EMS Installs New Officers

On Saturday January 18th 2014 the City of Glen Cove Emergency Medical Services held their annual installation dinner at the Sea Cliff Manor. The event was well attended by the membership of EMS, city officials and neighboring fire departments. EMS Ex-Chief Anthony Jimenez was the emcee for the dinner and oversaw the swearing in ceremony. Incoming Chief of Department Thomas A. Kenary Jr. addressed the crowd with words of wisdom. Chief Kenary explained that EMS has some challenges ahead but the incoming Chiefs and Officers will be up for the task and will excel the department into the future. The healthcare and EMS fields are constantly evolving and EMS is forced to adopt to those changes. City of Glen Cove Mayor Reginald Spinello then addressed the crowd before administering the Oath of Office to 3 Chiefs and 15 Officers. These volunteer members are responsible for the administration, finances, management and day-to-day operations of the EMS department.

Glen Cove Keeps MLK Dream Alive

By Lorraine Ballero

This Monday the 30th Annual Martin Luther King Jr. Commemorative Program was celebrated to highlight messages of peace, love, and acceptance to the citizens of Glen Cove. The theme, "Glen Cove: Keeping the Dream Alive For 30 Years!" rang true throughout the ceremony as thoughtful speeches, poems, and music all brought a community together to celebrate the legacy of Martin Luther King Jr. and the late Nelson Mandela.

The events began at First Baptist Church of Glen Cove, where a procession including citizens and police singing "We Shall Not Be Moved" made its way through the streets of Glen Cove to Finley Middle School's Wunsch Auditorium to continue the program. Marchers were greeted by the Glen Cove High School Select Chorale and Ms. Sheryl Goodine, Chairperson of the MLK birthday celebrations.

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Michael Israel introduced a new tradition to the ceremony, as people were invited to write down one instance of prejudice or discrimination they have felt in their life on an index card, which were collected as a group and then disposed of at a later date to go up in flames. The tradition is a powerful symbol of the abolishment of hate and anger to give way to peace and acceptance.

A variety of personal speeches were given at the ceremony by Assistant Principle of Glen Cove High School Mr. Alan Hudson, Superintendent of Schools Maria Rianna, Retired Sergeant Jack McDougal, Reverend Roger Williams, and newly sworn in Mayor Reginald Spinello.

Musical selections by the Glen Cove High School Select Chorale led by Edward Norris and the Glen Cove High School Drumline led by Nicholas Carbutto were well received by the com-

All Saints Regional Catholic School Second Annual Headmaster's Ball

"A Venetian Masquerade"

On Saturday evening, February 1, 2014, All Saints Regional Catholic School of Glen Cove will be continuing a gala tradition started last year by celebrating their Second Annual "Headmaster's Ball". The theme of this year's Ball is "A Venetian Masquerade". This dazzling affair honors several local families and dignitaries and is an occasion not to be missed.

Those who attended last year's glittering event called it the "Event of the Year", and this year's Ball is shaping up to exceed even that dazzling event. This year's Ball is moving to an even grander setting, the historic Glen Cove Mansion.

The format of the evening is "mansion style". Accommodating more than three hundred guests, the picturesque Glen Cove Mansion is not only the perfect setting for A Venetian Masquerade, it is also very conveniently located and offers a variety of additional amenities. For instance, a package is available to guests who wish to spend the night and continue the festivities into Sunday morning: deluxe overnight accommodation and brunch at steep discounts.

Those who attend the Ball will enjoy a live orchestra and dancing; and will have the freedom to enjoy the entire Mansion, since there will be no formal seating. They may stroll through the many elegant rooms of the Mansion and, enjoying hors d'oeuvres here and stopping for dinner there, and there will be full bars throughout.

Come and be a part of this unique, combination of an old-world legacy with the local tradition of Gold Coast revelry and entertainment!

This year's special Honorees are Monsignor James Pareda, Pastor of St. Paul the Apostle Parish, Brookville; Marie Agosta of St. Boniface Martyr Parish; Mario and Linda Reali of St. Rocco Parish; Alfred and Maryanne Small of St. Patrick Parish.

The Ball celebrates the remarkable developments and improvements enjoyed in recent years by All Saints Regional Catholic School (ASR) and is a testament to the bright future expected for the school. ASR is a Catholic School attended by students in Nursery, Pre-K and Kindergarten, Elementary and Middle School levels. The school was founded in 1990 by the parishes of St. Boniface Martyr, Sea Cliff, St. Hyacinth, Glen Head, St. Mary, Roslyn, St. Patrick and St. Rocco, Glen Cove. The school draws students from the entire North Shore, as well as elsewhere on Long Island and is a registered 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. All donations are tax deductible to the extent permissible by law.

For more information about tickets, weekend packages, discounts on formal rentals and free dance lessons for ticket holders, visit www.asrstars.org/the-headmasters-ball-2014/. Sponsorship and commemorative opportunities are also available.

Mayor Spinello Welcomes New Fire Chief, Applauds Ex-Chief

Glen Cove Mayor Reginald Spinello is pictured with the City's Volunteer Fire Department outgoing Chief, Rodni Leftwich and the department's new Chief, Joseph Solomito. Mayor Spinello administered the oath of office to all the incoming Fire Chiefs during a recent reception at the Cradle of Aviation in Uniondale. In addition, Mayor Spinello thanked ex-chief Leftwich for his volunteer service to ensure the safety and well-being of all Glen Cove residents.

Landing School Plants Messages and a Symbol of Peace in Honor of Dr. King

To honor the memory of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., students and staff at Landing Elementary School gathered on the school's front lawn for the planting of a "Peace Tree." Students wrote down on paper their thoughts for peace and how they can help make peace grow. Each student completed the sentence, "Peace grows by..." (adding their own ideas for peace).

As each student dropped their messages into the hole dug for the tree, each shoveled a little dirt over the paper. Once each class dropped their paper into the hole, the maple Peace Tree was planted, in hopes that all of their wishes, hopes, and ideas for peace will grow through the roots of the tree. The tree will serve as a constant and ongoing reminder of Dr. King's legacy and that peace can begin with the children.

Landing Principal Dimitri Kryoneris donated the Peace Tree. Prior to the planting, a brief schoolwide assembly was held in which each grade level gave a presentation about peace. Fifth-grade teacher David Smith presided over the assembly and gave some brief trivia about Dr. King, including how his original name was Michael and that both he and his father renamed themselves after reformist Martin Luther. Another interesting fact: Martin Luther King, Jr. began attending Morehouse College at the early age of 15.

Two North Shore Students Recognized for Designing World Trade Center Memorial Site Utilizing an Artifact from the 9/11 Tragedy

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, NY, January 14, 2014 - Congratulations go out to Kevin Henneberger and Nick Green who were recently honored for designing a historic World Trade Center Memorial Site located on the North Shore High School campus for everyone in the community to visit for many years to come. Their winning design was chosen from numerous student drawings by Principal Cousins along with many administrators and faculty at the high school.

Background:
Last year, Kevin and Nick were ninth graders in Laura Green's Design and Drawing for Production class when they utilized interdisciplinary skills including art, traditional and digital design, math, architectural drawing, and Landscapers Dominick Panzarino and Chris Lempenski who volunteered with the completion of the landscaping Jerry Boertzel and his custodial staff who sanded and clear-coated the piece so it would not deteriorate from the elements.

Laura Green concluded by saying, "Overall, the project was very successful in achieving significant learning. As I observed my students during their final presentations to our faculty and administration and more recently the actual plaque presentation to both Kevin and Nick, I felt a real sense of pride and accomplishment for them. It is a real honor for both young men to have created this World Trade Memorial Site that will be a permanent fixture at North Shore High School for everyone in the community to appreciate now and in the future."

public speaking to design the winning base for an artifact from the World Trade Center. Yes, the actual World Trade Center! But, that is not all! The students also had to create a landscape design of the memorial site by measuring the dimensions of the entire location behind the high school.

The Artifact:

In January 2013, teacher Dr. Rob Gerver was able to get the artifact from the Port Authority after many months of discussions. The artifact is 69 inches long and weighs about 400 pounds. It is a twisted piece of a box beam that was a window frame of the World Trade Center. Dr. Gerver said, "We need to preserve this special artifact so it doesn't erode; as a piece of American History, it has a chance to be around for hundreds of years!" Upon its arrival to the North Shore Schools, students engaged in many discussions about the tragedy of 9/11 since they were very young when the actual events took place.

The Lesson Objective:

"In this project, my students explored their knowledge of the design process," said teacher Laura Green. "They utilized drawing and computer software skills to create a 'student' design project with a real-life application." She added, "My students were thrilled to be involved in this type of interdisciplinary lesson which applies lessons learned in the classroom to real-world situations."

NS High School Musician Performs at All-State

North Shore Schools, Glen Head, NY - Congratulations to Emma Haley, a soprano from North Shore High School, who was recognized by the All-State Music Association. Emma was invited to perform in the mixed choir at the All-State Music Festival at the annual New York State Music Educators Association (NYSSMA) Convention in Rochester, NY. Student selection for the All-State music ensembles is based on their previous year's All-State Audition score (100%) plus the adjudicator's recommendation. These talented young men and women are usually the finest and most committed student musicians from around the state.

In addition, Mac Ayers was also chosen to perform in the mixed choir at the All-State Music Festival but did not attend due to illness.

Congratulations!

North Shore Kiwanis Hosts Concierge Doctor On Health Care Update

On Thursday, January 9th, North Shore Kiwanis member, Linda Balance, invited Concierge Doctor Bruce Feldman to present a program covering an alternative to current methods of receiving health care. Concierge Medicine allows a doctor to see patients on a privileged basis; Urgent Care program allows for quicker visits; level of care information was presented with the Concierge spending quality time with patients to help diagnose and recommend specialists to analyze conditions and life style. The current perspective among doctors and insurance companies was addressed as well. A question and answer period followed that further enlightened members.

Portledge Educators To Speak At Harvard's Project Zero Conference

Portledge Lower School Division Head Alan Cohen and five Lower School faculty members have been asked to speak at the Harvard Graduate School of Education's Project Zero International Conference in Memphis, Tennessee on February 13, 2014. Harvard's Project Zero, made up of renowned researchers, writers, and thinkers in the field of teaching and learning, is one of the world's leading professional development programs for educators.

Mr. Cohen and Portledge teachers Doris Benter, Katie Henry, Leslie Lemma, Sara McInerney and Evie Sarles were honored to be chosen out of hundreds of submissions to present at the Project Zero conference entitled, "How and Where Does Learning Thrive?" "We are thrilled - to have five proposals accepted from the same school is unheard of - and what an honor to present alongside the icons of education at Project Zero," says Cohen.

The invitation to present at the conference, which is co-sponsored by the The Martin Institute For Teaching Excellence and Project Zero, caps off a banner year for the Lower School at Portledge. With a record enrollment and the interest of educators not just in New York, but as far away as China and Dubai in its programs, Portledge is enjoying its new role as an authority on Reggio-inspired, Project Zero-endorsed student-centered learning.

An Open Letter to the North Shore School Community

Happy New Year. May 2014 bring you better tidings and joy!

But for some members of our community, 2014 will be a period of difficult choices and discernment. For you see, there are members of our community that continue to struggle financially in an economy that remains fragile. There are more of these families than we are aware of; many of whom suffer quietly; or share their anxieties quietly with their closest friends.

2014 will be the year in which the tax burden of the Glenwood Landing plant will start to shift to the residential members of the community. And for those families that are just getting by, this property tax shift will be the difference between be able to stay in a community that they love; and making the hard decision to sell their house and leave.

There are more than a dozen homes in foreclosure / pre-foreclosure in our community. This is not only an issue for those living on a fixed income; but rather for the young families with children that have moved here within the past few years – unaware that the tax burden would shift so rapidly and so quickly. Some of us have already seen our tax burden increase 20% or more in the past two years, and the LIPA tax shifting has yet to begin.

Do we as a community have a moral obligation to do all that we can to lessen the burden of this historic shift in property taxes? Do our elected officials have a moral obligation to spend only that which is ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY, so as to minimize the impact of the shifting tax base? We use the words – moral obligation – because that is exactly what is required of us and our leadership – to do all that we can to minimize the impact of the shifting tax burden, so that those families that have lived in this community, can remain in this community.

On January 30th, the North Shore Board of Education and the Administration will give a presentation on the International Baccalaureate (“IB”) program that is slated to be introduced next year. This IB program will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars and will benefit 5%+ of the student population. Lawrence School District recently voted NOT to implement IB stating that its’ expense is too high relative to the proportion of students that would benefit. Garden City, who spends thousands of dollars less per pupil than North Shore did not implement IB because they could not afford such an expense during these financial times, and that their resources were better spent elsewhere. How can we afford to do so?

Please come to the January 30th School Board Meeting and tell the School Board and the Administration that enough is enough. At a time when people are losing their homes and struggling in the face of the largest shift in the tax burden yet to come; IB is a program that does not need to be implemented. IB is not a program that is ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

Last year, we started to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars teaching mandarin to 6, 7 and 8 year olds; and people moved out of the community or lost their homes in foreclosure. This year, it will be IB, and more people will leave or lose their homes.

Scholastic Recognizes Connolly Writer

Glen Cove Connolly Elementary School fifth-grader Lily Knobel is the winner of a national writing contest, sponsored by Scholastic Storyworks magazine. Lily and other students in Frank Monteleone's class read an article based on a play entitled "Duckling" published in the Scholastic magazine. In the story, characters treated the 'Ugly Duckling' cruelly and Lily and her classmates were asked to write an explanation of how the Ugly Duckling learns to accept himself.

In her congratulatory letter to Lily, Storyworks Assistant Editor Lauren Maganizer thanked Lily for her "thoughtful piece" and praised her on her use of evidence from the play to support her idea. For her award-winning entry, Lily received a copy of Out of My Mind by Sharon Draper, a book about an 11-year-old girl with a photographic memory who is unable to walk, talk or write.

This is the second time in three years that one of Mr. Monteleone's students has won this national award.

Lily Knobel is seen here with the book, being congratulated by her teacher Frank Monteleone and Connolly School Principal Rosemarie Sekelsky.

Brownie Troop #146 Collects Food for Island Harvest

For the holidays, Brownie Troop #146 under the leadership of Carole Perciballi and Kristen Bombardiere gathered at Waldbaum's in Glen Head to collect food for those less fortunate. As the girls excitedly ran in and out of the aisles filling their shopping carts with delicious products, they learned about the importance of giving this holiday season. The food collected was donated to Island Harvest, the largest hunger relief organization on Long Island.

Many thanks to all of the girls and their Brownie troop leaders for their kindness and generosity. For more information on Island Harvest and how you can donate food, please visit www.islandharvest.org.

Name the Celebrity

This week's celebrity was born in Quincy, Mass. on Dec. 14, 1935. She studied acting at Barnard College and the Actors Studio, founded by Elia Kazan and others, making her Broadway theatre debut in 1953 in "Be Your Age". She made her film debut in Kazan's "A Face in the Crowd" (1957) with Andy Griffith, Patricia Neal and Walter Matthau. While filming the movie in Arkansas, she lived with a local family and practiced baton twirling so that she would be believable as the teenager who wins the attention of "Lonesome Rhodes" played by Griffith. After appearing as "Eula Varner", the hot-blooded daughter-in-law of "Will Varner" (Orson Welles) in 1958's "The Long, Hot Summer", she appeared in "These Thousand Hills", as a dance hall girl with Don Murray and Richard Egan. She came to prominence as a rape victim whose husband is tried for killing her attacker in Otto Preminger's "Anatomy of a Murderer" with Jimmy Stewart, Ben Gazzara and Eve Arden. In 1960, she made a second film with Kazan, "Wild River", which co-starred Montgomery Clift and Jo Ann Fleet. In 1962, she starred opposite Glen Ford in Blake Edwards' suspense thriller "Experiment in Terror" with Stefanie Powers and Ross Martin.

Last Week's Celebrity

Born Jacques Haussmann, last week's celebrity is better known professionally as John Houseman. He is perhaps best known for his role as "Professor Charles Kingsfield" in the film "The Paper Chase" (1973), for which he won a Best Supporting Actor Oscar. He reprised his role as "Kingsfield" in the subsequent TV series of "Paper Chase". Houseman was also known for his commercials for the brokerage firm Smith-Barney. Do you remember the old catchphrase "They make money the old fashion way....they earn it"? In 1937, Houseman and Orson Welles founded the acclaimed New York drama company, the Mercury Theatre. Beginning in the summer of 1938, the Mercury Theatre was featured in a weekly dramatic radio program on the CBS network, initially promoted as "First Person Singular" before gaining the official title "The Mercury Theatre on the Air". This company, subsequently, became famous for its notorious 1938 Halloween night radio adaptation of H.G. Wells' "The War of the Worlds", which had put much of the country in a panic. There is such a long list of his accomplishments. Orson Welles and our celebrity had "artistic" differences over the screenplay of the movie "Citizen Kane". After they went their separate ways, Houseman went on to direct "The Devil and Daniel Webster" (1939) along with other films. He became Vice-President of David O. Selznick Productions. However, when Pearl Harbor was attacked, he quit his job and became the head of the overseas radio division of the Office of War Information (OWI), working for the Voice of America. Between 1945 to 1962, he produced 18 films for Paramount, Universal and MGM. In the 1980's, he played the grandfather in TV's sit-com "Silver Spoons" which starred Rick Schroder. He was the founding director of the Drama Division at the Julliard School, when his first graduating class included Kevin Klein, Patti LuPone, Christopher Reeve and Robin Williams. He became a U.S. citizen in 1943. He died of spinal cancer at the age of 86 on Oct.31, 1988, the 50th anniversary of the radio broadcast of the infamous "War of the Worlds".

Author Day at Gribbin School

Gribbin Elementary School welcomed best-selling children's author Steve Metzger as part of the school's celebration of the annual Parents as Reading Partners (PARP) initiative. Mr. Metzger captivated the students by reciting parts of his books, sharing key illustrations from them and imparting his wisdom on why reading is so important—and how it can be so much fun! Mr. Metzger has written over 60 books, including the popular Dinofours' series; Wise Up, Silly Owl; The Great Turkey Race; The Mixed-Up Alphabet...and many more.

Gribbin students and students from schools throughout the Glen Cove School District are celebrating the PTA-sponsored PARP initiative during the month of January. As part of the annual two-week national celebration, elementary schools in Glen Cove are encouraging parents to read with their children for at least 15 minutes daily, stressing the fact that reading can be fun as well as informative.

Kathleen Anne Catapano

CATAPANO - Kathleen Anne (Nee Burns) passed away on January 15, 2014 after a long battle with cancer. She was born February 13, 1945, to the late Anna and Howard Burns. Growing up in Glenwood Landing, she graduated from North Shore High School in 1962. After gaining her Bachelor's from Skidmore College in 1966, she married Philip Catapano and joined the Peace Corps, traveling to Malawi to teach for two years. Upon her return, she started a family and continued a career in education as a teacher of math and technology at the Green Vale School and then later as a Professor of Education and Technology at Medgar Evers College - CUNY, until her retirement. Throughout her entire life, she was a tough advocate for peace and justice. As a dedicated humanitarian, she donated her labor and love to her church, St. Mary's of Roslyn, SCO - St Christopher-Ottlie services in

Glen Cove, and The Fresh Air Fund in New York. In addition to being a doting mother to her three children, she acted as godmother and mentor to many friends and relatives as well as former students. Beloved wife of Philip. Loving mother of Lisa, Matthew and Kathleen. Cherished grandmother to Peppin, Chetty, Jasper and Grace. Devoted sister of the late Marilyn Burns Doyle. Funeral Mass at the St. Mary's R. C. Church, Roslyn, NY. Interment Holy Rood Cemetery, Westbury, NY. Contributions may be made to SCO Family Of Services, 1 Alexander Pl., Glen Cove, NY 11542. Kids learn what happens to the brain when attacked by drug and alcohol abuse

The School Committee of SAFE's PRIDE Coalition sponsored a visit by Dr. Stephen Dewey, a neurologist and neuroscientist, on Friday, Jan 10. He spoke to a packed assembly at Finley Middle School of sixth, seventh and eighth graders on "The Teen Brain: Still Under Construction," which delved into how alcohol and drug use affect the developing adolescent and adult brain. The information he shared appeared to stun the middle school students who were, for the most part, silent for most of the assembly and totally engaged in the presentation.

"Heroin is now cheap and we've seen use of it go up more than any other drug," Dewey said. "In 2013 we saw more kids die from heroin than alcohol. This has never happened before."

Dewey works at North Shore Hospital in Manhasset where he conducts studies on the brain. He brought along a Power Point presentation that included many slides from PET scans of the brain which helped to visually give credence to what he was sharing with the students.

"I'm not here to say no to drugs," he said. "I'm here to talk about what I see everyday."

Some interesting facts shared by Dewey included:

If you don't use drugs by age 22 there is less than a 1 percent chance you will become addicted to a drug.

Marijuana is now being laced with methamphetamine.

The number one cause of seeking out drugs is the environment.

When you use drugs your brain will become activated. But the feeling you get from taking drugs does not last as long as the way it affects your brain.

Dewey said his purpose in speaking to middle school students was to arm them with the facts before they make the mistake of getting involved in taking drugs. His hope is if younger students see how drugs and alcohol affect the brain they will not even try them.

"When you get drunk from alcohol it takes your brain four to five days to go back to normal," Dewey said. "At some point when you drink your brain will not go back to normal."

PATERSON, Steven E. on January 18, 2014 age 46. Son of Ginny (Peter Tomeo) and Hank (Terry) of Glen Cove. Brother of Barbara and Karin. Also survived by 4 loving nieces. Reposed at Dodge-Thomas Funeral Home. Burial was private.

The only way to get it back to normal would be to drink like an alcoholic does. They don't drink to get drunk, just to feel normal."

He told students that chronic marijuana smoking changes the blood flow in specific brain areas. "Smoking pot is the number one cause of injuries for athletes and for household accidents like falling down the stairs," Dewey said. "The brain changes dramatically, and these changes are permanent."

Students had plenty of questions for Dewey and talked amongst themselves as they exited the assembly, no doubt sharing what they had heard. It's one thing reading about drugs and alcohol, but another much more powerful lesson to see what drug and alcohol abuse can do to your brain.

The Coalition's School Committee is Chaired by Denise Kiernan, Director of Health, Physical Education and Athletics for the Glen Cove School District. Dr. Sharon Harris and Councilman Tony Gallo Co-Chair the Coalition. For further information on any SAFE, Inc. Finley Middle School Principal Nelson Iocolano, left, speaker Dr. Stephen Dewey, SAFE Executive Director Dr. Sharon Harris and SAFE Board Director Ann Marie Gailius at a recent assembly where information was shared regarding the affects of drug and alcohol abuse on the adolescent brain.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
While we were stocking up for the big snow storm this week at North Shore Farms, we ran into friends and neighbors galore. One of these friends Juanita Fairclough mentioned a book she had heard about-written by the author of "The Unholy Pilgrimage of Harold Fry." I loved that book so I am eager to get started on this new one. What is its title and have you read it?
Snow Storm Shopper

Dear Snow Storm Shopper,
Rachel Joyce wrote "The Unholy Pilgrimage....and PERFECT is her second and latest novel. PERFECT has an interesting premise: it is 1972 and two seconds are to be added to the world's clocks to compensate for variations in the earth's rotation (apparently this actually did happen and over the years since, twelve more seconds have been added). While scientists insist this necessary adjustment will have no ill effect, eleven year-old Byron and his friend James are very concerned. As it turns out, they were right: their entire lives and those of their friends and families were changed by the addition of those two seconds. In alternating chapters, the reader experiences the summer of 1972 and the winter of 2012. Always there is the question: how will these two time periods intersect? The 1972 piece is set in a lovely English suburb with a beautiful moor, a lush pond, and told from young Byron's perspective. In 2012, the perspective is that of a very damaged middle-aged man living in an abandoned van and working in a failing shopping mall. Each of these stories could stand alone, but Joyce links the two in a devastating conclusion. A very thought-provoking book!

Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club Youth of the Month Debunk Science Myth

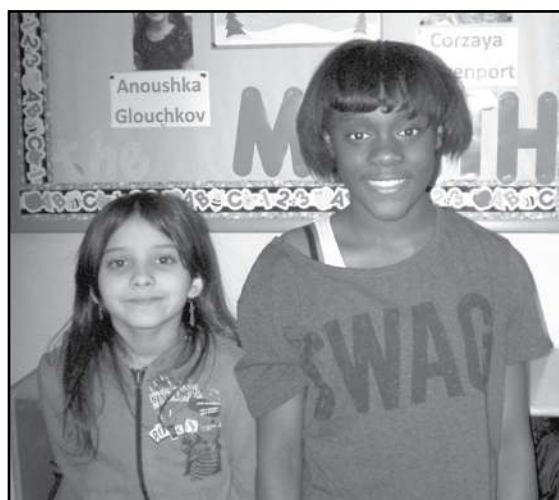

It has often been thought that boys outperform girls in the field of math and sciences. Girls at Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club are quickly debunking this myth. Youth of the month for December, Corzaya Davenport, 12 and Anoushka Glouchkov, 9, envision a profession for themselves in the field of science but one with dancing in their hearts.

Corzaya attends Robert Finley Middle School and has been a member at the Club for almost five years. Corzaya loves science and hip hop and credits the Club for being instrumental in helping her to improve her social outlook and interactions, and becoming more mature. "The Club and Ms. Desirae (Desirae O'Neill, Middle School Program Coordinator) encourage me to have higher expectations of myself and this has helped me to make better decisions," said Corzaya. Corzaya enjoys the Club's Dance program, socializing with her friends, being involved in Torch Club and volunteering in community outreach projects. Corzaya would like to pursue a career in the performing arts.

Anoushka, who attends the Landing Elementary School, considers herself very lucky to be a member of the Club, which she joined this past summer when she enrolled in the Project Learn program. "I love coming to the Club and I wish I could come here every day," said Anoushka, who like Corzaya, also enjoys science and dancing. "I want to be a veterinarian when I grow up." She credits Ms. Vanessa (Vanessa Caceres, Membership Coordinator) and Ms. Allison (Allison Kaiser, Education Coordinator) for creating such a warm, caring and loving environment for her. "They comfort me and take care of me like my family." In addition to the Dance program, Anoushka participates in the Cooking Up Energy program, Technology classes and educational activities.

A new generation of volunteers

The Glen Cove Youth Bureau's After 3 Programs -Builder's Club members have been extremely active since October.

This year the Glen Cove Kiwanis sponsor school aged club, works towards encouraging the young to incorporate community service into their daily lives. This session they focused on the Homeless and less fortunate.

The students have solicited donations for the homeless and The Salvation Army thanks to the cooperation of Stop and Shop and King Kullen here in Glen Cove.

Their plan: to make lunch for the Homeless men after they return from their Holiday recess. To complete this project they used the food they had collected over the last few weeks. Then took the donated money and purchased the items needed to complete the menu they had created.

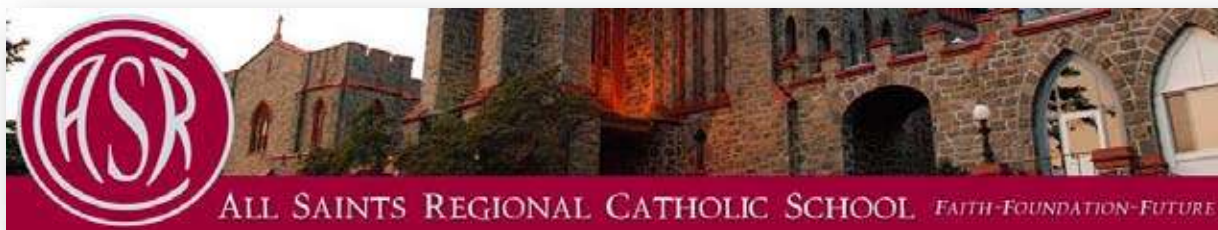

As a collaborated effort the kids, prepared the sandwiches and assembled the bags with the items that they purchased/donated. Once completed the bags were delivered to the shelter.

The student's want to say "Thank You" to the Community: as their task could not have been completed without the help of Stop and Shop, King Kullen, our generous residents, the After 3 staff and their Advisor.

Imagine your children or grandchildren embarking on a great adventure of learning about God and His Creation in a positive and supportive Christian environment that lays the foundation for future success in this life and gives them the key to eternal life: faith in Jesus Christ...
