

Volume XXIII No. 12 Hometown Newspaper for Glen Cove, Sea Cliff, Glen Head, Glenwood, Locust Valley and Brookville Week of 11/21/13 75¢

November 22, 1963

For those of us of a certain age, November 22nd comes to us each year pretty much the same way the phrase 9-11 has lately. Each of us knows where we were on the fateful day and what we were doing when we found out what had happened.

Fifty years ago in November, Americans were just getting used to the presidency of John Fitzgerald Kennedy. Our young president had been through an eventful first three years, hardened by a near-nuclear confrontation with the Soviet Union over missile placements in Cuba. In matters of race, our nation was coming to grips with an issue still not resolved. John F. Kennedy guided us through these troubled waters with what most of us felt at the time to be a very skillful leadership. In mid-November of 1963, Mr. Kennedy seemed poised to launch a bid for a second term, riding a wave of personal popularity.

To be sure, the Cold War, civil rights, Vietnam and national economy were all challenges that our young chief executive faced moving forward. The mind-set in those days in the Kennedy White House was simple: American leadership, smart people and hard work would solve most problems. A recent visit to Berlin in June of 1963 provided JFK with the opportunity to electrify hundreds of thousands of German citizens. Within view of the infamous Berlin Wall, Kennedy reminded the world that... "all free men, wherever they may live, are citizens of Berlin and, therefore, as a free man, I take pride in the words 'Ich bin ein Berliner'." A half million Germans in attendance gave our president their overwhelmingly positive response.

Of course, all of the Kennedy promise came to a tragic halt shortly after noon on Friday, November 22, 1963. In New York, radio station WABC broke into its Top 40 music format to announce that something tragic was unfolding during the presidential motorcade in Dallas. Shortly thereafter, on CBS television, a visibly emotional Walter Cronkite swallowed hard, removed his glasses and told America that its president had died, the victim of an assassination.

It's Official- Glen Cove's New Mayor Is Reginald Spinello

It's official, Glen Cove has a new Mayor. The final count of absentee ballots have been counted electing Republican Reginald Spinello over incumbent Ralph V. Suozzi by 74 votes.

Spinello received a total 3,433 votes to Suozzi's 3,359, according to the Nassau County Board of Elections.

Had Suozzi won this would have been his fifth term in office.

For City Council the final results are as follows: Anthony Gallo, Jr (R, Incumbent), Pamela D. Panzenbeck (R), Timothy J. Tenke (D, Incumbent), Efraim Spagnoletti (R), Michael T. Famiglietti (D, Incumbent), Nicholas A. Dileo (D, Incumbent).

Spinello said, "Obviously I am very pleased with the results of the election. I am proud of the campaign we ran and the team that surrounded me. They along with our many volunteers deserve credit for this victory. I have begun the process of reviewing each department and its personnel. We have many great employees in our city and I intend to utilize their talents to the fullest. I am anticipating a smooth transition from the current administration to mine. The Mayor has assured me of his cooperation and I thank him for that.

Although the challenges are many, the next few years will see Glen Cove undergoing many positive changes. Our city has a great future ahead of it and I thank everyone for the opportunity to lead it."

Begin forward America's Heroes: Salute to Veteran's Concert

In tribute to our nation's veterans, the Northwinds Symphonic Band, under the direction of Helen P. Bauer, will open its seventh concert season with a special performance at the Wunsch Arts Center, Glen Cove, NY on Sunday, November 24th at 3:00 PM.

The band will honor veterans past and present, performing a variety of patriotic standards as well as new publications that pay tribute to the rich history of our country and American military personnel. Northwinds is proud to be performing Inchon, by American composer Robert W. Smith, which depicts the helicopter invasion and battle that was the turning point of the Korean conflict.

Also included in the program will be March of the Women Marines, Salute to the Armed Forces and music by John Philip Sousa and Ralph Vaughan Williams.

Other selections include a classic arrangement of the music from Carousel, and American Pageant, which recounts our rich heritage in patriotic song. Renowned soprano Stephanie Horowitz, along with a vocal ensemble, will be featured in America: A Musical Tribute. This poignant arrangement was originally created for the US Army Field Band and is being performed with special permission. 13-year-old trombone prodigy, George Foreman will be featured in the Tommy Dorsey classic, I'm getting Sentimental Over You. Glen Cove resident Robert Staade will display his extensive collection of military memorabilia dating from WWII to the present.

Please join us to honor America's greatest heroes. Admission to the concert is free. Bring the entire family. For additional information or inquiries please call 516.759.9694 or email Helen Bauer at hband50@optonline.net. The Wunsch Arts Center is wheelchair accessible.

Our nation came together for the next several days in a ritual of mourning and reflection—a national wake and funeral for a president that had captivated most Americans with his charisma, energy and youthful promise for the future.

It is fair to say that the Kennedy legacy has been tarnished by sensational and salacious postscripts to the Kennedy life and legend. It is perhaps a mark of the current age that we do not treat our heroes with blind loyalty; that they have feet of clay.

Fifty years ago this week we lost our president—and we are, even now, trying to come to grips with what effect it has had on the days since. Those of us alive that day were emotionally jarred by what was then perceived by each of us as a painful personal loss. It is a loss that haunts us to this moment.

"Troop Advocacy Award"

The Nassau County American Legion wishes to acknowledge the superb example set by Ms. Anna E. Dunlap, Head of Youth Services at Glen Cove Public Library, for her support of American Troops overseas as the Volunteer Coordinator of the "Any Soldier" Program during the 2012 – 2013 Legion Year. This Program inspires others to participate in the collection and donation of Troop Comfort Items, which then are shipped to "Any Soldier" Overseas. As the County Commander, I take great pleasure in awarding Ms. Dunlap a Certificate of our appreciation for her work with her Troop Advocacy Program.

Glen Cove Art Exhibit

Victor Farfan is returning to the Glen Cove Public Library with his new collection, called "The Future is Here". The artist loves architecture and was a draftsman for many years. The Arabian cities of the future, constructed in what was once arid desert, fascinate Victor. These amazing sights have inspired the artist to create his own vision of cities of the future - inhabited by imaginary creatures from different worlds. Victor's new collection can be seen at the Library through November 30, 2013. Everyone is cordially invited.

Victoria Crosby to Give Presentation at Oyster Bay Historical Society 11/23

Victoria Crosby will give a power point presentation on the history of The Daughters of the British Empire (DBE) from its founding in 1909 to the present, at 2pm on Saturday, November 23 for the Oyster Bay Historical Society at the Earl Wrightman House and Angela Koenig Center at 20 Summit Street in Oyster Bay.

Ms Crosby is the NY State President of the DBE, a national organization, the Regent of the Westminster Abbey Chapter, the only Long Island Chapter. She is also the DBE poet laureate. She has been Glen Cove poet laureate since 1994 and in addition to the lecture and presentation will entertain with some of the poems from the collection BritCentric. Ms Crosby writes for The Leader and 25A Magazine.

Refreshments will be served following the presentation. This event is free and all are welcome. For further information call OBHS at 516 922-5032 or visit oysterbayhistorical.org.

The Journey Home Continues

This is truly a great story. Glen Cove resident Rocco DiLeo was a decorated WWII vet who was captured and sent to a German POW camp on Sept 8, 1943. When captured, he lost his helmet.

Upon the war's end and his release on January 31, 1944 Rocco literally walked through Poland, Russia and Turkey to reach freedom, then arriving back home in Glen Cove in April 1944.

Two years ago his son Michal located his helmet, with his name written in it, on line and arranged to have it returned to Rocco's still living (91 years old) wife. Recently, the sons presented their mother with the helmet. and the amazing reunion was captured by local photographer Anthony G. Gallego if Gill Associates Photography

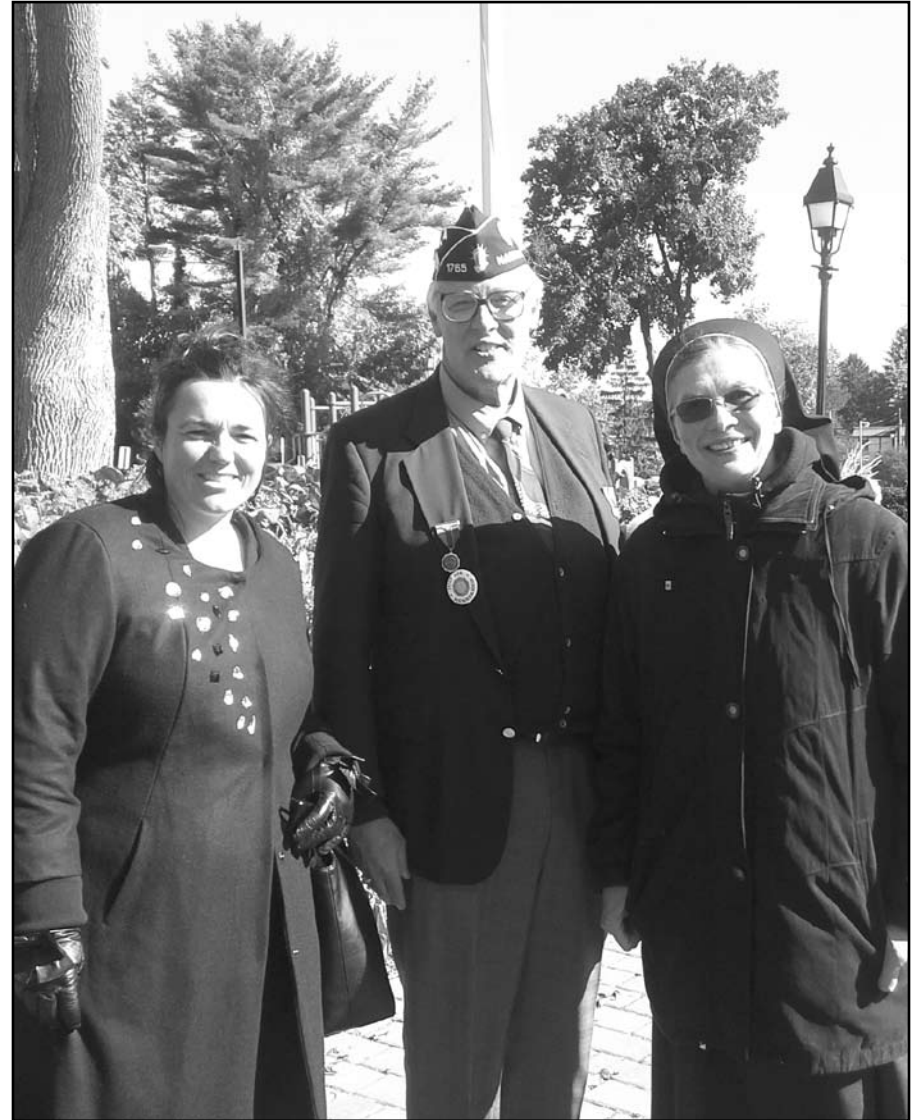

Sister Theresita visits Portledge to speak about WWII

Sainte Mere-Eglise, located ten minutes from Utah Beach and the first town to be liberated during WWI, is the sister city to Locust Valley. In this tiny town on the coast of Normandy the French citizenry will hold a pro-American rally, as they do each and every year in June, to give thanks for the bravery of the American troops who freed them, and for the citizens of Locust Valley, who beginning in 1947, helped to rebuild their city. That's right. Through a grassroots effort that supplemented the Marshall Plan, Locust Valley adopted Ste. Mere Eglise and under the banner of "Operation Democracy" gave generously to rebuild the city where so many Allied troops are buried.

The special relationship between these two towns has survived to this day due in large part to the continuing efforts of Operation Democracy, now an educational organization, to pass the lessons of history on to children. Portledge School in Locust Valley supports the educational mission of Operation Democracy and embraces opportunities for cross-cultural exchange as part of its educational philosophy, and so the school was thrilled to welcome Sister Theresita, visiting from France, to Portledge School to attend classes. Sister Theresita is a German nun who resides in the "House of Peace" in Sainte-Mere-Eglise alongside two French nuns (and it is hoped an American will join them) as part of an international trifecta created in 2012 by the local bishop intended to promote peace. On October 29th and 30th she participated in Upper School French, Music, and History classes at Portledge and was able to share a unique perspective with students. As a German, Sister Theresita was able to relate the story of WWII from the German and French viewpoint, and speak about the challenges of reconciliation in Germany. She also spoke about her dedication to the mission of promoting peace after the terrible suffering in Europe after the war. In an age of terror cells and drone attacks, the visit from Sister Theresita helped Portledge students understand, in a very personal way, why her mission of peace and understanding is so critical.

Sister Theresita is in the US as part of a French delegation currently working with Operation Democracy on a D-Day Theatrical Production which will perform in France as part of the D-Day Commemoration in June. Students from Portledge School and Friends Academy, as well as French and German students their age will perform in the tri-lingual Performance of Peace, written by Laurence Bohec, Drama Teacher at College Saint-Exupery. In addition to a performance in the town center of Sainte-Mere-Eglise on the 6th of June, there will also be performances in a local theater and on Utah Beach itself. Dignitaries from all over the world are expected to be in attendance.

Yelena Vladimir and Concert Festival

On October 20, 2013 at 2:00 pm, a packed auditorium of the Jericho Public Library was treated to the inaugural performance of the Concert Festival Orchestra under the direction of Maestro Vladimir Polezhayev.

The Concert Festival Orchestra consists of advanced students and professionals of exceptional talent. This volunteer-based orchestra gives students the unique educational opportunity to perform alongside their teachers and other talented musicians (www.concertfestival.org/orchestra)

The concert began with an elegant rendition of Mozart's Eine Kleine Nachtmusik and ended with a rousing performance of Johann Strauss' Tritsch-Tratsch Polka. In between, seven soloists ranging in age from 9-16 showcased their abilities on violin, flute, and voice with the orchestra as Gran Prix Winners of the Concerto Competition 2013. 10 year-old violinist Marco Motroni performed Vivaldi in a forceful and dramatic style. Kyoko Saito, a 10 year-old violinist, born in Tokyo, gave a fluid performance of a Mozart's Concerto#3.

16 year-old flautist Yuri Kim showed good attention to contrasting phrases and dynamics in Mozart's Flute Concerto. Michele Ripka, 15, performed a violin concerto by J.S. Bach with strong rhythmic impulse and attention to dynamic contrast. 13 year-old violinist Eunice Park gave a spirited performance of Mozart's Concerto #4.

Within this sea of talent two performers stood out. 9 year-old violinist Serin Park, performing a Haydn Concerto, had a big warm sound, perfect intonation, and a sophisticated bow technique beyond her age.

Vocalist Gwyneth Campbell sang arias by Handel and Vivaldi. Aside from vocal quality, projection, and musicianship unexpected at age 14, her endurance was stunning, particularly in long legato coloratura passages in the Handel, and the final note of the Vivaldi.

Overall, Concert Festival was admirably successful in its first orchestral/Gran Prix concert, both with the ensemble itself and quality of the young winners it chose to feature.

We look forward to more such concerts in the near future. For more information, please visit www.concertfestival.org

Friends Academy 'Blasts Hunger off LI!' with annual Canstruction

Junior Engineering students create third sculpture from nearly 4,000 community-donated cans

Stacking nearly 4,000 cans of Hunt's Tomato Sauce and Green Giant cans, a team of nine Friends Academy engineering students, completed their third consecutive stand-alone sculpture of a rocket ship, entitled "Blast Hunger off LI!" for the international design competition and community service group CANstruction.

"Enthusied by our prior two year's of successful CANstructions, "Take a Bite out of Hunger" and "United, We CAN," the whole community was excited to participate in this year's event again," said CANstruction advisor and Physics teacher Mary Ann Vascotto.

While CANstruction challenges engineers and designers to erect the most out-of-the-box free-standing sculptures, community service is at its core. Since 1992, CANstruction has contributed over 17.5 million pounds of food to community food banks. Following the build, Friends Academy's team will donate its 4,000 cans, contributed from three-year-olds to 12th graders, to LI Cares and the Harry Chapin Food Bank.

In designing this year's CANstruction, the student team of Aidan Vascotto

low), considered nutrition implications, as well as design. "While color, shape and design were paramount in choosing which cans to use, we all wanted to be sure we were selecting healthy food for our sculpture," said advisor Vascotto. "In addition, we faced many design challenges as we adjusted the placement of the different sizes of cans to ensure stability," she added.

Students pre-built their sculpture in advance of the competition to test it and then spent 5 hours on Wednesday, Oct. 23rd at RXR Plaza duplicating their efforts. Friends Academy caught the eye of CANstruction judges as they were given the award for Juror's Favorite.

Friends Academy is now accepting applications for the 2014-15 school year and will hold a Lower School Open House on Monday, December 9 at 8:30 a.m. Call (516) 676-0393 for more information and to schedule a tour of the campus. Enrolling 779 students from age 3 through Grade 12, Friends Academy is guided by its Quaker heritage and the principles of integrity, simplicity, patience, moderation and a peaceful resolution of conflict.

The school is located on 65 acres at the intersection of Piping Rock and Duck Pond roads in Locust Valley/Glen Cove.

A Simple Thank You

Thank you to the residents of Glen Cove for electing me to be your new mayor. I am looking forward to the New Year as our journey begins to rebuild, restore and reshape our great city. Glen Cove is a wonderful community and it's the care and compassion each of us take in our city that makes it such a unique and special place to live. For those that voted for me I thank you. For those that did not I hope you will allow me the opportunity to gain your trust as I begin my mission of creating a better Glen Cove for all of us.

I look forward to the privilege of working with our new Council members Pamela Panzenbeck and Efraim Spagnoletti. I congratulate reelected Councilmen Anthony Gallo Jr., Nick Dileo and Michael Famiglietti who have always placed the best interest of our residents first.

My wife Coleen, daughter Serena and I are grateful to the many wonderful people who worked so hard on the campaign to assure a positive outcome. It is that same spirit of working hard together that will help build a better Glen Cove. May your Thanksgiving be filled with peace, love and gratitude.

The Ninth Annual Blessing of the Creche!

Friday, December 6, 2013
 at 7:00 PM
 Glen Cove Village Square

Once again, we are fortunate to have the opportunity to be a part of this wonderful event and to witness to our faith in public, in the center of our village, not only with our own parish family, but with others who share the truth of what Christmas really is. What an awesome way to usher in the season of Advent, as the Nativity Scene, whose home is our Village Square for the Christmas season, is blessed by our Parish Priests, and hearts are opened in anticipation of Christ's Birth.

Join our Childrens' Choirs in the singing of Christmas Carols, and enjoy the Free Hot Chocolate & Cookies!

Letters to the Editor

Thanks for the Support

To The Editor,

I would like to thank all the people that supported and voted for me in this year's election. I will continue to be involved and to work for the betterment of our community. I look forward to the changes the new administration will bring to our city and anticipate great things. Here's to 2014!

Hurray for the Heroes of the Offbeat Artifacts Sale!

To The Editor,

Applause and good will should go to Mike Lennon and his hearty band of helpers, Mimi Leipzig, Catherine Pick, Rosalin Polisano, Maria Steigletz. Plus thank you to those wonderful neighbors who store the delightful things for the sale. These hardworking angels provide the Sea Cliff Community with the twice monthly Offbeat Artifacts Sale. It is a whimsical and quirky Sea Cliff community happening. Sea Cliff folks donate and buy beautiful "antiques", carvings, glassware, and furniture. Mike and his squad provide the items at low prices and everyone has fun. The Offbeat Artifacts Sale perks up the entire village and spurs local village shopping.

It also has a serious side. Mike saves beautiful things from ending up in the landfill while at the same time raising thousands of dollars for our beloved Sea Cliff Village Library. Proceeds go to the Friends of the Sea Cliff Library which in turn buys iPads, furniture, museum passes. e- Readers and any other items our dedicated Sea Cliff Librarians request from the Friends.

The Offbeat Artifacts Sale is on a roll. Come by and shop and share local news. And remember to send in your membership form for the Friends of the Sea Cliff Library that is in your mailboxes now. Come to our monthly meetings and join with other Sea Cliff folks devoted to our precious Sea Cliff Library.

Yours truly,
Carol Poll,

President of the Friends of the Sea Cliff Library

Book 2- "The Adventures of Piper"

by Mariah Leal

I am very pleased to announce the release of my second book in the series "The Adventures of Piper" entitled "Piper's First Experiences"! The book will be released November 14th, 2013. This series of children's books is geared to educate children on the importance of training and socializing a puppy. These delightful stories recount "Piper's" first year of her life from the time she came to live with me until her first birthday. "Piper" not only teaches children what she has to learn to be a good canine citizen but many of her lessons relate to the same ones children must learn. "Piper" has a way of explaining to children in terms they can understand about how dogs learn.

The number of dog bites involving children and the number of dogs relinquished to shelters because they haven't been trained is astounding. To help lower these statistics is not my only goal for this series of books. I also want to point out the benefits of owning a well trained and socialized dog. Strengthening the family unit is one benefit of having a dog. There are many events where dog and family can participate together. Some examples include: participating in dog walks for charity, competitions in agility or obedience (your dog need not be a purebred for any of these events), getting together for a picnic and meeting other families that enjoy dog events. Owning a dog also helps the shy child make friends. Children are drawn to dogs and answering questions about your dog makes it easier for the shy child to make friends. An only child has a best friend, "sibling" as it were to tell secrets to when their friends go home to brothers and sisters. This one I know from personal experience as I came from a single parent home with no siblings. My dog helped me get over feeling different.

For those of you who have already purchased my first book "Piper Gets a New Home" you are sure to find "Piper's First Experiences" even more exciting and packed full of "Piper's delightful antics and adventures! If you haven't yet purchased "Piper Gets a New Home" why not take advantage of our savings when you buy both books. My website is <http://www.mariahleal.com> and instructions for ordering can be found there as well as information on me and "Piper". Also don't forget to check us out on facebook Mariah Leal Author for me and Piper's Page where kids can interact with "Piper", get to know her, and ask her questions that she is just "barking" to answer. You can also find us on www.goodreads.com. We hope you enjoy "Piper's First Experiences" as much or more than "Piper Gets a New Home! Happy reading everyone!

Friends Academy alumnus earns Eagle Scout distinction

Recent graduate one of 4 percent of all Boy Scouts who attain Eagle rank LOCUST VALLEY — Friends Academy alumnus Keyonne Zaire Session '12, of Hollis, Queens, has earned the highest advancement award the Boy Scouts of America offers to Scouts, the Eagle Scout Award.

Session was recognized in a National Eagle Scout Court of Honor on Saturday, August 17, 2013, at 12:00 PM at the Marion Jackson House on the grounds of Friends Academy in Glen Cove, New York and hosted by fellow Eagle Scout, Head of School Bill Morris and wife Sue Morris.

A member of St. Alban The Martyr Episcopal Church, Troop 267, Session is the troop's fifth Eagle Scout and one of approximately 4 percent of all Boy Scouts who attain the Eagle rank, according to Scoutmaster Alphonzo Parks III.

Each candidate must earn 21 merit badges and successfully complete a community, school, church, or synagogue-related service project to earn his Eagle; Session chose to create a Memorial Garden for the late Brian James Hom '10, a student who touched the lives of all at Friends Academy.

Session has served as Senior Patrol Leader and organized a Thanksgiving Food Drive for the troop's church community while working his way through the ranks in scouting. Session joins other outstanding American citizens who have become Eagle Scouts, including but not limited to several United States Presidents, a former astronaut and former head of the F.B.I.

Session played on the varsity football team, performed in his school's winter plays, was a member and then Co-President of the Admissions Club, a member and treasurer for the Diversity Club, a volunteer and member of the planning committee for Relay for Life, served as manager for the girls' softball team, sang in the choir and volunteered in El Salvador with classmates and teachers on the Community Service Trip, all while attending Friends Academy, where he graduated as Class of 2013. In his junior year, Session was the first recipient of the Brian James Hom Scholarship Award. The scholarship honors a student who embodies Brian's qualities and lives according to his motto, "I am the me I choose to be."

Session is attending Wesleyan University in Connecticut this fall. He is the son of Nicolle Session of Hollis, Queens.

Friends Academy is now accepting applications for the 2014-15 school year. The Admissions Office will host a Open House for Middle and Upper School students on Tuesday, Nov. 5 at 8:30 a.m. and a Lower School Open House on Friday, November 8 at 8:30 a.m. RSVPs are required for both events and parents are asked to call the Admissions Office at 516-393-4244.

Enrolling 779 students from age 3 through Grade 12, Friends Academy is guided by its Quaker heritage and the principles of integrity, simplicity, patience, moderation and a peaceful resolution of conflict. The school is located on 65 acres at the intersection of Piping Rock and Duck Pond roads in Locust Valley/Glen Cove.

Tanchuck To Fight For Charity

Hugh Tanchuck "Hands of Stone" lives in Glen Head with his wife Maggie, daughter Sarah and son Harrison. "Hands of Stone" seemed to be the most fitting name for this volunteer boxer who is the owner of North Shore Architectural Stone in Glen Head and North Shore Monuments in Brookville.

As the past president of the North Shore Kiwanis Club as well as over the years making an impact in his community by donating much of his time, company and services to local not for profit organizations such as the North Shore Pediatric Trauma Center, Woman's Fund of Long Island, North Shore Land Alliance to name a few. Hugh is very civic minded and no stranger to volunteering in the community. Hugh was quoted as saying, "It is good to get my mind off of sales and masonry work to focus on doing something worthwhile and different to help my neighbors here on Long Island that have fallen on hard times. My goal is to help the LI Fight for Charity meet its goal of raising $200,000 this year."

"My family will be cheering me on at ringside at the charity event. I have been getting in shape by continuing to attend Bikram yoga, biking, running and playing tennis as well as going to the gym for boxing sessions. I will be ready to show my opponent my speed and agility and what I have learned in training. I am polishing up my best moves," Tanchuck said.

Veterans Remembered in Sea Cliff

By Carol Griffin

A large contingent of veterans who are members of the James F. Brengel American Legion Post in Sea Cliff and members of the community came out to Clifton Park on Veterans Day, November 11, to remember the veterans who have served to protect our country. There was a short service that included a prayer, some words from Mayor Bruce Kennedy and the Star Spangled Banner sung by Ray Pierce. Post Commander Phil Como invited everyone present to come back to Sea Cliff firehouse where lunch was served.

Scouts Backpack Harriman State Park

On October 26th & 27th, Boy Scout Troop 43 of Sea Cliff NY, went on a backpacking excursion to Harriman State Park. With their packs loaded with the equipment they would need to survive the weekend 1½ miles into the mountains, they set off away from civilization. The Scouts were greeted with the beautiful sights of the outdoors, brilliant colors on the trees, birds chirping, a cool breeze flowing through the air and a beautiful lake alongside the trail. Lead by map and compass, the Scouts hiked on the Long Trail to the Stockbridge Shelter, which is perched atop a 1200 foot high mountain. After setting up camp, the Scouts hiked over to an area where they were able to explore many caverns and narrow pathways through a large rock formation. In the rock formation was a cool cave shelter fitted with its own small fireplace and chimney, which has housed many campers during their stay at Harriman. Later that afternoon the Scouts prepared their dinner, which for many was their first time eating freeze dried food. Freeze dried food is a full, dehydrated, meal that comes in a small light package perfect for backpacking. With their stomachs full and warm, stories of past camping trips, jokes and a game of name that State Capital took place around the campfire. Nestled away in their tents and mummy sleeping bags, everyone hit the sack and went to sleep. The Scouts awoke to a magnificent sunrise, which urged the Scouts out of their tents. Everyone broke down camp, packed their packs, prepared their breakfast meals and fueled up for the hike back down the mountain to where it all started. Our next trip in November is a rock climbing and camping adventure in the New Paltz area.

Glen Cove Pack 6 Fall Cookout/Campout

The Glen Cove Pack 6 Cub Scouts celebrated Fall with their annual cookout/campout this past weekend at the YMCA. Many of the boys were excited to be camping out in the cold weather, since last year the event was canceled because of Hurricane Sandy. The day started out with many of the dedicated parents helping to cook 6 large turkeys over an open fire. As the parents coordinated the cooking and food prep, the boys were in the woods setting up their tents. Most of the boys were able to set up their own tents with minimal help from an adult, while a few boys managed to set up tents on their own! This experience is necessary for them to earn their outdoorsman badge. After a fantastic turkey dinner, the boys sat around the campfire to roast marshmallows, perform funny skits and tell ghost stories. They slept comfortably in their tents after that, even though the temperature dipped down into the low 40's overnight. The cookout/campout was a great success and would not be possible if it wasn't for the moms and dads who tirelessly work to make these scouting events a success. If you are interested in finding out more about scouting, please contact John Blazich @ 516-698-2521 or Jeff Roditi @ 516-238-2844.

Name the Celebrity

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Wally Cox. Widely remembered as "Mr. Peepers" and a regular of the original "Hollywood Squares" with Square-Master, Peter Marshall, Wally was also the original voice of the TV animation cartoon of "Underdog". During the 1960's and '70's, Cox became frustrated by being typecast as a prim, bookish, "Casper milk-toast" character and protested in vain to reporters and interviewers that he was nothing like "Peepers". He was physically quite strong, hiked, and rode a motorcycle and was a master electrician. In fact, Peter Marshall in his memoir, "Back Stage With the Original Hollywood Squares", he wrote that Cox installed and maintained all the wiring in his own home. A rare glimpse of Cox's athletic build can be seen in the original CBS pilot of "Mission Impossible", when he works as a safecracker in a tight, sleeveless t-shirt. On Feb. 15, 1973, he died of a coronary occlusion. A report indicated his ashes were put with those of his very close, good friend, Marlon Brando, when he died years after Cox. Former roommates as young performers, Brando had encouraged Cox to take acting lessons with Stellar Adler. Together, their ashes were scattered in Death Valley and Tahiti.

Correct Callers

Callers who knew our celebrity were: Ted March, Joe Mazzeo, Roberta Pezza, Anna Moore, Jim Foote, Jack Guy, Joseph Saepia, Mario Moccia, Will and Babs Hutchins, Kathy Leyden, Ted March, Anthony Mercado and John Rogalski.

This week's celebrity was born on the Ides of March, March 15, 1907, in Wheaton, Illinois. This corpulent, booming-voiced actor's name may not be on the tip of your tongue but you will say, "I know that guy!" He has been in films and TV from 1941 until 1962. He was often cast as the obstreperous villain and was given sizeable roles, in every sense of the word, in such "B" movies as "Sky Dragon" (1949), Monogram Production's final entry in the "Charlie Chan" series, "The Narrow Margin" (1952), and "Father Steps Out" (1941) with Frank Faylen (Regis Philbin's first father-in-law), which was a remake of Monogram's 1934 "City Limits". After appearing as the composer, Victor Herbert, in MGM's Jerome Kern biopic "Till Clouds Roll By" (1946) with Robert Walker Sr. as Kern, he was kept on MGM's on-call list for quick walk-ons in quite a few uncredited roles in such movies as "Showdown at Boot Hill" (1958) with a pre-superstardom Charles Bronson and "All the King's Men" (1950) with Broderick Crawford.

Two NS High School Students Selected to Take Creative Problem Solving Course at SUNY Old Westbury

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, NY, November 1 - Congratulations to Katerina Ganasoulis and Julia Reilly, North Shore tenth graders, who were recently selected to participate in the Institute for Creative Problem Solving course at SUNY Old Westbury.

North Shore Math Teacher Dr. Rob Gerver said, "On Saturday mornings, the girls will be immersed into non-routine problem solving activities throughout the program." He added, "The class is composed of the best ninth and tenth grade mathematics students from high schools all over Long Island." Katerina and Julia had to take entrance exams before being invited to participate. Additionally, both girls were medalists at last year's Long Island Math Fair and will be participating again this year!

Senior helps open door for East Asian studies at Friends Academy

Resources will help shape new Upper School Asian Studies course this spring.

Aponte is currently developing new curriculum for an Upper School Asian Studies course, as part of the upcoming Global Studies Program this spring. Friends Academy is now accepting applications for the 2014-15 school year. The Admissions Office will host a Open House for Middle and Upper School students on Tuesday, Nov. 5 at 8:30 a.m. and a Lower School Open House on Friday, November 8 at 8:30 a.m. RSVPs are required for both events and parents are asked to call the Admissions Office at 516-393-4244.

Friends Academy is now accepting applications for the 2014-15 school year and will hold a Lower School Open House on Monday, December 9 at 8:30 a.m. Call (516) 676-0393 for more information and to schedule a tour of the campus. Enrolling 779 students from age 3 through Grade 12, Friends Academy is guided by its Quaker heritage and the principles of integrity, simplicity, patience, moderation and a peaceful resolution of conflict. The school is located on 65 acres at the intersection of Piping Rock and Duck Pond roads in Locust Valley/Glen Cove.

For Upper School history teacher Ryan Aponte and incoming senior Kristina Kim, this spring and summer afforded both of them the chance to broaden their global horizons with inaugural East Asian programs at Stanford University. Kim was one of 26 students selected from across the country this past spring to participate in Stanford's first Sejong Korean Scholars Program (SKSP). The online 3-credit college course provided students with a broad overview of Korean history and culture. A collection of ambassadors, scholars and experts throughout the United States offered online lectures and interacted with students during live discussion sessions.

Kim ultimately earned an honorable mention for her culminating research paper, "The Changing Role of Women in Korea." Kim's participation also paved the road for Aponte's invitation this July to the first annual Hana-Stanford Conference on Korea for U.S. Secondary School Teachers.

The conference united educators from across the U.S., as well as a cadre of educators from Korea for intensive and lively sessions on a wide assortment of Korean-studies related topics ranging from U.S.-Korea relations, to history, religion and popular culture. In addition to scholarly lectures, Aponte took part in curriculum workshops and received numerous classroom resources.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
Have you heard about Sea Cliff latest happening : the first annual Toy Turkey Hunt ? Yes, it is this Sunday, November 24 from 2 to 3pm at Geohegen (aka Headless aka Plaza) Park- the one near the Water Tower. The Brady Brothers Band will be performing and there will be treats for all. What fun and yet another great Sea Cliff Civic Association event! While waiting for the hunt to begin, I would like to have something ready to read on my Kindle. Any ideas?

Turkey Troubadour

Dear Turkey Troubadour,
The Toy Turkey Hunt does sound like a wonderful beginning to the holidays and my family and I will surely be there. You might like a book I read over the weekend which was so much better than its title would suggest: THE HUSBAND'S SECRET by Liane Moriarty. Three women living in Sidney, Australia are confronted by a myriad of decisions, memories, crises which are all eerily linked. What is one's responsibility to community, to family, and finally to self- these are the questions the three women grapple with and always the question remains "what if". In the epilogue, we are given the answer to this question. We find ourselves with a sense of parallel universes where lives can be lived in many different ways with many different outcomes. An unsettling book but a compelling read!

7th Graders at NS Middle School Learn about the Physics of Flight! How Do Planes Fly?

On November 4th, seventh graders got a special treat when guest speaker Captain Wile, a pilot with Southwest Airlines (and a father in the community) visited North Shore Middle School to teach about the Physics of Flight!

As part of the Forces unit in science, the students eagerly listened to Captain Wile as he explained how airplanes fly by utilizing the Four Forces of Flight including lift, gravity, thrust, and drag. Captain Wile discussed Bernoulli's Principle and Newton's Law in relation to flying Boeing 737 airplanes.

Bernoulli's principle helps explain that an aircraft can achieve lift because of the shape of its wings. They are shaped so that that air flows faster over the top of the wing and slower underneath. Fast moving air equals low air pressure while slow moving air equals high air pressure. The high air pressure underneath the wings will therefore push the aircraft up through the lower air pressure. Captain Wile demonstrated this principle utilizing a hairdryer and a ping pong ball. The thrust of air from the hairdryer enables the ping pong ball to float or lift through the air! He also experimented with a piece of paper involving the students. Everyone put a piece of paper to their lips and blew causing the paper to lift rather than go down!

In addition, Captain Wile discussed Newton's Law by summarizing, "For every action there is a reaction." In the case of flight, Captain Wile said, "The action is the movement of the airplane as it is thrust through the air. The reaction is when the plane is lifted or propelled up during takeoff." He said, "Most Boeing 747's go 140-160 miles per hour during takeoff which is referred to as Weight on the Wings." The four forces react with one another as thrust overcomes drag as the plane speeds down the runway creating lift during takeoff, overcoming the pull of the earth's gravity.

Many thanks to Captain Wile for providing such an educational learning experience for our seventh graders at North Shore Middle School. His presentation included many demonstrations and examples which engaged the seventh graders in an exciting lesson on the Physics of Flight.

Glen Cove Students Named All-State and All-National in Music

The Glen Cove High School Music Department is proud to announce that eight students have been selected to participate as All-State musicians in the 78th Annual New York State School Music Association Winter Conference in Rochester, N.Y., on Dec. 5-8. Additionally, one student has been named to the All-National Choir, the first student at Glen Cove High School to achieve this honor.

Claudia Kolanovic has been selected to perform in the American Choral Directors Association All-National Choir. The ACDA Conference, which will be held in Baltimore on Feb. 5-8, brings together the most talented choral students in the country to perform before the nation's most esteemed choral educators, professionals and adjudicators. Students are selected based on recordings submitted by their teachers. Claudia submitted her performance of "Gretchen am Sprinrade" by Franz Schubert. This was also her NYSSMA solo for which she received a perfect score, however, performers selected for the national choir cannot participate in the NYSSBA Conference. Claudia was selected among hundreds of entrants from across the country, including just 36 from New York State.

Seven members of the Glen Cove High School Select Chorale have been chosen for the All-State Choir, which will perform in the NYSSMA Conference. They are: Nasreena Ali, Michael Banks, Ryan Carmody, Diana Delgrosso, Kristin Ingegno, Vivian Rysdyk and Sean Tan (alternate). Both Michael and Claudia were selected to perform at last year's Winter Conference.

Samantha Smith has been named a member of the NYSSMA All-State Wind Ensemble, which will also perform in Rochester.

Students are selected to NYSSMA All-State ensembles – which represent some of the best student-musicians in the state – based on their scores at the NYSSMA Solo and Ensemble Festivals held the prior spring. Every Glen Cove High School student-musician selected achieved a perfect score at the highest difficulty level (Level 6, 100) on their audition. They also received stellar recommendations from their adjudicators and respective teachers. In addition to having the first-ever participant in the ACDA National Choir, the 2013 group is the largest contingent from Glen Cove High School named to NYSSMA All-State ensembles in a single year.

The district congratulates all of the students and their teachers, chorale director Edward Norris and band director Nick Carbuto.

Chorale director Edward Norris congratulates Claudia Kolanovic, the first Glen Cove High School student-musician ever selected to perform in the American Choral Directors Association All-National Choir.
