Sea Cliff Maple Ave, Basement Fire

by Carol Griffin

An early evening basement fire was called in to Sea Cliff Fire Department on May 22 from a Maple Avenue home. Initially, it was reported that the homeowner was still in the house looking for a pet. After firemen arrived, it was verified that the homeowner was actually outside, and no one else was inside said Chief Ernest Longobucco. When he entered the house he found there was fire in the basement and contacted the dispatcher and told him to ring a second alarm declaring a working fire, Signal 10.

Shortly after, the 1st due engine #572 pulled up followed shortly by 2nd Assistant Chief Michael Hallquest. The first due engine stretched a hose line to the basement to extinguish the fire. When ladder truck #574 arrived, members conducted another search of the house to make sure there wasn't any more fire in the house. The second and third due engine stretched a second line to the back up the first line.

Sea Cliff Fire Department was assisted by Glen Cove Fire Department, Roslyn Fire Department and Glen Cove EMS with an ambulance.

Chief Longobucco said when the call came in he had arrived very quickly and the fire was caught early and knocked down quickly. He said the Fire Marshall determined the fire was electrical in nature.

ment reporting the smoke was coming from 8 Crow Lane. At that point the dispatcher updated the alarm from a Signal 8 to a General Alarm.

When Ex-Chief Hartigan arrived at the house fire, he kicked in the door and went to the 2nd floor of the house and escorted the residents out. Two more residents were reported in the downstairs apartment. He then proceed without fire gear conducting a primary search. The heat and smoke were too heavy to proceed further and he came out of the building. At that point, 1st Assistant Chief Grella and 3rd Assistant Tate arrived. 1st Assistant Chief Grella met and engine from Sea Cliff, East Norwich for an engine to standby at Glen Cove firehouse, Oyster Bay Company No 1 for a ladder to Glen Cove fire house, Glen Cove EMS called Locust Valley Fire Department for an ambulance to the scene and the Bayville Fire Company for and ambulance to standby at Glen Cove Ems headquarters. Assistant Grella said there were about 75 to 100 firefighters at the scene.

The Glen Cove chiefs stated that all departments members did a great job and they thanked all the mutual aid companies, as well as Glen Cove Police Department and Glen Cove EMS members for a job well done.

Ex-Chief Hartigan and they determined all the residents were out of the building and accounted for. At 8 a.m. Chief Grella transmitted a Signal 10 House fire.

At that point, Chief Joe Solomito and 2nd Assistant Robert Marino arrived. Solomito took over the command post and ordered the 1st due Engine 525 to pick up a hydrant and lay in. Engine 525 stretched a 2 1/2 inch hose line and 1 3/4 into the front of the building. Engine 528 arrived and picked up another hydrant and stretched a line to the rear of the building. Ladder 5211 backed into the driveway and put a ladder to the roof and also ground ladders were put up against the house. Operations extinguishing the fire lasted 4 1/2 hours at the scene.

EMS personnel. The man identified as 66 year old Victor Manuel Alas of Glen Cove appears to have drowned at that location. The deceased was found by his son who went looking for his father because he had not seen him in a few days. The deceased persons son told police that his father was homeless by choice and refused the families requests for him to live with them. The Nassau County Homicide Squad is assisting the Glen Cove Police in the investigation.

According to Lt Nagle of the Glen Cove Police, "at this time we are handling the case as an accidental death, a full autopsy will be performed by the Nassau County Medical Examiners Office."

Finley Middle School Inducts 23 into Junior Honor Society

Recognizing student achievement both inside and outside of the classroom, the National Junior Honor Society at Finley Middle School welcomed 23 new members. Graduating eighth-grade members and the society's officers participated in the ceremony to officially induct these students into the Finley chapter of the NJHS, which now boasts 42 members.

NJHS is the nation's premier organization established to recognize outstanding middle level students. More than just an honor roll, NJHS honors those students who have demonstrated excellence in the areas of scholarship, leadership, service, citizenship and character. Chapter membership not only recognizes students for their accomplishments, but challenges them to develop further through active involvement in school activities and community service.

Finley's NJHS chapter participates and facilitates a variety of community service projects in and around the Glen Cove schools and the community. Their adviser is Carol Gaughran. Congratulations to the following students, who regularly exemplify the NJHS virtues:

U.S. Marines Touch Down at Glen Cove HS for Fleet Week

Two U.S. Marine Corps (USMC) helicopters, a CH-53 Super Stallion and an MV-22 Osprey, conducted aerial demonstrations before landing on the athletic fields at Glen Cove High School in celebration of Fleet Week 2014. Members of the USMC showcased their latest capabilities for GCHS students, faculty, staff, and community members. Students and faculty also had the opportunity to board both helicopters (while grounded), meet the pilots and other USMC members, take photos with them and learn about each aircraft's equipment.

GCHS was chosen for this demonstration to help kick off the upcoming Dan Daly Cup all-star lacrosse game, held in memoriam of Sergeant Major Dan Daly. Sgt. Major Daly, a Glen Cove native, was one of only two Marines to receive two U.S. Medals of Honor for acts of heroism during his service. On Saturday, June 21, 2014, the USMC, in conjunction with the City of Glen Cove, the New York Lizards Lacrosse team and the Glen Cove School District, will host the Dan Daly Cup game at GCHS, beginning a 12 p.m. The game will feature many of the finest high school lacrosse players from both Nassau and Suffolk counties.

Members of the GCHS television media program were on hand to capture video footage of the landings, takeoffs and demonstrations, and also interviewed members of the USMC. Students also participated in a Marine physical fitness pull-up challenge.

Lennon Earns Division-1 Women's Lacrosse All-American Honors

Sea Cliffs own Kathleen Lennon (North Shore High School Class of 2010) was officially named a 2014 All-American on Tuesday by the Intercollegiate Women's Lacrosse Coaches Association. She is one of only 48 D-1 players in the country to receive this honor. The UAlbany senior was a four year starter and was instrumental in keeping the Great Danes in the national top-twenty poll all four seasons including two NCAA national tournament berths.

Her two younger brothers, James and John, have been recruited to play for University of Plattsburgh and Oswego and older brother Michael, is presently coaching lacrosse for the North Shore Middle School's 7th grade team to a perfect season.

Kathleen is the second 2010 North Shore graduate to earn NCAA Division 1 All-American status. Old Brookville's own Kristen Giovannello was honored in 2011. Both girls cite support from North Shore high schools coaching staff and athletic department over the years as well as the North Shore Lacrosse Club for helping nurture them to eventually reach their ultimate athletic dreams. In addition both families urge the community to show support for the North Shore Booster Club whose continuous efforts aid North Shore high school athletes from all sports.

Portledge Varsity Baseball Players and Coach Recognized for Strong Season

After winning the Division II championship in 2013, the Portledge Varsity Baseball team took a big step this spring as they made the jump to Division I in the ACIS/PSAA Baseball Alliance. The program continued to flourish though, as the Panthers finished in 2nd place overall with a final record of 8-4. Head Coach Frank Battaglia was awarded Coach of the Year by the other Division I coaches, and four Panthers were selected for special recognition. While first baseman Zach Kleinwaks, a junior from Glen Cove, joined senior center fielder Tim Barbaro of Garden City and junior pitching ace Matt Butler of Oyster Bay on the All League team, junior pitcher/outfielder Brad Stewart received Honorable Mention status for his fine play. The Panthers should be in the hunt for the league title again next year, as eight starters and several key bench players will return for the 2015 campaign.

Thank You to the North Shore Community To The Editor,

I would like to extend my sincerest thanks to the members of the community who supported my campaign for Trustee for the North Shore Schools Board of Education. I am so humbled by this experience. As a public school teacher and school leader, I have advocated for almost twenty years on behalf of children and families in other districts. Effective July 1, 2014, as Trustee, I will have the distinct privilege of advocating for all children in our school district. I hope to represent you and yours well.

*With gratitude,
Lara Gonzalez*

Thank You To The Editor,

I would like to express my gratitude to members of the community who supported my campaign for Trustee of the North Shore Schools Board of Education. Thank you for your trust. I will do my best to justify the confidence you have demonstrated.

In addition, I would like to acknowledge my opponents, Lara Gonzales and Robert Mazzella, for conducting their campaigns with the utmost integrity. May we strive for this standard in future elections.

The campaign experience has given me a deeper appreciation for our community. The budget meetings, "meet and greets", gatherings of senior citizens and lunch with young mothers has enabled me to embrace the diversity of our community. Although opinions may have been varied, the unifying theme was one of pride in our schools.

My commitment is to use my experience and expertise along with my deep concern for the well being of our children to lift the district to higher levels of excellence. I am honored with this privilege.

The Case of the Curious Councilman

To The Editor,

This past month, I read a letter to the editor authored by Councilman Anthony Gallo, Jr., and I'm still scratching my head trying to figure out what it's about and why he wrote it.

It seems that Councilman Gallo thinks Glen Cove's government hasn't quite made it into the 21st Century because the bills that it pays are not published on the City's website for taxpayers to review. He says we have an antiquated system down at City Hall.

I'm all in favor of transparency in government, but isn't it Councilman Gallo's job to review those bills on my behalf and on behalf of all the other taxpayers he's supposed to represent? And hasn't that been his job since he's been a Councilman? Surely, if something out of place comes up and the public ought to know about it, then he can do his job by making it public. But what's with this business about my need and my neighbors' need to review paperwork that the City Council has been hired to analyze and evaluate?

So, since I can't understand just what it is that Mr. Gallo is complaining about, I'm trying to read between the lines of his letter. After all, Mr. Gallo was elected to the City Council in 2011. So, why now when he could have brought this non-issue up a couple of years ago?

Every once in a while, a team has a player who thinks it's more important for him or her to shine separate and apart from his or her teammates. I think the term applied to a team player who thinks he's more important than the team itself is, "hot dog."

Reading between those lines, it seems like the Gallo letter is the work product of the hot dog on Glen Cove's City Council team. Maybe this fellow's getting ready to run for Mayor himself, and dropping a letter in the local paper complaining about the way he and the others are running the city government is his way of saying, "Hey, look at me!"

Judith Maher Frederic

Uplifting Reality

To The Editor,

Over Mothers Day weekend, my wife & I had two very pleasant uplifting experiences counter acting two very negative experiences, indicating integrity & character are still alive & well in our young people. On Saturday, we had a flat on Glen Cove Road in front of St Hyacinth Church & a young man, Rob Isley, stopped & changed our tire looking for no reward other than a sincere thank you.

On Sunday, we had another flat on Herb Hill Rd near the bridge firehouse area and a Glen Cove policeman, Roberto Talese, stopped & changed our tire. It was very inspiring to have fortunately been confronted by these two young men very concerned with helping senior citizens. Their families certainly have a right to be very proud of these two men. With all the negativity exhibited in our society today, it was worth expressing our appreciation for the responsible positive nature of today's youth in commenting to the public of their admirable virtues.

What Memorial Day Means To Me

Students from Sea Cliff Elementary School were asked to write essays titled, "What Memorial Day Mean's To Me." Below are the winning essays. Daniel Boratin and Evelyn McCreery were honored in the Sea Cliff parade and presented the essays at the memorial program in Clifton Park.

By Daniel Boratin

On Memorial Day a lot of people like to bar-b-cue, swim in their pools and go outside. But that's not what it means. What Memorial Day means to me is to honor all the men and women who have served in the army and fought for our country in wars. Memorial day started after the Civil War, but it wasn't called Memorial Day, it was called decoration day.

People would decorate the graves and put a flag with each grave. Decoration day was on May 30. Later on it was changed to Memorial Day and it was legally changed to the last Monday of May. So before you go barbecuing, swim in a pool or whatever, think about why this day happened or what's the point of this day.

By Evelyn McCreery

Although Memorial Day can be a fun day to spend time with friends and family, it has a meaningful purpose that you should understand as an American. To me, Memorial day is a very important day.

To me Memorial day is a time to honor and remember those who have died serving our country. While you are having fun on this day, find a time to remember the soldiers who died in the wars. To me, Memorial Day has a purpose. It is not just a day off from school, to go to parties and barbecues, many of us have had relatives who have fallen in wars to help us. Their family members and many Americans Schools go to the cemetery and place an American Flag in front of the soldiers grave.

To me, Memorial Day is a day to be thankful for our freedom. All of these soldiers took a risk, fighting in the military to let us have a free country. Unfortunately some risk takers lost their lives. For all that the solders have done for us, like helping us receive freedom, we should be respectful and do something for them.

To me Memorial Day means, to be respectful of what the soldiers have done for our country. Each and every one of them helped us have equality and opportunity. In America, we are all treated equally and we have the opportunity to do what we want. They were brave enough to die in the wars to give all that are alive, freedom, equality and opportunity.

In conclusion, respect, and listen to our hearts, to the true meaning of Memorial Day. Thank you soldiers!

venter" from the play "Random Harvest" to the film adaptation of the same name with Greer Garson and Ronald Colman.

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Ona Munson. Besides the films mentioned last week, she had several movies finished before briefly retiring from the screen, only to return in 1938. When David O. Selznick was casting his production "Gone With The Wind" (GWTW), he first announced that Mae West was to play "Belle", the madam and Clark Gable's screen mistress, but this was a publicity stunt. Tallulah Bankhead refused the role as being too small. Munson herself was the antithesis of the voluptuous "Belle": freckled and of slight build. Her career stalemated by the acclaim of GWTW, for the remainder of her career, she was typecast in similar roles. We see this in the film noir, "The Shanghai Gesture" (1941). Her last film was the psychological thriller, "The Red House" (1947) with Edward G. Robinson. In 1955, plagued by ill health, she committed suicide at the age of 51, with an overdose of barbituates in her NYC apartment. Munson's death was added to the long list of GWTW cast members that died before the age of 60: Clark Gable (59 y.o.), Vivien Leigh (53 y.o.), Leslie Howard (50 y.o.), GWTW Oscar winner Hattie McDaniel (57 y.o.), GWTW Director Victor Fleming (59 y.o.), GWTW Oscar winning screenplay writer Sydney Howard (48 y.o.), contributing GWTW writers Oliver H.P. Garrett (57 y.o.) and John Van Druten (56 y.o.), George Reeves (45 y.o.), Ward Bond (57 y.o.), Everett "Big Sam" Brown (51 y.o.) and GWTW author, Margaret Mitchell (48 y.o.).

This week's celebrity was born in London, England on Oct. 26, 1881 and was a stage and film actress. She spent her early acting days on stage touring across England, and later working with stock theatre companies in the U.S., before making a jump to Broadway. There she starred in many plays but especially in two memorable plays, "Tobacco Road", a successful commercial play, and in 1916, "The Thirteenth Chair", written by her writer husband, Bayard Veiller. She had a small role in the silent movie, her first film, "The Fight" in 1915 but it was her stage performances which eventually caught the attention of the studios. In 1929, with the advent of sound, and at the age of 34, she appeared in her first talkie. She reprised her role from the stage play "The Thirteenth Chair" to the film adaptation playing opposite Bela Lugosi. She later gave stellar performances in "The Yearling" (1946) with Gregory Peck and Jane Wyman, "Forever Amber" (1947) with Linda Darnell and Cornel Wilde and in George Cukor's "Keeper of the Flame" (1943) with Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn. She also reprised her role as "Mrs. De-

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
Sea Cliff Beach was definitely the place to be this weekend. Early Sunday, we headed down to have "breakfast by the sea" and what a delicious breakfast it was and the lunch menu looked great, too! While waiting on line, I overheard a couple discussing a new book set in the near future. One loved it and other said it was terrifying- something about New China and Baltimore???

Sea Cliff Beach Fan

Dear Sea Cliff Beach Fan,
 I was there with my family everyday of the weekend and I agree totally with you - Carol Vogt, the Beach Committee, and Ann Koppel and her staff all deserve our thanks. ON SUCH A FULL SEA by Chang-Rae Lee is a dystopian novel that describes a future where disease, pollution, and financial collapse have left the world a very grim place. China's population has been decimated by industrial pollution and a group of its survivors have been resettled in Baltimore, a city Americans have abandoned because of civil unrest. These survivors live a constrained life- albeit safe and comfortable- where their sole function is to provide food and delicacies for an elite population of scientists, financiers, and technocrats who live in lavishly affluent gated communities. Between these two worlds, is open space where violence, anarchy and pandemics reign. The novel's protagonist is Fan, a young girl whose adventures we follow as she travels in search of a missing friend. There is an uncomfortable recognition of many of our own concerns: global warming, bird flu, swine flu, cancer epidemics, social inequality, service economies, outsourcing.... As a chilling commentary on our present ills and a despairing prediction for our future, this novel is not for the fainthearted.
