Glen Cove PD Welcomes Two New Officers

The City of Glen Cove welcomed two new officers at the City Council meeting of December 23, 2013. Katherine Theodorou was born and raised in Glen Cove where she resides with her parents (John and Jane) and her 3 brothers. She attended Glen Cove Schools and went on to Saint Anselm College in New Hampshire where she played 4 years of Varsity Softball and earned a Bachelor's degree in Physics. Katy is a certified EMT and currently volunteers for the Glen Cove EMS.

Matthew Gillespie and his wife Katherine live in Glen Cove. He earned a Bachelor's degree in History at Marist College. He earned a Masters Degree at Columbia University in NYC in Education. He is also a certified New York State Emergency Medical Technician.

Glen Cove Police Chief William Whitton said, "The police department has had many retirements over the past two years. We are currently in a rebuilding phase, and I would like to take the opportunity to thank Mayor Suozzi and Mayor elect Spinello, along with the entire City Council for supporting our efforts and these two hires." Whitton continued, "I wish for these new officers to have productive careers and continue our record of first rate public safety to the citizens of Glen Cove."

Re-Scheduled Holiday Brass & Choirs Will Perform On Jan.11, 8pm At The North Shore High School

The North Shore Community Chorus' December holiday concert, which was cancelled due to a snowstorm, has been re-scheduled for Saturday, January 11, at 8 p.m. at the North Shore High School.

The HS auditorium will resound with the glorious sounds of brass instruments and choral voices, when the North Shore Community Chorus, under the direction of Stephen Goldstein and the Island Chamber Symphony Brass, under the direction of Jeremy Kempton, will take to the stage to present a magnificent holiday music spectacular.

Featured on the program are the "Gloria" by John Rutter and the "Christmas Cantata" by Daniel Pinkham. The program will also highlight holiday favorites by the Musica Schmoozica vocal ensemble, directed by Carol Goglia. The evening will culminate in a carol sing-along with brass and choir, and a new Chanukah medley for brass and choir, written by NSCC Director, Stephen Goldstein

The festivities will begin at 8 p.m. at the North Shore High School Auditorium, Glen Cove Avenue, Glen Head. Tickets are $10 for Adults and $8 for Children/Seniors and can be purchased at the door. For information, please call (631) 470-6128.31) 470-6128.

Inauguration Date for Mayor-Elect Spinello and the City Council

The inauguration ceremony for Glen Cove's Mayor-elect Reginald A. Spinello and the members of the City Council: Anthony Gallo, Jr.; Pamela D. Panzenbeck; Efraim Spagnoletti; Nicholas A. DiLeo; Michael T. Famiglietti; and Timothy J. Tenke that will be held at noon on Wednesday, January 1, 2014, in the Wunsch Arts Center in Finley Middle School. All Glen Cove residents are invited to attend.

Victoria Crosby Gives Presentation in Oyster Bay

Glen Cove poet Victoria Crosby included some of her poems from her collection "BritCentric" in her power point presentation on the history of the Daughters of the British Empire, DBE, given recently for members and visitors of the Oyster Bay Historical Society. The event was held at the Angela Koenig Center and was very well received. The DBE is a National organization formed in 1909 for women of British birth and heritage who, while enjoying the company of other British women, raise funds for four nursing facilities in the US.

Ms Crosby is the president of the DBE in New York State, the regent of the Westminster Abbey Chapter on Long Island, and vice president of The North Shore Historical Museum. She is also on the board of the Historic Royal Palaces in London, England.

Earlier this year Ms Crosby was one of the honorees at Oyster Bay Historical Society's event Long Island's Top Advocates for Historic Preservation.

Following the presentation and question and answer period refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Glen Cove Youth Bureau presents... YOUTH, NEWS & VIEWS

Extra Extra.....Read All About It!

By: Sandra Potter

Extra Extra.... Read all about It at the Carol A. Sucharski Youth Center afterschool program. With the addition of Long Island University Social Work Intern SadieMarie Hoffer, the program has introduced a reading club to assist members in grades 1-5 with literacy, comprehension, vocabulary and reading proficiency. Upon completion of homework, children select a book of their choice and begin reading for fifteen minutes. Students participate in solo readings, and then are paired for discussions related to their book. Sharing topics include new or difficult words learned, favorite character or book theme. The reading club provides an enjoyable and easy way for children to develop and improve their literacy skills while promoting the love of reading.

program of the Glen Cove Youth Bureau, provides afterschool homework help with staff, interns, high school and college volunteers for children in grades 1-5, in addition to teen programming Thursday-Saturday evenings. Recreational activities are offered daily and include video, board and card games, arts and crafts, cooking, offsite trips and dance, all at no cost. For more information contact Sandra Potter, Youth Program Coordinator at 671-4600 or via email at spotter@cityofglencoveny.org

Glen Cove HS Students Participate in Cablevision Power to Learn ‘Charity Champions’ Program

Students at Glen Cove High School were recently presented with a $1000 check for signing on to participate in the Cablevision Power to Learn Charity Champions program. The check will be donated to the students’ charity of choice, the North Shore INN. The school also received $500 for furtherance of its fundraising activities. In its fifth year, Charity Champions promotes volunteerism and helps raise money for a school-selected charity. A grand-prize winner from participating schools in each of the six tri-state regions that Cablevision serves will be selected in the spring and awarded $5000 for their school’s chosen charity. Pictured (l. to r.) with Glen Cove Key Club students are Assemblyman Charles Lavine, Key Club Advisor Mary Ellen Cuomo, and Cablevision Government Affairs Manager Kevin Waters.

North Shore Middle School Focuses on Making a Difference in the Community on “E3” Day “Everyone Matters, Everyone Cares, Everyone Learns”

North Shore Schools, December 19, 2013 - North Shore Middle School Principal Dr. Marc Ferris stated, “Everyone Matters, Everyone Cares, Everyone Learns (E3) is our middle school ethos, our vision for who we wish to be and what we hope for our students. On E3 Day, we focused on getting our kids up and out into the community to make a difference and benefit others,” said North Shore Middle School Principal Dr. Marc Ferris.

The day began with the Annual Thanksgiving breakfast, cooked by the teachers for the students. At 9:15 a.m. high school students led an important school-wide assembly, Dylan Brady spoke about “Kindness & Awareness” and Taylor Bradford addressed the packed gymnasium about “Giving & Service.” It was followed by a musical presentation of “Brave” by Dylan & Cody Brady.

On E3 Day, the students and faculty raised over $6,000 dancing, walking, skating, and playing football for the Nicholas Pedone Foundation, $800 for the Crohn’s and Colitis Foundation, and $500 for the ARC Foundation that will go to building schools in the Philippine’s in the aftermath of the typhoon. But that’s not all! Students raked leaves for a dozen neighbors, sang and played music for senior citizens in Glen Cove, taught lessons to elementary school children, cleaned up local parks, volunteered at local charity organizations, painted a mural and made crafts for a variety of causes, and brought smiles to many faces across Long Island by donating thousands of canned goods to those in need.

Principal Marc Ferris said, “We should be very proud of all of our students. With everyone’s support, our middle school children learned what it meant to care for and help people (often strangers) that needed them. Thank you for being a wonderful community full of AMAZING children. I feel so lucky to work with such a great group of kids, teachers, and parents!”

Name the Celebrity

with William Hopper, best known as "Paul Drake" in the "Perry Mason" TV series, Melvyn Douglas, Beulah Bondi and Tex Ritter (John's father) in "Mother Lode", which was later made into a film called "Yellow Dust". He appeared in lighthearted films such as "Make Your Own Bed" (1944) with Jack Carson and Jane Wyman and "Christmas in Connecticut" (1945) with Dennis Morgan, Barbara Stanwyck, Sydney Greenstreet and S.Z. Sakall. He was also in "Let's Live a Little" (1948) with Hedy Lamarr and Bob Cummings. If you know our celebrity call us at 516-671-2360 or e-mail us at: mail@goldcoastgazette.net

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Mary Margaret "Peggy" Cass. She was probably best known for her performance as "Agnes Gooch" in "Auntie Mame" both on Broadway and the 1958 film version with Rosalind Russell. This role earned her a Tony Award for Best Supporting Actress and later, and later, an Oscar nomination for Best Supporting Actress. She was also part of a nine member ensemble cast for the 1960 Broadway revue "A Thurber Carnival", adapted by Jas. Thurber from his works. In 1983, she appeared in the New Amsterdam Theatre Company's concert staging of Kurt Weill and Ogden Nash's "One Touch of Venus" as "Mrs. Kramer", opposite Susan Lucci, as Cass' daughter. On March 8, 1999, Cass died of heart failure in NYC, at the age of 74, at the Memorial Sloane-Kettering Cancer Hospital. She was survived by her husband, a former Jesuit priest and educator, Eugene Michael Feeney (1924-2013). They had no children.

Correct Callers

Callers who knew our celebrity last week were: Marrio Moccia, Don Adams, Roberta Pezza, Tony Mercado, Will and Babs Hutchins, John Rogalski.

This week's celebrity was born on Oct. 4, 1900 in Yonkers, NY. His parents were a notable couple, at the time. His father, who was born in England on the Isle of Wright, came from a family of merchants. When he emigrated to the U.S., he continued the family legacy as a shrewd businessman and possessed a sense of global politics and became one of the founders of the U.S. Dept. of Commerce. His mother, who was born in NY, was a woman who was ahead of her time. She was instrumental in establishing the Montessori teaching method in the D.C. school district. She was also an advocate of women and birth control and was a suffragette. Our celebrity considered both his parents to be extraordinary people. Our celebrity obtained a degree in Business Administration from Boston U. and eventually became a cub reporter and carried his own portable typewriter for that job, as well as, for all his travels as an actor. His association with a newspaper would later take on a more serious acquaintance. His career in legitimate theater has not been given as much attention as his film and TV work. In the early '30s, he had dual roles in Sidney Howard's "Yellow Jack" with a very young Jimmy Stewart. In 1934, he co-starred

Teachers Association Donates

In true holiday spirit, the Glen Cove Teachers Association was pleased to provide Glen Cove children with a special treat. Each year, Mayor Ralph V. Suozzi, Youth Bureau Executive Director Arlene O'Dell and Sandra Potter of the Glen Cove Youth Bureau graciously accept this kind donation from Glen Cove Teachers Association President Karen Ferguson, and these gifts are distributed at Glen Cove's Annual Milk and Cookies with Santa. Each participant at the event receives a special age appropriate gift, all courtesy of the faculty members in the school system.

Glen Cove Youth Bureau Director Arlene O'Dell said, "We extend our gratitude to the Glen Cove Teachers Association for their kind gesture. Their organization plays a vital role in our event each year and we appreciate their generosity, especially during these tough economic times and we thank them for all of the time the teachers put into selecting and wrapping these gifts. It is so satisfying to see the look on all of the children's faces when they receive their special treat."

Mayor Suozzi said, "This tradition truly epitomizes the genuine holiday spirit in our community and reflects the old adage, 'It is better to give than to receive.' I appreciate the generosity of all of the educators who contributed to this effort to bring joy to many of our children this holiday season."

Celebrate Grand Apple Day!

North Shore Schools, December 19, 2013- First graders at Sea Cliff Elementary celebrated in the annual Grand Apple Day as a culmination of their "apple study." As part of the curriculum, each student is given an apple to observe and investigate.

During weeks of study, the first graders engaged in many educational and fun activities including peeling the apples, exploring its properties, weighing the apples using principles of mathematics, and even carving faces on them! Through the weeks, students eagerly watched as their apples underwent dramatic changes – from dehydration to wrinkling up! Throughout the month, the students monitored and kept track of the transformations.

This December, the study culminated with Grand Apple Day. Grandparents along with family members were invited to school to help make "apple dolls" complete with creative outfits for everyone to see! Many thanks to the students, relatives, and the first grade teachers including Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Morley, and Mrs. Miller who all had a wonderful and educational Grand Apple Day!

On Tuesday, December 17, 2013, the Glen Cove Senior Center began a new chapter in its pursuit and support of Brain Health by introducing its first monthly Brain Fitness Awareness Day. The Brain Booster Club met at 10:30 and worked on some challenging puzzles and games. At 12:45, a brain boosting snack of unsalted sunflower seeds was handed out, and Liza Johnson, L.M.F.T. gave an informative and inspirational lecture about stress reduction and the mind. She explained that the mind is our most powerful tool, and there are easy techniques we can and should implement in order to live a healthier and happier life. One of the suggestions Liza shared is to meditate using breath. Take deep breaths and listen to them. This type of focus will bring us into the present which is where positive change will take place. Another suggestion Liza made is to become aware of feelings and try to be a witness to them. Instead of reacting immediately in a situation, step back and ask yourself, "What can I do to create a positive situation now?" This activity will become easier and easier as it's done and will create a happier and more positive reality that will ripple outward. Eventually, you will find that everyone around you becomes happier. The third suggestion Liza made was to say something nice to someone in your day. Compliments not only make the recipient feel good, but also will make the giver feel good. These are three simple but extremely effective suggestions that if done with regularity, will create a reality change for the better. The old adage, "Sweep in front of your own door" is so true. If each of us works on improving our attitude by using the power of our mind, imagine the potential!

North Shore Lions Club Spreads Holiday Cheer at Brookville Center for Children's Services

The North Shore Lions Club and the "Happy Hookers" of the Glen Cove Senior Center helped to make the holiday season joyous for over 120 children of Brookville Center for Children's Services, located on AHRC Nassau's campus.

The Glen Cove Seniors presented Brookville Center students with beautifully knitted and crocheted scarves and hats, handmade with love by the Happy Hookers. The materials are donated by the North Shore Lions Club, which continued the tradition the Glen Cove Lions Club began more than 30 years earlier.

The Happy Hookers and members of the Lions Club visited the Brookville Center's schools together with Santa Claus (Tom Glynn), John Canning and students from Glen Cove High School's Student Senate. Santa happily gave the handmade gifts to the children, while the high school students sang holiday songs.

Background: Brookville Center for Children's Services is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization serving over 1,000 children with and without developmental disabilities from Nassau, Queens and Suffolk Counties. Among its programs is the 12-month Autism Program in Brookville, dedicated to providing children with autism an individualized education that takes into account each child's strengths, as well as specific skill deficits, and teaches the skills needed to increase their ability to communication and function independently.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
My friends and I are planning a small New Year's Eve dinner party here in Sea Cliff and we would like to add a literary twist to the evening's festivities. Can you think of anything that might fill the bill?

New Year's Eve Literary Reveler

Dear Literary Reveler,
What a great idea and I have a great, great suggestion: "THE DEAD" by James Joyce, perhaps the finest short story ever written and it is set at a gala party celebrating the new year. The description of the delicious food and drink coupled with sparkling conversation and lilting music, all set in the home of two elderly sisters and their niece, makes for a delightful glimpse into life in Dublin one hundred years ago. But the story is so, so much more. We meet the courtly, self-absorbed Gabriel, the sisters' adored nephew and his wife Gretta; the easily intimidated and intoxicated Freddy Malins; his tedious, complaining mother; Lily, a young servant girl; and a whole array of colorful partygoers. There is a feverishly familiar litany of past parties, achievements, slights, and political barbs but the story's climax comes shortly after the party ends. Gretta in a melancholy mood mentions a young boy from the countryside who had loved her. Her husband immediately becomes jealous and questions her fidelity only to find that the boy had died decades before. Michael Furey had despaired when Gretta left their village for boarding school, and came to her window on a brutally bitter night to bid her farewell; he died from the cold but the devotion he showed was still vividly alive for Gretta these many years later. Gabriel laments his own pettiness, his lack of passion in contrast to young Michael's. The story closes with Gabriel looking out as the snow covers Ireland, falling "upon all the living and the dead." A truly beautiful piece.

Baking for the Holidays at North Shore High School! How is a Gingerbread House Made?

North Shore Schools, December 19, 2013 - 11th and 12th grade students in Teresa Paolilli-Schiano's Baking Class at North Shore High School had the chance to explore various ways to make Gingerbread Houses and cookies this holiday season.

By utilizing molds and cookie cutters, students created Gingerbread Houses from scratch by baking gingerbread, tempering chocolate and graham crackers! Additionally, they studied different types of icing that varied in texture. They used merengue powder or egg whites to create Royal icing that was used to decorate their houses along with candy! Earlier in the year, they learned that buttercream icing tends to be soft in texture and are now learning the properties of the Royal icing that is stiffer. Besides their traditional holiday houses, our young bakers used chocolate wafers to produce chocolate gingerbread houses. These delicious, holiday treats were favorably shared with their friends and faculty at North Shore!

Happy holidays to all!
