Volunteers Perform Ice Rescue Drills

On Sunday January 5th members of Glen Cove EMS and Glen Cove Fire Dept conducted an Ice Rescue/Cold Water Rescue drill at Dosoris Pond by Prybil Beach. Although not a common occurrence in Glen Cove, water rescues do occur in the colder months so we must be ready.

City of Glen Cove First Responders conduct these drills at least once a year to maintain proficiency in the skills and tactics needed for this type of specialized rescue. EMS members work closely with Fire Dept Rescue Squad members by providing medical care to rescued individuals as well as medically monitoring firefighters throughout the rescue operation.

Letters to the Editor

Starting With 100 To The Editor,

On the first day of a new college course my brother always told the students "Today you have a grade of 100 (A). What you do with it is up to you." The newly elected Glen Cove City officials start their term of office on January 1, 2014. They start with a grade of 100. What will they do with it remains to be seen.

Over the past 8 years the City of Glen Cove has progressed forward and upward. At this point in time it has reached a level of involvement with the community and support to the residents and businesses that has not been seen in the past. Mayor Suozzi and the City Council, the City Departments and Commissions and all of those involved have raised the bar to a very high level and have shown that that level of close support to, and strong management of, Glen Cove can be maintained.

In the pharmaceutical industry, a company has to maintain a set level of manufacturing rigor to meet regulatory requirements. When it exceeds the requirements for a product and can maintain a higher standard the FDA now sets that as the standard for that product made by that company and there is no reversing this without a severe penalty.

The Government of Glen Cove has shown that it can maintain the high level of community service, quick response to concerns, fast action in situations of emergency, attention to the infrastructure, proactive interaction with State and Federal agencies and with businesses both here and potential, good will and open government for several years – far more so than it has ever done in the past. That level is known to the local regulatory agency (voters and residents) and is now accepted as the norm.

It is critical to the City and the Gold Coast region (which is affected in some instances by the acts of the City) that this process does not become regressive but the high level now present continues and that the City remains recognized for being sensitive to the residents and businesses and responsive to the needs and concerns of all. Knowing that the incoming officials can do this and do it well, I wish all a Happy and successful New Year.

Glenn Howard, Jr.

Welcome New Mayor

To The Editor,

We are very excited for Glen Cove, as our new Mayor Reggie Spinello, was sworn into office. Reggie Spinello gave an encouraging and optimistic inaugural speech on January 1st. We are proud to welcome him as Mayor of our city and look forward to once again living in Glen Cove with pride and confidence.

Annette and Dr. Alan Geiss

"Gem of the Gold Coast" To The Editor,

It was a beautiful day in Glen Cove. January 1, 2014, the sun was shining, the Wunsch Arts Center auditorium in the Finley Middle School was filled to capacity with enthusiastic residents, and the future of Glen Cove was outlined in a profoundly spirited and exquisitely presented Inaugural Address delivered by new Mayor Reginald Spinello. A consistent theme throughout his address was, "Glen Cove is once again open for business." Mayor Spinello noted his additional promises of restoring the quality of life to the residents of Glen Cove, in reversing the trends of the previous administrations, and in providing "an open, honest, transparent and hardworking government." Mayor Spinello stated, "I promised during the campaign that I would focus on quality of life issues, and

I intend to keep that promise."

The pomp and circumstance, the exquisite flag procession with members of the Glen Cove Police Department, Volunteer Fire Department, Harbor Patrol, Emergency Medical Services, Auxiliary Police, United States Coast Guard, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars was awe inspiring. After a welcoming address by Paul Meli, Master of Ceremonies and the Chairman of the Glen Cove Republican Committee, the Pledge of Allegiance, National Anthem, and Invocation, the Honorable Edward Mangano, Nassau County Executive, presented an inspiring and very positively focused speech. The Oath of Office was administered by the Honorable Judge Richard McCord and Glen Cove had a new Mayor.

Mayor Reginald Spinello, with a beaming smile stated, "It's been a long time in coming, and I'm pleased to announce today that Glen Cove is once again open for business. We've got a lot of work to do to reverse the trends of the last 20 years, but if I didn't think we could do it, I wouldn't have run for mayor. My vision for our city's future is very positive..." "After more than two decades of one-party rule and one-party ideas, the voters have asked for a change in the way Glen Cove is governed. And I intend to lead that change." As one of his first orders of business, Spinello said he is going to direct his attention to the illegal housing problem which he stated has been a burden on our community and on our honest, law-abiding citizens stating, "So long as I'm the mayor, the illegal housing business will no longer be business as usual in Glen Cove. If we're going to respect each other, we need to start with a mutual respect for our laws."

Spinello also cited the negative trend in our business environment over the years and he intends to encourage all of us to support our local businesses and to revive our business community.

With numerous applause and standing ovations throughout his address, Mayor Spinello reiterated, "Glen Cove is officially reopened for business." The positive vibe, the enthusiastic crowd of well-wishers, the thrill of a new era for Glen Cove - it all leads one to really believe that we can once again become the "Gem of the Gold Coast."

Atria Honors Veteran's

For veteran's day, Atria Senior Living in Glen Cove invited the Locust Valley American Legion veterans share memories and salute the flag together. The American Legion put smiles on the face of our WWII vets by bringing cards made by first graders thanking them for their service and one of their members played familiar patriotic tunes on his guitar. Afterwards, our residents took a picture with them holding their veteran's pictures from WWII. Perhaps this is newsworthy for your paper. I would truly appreciate you sharing this with the community.

19th Annual Christmas Dinner in Sea Cliff a Great Success

For the past 19 years, Terry Sciubba, a member of the Mutual Concerns Committee, has donated her time on Christmas day to serve a delicious dinner so that all those who didn't have family nearby could enjoy a wonderful holiday dinner with friends and neighbors.

Through the years, more and more people have joined this festive occasion. They look forward to this dinner and entertainment every Christmas. It has become a wonderful holiday tradition.

Terry enlists local establishments to donate food, and residents are always willing to give their time as volunteers in the kitchen or to sing or play the piano. Those who donated food for the dinner are: Arata's, Gallagher's, Oak Room, Metropolitan Bistro and Grass Roots. Volunteers included: Peter and Theo Fleishman, Barbara and Cliff Sinenberg, Stu Rodal, Sue Giordano, Paul Basserman, Ari and Ed Lieberman, Ann Koppel, Erin Bauer, Philipa, Arthur and Rachel Green, Julie Colòn, Pat Guy, and John Canning, the master of ceremonies.

Toy Drive Gives Children Something to Look Forward To Every Year

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, January 7, 2014 - Bundled with black garbage bags filled with toys, the North Shore Key Club and North Shore Chamber Orchestra made an exciting visit to Cohen Children's Hospital prior to winter break. The visit is a tradition at the North Shore Schools, said Ms. Salat, the Key Club Director, made possible through North Shore's 26th Annual Toy Drive, hosted by Dr. Rob Gerver and Mrs. Polito.

In 1988, Dr. Gerver started this toy drive. This program, once exclusively run by the high school, has become a district wide event over the years, broadening the spirit of giving across all of the schools. Dr. Gerver, who lives right by the Cohen Children's Hospital, would jog past it each day, and came up with the idea to help these children and lift their spirits through an annual holiday Toy Drive. He felt this would be a most fitting endeavor for the children's hospital.

This year, not only was the gift turnout wonderful, but the North Shore Schools Chamber Orchestra spread more holiday cheer for everyone to enjoy! The students performed many holiday hits loved by all.

Over the years, this toy drive has grown dramatically; now everyone from every school is able to contribute to this event, making it a bigger success each year. Boxes were placed in all five of the school buildings, encouraging students to drop off toys, books, CDs, games, and stuffed animals. As Dr. Gerver said, "Doing this is not for applause, but to make children smile. This type of positive energy and spirit gives the children something to look forward to year after year."

The 26th annual Cohen Children's Hospital Toy Drive took place at all 5 North Shore Schools. The North Shore Key Club and North Shore Chamber Orchestra visited the hospital this December led by Dr. Rob Gerver, Ms. Julia Salat, and Mrs. Polito with bags of toys for the children!

A Mill Neck Manor Tradition: Story Time at Locust Valley School

Longstanding traditions are not always holiday-themed. For the past 21 years Betty Quartuccio, Speech Therapist at Mill Neck Manor School for the Deaf, has been visiting Locust Valley kindergarten classes for a particularly interactive story time. At each visit, Quartuccio is accompanied by one of her Mill Neck students. Recently, Yoli Gomes, a high school student at Mill Neck, joined Quartuccio to present "The Gumdrop Tree" to the Locust Valley youngsters.

At the MacArthur school's library, the kindergartners sat attentively as Quartuccio read aloud. Simultaneously, Gomes signed the words to the children. The engaging story revolves around some colorful gumdrops and a little girl's wish to have more by planting them, hoping to grow a tree's worth of the sweets. Quartuccio and Gomes paused several times during the story, allowing the children to practice some sign language with the names of the colors and other words in the book. The little ones were eager to try and showed off their dexterity in forming the signs. After the reading and the surprise unveiling of a "real" gumdrop tree, the kindergarten class was excited about creating their own trees.

The annual reading event serves a twofold purpose. One, Quartuccio said, "is to bridge the gap between deaf individuals and hearing students." The other relates directly to her speech therapy work with her students, specifically, giving them additional opportunities to interact outside their Mill Neck environment. "It's important for them to practice their communication skills in the community," said Quartuccio.

Mill Neck Manor School for the Deaf is part of the Mill Neck Family of Organizations, a not-for-profit group dedicated to serving Deaf and hard of hearing individuals through educational, vocational and spiritual programs and services. For more information about any of its programs, please call (516) 922-4100 or visit <http://www.millneck.org>.

At the Ann MacArthur Primary School, Librarian Jacquie Galano and Betty Quartuccio, Speech Therapist at Mill Neck Manor School for the Deaf, stand behind Mill Neck student Yoli Gomes and kindergartner Juliette D'Addario.

Imagine your children or grandchildren embarking on a great adventure of learning about God and His Creation in a positive and supportive Christian environment that lays the foundation for future success in this life and gives them the key to eternal life: faith in Jesus Christ...

Studying Imperialism at the North Shore Middle School

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, NY, October 16, 2013 - Prior to winter break, Mrs. Larkin’s 8th Grade Social Studies classes prepared for a showdown with Mr. Freund’s class on the merits of American Imperialism. Students work together to build a giant timeline of American foreign policy events from the 19th Century. After collecting data and analyzing the events, students thought about and discussed the United States role as a growing imperialist nation during the latter half of the 19th century.

Was imperialism a natural progression for the growing nation? Would an isolationist policy have been more appropriate? These were questions that politicians wrestled with at the time and our students wrestled with in class as they looked at America’s past and studied our nation today.

According to one student from Mrs. Larkin’s class, “Imperialism was an important part of American History and it is kind of how we became the super power we are today.” A student from Mr. Freund’s class disagreed, “The facts are the facts. While imperialism helped our nation to grow strong, it was not moral to conquer other less powerful people. We should have learned from this time period and made better decisions in the Middle East!”

Whether you agree with America’s foreign policy practices or not, one thing is for sure; these students are learning a lot about American History!

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Russell Irving "Russ" Tamblyn. He appeared with Glenn Ford and Broderick Crawford in "The Fastest Gun Alive" (1956), where he performed an extraordinary "shovel" dance at a hoe-down early in the film. Though un-credited, he served as a choreographer for Elvis Presley in 1957's "Jailhouse Rock". He portrayed "Norman Page" in the 1957 film of "Peyton Place" with Lana Turner and Hope Lange. He was nominated for an Academy Award Best Supporting actor. In 1960, he portrayed "The Cherokee Kid" in "Cimarron" with Glenn Ford and Anne Baxter. He appeared in two 1962 MGM-Cinerama movies, "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm" and "How the West Was Won". From 1990-91, he starred as "Dr. Lawrence Jacoby" on the David-Lynch created "Twin Peaks", though his scenes in the 1992 film, "Twin Peaks: Fire Walk With Me" were cut. In 1999, he portrayed "Dr. Hayden" on daytime soap opera "Days of Our Lives". In 2000, he made an appearance with his daughter, Amber, on another soap opera, "General Hospital" as the character he portrayed 10 years earlier on "Twin Peaks". He made another appearance in 1997 on "GH" dancing with his daughter during the Nurses' Ball. However, he may be best remembered for his performances in film musicals in the title role of "tom thumb" (1958) and "Danny", one of the sailors, in the 1955 film version of "Hit the Deck" with Debbie Reynolds and Jane Powell. His most famous musical role was as "Riff", the leader of the Jets in the 1961 "West Side Story" with Natalie Wood

Correct Callers

Callers who knew our celebrity last week were: Marrio Moccia, Ted March, Don Adams, Roberta Pezza, Tony Mercado, Will and Babs Hutchins, Nancy Meyer John Rogalski.

This week's celebrity was born Ragnar Lind, on Feb. 16, 1909, in Auburn, Mass. and was a school teacher before he began his acting career. He came to Hollywood and made his film debut in "Out Where the Stars Begin" (1938). He achieved notable success in 1938 appearing with the Lane Sisters and Claude Rains in "Four Daughters". The popularity was so great that it was followed by three sequels "Daughters Courageous" (1939), "Four Wives" (1939) and "Four Mothers" (1941) with our celebrity reprising his role in each of them. After the success of "Four Daughters", he was screen tested for the role of "Ashley Wilkes" in "Gone With the Wind" (1939). He was considered to be the front runner for the role, partly due to his physical resemblance to the character, as written. He was used exclusively during the "Search for Scarlett" playing "Ashley" in the screen test for many actresses who tried out for the part. As we know, David O. Selznick eventually cast Leslie Howard. Instead, he acted in "The Roaring Twenties" (1939) a gangster film that reunited him with "Four Daughters" star, Priscilla Lane, as well as, James Cagney and Humphrey Bogart. As one of a two friends, and the only one not to "go bad", he won excellent reviews.

A History of the Tuskegee Airmen Presented by William J. Johnson Thursday, February 6, 2pm

Before 1940, African Americans were barred from flying for the U.S. military. Civil rights activists and the black press exerted pressure, resulting in the formation of an all-African American pursuit squadron based in Tuskegee, Alabama; in 1941, they became known as the Tuskegee Airmen. Come and meet one of these valiant heroes as we welcome Glen Cove's own Bill Johnson to the Library. He'll present a lecture on his personal experiences and learn how the Tuskegee Airmen overcame segregation and prejudice to become one of the most highly respected fighter groups of WWII. This program is sponsored by the Friends of the Glen Cove Library.

On Tuesday, December 31, 2013, the Glen Cove Senior Center was singing the blues with the renowned blues act of Vinny St.Martin and Elyssa Sunshine.

From Ray Charles to Nat King Cole, Vinny and Elyssa put their very own spin on some of the classics and had the room clapping, snapping fingers, and singing along to get a start on ringing in 2014. The party was high energy, and some of the members got up and danced to the groove - it was hard not to!

This was the fourth and last party in a holiday party series for the Glen Cove Senior Center, and the staff is already planning the parties for 2014. If you haven't been to a Center party, you are missing out. They are always filled with good food, great music, and of course, Carol, the Executive Director's touching and loving stories, so come on down and be sure to bring your singing voice and dancing shoes. We would love to see you!

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,

Last week, I joined with a hardy group of Sea Cliff residents and friends to ring and sing in the new year on the Village Green. I love moments like that when we can be part of something larger than ourselves. While at this event, someone mentioned a short, beautifully written novel set in the Ozarks in the 1920's Any thoughts?

For Whom the Bell Tolls

Dear For Whom...

Yes, THE MAID'S VERSION by Daniel Woodrell is a very good read and it does indeed deal with community, but not in the lovely way you describe. The main character is Alma Dunahew, the maid whose life past and present is forever scarred by a fiery dance hall explosion in which 42 people, including her beloved, fun-loving sister Ruby, were killed. The town is haunted for generations by the mystery of who was responsible. Alma's hard life is made even harder when she questions those whose money and position put them above suspicion. In exquisitely drawn tiny portraits, we meet victims and their survivors; the innocent and the guilty, the poor and their masters, and we are shown over and over the power of money to make "things" go away. When we come to the end of the book, we realize we have learned much about Alma's community- its bigotry, its cruelty, its injustice, and, yes, at times, its generosity. Highly recommended!

questions and observations. The docent pointed out paintings by Peter Max of several famous people who the children didn't recognize, they did however recognize paintings of the Statue of Liberty. At the end of the tour each child was given a copy of a drawing of the Museum by Peter Max with his signature characters, planets and stars, to take home to color in their own style.

Elena Villafane and Kevin McGilloway to be Nominated for Trustee Positions on Sea Cliff Village Board and John P. Reali for Village Justice in Next March Elections

John P. Reali for Village Justice

Elena Villafane

Kevin McGilloway

The Sea Cliff Civic Progress Party announced today that they are nominating former three-term Trustee Elena Villafane and Zoning Board of Appeals member, Kevin McGilloway to fill two upcoming vacancies on the Sea Cliff Village Board. They are also nominating John P. Reali for re-election as Village Justice, a position he has held since 1990. Two current Village Trustees, Tom Powell and Peter Hayes have chosen not to seek re-election when their terms expire in April of 2014.

ELENA VILLAFANE:

Villafane served as a Board Trustee from 2003 until 2008 under Mayor Eileen Krieb. While on the Board, she acted as liaison to the Sea Cliff Fire Department, the Library Board, the Beach Committee and the Senior Action Committee. She is currently a member of the Fund Raising Committee of St. Boniface Church, where she previously held a position on the Real Estate Advisory Committee. She is a past Treasurer of the Glen Cove Chapter of the Lioness organization and former Council to and a member of the Glen Cove Day Care Center Corporation; she also served on the Glen Cove Business Improvement District Board. A member of both Nassau County and the State of New York Bar Associations, Villafane is a partner in the Glen Cove law firm of Pollin, Prisco & Villafane. She is a graduate of Union University, Albany Law School and The College of Mount Saint Vincent. Elena is a 34 year resident of Sea Cliff. She and husband, Dan Kelly, have two daughters, who are graduates of North Shore Schools.

KEVIN MCGILLOWAY

McGilloway, a member and past Chair of the Sea Cliff Zoning Board of Appeals, has served on the Board since 2005. He is also a 21-year member and past Chair of the Board for the Henry Viscardi School in Albertson, dedicated to educating children with severe physical and medical disabilities. For the last 19 years, he has served as a Board member and past Chair of Abilities, Inc. an organization that offers rehabilitation programs for disabled adults seeking gainful employment. McGilloway, who holds Masters Degrees in Computer Science from New York University and in Finance from Long Island University, has made a career of applying technology to solve business problems. He was Chief Information Officer at Lehman Brothers for seven years and CIO for AXA/Equitable for five years. He was also Head of Strategy & Business Development for Bloomberg, LLP's enterprise businesses. McGilloway is married to Jane, who taught at the Sea Cliff Elementary School and served as PTA President of the elementary, Middle and High Schools. They have lived in Sea Cliff for 27 years and have four daughters who graduated from North Shore Schools.

JOHN P. REALI

Reali was elected Sea Cliff Village Justice in 1990 and has served with distinction for 23 years. Between 1980 and 1990, he served as a Village Trustee. A graduate of Queens College and St. John's Law School, he was admitted to practice law in the State of New York and in the United States Federal Courts, Eastern District. He is a past Director and current member of the Nassau County Bar Association. He is a member and Past President of the Nassau County Magistrates Association that presented him with the Hon. Frank J. Santagata award for professionalism and devotion to justice for all. In 1994, Reali was named the NY State Bar Association Pro Bono Attorney of the Year for Nassau/Suffolk Counties. For 12 years, he served as a Director of the Nassau/Suffolk Law Services Committee that coordinates pro bono legal services on Long Island. He has been the Bar Association's coordinator for the Jericho Middle School Mentoring Program for 12 years. He served six years in the U.S. Marine Corp Reserves and is a member and Past Grand Knight of the James Norton Council, Knights of Columbus. Reali and his wife, Doreen have five children and eight grandchildren between them.

CIVIC PROGRESS

For 68 years, the Civic Progress Party has never missed nominating qualified residents to run for positions on the Village Board and as Village Justice. Civic Progress is not Democrat or Republican, nor Conservative or Liberal. It has no philosophy other than to identify and nominate people who will guide our Village with integrity and common sense. It generally uses the many Village organizations, boards and committees as a "farm system" where residents demonstrate ability and dedication. As an Incorporated Village, Sea Cliff relies on its citizens coming forward to govern it. The Civic Progress Party acts as a structure to encourage and support them. We urge residents to vote in the Village election next March 18th.

MEET THE CANDIDATES

The Sea Cliff Civic Association will hold a Meet the Candidates Night on Thursday, March 6, 2014 at 8:00pm in Village Hall on Sea Cliff Avenue.
