Spinello Suspected Successor

With 500 Absentee Ballots Still to Be Tallied Suozzi Yet to Concede

by Kevin C. Horton

Although numbers aren't official, with a reported over 500 absentee ballots still to be tallied, results are showing Reginald Spinello (Rep) is beating out incumbent Mayor Ralph V. Suozzi (Dem) for Mayor of Glen Cove in the November 5, 2013 election. As the numbers were posted on a screen on the wall of Spinello's headquarters located on Glen Street the packed crowd of people cheered the results. A cautious Glen Cove Republican Party Chairman Paul Meli said, There are over 500 absentee ballots to be counted and in 2011 the final decision wasn't official until December, "But based on our findings tonight I'd like to introduce you to your next Mayor... Reggie Spinello!"

Spinello, who will be the first Republican Mayor since 1993 said, "I am aware of the many challenges that our city faces. Stabilizing our taxes is always first in the minds of taxpayers. There will be accountability by all department heads to manage their departments in an efficient and cost effective manner. Bringing new business into our city, revitalizing our downtown and ridding our city of illegal housing are critical components to the success of my administration. Glen Cove voters have asked for change and I intend to deliver it."

As of last reports Spinello leads Suozzi by 115 votes with a margin of 50.9 percent to 49.1 percent, accounting to unofficial results.

As of press time Suozzi did not concede the election waiting for the absentee ballots for the results. In Suozzi's 2011 election against Paul Meli for Mayor it again went down to the wire with absentee ballots making the decision. That decision was not made final until December.

According to tabulations so far Council consists of: Republican Anthony Gallo, Jr. was re-elected to City Council as were Democrats Timothy J. Tenke, Michael T. Famiglietti and Nicholas A. Dileo, according to unofficial results. Joining the City Council are Republicans Pamela D. Panzenbeck and Efraim Spagnoletti.

Long Island.

Thanks to District-wide Enrichment Teachers Diane Krupin (SC), Janet Goldberg (GH) and Audra Marcantonio (GWL) students had the opportunity to study inside a longhouse and examine various wildlife specimens including deer hides, animal bone tools, and shell rattles. Additionally, fourth graders engaged in hands-on activities including corn grinding, drumming, and wampum necklace making; and played Native American games including "pick-up bones!"

"Tipi Ted" along with Chris Puleo, otherwise known as Two Feathers, has annually brought this enrichment program to the North Shore Schools. The goal of the program is to help illustrate to the students in an educational and interactive way how Native American tribes lived, gathered food, and even enjoyed games many years ago on Long Island.

Moody's upgrades Glen Cove's Financial Outlook to Stable

Moody's Investors Service has affirmed the Baa3 rating and revised the outlook to stable from negative on the City of Glen Cove's (NY) $40 million general obligation debt outstanding. The city's debt is secured by a general obligation pledge as limited by the Property Tax Cap - Legislation (Chapter 97 (Part A) of the Laws of the State of New York, 2011).

SUMMARY RATINGS RATIONALE

The Baa3 rating reflects the city's distressed financial position, as demonstrated by a sustained negative fund equity position for the last nine years (2002 through 2012), despite the issuance of deficit reduction bonds in 2007 and management's efforts to restore balanced operations. The rating also incorporates an economic base that includes above average income and wealth levels and a debt burden that, while moderate relative to the city's tax base, comprises a significant portion of the city's budget and is exposed market fluctuations on a number of short-term note issuances.

The revision of the outlook to stable reflects stabilizing financial operations over the past two years. Additionally, management projects surplus operations in fiscal 2013 and budgeting practices continue to improve following the adoption of the 2014 budget.

Strengths:

- Diverse tax base with above average wealth levels

- Improved budgeting practices help stabilize financial operations

Challenges

- Large deficits across all funds of the city

- Annual tax certioraris resulting in increased debt issuance

Outlook

Moody's stable outlook reflects our expectation that the city will continue to rebuild financial reserves given improved budget practices. The outlook also reflects the additional state oversight required when the city issued deficit reduction bonds in 2007. The state comptroller's office reviews the city's budget and makes recommendations and requires the city to report on a quarterly basis. Future rating reviews will factor management's ability to continue to grow reserves and restoring structurally balanced operations.

What Could make the Rating Go Up:

- Demonstrated material progress toward reducing the accumulated deficit

- Continuation of improved budgeting practices

- Successful implementation of a plan to rebuild reserves and restore structurally balanced operations

What Could make the Rating Go Down:

- Failure to make material progress toward reducing the accumulated deficit

- Underperformance relative to budget in fiscal 2013 and 2014

The principal methodology used in this rating was General Obligation Bonds Issued by US Local Governments published in April 2013. Please see the Credit Policy page on www.moody.com for a copy of this methodology.

North Shore Senior Accepted to International Center of Photography in NYC

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, November 1 - Congratulations to JuliAnna Patino, a senior at North Shore High School, who was recently accepted to the highly competitive photography program called 'Teen Academy Image-makers' at the International Center of Photography in Manhattan. Her teacher Ms. Lynn Johnson said, "This is a great accomplishment and a unique opportunity for her to challenge herself and grow as a photographer."

As written in the International Center of Photography catalog, "The Teen Academy Iamemakers Program enables motivated high school juniors and seniors to advance their photography skills and develop an awareness of the creative and professional possibilities in the field. This yearlong, weekly program provides students with guidance from some of New York's best teaching artists; field trips to museums, galleries, and studios; college-prep workshops; pre-professional assignments; mentorship opportunities in the field; and full access to ICP's facilities. The curriculum provides in-depth study of photography genres, including self-portraiture, documentary, photojournalism, personal vision, fashion, and studio work. All aspects of the curriculum are intended to encourage and inspire the students to further express and strengthen their artistic voices. At the completion of the program, students have created an extensive portfolio, including an artist's statement and resume, and are honored in a gallery exhibition. This program is best suited for students looking to pursue photography further in college or in their future."

In addition, JuliAnna has also photographed the 9-11 Memorial, an actual artifact from the World Trade Center that was given to the North Shore Schools from the Port Authority with the assistance of Dr. Robert Gerver, that was recently installed at the high school (see attached photo). Ms. Johnson concluded by saying, "This beautiful image will be presented to individuals in the community who donated time and recourses to the installation of this historic piece."

Rain Does Not Dampen Halloween Spirits at Glenwood Landing and Sea Cliff Schools

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, November 1 - Gray skies and rain did not dampen the Halloween spirits at Glenwood Landing and Sea Cliff Schools. Students, faculty, staff and administration all dressed up for the Halloween parade annually held at both schools.

Students at Glenwood Landing took to the stage dressed in their favorite costumes while their families enthusiastically cheered in the audience! At Sea Cliff School, the Halloween parade took place outside as parents lined the streets waving in appreciation as their children walked by! It was apparent even through their scary masks that a great time was had by all! Happy Halloween!

Letters to the Editor

Thanks to The Sea Cliff Fire Department and Department of Public Works

To The Editor,

The Mutual Concerns Committee would like to extend its gratitude to Jack Pierce and the Sea Cliff Fire Department for holding their annual food drive to benefit our organization. We would also like to thank the Sea Cliff Department of Public Works for transporting the food to our pantry.

During the summer months, our pantry supply dwindles and with Thanksgiving baskets a few weeks away, we always appreciate the fire department coming to our rescue with their food drive.

The Mutual Concerns Committee distributes food to those in need at Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter. We also stock an emergency food pantry where those who need a helping hand can receive food at any time. The current economic situation has made it necessary for more people than ever to need our services. Thanks to the outpouring of support from the community, we are able to continue to help those in need and keep our popular senior lunch program up and running.

All Saints Pre-K Class Trip

The All Saints Catholic School Pre-K enjoyed a wonderful day at Martin Viette Nursery. The children picked pumpkins in the pumpkin patch, fed breakfast to the sheep and the pigs at the petting zoo and learned a lot about the fall harvest. Everyone enjoyed climbing on the tractors and playing in the haystack houses. It was a great trip!

Ns Kiwanis Inducts Sea Cliff K-Kids Board

The North Shore Kiwanis Club, a proud sponsor of the Sea Cliff Elementary School K-Kids was on hand to induct their new Officers for the 2013-14 school year. Faculty Advisor Mark Mihopulos opened the meeting by introducing NS Kiwanis Pres. Jeanne Egan, Secretary Roger Hill, Liaison Olga Scileppi and DPP Herb Schierhorst, who jointly participated in the pinning of these officers.

The Sea Cliff K-Kids with Advisor Mark at the helm, recently received kudos for their involvement in the National Down Syndrome Society's Annual Buddy Walk which they sponsored. Siblings and parents were included in the Walk and $200 was raised to further awareness and research in support of Down Syndrome on Long Island. Earlier this year, NY State Kiwanis recognized them as a New York Club of Distinction for their dedication and hard work in the community, and were awarded 2nd place in the Scrapbook competition. Plans for ongoing events such as fundraising for our local soup kitchen, recycling greeting card drive for birthdays and holidays for meals to people who need food, sending care packages to soldiers overseas, etc. continue to take priority at their meetings. The enthusiasm and interest in giving to others by these third through fifth graders is heartwarming.

TO THE EAST

A FOUR MONTH JOURNEY

BY MARISSA CIAMPI

We had been driving for days, stopping at some of the most spectacular sites southern Laos has to offer. I wished for a rental car many times during the endless and unpredictable bus rides of our journey. Once I vocalized this thought, a plan fell into place too easily, and suddenly we were setting off in our Ford SUV for a road trip to the south.

On the third day, after spending the night in the town of Paksong, we tried for the second time to reach the Tad Lor waterfalls, known as the most impressive in the country. The day before, we unknowingly took a route down an uncompleted road; our map contained many routes that turned out to be under construction or impassible during the wet season. After staring longingly at the half built bridge for a few minutes, we reassessed our plan. The path from Paksong, only an hour and a half from Tad Lor, luckily consisted of passible roads, which I confirmed with a monk I met the night before. On the way, we did take one sign too seriously, ending up in a tiny village consisting of a single 60m/200ft mud road. Stuck in the mud, I attempted a three point turn on a "road" the same size as the SUV, while an elderly woman with long silver hair jovially laughed at my effort.

The Tad Lor waterfalls are a group of three, in order of size: Tad Hang, Tad Lor, and Tad Suong. We reached the village of Ban Saenvang, which sits at the base of Tad Hang, hoping to book an elephant trek with the Tad Lor Resort. Unfortunately, these only run during high season, and the only person we could find on the resort was asleep in the restaurant. The entire town was nearly deserted which came as no surprise, considering throughout our road trip we had been alone among nature and a few locals.

Since the elephants were off limits, we began trekking into the jungle toward Tad Lor and Tad Suong. There was only one discernible path down to the riverside, but after scaling the rocks for a while, we could not find a way forward. This happened a lot throughout our adventurous drive, as many paths were drowned from the monsoon season. We were on the verge of abandoning our trek when a Lao man carrying a machete appeared in the forest. He pointed us up the hill, where he had cleared a very steep, muddy, and unstable path which we had no choice but to climb.

We trekked alone through waterfall, mud, and fields for a few hours, trying to remember our path through the jungle and keeping the river on our left. Locating Tad Lor was relatively straightforward, and we stopped to cool down in its waters. After our swim, we sat in the shade and watch as a local went net fishing. When we resumed our trek, the discernible path split into many and we found ourselves going in circles. Eventually, we crossed a village where every hut had laid out big baskets of red chillies to dry in the fiery sun. The foot path to Tad Suong, we learned from the villagers, had been flooded. Disappointed but exhilarated from the morning trek, we made our way back to Ban Saenvang. There, we learned of another, drivable path to Tad Suong. Though we could have cut a three hour trek into a five minute car ride, the adventure of the morning was well worth it, as walking off the path tends to be.

As a light rain began to fall, we parked the car outside another small village and walked toward the largest of the waterfalls. At the base, a young boy asked if we knew how to swim and gestured for us to follow him. He guided us through the jungle, climbing the mountain with ease as we slipped in the mud. When we reached the top of Tad Suong, the boy and I stood on a small cliff against the rocks, two tiny figures compared with the massive falls that misted us. We looked down the steep descent to the rocks and river below, and I felt a sense of calm amongst the roaring of the falls.

Glenwood Landing Students Participate in Japanese Tea Ceremony

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, November 1 - On October 25th, Principal Bridget Finder and her students, faculty and staff of Glenwood Landing School participated in a special Japanese Tea Ceremony led by presenters Mrs. Toyomi Shibahara and Mrs. Hiroko Katsuyama, parent organizer Mrs. Hiya Fellows, and narration by Mrs. Lori Ikawa. This authentic, hands-on learning experience was held outside in the beautiful GWL Japanese Garden which was constructed over a year ago by the GWL Garden Club (and design team) under the direction of School-wide Enrichment Teacher Audra Marcantonio. She stated "Many North Shore parents and businesses also generously reached out to us by volunteering their time, expertise, money and services."

"The Japanese Tea Ceremony is the harmony of nature and culture," began Mrs. Ikawa. "It is a way to enjoy drinking tea while using customs from long ago. While traditional tea ceremonies are held in a special tearoom or teahouse; today we will demonstrate using a picnic style setting called NODATE. It is very important that you each remain calm and quiet, feel nature, and listen to the sounds around you." The students were made aware of the sounds heard in the GWL Japanese Garden including the rustling of the trees and the water circulating in the pond." The presenters and formal guests were dressed in traditional Japanese "kimonos".

Mrs. Ikawa added, "The Japanese Tea Ceremony is a fascinating and intimate custom. It is also an excellent way to examine different parts of Japanese culture such as calligraphy, flower arrangement, gardening, and authentic foods. The spirit of the tea ceremony is based upon four special ideas. Wa"harmony" Kei"respect", Sei"purity" or cleanliness, Jaku tranquility. When we include all four elements, we can fully enjoy the beauty of simply drinking a bowl of tea."

Mrs. Ikawa concluded by saying, "We hope all of you enjoyed the tea ceremony and learned something new about Japanese culture today. The Japanese Tea Ceremony teaches us something called "ichigo ichie", which means 'try your best every moment' and remember to enjoy your bowl of tea!"

Many thanks to Mrs. Toyomi Shibahara, Mrs. Hiroko Katsuyama, Mrs. Hiya Fellows, and Mrs. Lori Ikawa who made this such an authentic and wonderful learning experience for all of the students, faculty and staff who participated in the Japanese Tea Ceremony at Glenwood Landing School.

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Joseph Sherad Kearns. On TV, he reprised his radio roles on the "Jack Benny Program" and also appeared with Eve Arden and Richard Crenna in "Our Miss Brooks" (1953-55), first as "Asst. Supt. Michaels" and later in eight episodes, as "Supt. Stone", a role he played on radio. He also appeared in at least one episode of "I Love Lucy", "My Little Margie" with Gale Storm, "I Married Joan" with Joan Davis and Jim Backus, "December Bride" with Spring Byington, Walter Brennan's "The Real McCoys", Ronald Regan's "General Electric Theater" and "Perry Mason" with Raymond Burr. However, he is probably best remembered as "Mr. George Wilson" on Sunday night's CBS-TV comedy "Dennis, The Menace" with Jay North as "Dennis", from 1959 until his death on Feb. 17, 1962, at age 55, from a stroke. In the last episode that aired before Kearns' death, episode 89, entitled "Where's the Will", the story dealt with "Mr. Wilson" making out his will and explaining that "Dennis" would inherit his gold watch when he dies. Kearns was replaced by Gale Gordon, who played his brother, "John Wilson". Kearns and Gordon had worked together prior to "Dennis, The Menace", on the old radio show "The Cinnamon Bear".

All Saints article-Balloon Rosary

All Saints Regional Catholic School in Glen Cove held its annual Balloon Rosary at the parish center recently. The Rosary is an ancient prayer made up five groups of ten prayers (called "decades") which begin with the Our Father, continue with ten Hail Marys, conclude with the Glory be and Fatima prayer. Since May and October are traditionally dedicated to the Mother of God, the Blessed Virgin Mary, All Saints marks these months with special activities devoted to Our Lady. Therefore, on Wednesday, October 30th, the entire student body participated at this special "floating" Rosary to honor the Mother of God and enjoy afterwards the spectacle of the prayers rises up to Heaven as the balloons hovered over the school.

After this ceremony, the students headed into the church to celebrate the the patronal feast of the school, All Saints. At the end of the Mass, the Chairman of the Executive Board, Father Bob Romeo, the Headmaster, Father Elias, and the Academic Dean, Mrs. Joanne Fitzgerald, honored Miss Eileen Meserole for her forty years of teaching service with a bouquet of flowers and words of thanks to the ovation of the congregation.

By: Jacki Yonick

On Wednesday October 23rd the Career Exploration program at the Glen Cove After 3 Middle School, led by Jacki Yonick, Youth Employment Coordinator for the City of Glen Cove Youth Bureau, visited Gill Photography Studio, located in our Downtown at 68 School Street, for photo session, followed by questions and answers.

All photos are not created digitally. After smiling for the camera, under the bright lights, in front of the green screen, each group member selected a backdrop of their choice to be super imposed in, from ocean surfer to the World Trade Center, NYC. To fully understand the process, Bobby, using photoshop, demonstrated how the photos are created, placing the student in their backdrop, and then scaling the person to size into the backdrop. After the session, the 12 group participants asked questions from how long Tony has been in the industry to the famous people he photographed.

Thank you Gill Photography for the afternoon photo fun!! For more information about holiday family pictures, please contact the studio at 516.676.1833, or visit the website, www.gillassocphot.com.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
 This is a big weekend in Sea Cliff with the Chill Out starting Friday at 5:30 on the Village Green and then Saturday with the Civic Association's always popular Progressive Dinner. Last year this event was doomed twice over, first by Hurricane Sandy and then by the Blizzard of 2013. Well, this year the weather forecast looks fine and with its many guests and hosts signed up since last year, this sellout event promises to be spectacular. However busy the weekend, of course, there is always time for a good book- what do you recommend?

ing, resourceful, and violent. The student unrest movements of the '60's here and in India fuel the plot but its heart lies in the bittersweet unfolding of the lives of these brothers. Universal questions of what makes a moral life, what one owes parents, siblings, spouses, children, country, and what sins are unforgivable- all these make for a profoundly moving book!

Dear Chilling and Dining,
 What fun awaits us this weekend, and you are right- there is always time for a good book -and I have a very good book to recommend: THE LOWLAND by Jhumpa Lahiri. Set in Calcutta, Rhode Island, and California, told in alternating chapters by four generation of the Mitra family, this is a tale of promising beginnings and tragic endings, and all that happens in between. The Mitra brothers- fifteen months apart- are the archtypical Cain and Abel. Subhash is gentle, responsible, fearful while Udayan is dar-

North Shore Lacrosse Player Chosen To Be on U-19 Israeli Team

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, NY, November 1 - The North Shore School District is proud to announce that Jonah Biblowitz played in the 2013 International JCC Maccabi games in Orange County California and was recently selected to play on the U-19 Israeli Lacrosse team. "When I discovered that the JCC Maccabi games had added Boys Lacrosse to their events I knew I had to try out," said Jonah. It was an honor to attend the JCC Maccabi games with 2,300 other Jewish athletes from all over the United States, United Kingdom, Canada, Israel, and Mexico. It helped me to better understand the significance of the games - to honor the 11 Israeli athletes assassinated in the 1972 Munich Olympics." The Maccabi games are junior Olympics for Jewish athletes (ages 13-16).

Three weeks ago, Jonah received a phone call from Noah Miller, one of the coaches of the Israeli Lacrosse U-19 Program, asking him to join the team! The organization selected Jonah for his lacrosse abilities, leadership qualities, flexibility and compassion. Jonah stated, "It is an honor to be chosen as an ambassador for the sport of lacrosse and I am excited to play internationally. The U-19 Israeli team will be training with the men's Israeli National Lacrosse Team in Israel and running clinics for young Israeli athletes. Additionally, we will travel to Poland to play a two day tournament with the Polish National Lacrosse team and the Slovakian National Lacrosse team Jonah concluded by saying, "I understand the importance of this opportunity and that only 23 student athletes were selected from the United States. It is my hope that both of these opportunities will open doors and be options for other North Shore student athletes in the future." He added, "I will most certainly make the most of this incredible experience and honor."

Congratulations and best wishes go out to Jonah Biblowitz and his family. For more information on the Israeli National Lacrosse Association and JCC Maccabi Games, please visit <http://www.lacrosse.co.il/> and www.jccmaccabigames.org
