The Peter Speranza Sea Cliff 5K Race held each year around the end of August in the Village of Sea cliff will not be held this year. Last year, the race was sponsored by the Harold and Helen Gottlieb Charitable Foundation with the help of the Speranza family and many volunteer helpers. As the expenses of the race have grown along with the burden of volunteers, it's become overwhelming to continue the race. The foundation and the Speranza family sincerely thank all those who have helped make the race and tribute to Peter Speranza happen over all these years. Your efforts are greatly appreciated.

Possible Changes To Hospital Creates Concerns In Community

by Kevin C. Horton

In a press conference held Tuesday afternoon, North Shore-LIJ Health System announced that it is pursuing a major expansion of ambulatory care services at Glen Cove Hospital while phasing out the hospital's inpatient beds.

The press conference came in response to a Newsday story which appeared in the paper the same.

"We are committed to maintaining a full-service Emergency Department with expanded capabilities, and investing in a range of comprehensive outpatient services, including an ambulatory surgery center, medical offices, outpatient cancer services, a community health and outreach center, and physical therapy and rehabilitation," said Mark Solazzo, executive vice president and chief operating officer at North Shore-LIJ.

"This is a difficult decision because we recognize that the community and our employees have strong emotional ties to Glen Cove Hospital, but we also know that this is the right decision to meet the current and future health needs of the community, preserve jobs and strengthen our financial stability," Mr. Solazzo said. "Our employees at Glen Cove have always been exemplary and we have assured them that we will work with them individually as we transition Glen Cove for the future."

Glen Cove Mayor Ralph V. Suozzi said, "While the hospital is not closing, it will be downsized leaving behind no beds, less employees and reduced medical services which is a disservice to our community. This hospital is a jewel and instead of cannibalizing portions of it to other NSLIJ facilities I would rather see them continue the investments they have made over the last few years to make it a full service, state-of-the-art facility and a premier rehabilitation center. According to Mr. Solazzo, the EVP and COO, the Emergency Room will stay with enhancements, but the patient floors and the beds within will be moved to other facilities. This is really leaving behind a shadow of the hospital we all know and abandoning the spirit and loyalty to a community that this hospital has served since the mid-1920's. Medical practitioners, employees, residents, businesses, families, all will be impacted including our senior living facilities, nursing homes and our entire community, especially our seniors who are now feeling very vulnerable."

It was brought up at the press conference the possibility that with the changes the hospital wouldn't need all the space the building provides. The possibility of renting the space for doctor's office is being considered.

Mayor Suozzi said, "If in fact that were to happen it would make the portion of the hospital used, taxable, since they would be using it as commercial space. However, the offices that might populate

This classic musical tells the story of Tevye, the father of five daughters, who tries to maintain family and religious tradition in a time wrought with outside influences. The show features such musical favorites as Tradition, Matchmaker Matchmaker, If I Were a Rich Man, To Life, and Sunrise Sunset.

Several of the approximate 50 cast members are local actors from our community, most of whom follow the "tradition" of performing in CenterStage's productions summer after summer. Tevye is portrayed by Phil Essex (Glen Cove) who has performed in 12 seasons and his son, Kyle, has performed in 9. Peter Rooney (Glen Head) is in his 8th, The Lupenko (Glen Cove) family - Eve, Alex and Christopher are in their 7th, Anne Maione (Glen Head) is in her 3rd, and Dan Esposito (Glen Head/Brookville) is playing the Fiddler in his first year with CenterStage.

Dr. Eve Lupenko, a candidate for City Council in Glen Cove, remarks, "There are so many families who participate together in Centerstage - parents with their children, and grandparents with their grandchildren. My children and I look forward to the time we spend together in this activity every summer - it's our "Tradition."

NSLIJ To Make Changes To Glen Cove

these empty floors may be filled with people currently renting in other locations around town putting pressure on the buildings and properties they leave behind.

"A very important aspect to all of this came out in my conversation with Mr. Solazzo on Tuesday afternoon when we first met," said Mayor Suozzi, "Basically the hospital was not ready to make their announcement... I have requested meetings with CEO, Mike Dowling and Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Richard Goldstein to try and get them to postpone implementation of this plan, (currently scheduled to occur over 6 to 9 months beginning January 2014), so that we can dialogue on all of these items and how they will impact the community and the hospital services. There may be an opportunity to slow this down, bring all of our concerns to the table and try to figure out a way to reduce some of these impacts and retain more of our services and have both the hospital and the community come out stronger.

Glen Cove Councilman Reggie Spinello said, "The North Shore LIJ Hospital system is an important component of our local economy. Any changes to their business model have an impact on our City's already delicate internal structure. "Business models are constantly changing to stay competitive and capture the market share needed to remain a profitable and viable entity.

"NSLIJ has been Glen Cove's largest and most dependable employer for many years. The fact that they are confident the employees impacted by these changes will be absorbed into their system is comforting to me. However, the potential loss of business for our local merchants gives me cause for concern.

"As an innovative leader in the patient care and treatment field, I would hope that they reconsider their plan and develop an alternative model that will better address the needs of our community while at the same time satisfy their new business strategy. NSLIJ is an honorable company that has served our City well. I look forward to speaking with the Hospital leadership and discussing the concerns of our community."

Glen Cove Hospital administration is working closely with the health system's human resources and recruiting professionals to evaluate jobs, roles and responsibilities, and identify transfer opportunities across the health system, which hires about 100 employees per week for its 15 owned hospitals and nearly 400 outpatient practices throughout the New York metropolitan area. Mayor Suozzi said, "Glen Cove Hospital employs about 1200 people. Those employees provide quality healthcare services to Glen Cove and our neighboring communities. Their jobs are undoubtedly important to them and their families. Those employees also eat in our restaurants, shop in our stores, and use many other services. In other words, they're significant contributors to our local economy."

The hospital will begin phasing out its inpatient beds in January 2014, when its orthopedic surgery program will be relocated to North Shore-LIJ's Syosset Hospital. In addition, Glen Cove's rehabilitation, traumatic brain injury unit and psychiatry programs will be relocated to other North Shore-LIJ facilities during the first quarter of 2014.

Glen Cove Hospital's current operations are unsustainable. Glen Cove's patient volume has been dropping for years and the decline will be accelerated by the changes that are happening in the national health care landscape.

Mr. Solazzo noted that the health system has repositioned its hospitals in the past to ensure future success, as demonstrated in the 1990s when Syosset Hospital was converted into a minimally invasive surgical specialty and vision care hospital with less than 100 beds.

Mayor Suozzi added, "Glen Cove Community Hospital, in which I was born, is now a satellite hospital -- and part of the North Shore LIJ Healthcare network; a gigantic institution of 48,000 employees and one of the largest and most profitable in the United States. While I recognize that NSLIJ is making a business decision based on how healthcare is evolving and economic realities, I strongly feel that the changes that are being contemplated must be postponed and reconsidered."

"Consumers are demanding a more convenient, affordable way of accessing high-quality health care," Mr. Solazzo said. "As the nation's health care delivery system moves away from traditional, hospital-based services, we're embracing a new model of care that manages the health and wellness of individuals in community setting. We are also developing new models of care to address the needs of patients with chronic illnesses so they too can be effectively managed in outpatient locations."

About North Shore-LIJ Health System

Richie Cannata Plays Downtown Sounds Once Again

by Fred DiMenna

On August 9, Glen Cove's Village Square will once again play host to world-renowned sax player Richie Cannata. In the 16-year history of Glen Cove's Downtown Sounds Concert Series, Cannata's performances have drawn some of the biggest crowds and this year's show should be no exception.

During a storied career, Cannata has played with music icons including Billy Joel and The Beach Boys. He has also been known to bring some famous friends to Glen Cove to accompany his performance. For example, last year, his rising-star son Eren and former Yankee centerfielder Bernie Williams played with Richie and his band, which includes Gene Perez, Joel Rosenblatt, Don Harrison, Julio Fernandez and Chris Clark. Perez, who plays bass, is a master of Latin, Fusion and House grooves and Rosenblatt is an expert drummer best known for his work with Pure Prairie League and Spyro Gyra. Guitarist Fernandez has also worked with Spyro Gyra while Harrison is best known as lead trumpet player and featured soloist with the legendary Tower of Power. Clark, who has played with a host of musicians ranging from John Entwistle to Michael Bolton, rounds out the group by playing keyboard.

Although legendary for his work on the sax, Cannata is a multi-instrumentalist who also studied classical piano, clarinet, flute and keyboards in his youth. He played on five Billy Joel albums from 1976-81 and reunited with The Piano Man at Madison Square Garden for both his 2000 Years Millennium Concert and his record-setting 12-show run in 2006. "All the shows at Madison Square Garden were great, especially the one my mom was at for her 80th birthday," Richie recalls. He has also performed in Tommy Shaw's band in the '90s and released a solo album, Richie Cannata, in 2011.

Cannata has recently played "The Star-Spangled Banner" on saxophone at Madison Square Garden for game six of the Knicks-Celtics playoff series and Citi Field for a Yankees-Mets game. However, his most famous sax line is in "New York State of Mind," which is appropriate because Richie is a native New Yorker. He was born and raised in Brooklyn and now lives right here in Glen Cove. What is more, he and Eren own and operate a Glen Cove business – Cove City Sound Studios, which is a state-of-the-art recording facility that has played host to stars like Mariah Carey and LL

Cool J. Recently, Jennifer Lopez recorded her hit song "On the Floor" at Cove City Sound Studios. Richie is also a music producer having produced albums for Phoebe Snow, Rita Coolidge, Corey Hart and Tommy Shaw.

Every Friday night during July and August, the Downtown BID and the City of Glen Cove join forces to bring Downtown Sounds to the Village Square at the intersection of Glen and Bridge Streets.

This annual outdoor concert series, which is free to the public, is designed to use music as a promotional tool to boost the local economy. For example, the weekly concerts typically bring 600-1,000 people to the city's streets, which increases patronage of local businesses including many area restaurants. The event has grown substantially since its debut in 1997 and the city now closes School Street due to the overflow crowds. A new feature this year is a second stage upon which alternative acts perform. Geared to the youngsters in the crowd, these acts have been well received to date by children and parents alike.

Downtown Sounds 2013 is presented by Bethpage Federal Credit Union with additional sponsorship by National Grid, American Community Bank and Men on the Move Moving & Self Storage. The SUNY College at Old Westbury, OWR Old Westbury Web Radio and OWTV Old Westbury Television, Sahn Ward Coschignano & Baker PLLC, The Glen Cove Printery, Linchitz Medical Wellness and AvalonBay Communities have also provided support for this year's events. Free parking is available at the nearby municipal garage and in the case of rain, the advertised acts will perform at the Wunsch Arts Center at R.M. Finley Middle School on Forest Avenue. # “Let There Be Light” at St. Rocco Church

(By Maryann Ward)

Last month, the Church of St. Rocco became the first parish on Long Island to introduce an innovative votive candle system, the St. Killian Candle System. Approved by the Pastor and the Parish Council, the new votive candles are “green-friendly” – much cleaner and safer than the traditional candles – and also cost-effective! It provides the aesthetic pleasure of natural candle light with the safety and low-maintenance benefits of electric systems... This new smokeless candle system was first installed in the United States in New York City’s St. Patrick’s Cathedral two years ago. The Ireland-based company, which has been installing this environmental-friendly system throughout Europe, is very happy to have a presence here “on the other side of the pond.” ..... Do stop by St. Rocco Church anytime (perhaps during the upcoming BEST FEAST IN THE EAST) and light a candle to your favorite Saint. The Church is the home of over 45 of them!

New Principal Lands in Glen Cove

The Glen Cove Board of Education has appointed Dimitri Kryoneris as principal of Landing Elementary School. Mr. Kryoneris takes over for Interim Principal Martin Malone, who came out of retirement to serve following the promotion of Dr. Michael Israel to assistant superintendent for curriculum, instruction and technology last summer.

Since 2004, Mr. Kryoneris has served as assistant principal at P.S. 196 Literacy and Arts Academy in the Bronx, supervising teachers across all grade levels and subject areas. This included utilizing the Danielson Framework for teacher evaluation and observations and conducting training workshops to instill pride and confidence in the instructional staff. He was also responsible for implementing social and emotional learning programs for students, supervising programs such as Balanced Literacy, Everyday Mathematics, and science and social studies initiatives, and maximizing school expenditures using the New York City Department of Education’s Galaxy budgeting program.

At P.S. 196, Mr. Kryoneris also directly supervised grades four and five and launched various committees to promote literacy, math, science, exam prep, violence prevention and the performing arts, among other areas. Prior to his promotion as assistant principal at the school, he served as a literacy instructional specialist there and taught the third and fourth grades, as well.

“It is an honor and privilege to join the Glen Cove community,” said Mr. Kryoneris. “My primary goal is to continue to provide our children with the highest quality education possible. To accomplish this the children, their parents, the teachers and administrators must work together to focus on establishing a learning environment that is nurturing, supportive and reflective of the high expectations and standards that have been set by the New York State Department of Education. Together we will make a difference in the Glen Cove community.”

Mr. Kryoneris earned his administrative certification from the College of New Rochelle and holds an M.A. in education from LIU Post and a B.A. in psychology from Stony Brook University. He officially takes over the reins at Landing School in August.

“We are pleased to welcome Dimitri as a member of the leadership team, and I personally look forward to working with him to deliver the best learning experience for the children of Landing

School,” said Superintendent of Schools Maria L. Rianna, who herself began as the district’s new school chief on July 1. “His experience and expertise in curriculum and instruction, professional staff development, and record of effective communication with parents, staff and students will drive his success and endear him to the Glen Cove school family.”

Model UN Students Meet U.S. Ambassador to United Nations

Demonstrating their knowledge and intellect regarding international issues, three Glen Cove High School students, along with their adviser Christopher Contorno, participated in the Foreign Policy Association Conference on June 28 at the New York University Midtown Center. The students – Michael Banks, Christopher Christodoulou and Daniel Wlordarczyck – are all members of the school's Model United Nations Club.

The conference provides teachers whose instruction focuses on foreign policy issues with important skills and knowledge to bring back to their respective classrooms through a variety of workshops and special speakers. In a session called the "Pilot Classroom," students took part in a sample lesson taught by one of the teachers at the institute. Following this lesson, the students visited the headquarters of J.P. Morgan Chase and had lunch with Ambassador Jeffrey DeLaurentis, U.S. alternate representative for special political affairs at the United Nations. During this meeting, Ambassador DeLaurentis (seen here with Daniel, Chris and Michael) spoke to the students about foreign policy issues facing the United States and the nation's current position in the realm of international relations, followed by a question-and-answer session.

3rd Grade Wax Museum Held at Glen Head School

Biographies Changing World Exhibit

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, June 6 - Third graders in all of the Glen Head Elementary classes were recently involved in an exciting interdisciplinary learning experience - combining English, social studies and the arts. Each student selected a famous person in history or current events - someone who leaves the world a better place - and embodied them in the culmination titled, the Wax Museum.

Clad in elaborate costumes during the day of the "Changing World Exhibit," the students stood frozen until a guest of the Wax Museum including family members, peers, or faculty engaged them in eye contact or conversation. The students had written their biographies in first person which they then acted out to enable those visiting to learn about their iconic characters. Weeks leading up to this impressive presentation, the third graders practiced expressive elocution and public speaking to capture the essence of each famous person.

Mrs. De Dona said, "This year, all of our third graders participated in a layered experience of researching, reading, learning and even acting! They not only investigated historic icons including Albert Einstein, Benjamin Franklin, Amelia Earhart, Vincent van Gogh, Jacqueline Kennedy, Eleanor Roosevelt, Neil Armstrong, and Abraham Lincoln but learned important events and movements in history involving some of these famous icons."

Congratulations to all of the students in Mrs. DeDona, Mrs. Ramirez, and Mrs. Lemonda's 3rd grade classes for presenting such an incredibly creative and educational experience for all of those who were fortunate to attend the Wax Museum at Glen Head Elementary School.

Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club

Members and Staff Leader Know the Power of Volunteerism

Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club Senior Youth of the Month for May, Yefri DePaz, said the most important thing he has learned as a Club member "is the importance of giving back," a concept not lost on Ruben Martinez, Junior Youth of the Month for May or Program Director, Sara Laskow, who volunteers 20 plus hours a week on top of holding a demanding full time job.

Yefri DePaz, 13, is very wise for his young age. "The Club encouraged me to volunteer and as a result, I learned how rewarding the experience can be," reflected Yefri as he discussed helping seniors at the Glen Cove Senior Center. Yefri is a seventh grader at Robert M. Finley Middle School and attends the Club every day. He has been a member for five years. "The Club is a great place to learn and have fun and I have definitely seen an improvement in my grades but I truly appreciate the many additional experiences I have had at the Club, like volunteering at the Senior Center." His favorite subject is science and he hopes to pursue a career in technology or computer related field.

Ruben Martinez, 6, is a first grader at Gribbin Elementary School and has been a member for just two months. Ruben's favorite subject is Math. He loves attending the Club and while he is still too young to volunteer outside the Club he does have high and noble hopes to give back to his country by serving in the Air Force one day.

"I want to join the Air Force and become a pilot," articulated Ruben. "Ruben's energy and caring nature is an excellent formula for a future volunteer," commented Sara.

Program Director, Sara Laskow sets a great example on the power of volunteering to Club members. Sara recently completed her Masters in Social Work from Touro College Graduate School of Social Work in New York City. On top of holding a full time 40 hour a week job and attending five classes a week, Sara also interns at Melillo Center in Glen Cove, working with the mentally ill population.

When not attending school, working or interning, she and her family often volunteer on weekends helping the Friendship Walk for Children with Needs. "My busy schedule is what helped keep me sane during these past months" said Sara, whose Lindenhurst home was demolished by Hurricane Sandy. Having been left practically homeless, Sara found solace in family and helping others. "When you lose your home like that, you think you have lost everything but then you soon realize that if you have family, friends and people who love and care about you, you have lost nothing at all. I'm grateful for my family and grateful that I have the capability to help others, especially the children of our community."

To learn more about volunteering at Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club, contact Sara Laskow at slaskow@glencovebgc.org or call 516-671-8030, ext. 108.

WWII Veteran Recounts History with Landing Students

Fourth-graders at Landing Elementary School in Glen Cove heard a firsthand account of the Great Depression and World War II, a period they have been studying as part of their social studies curriculum, from Valentino Accocella on May 21, bringing an long ago era to life. Accocella, the great-grandfather of fourth-grader Skylar Brennan, told the students what it was like to live in the 1930's and 1940's, discussing his time in the military during World War II.

The fourth-graders in Allison Hernandez and Maria DePace's classes were able to ask Accocella questions they prepared prior to the visit. These questions enabled the students to delve deeper into his life and immerse themselves in an important time in history. Accocella also brought in awards he received and newspaper articles from the time to better illustrate what it was like to live in that era.

"In social studies, we have been learning about World War II and the Great Depression and it was a great opportunity to have Mr. Accocella, one of our student's great-grandfathers, come in and give a firsthand account of his life story," Hernandez said. "How fitting this is at a time like Memorial Day."

Valentino Accocella, a veteran of World War II, speaks to Allison Hernandez and Maria DePace's classes at Landing Elementary School in Glen Cove about what it was like to live through the Great Depression and World War II on May 21. The visit allowed students to ask prepared questions to Accocella, who gave the students a better understanding of a period in history they are currently studying in social studies.

Connolly Fourth-Graders Immersed in History

Fourth-graders at Connolly Elementary School brought historical characters to life in a special presentation that served as the culminating activity for their study of historical biographies. Students in Erin O'Beirne and Valerie Scicchitano's class worked in pairs, researching information and gathering pictures on their assigned historical figures, which ranged from Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton to Sojourner Truth and Deganwidah of the Iroquois Nation. Prior, the students had learned about historical icons that fought for civil and human rights during the past 1,000 years up to the 1800s, including the Great Law of Peace from the Iroquois. Using their research and the iMovie video editing application, and dressing in costume as their assigned figure, each group created a narrated documentary for their presentation.

The project, which aligned with the Common Core Learning Standards, emphasized reading, writing and core social studies components that entirely support and supplement the students' regular classroom curriculum.

Letters to the Editor

In Support of Spagnoletti

To The Editor,

When I received the news that Efraim Spagnoletti had accepted to run for the seat of City Council during the upcoming election, I felt an overwhelming joy that a man of his intelligence and integrity would take on the arduous task of campaigning in a tightly held city management, and the hope that Glen Cove voters would give to a man of his caliber a chance to put his experience to the service of our precious seaside city.

I met Efraim Spagnoletti years ago and I was sincerely impressed by this man. I enjoy talking with people about ideas for there is always something to learn; however, Efraim was different and exceptional in his ability to articulate his thoughts and his views in a fine and concise way: a huge asset as far as I am concerned. But most of all, I was impressed by his intelligent and sharp mind, his incredibly deep sense of connection with his community and his background. I did not need to see his resume` (although, I recognize, it is quite a proof of talent and dedication); his character and qualities told me that I was dealing with a smart and solid mensch (a wonderful term I learned from my sister in law).

Now that he is running for office, I feel the imperative to invite the community of Glen Cove voters to give Efraim a strong vote of support. We need his voice, his tempered and consolidated business acumen and his government experience in our own City government, but, most of all, we need people who know what quality and integrity of government mean. And that is precisely what Efraim Spagnoletti can bring to the management of Glen Cove.

What Happened to Mayor Suozzi's Pledge?

To The Editor,

What happened to Mayor Suozzi's open transparent government pledge?

I have been very displeased, to say the least, for the last seven years. While attending Tuesday, July 23's city council meeting along with a packed room of citizens, I learned along with everyone that the Mayor had on the agenda to vote to sell public parkland. I am disappointed and angry that the Mayor had negotiated behind closed doors to sell the public property known as Pascucci Field to a private company. His indifference to the people of Glen Cove is outstanding; he never brought this out in public to hear what the people thought about it. He never even posted a request for proposal (RFP).

If he had, at least he might have generated interest from the private business sector and produced bids. It is time to say good-bye to this unresponsiveness to the citizens of Glen Cove and to the lack of transparency of his government.

The Mansion Was Not Saved

To The Editor,

Don't be fooled by recent reports which proclaimed that the Pratt Mansion was saved by a vote at the last City Council meeting. It was a sad day for Glen Cove when the City Council voted 4-3 in favor of a rezoning plan that will allow for the development of 40 residential units on the mansion property. Disguised as "preservation zoning" that would ensure the structure that once housed members of the Pratt family would remain intact, it does in fact create an easier path for the mansion's destruction.

The master plan's estate district preserves nothing; surrounding property values will go down, our commercial tax revenue could eventually be in jeopardy and the mansion remains at risk of being demolished. The estate district only prevents the construction of additional residential units on the remainder of the property. It does not save the mansion from being destroyed.

Once again, the mayor and the council members who voted in favor of the zoning are not in step with the needs and concerns of Glen Cove residents. The rezoning plan was supported by the mayor and his consultants from day one. I, however, have consistently voiced my opposition to this plan which has no benefit for our City.

My vision is to have a developer come in that would expand the hotel and conference center and bring new clients to use the facility. There had been some talk of this possibly happening. City taxpayers would benefit from an increase in commercial tax revenue while our local merchants would benefit from the trickle-down effect of additional mansion clients spending money in our City. A new, enhanced mansion/conference center/spa will very likely contribute to making Glen Cove a destination location one day!

Fellow Glen Covers don't be fooled. The Glen Cove Mansion was not saved.

SYEP Collects School Supplies and Food for Needy Students in Glen Cove

Students participating in the Glen Cove Youth Bureau's Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP) recently held their annual school supply and food drive at area supermarkets. The students handed out flyers to shoppers entering the store and graciously collected their donations as they exited. Many thanks to all who donated to the drive and to King Kullen and Stop and Shop for allowing the students to collect supplies. This program is a joint effort by the Youth Bureau and Friends of the Glen Cove Youth Board to supply needy students with the tools that they need to succeed in their classes. The success of this drive is dependent upon the donations that are received by area businesses, organizations and individuals. Basic school supplies and backpacks will be collected through August at the Youth Bureau (128B Glen Street), Glen Cove Library (near circulation desk) and City Hall (Clerk's office, 3rd floor). All donations are welcomed and appreciated. For more information, call Cindy Rogers at 516-671-4600.

Mayor's Column

by Mayor Ralph V. Suozzi

I strongly feel that some of the changes being contemplated at Glen Cove Hospital must be reconsidered.

I met with Mark J. Solazzo, Exec. VP & COO of NSLIJ on Tuesday, July 30th, 2013. At that time he informed me of the planned changes for Glen Cove Hospital, which include discontinuing in-patient services.

I expressed my deep concern for the countless negative impacts these changes will have on the City of Glen Cove, our Emergency Medical Services (EMS), hospital employees, medical professionals, local businesses, real estate, nursing home patients, Assisted Living facilities and residents in Glen Cove and nearby communities.

Glen Cove Community Hospital, in which I was born, is now a satellite hospital -- and part of the North Shore LIJ Healthcare network; a gigantic institution of 48,000 employees and one of the largest and most profitable in the United States.

Glen Cove Hospital employs about 1200 people. Those employees provide quality healthcare services to Glen Cove and our neighboring communities. Their jobs are undoubtedly important to them and their families. Those employees also eat in our restaurants, shop in our stores, and use many other services. In other words, they're significant contributors to our local economy.

While I recognize that NSLIJ is making a business decision based on how healthcare is evolving and economic realities, I strongly feel that the changes that are being contemplated must be postponed and reconsidered.

Therefore, Mr. Solazzo is assisting me in scheduling meetings with Michael Dowling, the CEO of the NSLIJ Healthcare System, and also Richard Goldstein, Chairman of their Board of Trustees.

I've called Governor Andrew Cuomo, Congressman Steve Israel, Senator Carl Marcellino, and Assemblyman Charles Lavine to invite them to join me in urging NSLIJ to postpone this decision in order to encourage a broader discussion about the future of the Glen Cove facility.

Let's get NSLIJ to reconsider their decision. Here's how you can help:

Cook the Book – Cookbook Club at the Gold Coast Library

Do you love browsing through cookbooks and trying new recipes or cooking techniques? Do you enjoy sampling and sharing new dishes? Then hang onto your spatula! The Gold Coast Public Library is happy to introduce its newest book club, “Cook the Book.” We pick the cookbook(s); you choose and make a recipe. Then we all partake. Our summer themes and cookbook selections are “vegetables and fruit”. Sample and discussion will be Monday, July 8th and Wednesday, August 7th at 1PM at the Gold Coast Library Annex. You don’t have to be a gourmet chef to participate. Novices will have the chance to learn from more experienced cooks, and the experienced cooks will have a chance to show off and share their amazing skills.

How the cookbook club works: Three cookbooks will be selected and put on display at the reference desk at the Gold Coast Library. You can pick a recipe that piques your interest (or taste buds). A Post-it note with your name will be used to mark the recipe in order to keep track of who is making what and also to keep members from choosing the same dish. Before you leave, a member of the library staff will make a copy of your recipe for you to take home. Prepare your recipe, and then bring it to the meeting to share with the other participants. It’s that simple. If you are interested in joining, stop by the library to register. The book club is free and open to Gold Coast and Non-District Residents.

Glen Cove Youth Bureau presents...YOUTH, NEWS & VIEWS

Aladdin Jr. Comes to the Robert Finley M.S

On March 8th 2013, participants of the Glen Cove After 3 Program went to see many of their fellow Glen Cove After 3 friends perform in the Middle Schools' musical rendition of Aladdin. Because of their impeccable participation, attendance and commitment to Glen Cove After 3, ten students were chosen to go see the play. The students enjoyed pizza and playing games at the Glen Cove After 3 office prior to the play.

Our participants and staff arrived at the Finley Middle School at 7:15 p.m. and walked around the corridors outside of the Auditorium while waiting for the show to start. The environment resembled that of a professional play; there were merchandise stands and official playbills given out before entering the auditorium. The corridor was set up like the market places found in the Middle East, and seen in the movie Aladdin. The shops opened during intermission and sold Middle Eastern looking scarves, play swords and snacks.

The kids took their seats anxious for the play to start, after a few minutes the lights dimmed and it began. The production of Aladdin was well done. The scenery was beautifully built and painted to replicate the Princess' castle, and the costumes were the perfect finishing touch. You could really tell the students put in many hours of hard work and dedication to give their best performance! The play was full of classic musical numbers that were made popular by the film. The dialogue was an updated version of the original, full of modern day references and witty humor. The audience responded very positive to this new rendition of Aladdin.

The students really enjoyed the show, and were extremely excited to see their fellow Glen Cove After 3 friends dancing and singing in the musical. After the play was over the Glen Cover After 3 students congratulated their classmates on a successful opening night, some even asked for autographs. All of the After 3 kids gave rave reviews of the play, saying how much fun they had!!

Currently the Glen Cove After 3 program is held daily in the Robert Finley Middle School and both Connolly and Landing Elementary Schools! Applications are available at our Glen Cove After 3 office (70 Forest Ave), the Glen Cove Youth Bureau, and the Robert Finley Middle schools main office. For more information feel free to contact Spiro, Irene or Audra at our Glen Cove After 3 office at (516)-277-1303.

The Glen Cove After 3 is a part of the 21st Century Community Learning Center, which is funded by New York State Department of Education. The Glen Cove After 3 Program is collaboration between the City of Glen Cove Youth Bureau, the Glen Cove School District, S.A.F.E, Glen Cove Senior Center, and the Glen Cove Police Department.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
I love mysteries, I love spy novels, I love courtroom dramas, but this summer I think I should expand my literary horizons. Do you have a really fine book that I could read as we begin the month of August?

A Determined Summer Reader

Dear Determined,
Last month I was at an amazing musical event- the WNYC's Battle of the Boroughs where a great innovative band Victor V. Gurbo and Co. won the audience's vote. While there I was talking to two voracious readers Cecilia and Louise Voccoli. Having been a fan of his earlier novel, Cecilia strongly recommended Colum McCann's newest: TRANSATLANTIC. Well, this weekend I read it and a most wondrous book it is! McCann links his native Ireland and his present home America in three novellas that transport us back and forth over the Atlantic. We enter the mind of Frederick Douglas as he visits Ireland in 1845; he contrasts the exalted treatment he receives from the Irish aristocracy to his status as a slave in the United States, but he is also horrified at the living conditions of Ireland's poor. Next we meet pilots Alcock and Brown in 1919 as they attempt the first transatlantic mail flight under extremely dangerous conditions. The last of the three journeys is George Mitchell's, the former US Senator, as he attempts to broker a peace deal in Northern Ireland in 1998. These three journeys across the Atlantic and over three centuries are tied together by the lives of four women we meet who share a common lineage and a letter. This is a beautifully written, lyrical novel of intriguing complexity. Highly recommended!
