three films that did not do well at the box office, the success of "The Lady Vanishes" confirmed the opinion of America producer David O. Selznick that Hitchcock had a future in making films in Hollywood. If you know our celebrity call us at 516-671-2360 or e-mail: mail@goldcoastgazette.net

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Eddie Cantor. As a songwriter, some of his hits included "Makin' Whoopee", "Ida", "If You Knew Susie", "Ma! He's Makin' Eyes at Me", "How Ya Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm (After They've Seen Patee?)" and the "Merrie Melodies" Warner Bros. cartoon theme. Born in NYC to Russian-Jewish parents, Meta and Mechel Iskowitz, his mother died in childbirth one year after his birth. His father died of pneumonia when Eddie was two, leaving him to be raised by his beloved grandmother, Esther Kantrowitz. A misunderstanding when signing her grandson to school gave him her last name of Kantrowitz (shortened to the clerk to Kanter). Esther died on Jan.19, 1917, two days before he signed a long-term contract with Florenz Ziegfeld Jr. to appear in his follies. He adopted the first name "Eddie" when he met his future wife, Ida Tobias, in 1903, because she felt that "Izzy" wasn't the right name for an actor. They married in 1914 and "famously" had five daughters, who provided comic fodder for his long-time running gag about his five unmarried daughters. Years later, movie historians noted the girls were not necessarily happy about the gag.

Eddie was the second president of the Screen Actors Guild serving from 1933 to 1935. He invented the title "The March of Dimes" for the donation campaigns of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which was organized to fight polio. It was a play on the "March of Time" newsreels popular at the time. He began the first campaign on his own radio show in Jan. 1938, asking people to mail a dime to the nation's most famous assumed polio victim, President Franklin D. Roosevelt. With the help of other radio personalities, The White House was deluged with over 2,680,000 dimes. Following the death of his daughter, Marjorie, at the age of 44, both Ida's and Eddie's health rapidly declined. Ida passed in Aug. 1962 of cardiac insufficiency. On Oct. 10, 1964, Eddie suffered another heart attack at the age of 72 and died. In the same year of his death, he was awarded an honorary Academy Award for his distinguished service to the film industry.

NJHS Welcomes New Members

Recognizing student achievement both inside and outside of the classroom, the National Junior Honor Society at Finley Middle School welcomed 20 new inductees as part of its annual induction ceremony. Graduating eighth grade members and the society's officers participated in the ceremony, which officially welcomed the students to the NJHS.

In order to gain acceptance into the honor society, students must demonstrate scholarship, leadership, service, citizenship and character. Finley's NJHS chapter participates and facilitates a variety of community service projects, including volunteering at the Deasy Elementary School library, Breast Cancer Awareness Walk-a-Thon and Ronald McDonald House bake sale. Linda Thomas-Batson is the adviser.

"I know that your path to tonight started a long time ago," said Principal Nelson Iocolano while addressing the new inductees. "Your commitment to excellence is not only demonstrated in the type of students you are, but the type of human beings that you are. I am proud to say that I know you."

New inductees take the honor society pledge during the National Junior Honor Society Induction Ceremony on May 10 at Finley Middle School in Glen Cove. The society welcomed 20 new students, who all demonstrated their commitment to demonstrate scholarship, leadership, service, citizenship and character.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
 Last weekend I participated in a Sea Cliff's Second Annual Bloomsday Walk. What fun! Christine Abbenda and Joe Hughes were there in their Edwardian finery and Joe played a series of live-tunes on his Irish penny whistle as we marched through the streets of Sea Cliff, recounting the episodes of James Joyce's Ulysses. I have often tried to read this iconic novel but- how can I say it?- it is just too much for me with its eight hundred pages of thousands of literary and political allusions. Is there a "Joyce lite" I could start with, so I can at least say I am a fledgling member of the James Joyce Society of Sea Cliff?

Eager Nouveau Joycean

just the book for you: Joyce's THE DUBLINERS. Written a few years before the famed Ulysses, this work is a series of fifteen short stories linked by time, place, and theme. Joyce divided the stories by life stages, using the ancient Roman system: childhood (to seventeen years), adolescence (seventeen to thirty years) and maturity (remaining years). We follow the lives of these early twentieth century characters as they cope with the spiritual, moral, and intellectual oppression that Joyce saw as Dublin but throughout, he treats them not as victims but as a people ultimately aware of their own fate. Highly recommended!

Dear Eager,
 The Bloomsday Walk was a great success with its many enthusiastic Joyceans- check out the photo in this week's Gold Coast Gazette. And indeed, I have
