Community Mourns DiLeo

The City of Glen Cove is mourning the loss of prominent businessman and Glen Cove City Councilman Nicholas DiLeo who passed away on Monday at the age of 56.

Mr. DiLeo served on the Glen Cove City Council since 2006 on the Democratic ticket and most recently was re-elected to his seat now serving under a Republican regime.

The Glen Cove City posted the loss on the city web site Tuesday am with a message from Glen Cove Mayor Reginald A. Spinello, "We are all deeply saddened and our hearts are heavy with the untimely passing of Councilman Nicholas DiLeo. Glen Cove has lost a good friend, a great leader and one of its favorite sons... Nick was a City Council member since 2006 and was always the voice of calm and reason when dealing with the complex issues confronting our City. Nick always put family first. Before beginning any conversation, Nick would ask, 'How's the family?' His family was the center of his universe and true source of pride and pleasure to him."

In memory of Mr. DiLeo the American flags were flown at half mast throughout the city.

Celebrating Earth Day

On April 22, 2014, the preschool children of Harbor Child Care at Glen Head, celebrated Earth Day by planting a tree in memory of Dr. John "Jack" Burke. Dr. Burke was a resident of Glen Cove for thirty years, residing on Morgan's Island. He was well known in the community and was honored because his daughter (Jennifer Bullock, Assistant Director) and grandson (Kaeden Bullock, student) are a part of the Harbor Child Care Glen Head family. Country Club Florist was so generous as to donate a beautiful flowering cherry tree for this occasion. Phyllis Basso, Director of Harbor Child Care at Glen Head was so generous to have a plaque made by A+ Signs in Glen Head in his name. The children enjoyed the experience and learned so much about the importance of Earth Day.

Budget Hearing - Sea Cliff Taxes to Remain Flat

On Monday night, Mayor Bruce Kennedy presented a 2014-2015 budget proposal for Sea Cliff that would keep the property tax burden of residents at virtually the same dollar amount as last year, while commercial property owners would see a slight decrease.

In a detailed PowerPoint presentation, the Mayor outlined all the Village's anticipated expenses, expected revenues, property assessments, and the associated tax rates for residential and commercial properties. The overall budget will increase just under $145,000 this year which Kennedy thoughtfully pointed out was mostly as the result of unfunded mandates. The Mayor stated, "88% of the increase in this year's tax levy is due to costs that we have no control over. Pension costs are up by 28%, state retirement costs are up 22%, and workman's compensation costs are up 12%. Despite these outrageous increases, the Board of Trustees and I worked hard to deliver a fiscally prudent budget that maintains extraordinary village services while still controlling expenses."

The proposed budget stayed within the 2% property tax cap with $22,000 to spare. The Mayor point out that a reassessment of the village evidenced an average 4% increase in property values. Of particular interest were two properties owned by New York American Water Company, which were reassessed by a division of New York State (ORPTS), that had substantial increases in assessed value. These water company properties caused a significant increase in the overall assessed value of Sea Cliff properties. This turns out to be good news for all the other property tax payers in the village as it reduces their tax burden.

Mayor Kennedy stated that despite all the facts and figures "All our residents really care about is what effect this budget have on their tax bill." He went on to illustrate that a residential property that has an assessed value of $625,000 will see a total increase of $3.41 this year and a commercial property of the same value will see a $23.78 decrease this year.

During the public statement portion of the hearing, resident Phil Cuomo praised the Mayor and Board of Trustees for their work, dedication and financial acumen in preparing a balanced budget. At the conclusion of the public hearing, the budget was unanimously adopted.

Friends Academy juniors host 'seniors' for a night out

It was a meeting of generations when the junior class at Friends Academy hosted the seniors of the Glen Cove Senior Citizen Center at its 5th Annual "Junior Senior Citizens Prom."

The yearly event originated as a way for juniors to be able to involve themselves in the community and work together as a class. "The purpose of the prom was to connect the two generations in our community, learn our similarities and enjoy each other's company," remarked junior Cameron Hellerman, who organized the set up crew and coordinated decorations. "And most importantly, to allow our local seniors to have a night out with friends – and dance!"

And dance they did, with each other. Nearly the entire Junior class, roughly 85, decorated their dining hall, greeted seniors, donated and served a sumptuous meal and prepared playlists especially for their elder guests. "Almost everyone in the class played a role at the event," said class advisor Sara Pozzi. "Whether it was greeting our guests, taking their coats, mingling and serving during the dinner hour, performing at the event or helping clean up following the dinner-dance, the students were able to learn what they themselves are able to do in terms of planning an event, which is very meaningful to the wider community," Pozzi added.

Junior Morgan Reilly, who helped organized the event, was struck by how well the seniors and juniors meshed. "By the end of the night, everyone was friends with one another, regardless of age, which was an aspect I was not expecting, but was extremely exciting and rewarding to see."

In addition to the playlist of songs prepared and D.J.'d by Friends students, the seniors were treated to performances by the Gospel Choir and individual student musicians. But the dancing took the cake. "They dance better than we can!"

said Hellerman.

"I personally got to know a senior named Betty," said Reilly. "She was in her late 90's, and at first, I thought she was going to want to sit down most of the night and just talk. However, after talking with her for about ten minutes, she pulled me up on the dance floor and danced with me for the majority of the time!"

Both juniors will always remember the friends they made that night. "I personally enjoyed getting to know and dance with the senior citizens the most," said

Reilly. "They were all so lively and brought something to the dance that you could not buy," she added.

"It was my favorite school event to date," finished Hellerman.

Friends Academy is guided by its Quaker heritage and the principles of integrity, simplicity, patience, moderation and a peaceful resolution of conflict. The school is located on 65 acres at the intersection of Piping Rock and Duck Pond roads in Locust Valley/Glen Cove.

SavvyRoo Founder, Noah Blumenthal, Reveals “The Danger of Hot Sexy News” at TEDx Best selling author and entrepreneur brings expertise to Las Vegas

Video is being released today at LINK of SavvyRoo.com founder, Noah Blumenthal’s, TEDx talk presenting an alternative to “hot sexy news” in the age of arguetainment. Blumenthal’s 12-minute talk, delivered on April 11 at TEDx-UNLV, called out newscasters for valuing slick debating tactics over building informed discussion.

“News today is an E! channel reality TV version of what it is supposed to be,” said Blumenthal. “It’s as though 20 years ago our news was taken over by the World Wrestling Federation. It’s not real. It’s just a paid performance designed to get us worked up rather than informed.”

The TEDx event and subsequent video come approximately one year after Blumenthal and co-founder Steve Ostermiller launched SavvyRoo.com, a social media website for sharing facts and data.

“Rhetoric, blame and argument are valued over simply getting to the truth,” Blumenthal said of our current news and media culture. “To get past the age of arguetainment we need to consume less rhetoric and more facts.”

In prepping for the TEDx event Blumenthal googled the word “newscasters” only to find that 3 of the top 5 results were lists of newscasters that were hot or sexy or went insane during their broadcasts.

“Today’s divisive and sensational news amps up our emotions,” said Blumenthal. “It stops us from being able to hear or consider new information. We need to find sources of news that value evidence over rhetoric if we are to have any hope of finding common ground as a society.”

Giving citizens, the media and policy-driven organizations a platform for fact and data-based news, discussion and debate was the vision behind the creation of SavvyRoo. Even with a growing user base over the past year, Blumenthal’s TEDx talk shows that the quest for facts is more important than ever.

Name the Celebrity

This week's celebrity was a television announcer, actor and comedian who hosted several popular children's programs in New York City. One show, which featured his name, ran from 1955 to 1968 on Channel 5 WABD-TV and WNEW-TV. By the way, WABD-TV was the original call letters for what is now Channel 5 Fox5. It stood for Allen B. Dumont, who owned the station. It became WNEW-TV, an independent station, on Sept. 7, 1958 and then WNYW-TV in 1986 when Rupert Murdoch bought the station and still owns. Our celebrity was born in NYC and first reached public fame on radio as the title character of "Young Dr. Malone", a role he was invited to take to TV, but declined to pursue his own TV projects. He would have had an easy time of memorizing the medical scripts as he had been a pre-med student at NY University in the 1930's. He soon started working for Channel 5 and became the host of a program featuring Bugs Bunny cartoons, "The Looney Tunes Show" on week nights from 1955 to 1958. He had several shows at different times of the day over many years at Channel 5. From 1955-56, he hosted the syndicated Sunday morning children's show "Wonderama", which Sonny Fox took over. This allowed our celebrity to take on even another children's show which featured the MGM "Our Gang" flicks, which also featured the new character "Froggy" to young viewers. During those early TV years our celebrity joined the ranks of the "Kukla, Fran and Ollie" puppet show, "The Paul Winchell Show" with Jerry Mahoney and Knucklehead Smith, Claude Kirshner and Clownie (WNET-TV Ch.13 preceding Broderick Crawford's 10-4 "Highway Patrol"..... the only cop show that had Buicks as patrol cars!) and "The Chuck McCann Show" (WPIX-TV Ch.11) when he created a puppet known as "Henry Headline", who delivered lighter news to the young folk who tuned in every day.

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Joseph Evans Brown, better known as Joe E. Brown. He was one of the few vaudeville comedians to appear in a Shakespeare film. He played "Francis Flute" in Max Reinhardt/William Dieterle's film version of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (1935) and was highly praised for his performance. When he left Warner Bros. to work for David L. Loew (Arthur's twin brother and son of MGM founder, Marcus Loew), Brown starred in "When's Your Birthday?" (1937) followed by his starring in "The Gladiator" (1938), a loose film adaptation of Philip Gordon Wylie's 1930 novel "Gladiator", which influenced the creation of "Superman". In 1939, Brown testified before the House Immigration Committee in support of a bill that would allow 20,000 German Jewish refugee children into the U.S., and he later adopted two of those children. In 1942, Brown's own biological son, Capt. Don E. Brown, was killed when his military plane crashed near Palm Springs, Calif.. When WWII broke out, Joe was told, at age 50, that he was too old to enlist. Instead, he spent a great deal of time entertaining troops, spending many nights working and meeting servicemen at the Hollywood Canteen. He also traveled thousands of miles at his own expense to entertain American troops. He was the first to do so, traveling both to Alaska and the Caribbean before Bob Hope and the USO were even organized. He would also travel to places such as Leyte, when others did not go there. On his return to the States, he would bring sacks of servicemen's letters and make sure they were delivered to the US Post Office. He gave shows in all weather conditions, many in hospitals, sometimes doing his entire show for a single dying soldier. He was one of two civilians that received the Bronze Star in WWII. In 1948, he was awarded a Special Tony for his work in the touring company of "Harvey". He had cameo appearances in both "Around the World in 80 Days" (1956) and "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" (1963). He died from arteriosclerosis on July 6, 1973, three weeks before his 82nd birthday.

The show is listed as, "The fate of four chefs is challenged when the slot machine pairs coffee and Indian cuisine. Nothing's ever a safe bet when the roulette wheel spins and the remaining three chefs all start with the same ingredient — unbutchered lamb. In the final round, two chefs compete for the big win with one of the world's most decadent ingredients, all the while following the cardinal rule of poker: never show your hand. (Episode: KK0105H)

The show airs This Monday, April 28 at 9pm.

The band enjoys playing venues all over Manhattan, Queens and Long Island, and have been playing together for over 10 years. They have had the pleasure of playing with extremely talented special guests including singer Ed Terry (pictured above playing keyboards) and blues great Popa Chubby.

Invites Teens to Participate in Summer Youth Employment Workshop

Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club invites teens ages 16 and above to participate in the Club's Summer Youth Employment program designed to help and prepare teens to understand the job market, undertake the application process and improve their interview and presentation skills to better meet the requirements and expectations of employment opportunities.

The Summer Youth Employment program, led by the GCBGC Teen Program Director Antoinette Edmonston with assistance from board member Christiane Traxler Leonardis and Middle School Program Coordinator Desirae O'Neill, will begin Wednesday, April 23 with a series of workshops. There are a total five mandatory workshops with each focusing on different aspects of career development from preparing for college to fine tuning job search and interview skills to learning how to manage finances. Apple Bank is partnering with the Club this year to provide a workshop on financial literacy.

After completion of the workshops, teens that are eligible can apply for the Club's Summer Program paid group leader positions available June 30th to August 15th. To qualify to apply for the paid group leader positions, teens must be 16 years of age, on free or reduced lunch or on public assistance, have working papers, a birth certificate, and a social security card.

"In today's competitive job market, it's crucial for our Club teens to have the tools they need to succeed. Learning how and where to find a job, what to do on an interview and how to write a resume are just some of the topics we cover. The program provides a way to gain real-world experience through the job search process, while adding skills and hopefully, employment," said Christiane Traxler Leonardis.

To learn more about the Club's Summer Youth Employment and other teen programs, email Teen Program Director, Antoinette Edmonston at aedmonston@glencovebgc.org or call 516-671-8030, ext. 107.

North Shore Gives Back!

The North Shore High School PTO extends a heartfelt thank you to our parents and the community for supporting its 3rd Annual Taste of Spring Parents Night Out Fundraiser on March 15th at the Sea Cliff Yacht Club.

The success of this event is credited to the group effort from members of a wonderful Committee who each took on various parts of the planning and ran with it to make a successful and fun night culminating in the HS PTO meeting its fundraising goals.

We had a turnout of way over 100 parents. The event gave back to NSHS by allocating the proceeds to educational equipment and HS supplemental programs for its students. The event gave back to the community by collecting non-perishable food items for the "Mutual Concerns" Food Pantry in Sea Cliff.

We thank all of the local beverage, food vendors and various businesses in the area who generously donated to this PTO event. We also thank our faculty, who donated some wonderful raffle prizes, as well as Dr. Gerver one of our high school teachers who has been this events DJ for the past 3 years.

"Nick was a wonderful person. His love of family was something special to behold," said Spinello.

"He was a true gentleman who will be forever missed."

Fellow Councilman Mike Famiglitti called Nick an honorable public servant whose devotion to the City of Glen Cove was only exceeded by his love for his family. "He had recently been blessed with the birth of a second grandchild which gave him great pride and joy and we are all grateful that he had the opportunity to spend some time with her even as brief as it turned out to be," he said. "A was a funny, deeply religious, brilliant business man, who had the remarkable and uncanny ability of remembering the names of the family members of every one of his thousands of clients [through his insurance agency located on School Street, CAM Associates]. His passing leaves a void in the soul of our great community... he will be sorely missed."

Sea Cliff Mayor Bruce Kennedy said, "Nick was a kind hearted, genuine and good man. I enjoyed working together with him as leaders of adjoining communities trying to best serve our residents. Glen Cove has lost a good man and many of us have lost a good friend. With great sadness, Robin and I offer our deepest condolences and prayers to Debbie, Nick and Danielle."

Former Mayor Ralph V. Suozzi who served as Mayor with DeLeo from 2006 until last January said, "Nick DiLeo was a dear friend for more than forty years. Nick was kind, loving, and dedicated to his friends, church, and community, but especially to his family. He always put others before himself. He was a brother to me and I loved him. We proudly served side-by-side during some of the most challenging times our community has ever faced and I couldn't have done it without him. And now I don't know how any of us are going to get along without him."

"Pre-Arrange" doesn't have to mean "Pre-Pay"

A Tradition & Trust Funeral Pre-Arrangement will save your family the stress of making funeral preparations in a time of grief. At the Whitting Funeral Home, you can make pre-arrangements at no up front cost today. Of course, by making payment now, you have the benefit of establishing an FDIC-insured account -- one bearing an interest rate that has historically offset subsequent inflation. However, we won't let present financial restrictions interfere with your making sound plans for the future.

Ask one of our funeral professionals about a Tradition & Trust Pre-Arrangement -- where the only requirement is an investment of thought.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE WEEK:

It's that time of the year after a long hiatus to spring upon our sports enthusiasts our Trivia question section. This week's question: What Hall of Fame home run slugger never hit more than 50 homers in a season during his major league career? Answer next time, folks.

MIDGET BOYS

On opening day, the Stop and Shop Bees won, 5-3 over the Forest Pizza Grasshoppers. The Bees were trailing, 3-2, when they got a three-run homer to win the game...The Glen Key Realty Iron Pigs edged the Ateco Muckdogs, 9-8, on opening day. The Iron Pigs were leading, 9-0, when the Muckdogs made a remarkable comeback scoring eight runs but fell short. Devan Gonzalez slammed two homers for four rbi and Nickolas Santosus also homered and triped for two rbi. Every Iron Pig hitter got a hit.

INTERMEDIATE BOYS

The Vincent P. Taranto, PC Yankees defeated the Caprarella Landscaping Texas Rangers, 6-0. Nick Famiglietti of the Rangers allowed only two hits, walked two batters and no runs in the Rangers' loss. Jordan Mercado's two-run triple and a throwing errors (two more runs allowed) in the sixth innings opened up the floodgates for the Yankees.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
I am so excited- I just heard that Sea Cliff's very own Dan Fagin has received the 2014 Pulitzer Prize for his book TOMS RIVER. I believe you have already reviewed it but with this great honor, could we all have a second look? Fan of Fagin

Switzerland to a factory town in central China. Always, however, at the heart of the book are the parents and children of Toms River who suffered so much and fought so hard to find out how this could have happened in their town. TOMS RIVER is a remarkable achievement by an extraordinarily talented author. Highly recommended!

Dear Fan of Fagin,
A Pulitzer- what great news!!!! I too am a huge fan of Dan's and I would love to look at TOMS RIVER again. Toms River is a town in southern New Jersey, a town whose name over the years has become synonymous with tainted water, industrial pollution, and childhood cancers. Dan's book is an amalgam of science, politics, history, and biography and reads like an epic novel. He weaves a story of valor and cowardice, virtue and corruption, moving up and down the coast, across the state, and from Basel,

Memory Honored

A senior resident at Atria Glen Cove by the name of Betti Buonacontri, 89, who was a secretary for CW Post recently received a medal for her husband who passed away in the 70's. He was a World War II vet who was captured and held prisoner in Switzerland and escaped twice. They did not use to recognize these men up until recently after a bill that has been passed. Her grandson who is in the United States Air Force came dressed in his uniform to salute her and present her with her husbands finally deserved POW medal.

Seniors receive pre-prom warning from SAFE, Inc. and DA's office

There are always consequences for your choices

With every choice we make in life there is a consequence – that's the message Maureen McCormick, Chief of Vehicular Crimes at the Nassau County District Attorney's office shared with Glen Cove seniors during an assembly at Glen Cove High School, recently. The Choices and Consequences program, which addresses the dangers of reckless driving and driving under the influence, is brought to the high school by SAFE, Inc.'s School Committee who partner annually with the Nassau County District Attorney's office to bring the program to the school right before the prom. SAFE Coalition's School Committee is dedicated to utilizing needs assessment data to identify and provide prevention activities and programs for youth.

Before the program even began students passed a crashed car in the school's parking lot, a visual aid brought by the DA's office to show just how horrible a car accident can be if someone drives recklessly and/or decides to drink and then drive.

The program's PowerPoint presentation addressed, in a sobering fashion, the dangers of reckless driving and driving under the influence of alcohol and drugs. It also included testimonies from those who broke the law and are now, as part of their sentence, speaking to others to discourage them from following their path.

McCormick speaks to students often. And students appear to listen. "It's not just about being drunk and high," she said, showing slides of fatal car accidents. "If you are driving like a moron it's just as criminal. I'm here to scare you."

Choices and Consequences is an anti-drug and anti-reckless driving effort to, as McCormick said, "Get these guys to settle down and think about the consequence."

Students also found out what will happen if you are pulled over by police, which was demonstrated by a few student volunteers who pretended to be driving too fast in a car causing a crash. McCormick encouraged the seniors to take some precautions before going out. She suggested they keep extra money in an emergency pocket so a student can get home by calling a cab; also to make a deal with their family for a ride with no questions asked if it is needed. "Your family would rather pick you up than have to bail you out of jail or identify you at the morgue," she said.

Loggia Glen Cove No. 1016 Celebrates the Feast of St. Joseph

Loggia Glen Cove No. 1016, Order Sons of Italy in America held their celebration of the feast of St. Joseph, the patron saint of the family. A prayer service was conducted by the Very Rev. Dom Elias Carr, Can. Reg. Pastor of the Church of St. Rocco. A meatless dinner was served after all the food had been blessed by Father Elias. The St. Joseph's bread was sold and the proceeds from the bread and other donations were given to the Church of St. Rocco to help the poor in the Outreach Program.

St. Joseph's Day is celebrated on March 19th in Italy and all over the world, wherever Italians have settled. The people prayed to St. Joseph to intercede to the Lord to bring rain. St. Joseph interceded and God sent the rain. Italians all over the world today honor St. Joseph for his blessing during the severe drought.
