Glen Cove Volunteers Battle Blaze

At 5:30 a.m. on September 22, Glen Cove Fire Department received a call from Fire Com reporting a house fire at the corner of Glen Street and Elm Avenue. Initially, the police responded and called it a working house fire. First Assistant Chief Phil Grella was the first chief to arrive on the scene, followed by 3rd Assistant chief Marvin Tate. Shortly thereafter, Chief Joe Solomito arrived at the location taking over the command post.

Departments called on for mutual aid were Sea Cliff, Locust Valley, East Norwich and Oyster Bay Co #1, Glenwood Fire Company FAST Team, Locust Valley

When firemen first arrived, the whole front of the building was engulfed in smoke with fire blowing out of the front of the building. Initially it was reported that two people lived in the house which turned out to not be true. Truck # 528 was the first engine to arrive. They hooked up to a hydrant and stretched lines for the first attack. Later Glen Coves #521 arrived and stretched their ladder to the roof of the building to vent the fire. Truck #521 and 524 also arrived.

Departments called on for mutual aid were Sea Cliff, Locust Valley, East Norwich and Oyster Bay Co #1. Glenwood Fire Company FAST Team was sent in to search the building. Later, Locust Valley replaced the Glenwood fire-fighters.

The fire was knocked down within an hour said Solomito. Fire Marshals arrived to search the building. The fire is still under investigation said Chief Solomito.

Solomite also said, "everyone who helped fighting the fire did a good job."

Art Reception for Jo Ann Winters Fitton, Thursday, October 2, 2014 at 1:00 p.m.

By Sharon F. Collins

The Glen Cove Senior Center invites the public to view an exhibit of watercolor paintings by Jo Ann Winters Fitton. Her art work will be on display from Wednesday, October 1 through Thursday, October 31 in the Golden Gallery located on the second floor of the Senior Center. Ms. Winters Fitton, a mixed media artist, is a lifelong resident of Long Island.

Ms. Winters Fitton began studying art after her three sons graduated with degrees in art from New York City universities. She began painting in oils and acrylics. Presently she enjoys painting in watercolors and relishes this media's challenges as far as mastering the technical aspects of the paint itself. Jo Ann studied with several prominent professional artists and teachers including: Barbara Segal, Bill Christ, Al Stein, Frank Webb and others. She also enjoys taking annual classes in Boone, North Carolina where she finds the scenery inspiring and the instructors interesting. Living on an island surrounded by water has continually inspired Jo Ann to create paintings with a water motif. Many of her paintings are executed en plein air with views of the Long Island Sound, beaches, lighthouses, harbors and the many boats and watercraft. This exhibit also features floral studies which show the depth of this artist and her ability to render various types of subject matter. She is most passionate about the visual impact of her paintings.

Ms. Winters Fitton has exhibited her paintings in numerous one-woman and group shows in and around Long Island. She has been a member of the Wantagh Community Arts Program, the Suburban Art League and the Brookville Watercolor Society.

The public is invited to attend a reception and meet this personable artist on Thursday, October 2 at 1 p.m. in the Golden Galley of the Glen Cove Senior Center, 2nd floor, 130 Glen Street, Glen Cove, NY.

LI Teen Challenge Rocks the Block in Glen Cove

On Saturday afternoon, September 20, 2014, the Long Island Teen Challenge organization held their 18th annual Rock the Block community outreach program at Kennedy Heights. Sponsored by the Glen Cove Housing Authority; American Legion Young Simmons Post 1765; the Glen Cove Boys and Girls Club; the Glen Cove Youth Bureau; the Glen Cove NAACP; Glen Cove EOC; Alumni for Youth; Glen Cove SAFE, and local churches, it was a wonderful family event. LI Teen Challenge outreach director Ray Rosa and his team of volunteers were on hand to provide the important message of promoting and fostering a drug-free environment for our youth. Pictured with Mayor Reginald A. Spinello is Ray Rosa, the LI Teen Challenge outreach director who leads the way with Rock the Block.

Sea Cliff Remembers 9/11

By Carol Griffin

Once again, a group of residents, shop owners, village personnel, Sea Cliff firefighters and public officials gathered in front of Sea Cliff's Memorial Clock to remember those who died on 9/11. Mayor Bruce Kennedy gave a brief speech to remember the day. The gathering was mindful and respectful that we should remember that infamous day 13 years ago. Phil Como organized the service.

For the first time, Glen Dance Studio is offering Special Needs Dance Classes!

Director, Kim Leary, has always believed that ALL children can dance! Sometimes parents of special needs children are hesitant about enrolling their children in a group activity. After living with her beautiful niece who is autistic, Kim became determined to add a class for these special children. We are proud to say that Ms. Callie joined the Glen Dance staff in September. Callie has a degree in Dance from LIU and has taught Special Needs dance students at the Queens Central Y. She has worked with children with Autism, ADD, ADHD, severe anxiety etc. We are so excited to have her bring this program to Glen Dance!

The class will be offered on Mondays from 4:15-5:00 PM for Special Needs students in K-5 starting in October 2014. The class will be a general introduction to dance. Music will be kept at a modest volume for children who may be sensitive. Typical children will "assist" the class to help serve as models for the special needs children. We are very excited about this new program. Please pass this information along to anyone you know who has a Special Needs child. Gold Coast Auto Concours Draws Thousands With A Focus On Supporting The Diabetes Research Institute

Thousands of spectators lined the streets of the City of Glen Cove at the Gold Coast Concours/Bimmerstock event on Sunday, September 14, to benefit the Diabetes Research Institute (DRI –www.diabetesresearch.org). As the engines roared and the colorful parade of exotic cars came into town, the excitement of the community soared. In all, more than 650 exotic cars, including Ferrari's, Lamborghini's and Porsche's and a wide variety of BMWs were showcased in this normally quiet enclave as the 6th Annual Gold Coast Concours / Bimmerstock sprang to life.

Working together with local officials, Co-chairpersons Joe LaPadula and Jon Holzer of Martino Auto Concepts/Exotics4Life.com, Presenting Sponsor, and their team closed the streets of Glen Cove to traffic and opened them to the most exciting array of custom automobiles on the east coast. Thousands of viewers enjoyed strolling among some of the world's most beautiful and luxurious cars throughout the day. There was a great electricity and excitement in the air as auto aficionados and car lovers gathered to admire the array of exotics.

"We are pleased to report $75,000 was raised for the cure-focused research of the Diabetes Research Institute this year, with a total of $338,000 over the years. This event has grown into one of the largest automobile shows on the eastern seaboard," said Joe LaPadula. "It attracts sponsors, vendors and car enthusiasts from around the country, plus since the funds raised go directly to the DRI, we know that everything we do helps fund the effort to find a cure for diabetes. I sincerely appreciate everyone's help in making this year's event such an amazing success. All who are associated with the event are grateful to our wonderful friends, sponsors, journal supporters and everyone who registered and displayed a vehicle, for being a part of this special day."

"Once again everyone at Martino Auto Concepts, especially Joe LaPadula and Jon Holzer, organized a spectacular event, and helped us raise money to find a cure for diabetes," enthused Nassau County Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton, who serves as a DRIF board member along with Bruce Waller, a National Board member and Glen Cove resident. Both have been part of the Gold Coast Concours/Bimmerstock committee since its inception. "I would also like to thank Dave Gugerty and the students from Locust Valley High School ACS Relay for Life Team for providing the BBQ, Glen Cove police, EMS, department of Public Works, Auxiliary police and Mayor Spinello and the City Council for assisting with this event. As a mom with a daughter with this condition it means so much to see our city come together like this," said DeRiggi-Whitton.

"Every year we continue to be amazed by the growth of this event and this year was no exception. We at the DRI are enormously thankful for the work of everyone involved in the Gold Coast event and their dedication to help raise awareness and funds to find a cure," said DRIF Northeast Director Tony Childs.

The day also featured music from the Roslyn School of Rock and local bands The Lazy Dogs and The Rolling Stoned. Fabulous sweepstake prizes included an Insignia 48in LED TV, two BMW bicycles, golf for four at Glen Cove Municip-pal Golf Course and more.

In addition to the presenting sponsor Martino Auto Concepts, Gold Sponsors included Competition BMW, Monticello Motor Club, PPG/Single Source Prestige BMW and Rallye BMW. Silver sponsors included Ai Media, Deluxe Car Storage, Leone Homes Management Corp., Long Island Industrial, Mobile Sudz and the Chironis Family.

For anyone interested in getting involved with this event, contact the Diabetes Research Institute Foundation, 410 Jericho Turnpike, Suite 201, Jericho, NY 11753, at 516.822.1700 or NEregion@drif.org.

ABOUT THE DIABETES RESEARCH INSTITUTE

The Diabetes Research Institute Foundation is the organization of choice for those who are serious, passionate and committed to curing diabetes. Its mission – to provide the Diabetes Research Institute with the funding necessary to cure diabetes now – is a testament to the belief that tomorrow is not soon enough to cure those living with diabetes.

The Diabetes Research Institute at the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine leads the world in cure-focused research. As the largest and most comprehensive research center dedicated to curing diabetes, the DRI is aggressively working to develop a biological cure by restoring natural insulin production and normalizing blood sugar levels without imposing other risks. Researchers have already shown that diabetes can be reversed through islet transplantation, with some study patients living without the need for insulin injections for more than a decade. The Institute is now building upon these promising outcomes by developing the DRI BioHub, an integrated "mini organ" that mimics that native pancreas, containing thousands of insulin-producing cells that sense blood sugar levels and produce the precise insulin needed in real time. The Diabetes Research Institute and Foundation were created for one reason – to cure diabetes – which is and will continue to be its singular focus until that goal is reached. For the millions of children and adults affected by diabetes, the Diabetes Research Institute is the best hope for a cure. For more information, please visit www.DiabetesResearch.org or call 800-321-3437.

Glen Cove Senior Center Visits Sweetbriar

By Dee Doxey

It was a glorious early autumn kind of day when 25 members of the Glen Cove Senior Center were greeted by their guide Nancy at the Sweetbriar Nature Center in Smithtown. Nancy related that she had just taken a call from someone who needed help with an injured bird. This is what can be done here.

Sweetbriar Nature Center, a not-for-profit located on 54 acres in a residential area of Smithtown, serves to educate and protect the environment, and to rehabilitate wildlife. Animals are returned to health and released to their natural habitat. Those that remain because they are unable to function in the world are helpful for the children's educational programs, and the children learn not to be afraid of animals in the wild. The Nature Center is a venue for rock-climbing, canoeing and other outdoor activities for the older children, scout projects, programs for the disabled and social events for all ages.

A red-tailed hawk was in the flight cage getting ready for his return to the wide open skies. Lilly and Daisy are great-horned owls who can live out their days happily at the Center, along with goats, rabbits, chinchillas, hens, more hawks and owls, cockatoos and parrots.

Upstairs in the Blydenburgh House is the simulated rainforest which plays an incredible role in sustaining life as a habitat for plants and animals. When you don't have the privilege of visiting the real thing, what could be better than experiencing it this way?

At last this wonderful tour took us to the Butterfly House, closing for the season at September's end. We learned that, for example, the showy orange Monarch butterfly gets nectar from the butterfly bush but needs the common milkweed as a host plant to lay its eggs for the coming year. Parsley and dill are the host plants for the black swallowtail, hollyhock and sunflowers for the painted lady, and the exquisite 'eastern-tailed blue' butterfly enjoys the nectar of milkweed and zinnias!

So, if you see a September butterfly in the sky, chances are it mysteriously has a longer than usual lifecycle and is wintering in Mexico! And that's a fact!

Letters to the Editor

Vote For Capobianco To The Editor,

Unique to Joe Capobianco, who is running to become a member of the Glen Cove City Council this November, is that quite possibly a dozen guys in Glen Cove consider him their best friend. Among them are Steve Gonzalez, Sam Wallace and me.

He is that kind of guy, reminding me of Tony Catanzaro, my sergeant in the legendary 286th Field Artillery Observation Battalion of Patton's Third Army. In getting the men under him to carry out his orders, Tony had to make decisions risking their lives and limbs. That they did so promptly and without resentment was because he was fair and judicious. Because of that he was Everybody's Tony.

In exactly the same way, Capobianco is Everybody's Joe. He's a real nice guy, very intelligent and respected too. He is someone of sound judgment with an ability to listen. By all accounts he is a top lawyer, but even more he's a family man with a wife and three kids who do him credit.

Essential to good government, such characteristics make the best public officials. Sadly, these qualities are in short supply in the today's Glen Cove City Council which is most notable for its bickering and inability to get things done. Composed as it is with oversized ambitions and divergent goals, the council lacks the cohesion that comes from a willingness to work together. As such the council cries out for a unifier, a healer. To my mind, Joe Capobianco can be that healer. Whatever might be said of his opponent, the role of healer is not one of them.

Yeah, Joe reminds me of my late and universally beloved sarge, Tony Cat.

Like him, he is Everybody's Joe. Come November Glen Coviens can do their town a really a good turn by voting in Joe Capobianco.

Please Help Stop The Destructive Development In Glen Cove

To The Editor,

We have lived in Glen Cove for over 20 years and have enjoyed the nature and way of life we have here. We are stunned and can't believe the ridiculous Villa Project is even a possibility. The Developer proposes to build 6 Avalon-sized buildings along the steep slope of Glen Cove Avenue in a sensitive and dangerous location. We were never informed of the potential development and it will destroy our entire neighborhood. Our right to enjoy our homes and maintain our home values is being destroyed by the failure of the City officials to protect our rights. Glen Cove does not need additional housing. There is no market and it will only drain the resources we have. The existing taxpayers will have to subsidize the costs for services for all these new housing units and the City will receive no economic gain in return. These additional housing units will only increase traffic and a drain on the schools and city services. Please help protect our neighborhood from turning into Queens.

Imagine your home value is getting destroyed and you are about to lose your privacy and solitude. Please help us help this community by speaking out.

Please come to the City Council Meeting at 8 pm at City Hall on September 30 to voice your concerns.

Diane and Gordon Berg

Ns Kiwanis Introduced To Flamenco Style Music

On September 18, NS Kiwanis was pleased to add to their repertoire of programs the unique Flamenco guitarist Kristopher Hill, who is the talented son of NSK Secretary Roger Hill. Along with the vigorous, rhythmic dance style music which is captivating, Kris included his knowledge and experience about the origination of this art. As Kris played, he encouraged clapping and interjections of "ole's" which is how it is practiced in Southern Spain leaving the Kiwanis audience with an upbeat state of mind. This interactive program was memorable and hopefully Kris will return for another performance which was enjoyed by all! For more info go to nskiwanis.org

LEGAL NOTICE

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT the Glen Cove City Council adopted the following Ordinance at the City Council Meeting of September 23, 2014:

BE IT ORDAINED, that Section 168-60 (Presumptions) is hereby added to Code of Ordinances as follows:

Add:

§168-60 Presumptions

A. In connection with the investigation and prosecution of violations of this Chapter related to occupancy, it shall be a rebuttable presumption that a building or dwelling unit zoned for single-family occupancy is occupied by more than one family if one or more of the following features are found to exist on the premises of that building or dwelling unit:

- (1) More than one gas meter, electric meter, or water meter.
- (2) More than one connecting line for cable or satellite television.
- (3) More than one doorbell or doorway on the same side of the building or dwelling unit.
- (4) More than one mailbox, mail slot, or post office address, or any combination thereof.
- (5) That there exists permanent partitions or "key locked" internal doors which may serve to bar access between segregated portions of the dwelling, including but not limited to bedrooms, or the inability of any occupant or person in possession thereof to have unimpeded and/or lawful access to all parts of the dwelling unit.
- (6) That there exists two or more kitchens, each containing one or more of the following: a range, oven, hot plate, microwave, or other similar device customarily used for cooking or preparation of foods, unless the existence of additional kitchens has been approved by the City in writing.

(7) Separate written or oral rental agreements or leases or the payment of rent for portions of the building or dwelling unit among the owners or residents, or any combination thereof.

B. It shall be presumed that a dwelling which has been advertised in any newspaper, magazine or local advertising publication as being available for sale or rent, which advertisement expressly or implicitly provides that such dwelling contains rooms for rent, more than one separate dwelling living unit, or may be occupied by more than one separate family, is being used as a dwelling containing the number of rooms for rent, dwelling units or families stated or implied in such.

C. The presumption raised by proof of the existence of any such conditions set forth in paragraphs A and B of this Section may be rebutted by conclusive evidence that such conditions do not in fact exist, or conclusive evidence that the existence of such condition(s) is for a lawful purpose and do(es) not relate to illegal occupancy of said dwelling. This Ordinance shall take effect immediately.

Glen cove's car customizer joe "mac" lapadula to be featured at "Strada veloce: italian automotive excellence Meets art of the street" exhibit Opening september 18th @ dorian grey gallery in nyc's east village

GLEN COVE/NEW YORK, NY - North Shore's most notorious car enthusiast is taking his unique, auto-centric works of art from the shores of Glen Cove to the streets of the East Village. Luxury car customizer and creative visionary Joe "MAC" LaPadula of Martino Auto Concepts transformed high performance auto parts into stunning, functional, furniture and art - Ferrari brake calipers morphed into desk lamps, Lamborghini tire rims converted into custom side tables. His work will be featured in Dorian Grey Gallery's "STRADA VELOCE" exhibit, which opened September 18th.

Martino Auto Concepts, the benchmark of the industry, has become synonymous with customized automotive excellence and unparalleled dedication to the artistry of this craft for over 30 years. Partners Joe Lapadula & Jon Holzer have long pursued the most creative automotive projects for a very discerning clientele out of their Glen Cove, Long Island headquarters, including recent collaborations with cutting-edge emerging artists and the biggest names in the world of graffiti and street art.

Joe MAC recently teamed up with world-renowned graffiti artist John CRASH Matos to create what might be the fastest work of art on earth, a hand-painted F430 Ferrari art car. The car, as well Joe MAC's other exotic pieces will be unveiled alongside notable street artists Nick Walker, Meres One, COPE2 and Stephen Lack.

"STRADA VELOCE" runs through October 5th, 2014. The Dorian Grey Gallery is lacerated at, 437 East 9th Street between 1st Ave and Ave A. Gallery Hours: Gallery Hours: 12 Noon- 7 PM, Tuesday – Saturday and Sunday 12 Noon-6pm. Subway stop: #6 Astor Place. Free Admission.

Sea Cliff Elementary K-Kids Recipients Of Ns Kiwanis Distinguished Club Award

The North Shore Kiwanis Club was proud to announce Sea Cliff Elementary School K-Kids as recipients of the Kiwanis Distinguished Club Award for their contribution to the community at large. They were also honored to receive second place status in the NYS Scrapbook contest which depicts their entire year's involvement with the school and community.

The K-Kids, with Faculty Advisor Mark Mihopulos at the helm, participated in numerous projects such as Down Syndrome Buddy Walk drive, Pennies for Patients with Cancer, Anti-Bullying Drive throughout the school, local Soup Kitchen Drive, assisted in project with a local meal delivery charity, collaborated with North Shore High School Key club for community service project, involved in a program helping and understanding Deaf Culture and ASL as a language used in the school, community, etc.

As a result, these young children in grades 3 - 5, have exposure to others in need, then empathetically, graciously and productively become involved in making the world a better place in which to live.. Congratulations! For more info go to nskiwanis.org

Winthrop Elects Two New Members to its Board of Directors

Mineola, NY - The Board of Directors of Winthrop-University Hospital is a committed group of community and professional leaders who are charged with supporting the mission of Winthrop-University Hospital and setting the direction for the Hospital's continued growth and expansion.

Recently, Syosset resident, James T. Giorgio, Sr., and Sea Cliff resident, Kirk Kordeleski, President and CEO of Bethpage Federal Credit Union, were elected to serve as part of this group, whose generosity and dedication carries on a legacy of commitment begun by the Hospital's first Trustees in 1896.

JAMES T. GIORGIO, SR.

Mr. Giorgio has been a valued partner in Winthrop's continued expansion for nearly two decades. Though his relationship with Winthrop began on a professional level in the 1990s, it has since forged into a deep personal connection to the Hospital, its staff, and the world class programs and services that he and his family have come to rely on.

In addition to his involvement in various major projects at the Hospital over the years, Mr. Giorgio has been an enthusiastic member of Winthrop's Annual Golf Tournament Committee and the planning committee for the Hospital's annual Gala. In fact, in 2008, he was named one of the Gala honorees.

The former Founder and President of B&G Industries, a full-service electrical contracting firm, Mr. Giorgio made the decision to transfer the business to his sons in 2013 after almost 40 years in the electrical contracting industry. Today, Mr. Giorgio owns JSGR Consulting, LLC, which manages properties focusing on retail and mixed use buildings, as well as industrial properties throughout Long Island and in New York City.

Mr. Giorgio is a member and Past President of the Long Island Chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Association (NECA). He has been an active member of numerous NECA committees, serving as a Chairman of the Pension Fund Committee – a collaboration between the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) Local 25 and NECA.

An open road enthusiast with a passion for collecting antique motorcycles, Mr. Giorgio has been married to his wife Theresa for 42 years. The Giorgios have three grown children – sons, Jim Jr. and Anthony, and daughter, Christine.

KIRK KORDELESKI

A dedicated business man and philanthropist, Mr. Kordeleski is a welcome addition to Winthrop's Board of Directors. In 1992, Mr. Kordeleski joined Bethpage

Federal Credit Union ("Bethpage") as Executive Vice President in charge of operations, marketing, mortgage and consumer lending, deposit operations, technology and business development. In 2000, he was named the company's third President and CEO, and since that time, Bethpage has grown from $950 million to $5.7 billion in assets with more than 228,000 members.

"I am very delighted to join the Board of Directors of Winthrop-University Hospital – a prestigious team of Long Island business leaders and philanthropists," said Mr. Kordeleski. "Winthrop is a vital Long Island healthcare provider that serves the entire Long Island community. As a Long Island resident and business leader, I'm proud to do my part in helping Winthrop continue to provide a superior level of medical care to our neighbors, friends and family."

Mr. Kordeleski is Chairman of the Board for Open Technology Solutions, LLC – an entity that provides technology to participating credit unions by collaboratively implementing, managing and supporting best-of-breed solutions. He also serves as President of Bethpage Management Services, LLC, and is an active member of numerous trade association committees and roundtables.

Within the Long Island community, Mr. Kordeleski is also actively involved, serving as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Long Island Association (LIA), Chairman of the Board of Project GRAD Long Island, and a member of the United Way Board of Directors. In addition, Mr. Kordeleski serves on Nassau County Executive Ed Mangano's Business/Economic Development Group.

He has been honored by numerous institutions and organizations for his regional leadership, including the YMCA of Long Island, Adelphi University, United Way, Education and Assistance Corp., The Mentoring Partnership of Long Island, and Promote Long Island, among others. In June 2011, he received the Long Island MacArthur Airport and the Long Island Press "Take Flight" Award, bestowed to the person who best represents the future of business on Long Island and who is committed to helping the Long Island economy "Take Flight." In addition to Bethpage being consistently named the "Best of Long Island" among credit unions by Long Island Press, Mr. Kordeleski has been named for four years running as one of Long Island Business News' Top 100 Most Influential Long Islanders.

Mr. Kordeleski resides in Sea Cliff, NY, with his wife, Dale, and their 15-year-old son, Zack.

Name the Celebrity

Last week's celebrity, born Emma Matzo, adopted her stage name after reading for Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland", a play about Mary, Queen of Scotland and Elizabeth I. She took "Elizabeth Scott" and later dropped the "E". Other films she appeared in were "Dead Reckoning" (1947) with Humphrey Bogart, "Desert Fury" (1948) with John Hodiak and "Too Late for Tears" (1949) with Don Defore. No other actress has appeared in more film noir. Of her 22 feature films, she was leading in all but one, which was "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers" (1946), her second film, starring Barbara Stanwyck.

This week's celebrity is one of modern TV and moviedom's most sturdy and reliable character actors who dreamed of being in actor from early childhood. Born on Aug. 30, 1954 in Oceanside, Long Island, he came from a traditional middle-class Jewish family, that urged him, by his own admission, to become a doctor or a lawyer. However, he felt more at home in the world of the thespian. At 14, he used a fake I.D. to see Dustin Hoffman's "The Graduate" (1968), when they actually checked I.D. His father was in the scrap metal business. His mother, a homemaker, had fled Belgium, with her family, to escape the Nazis. When his father quit the scrap metal business to pursue music, it inspired our celebrity to give his dream a try. His aborted big break came when he was cast in the NBC TV series "St. Elsewhere", as "Dr. Wayne Fiscus". Then he was promptly dumped and replaced by Howie Mandel. Luckily, his real break was destined to be on the big screen, as "Ira Shalowitz" in the Billy Crystal vehicle, "City Slickers" (1991). Crystal was so pleased with our celebrity's work that he wrote the part of "Stan Yankleman", beleaguered brother of the titular character in the movie "Mr. Saturday Night" (1992), especially for him. The part earned him an Oscar nomination in 1993.

As mentioned in last week's tease, Scott was hired by producer Michael Myerberg to understudy Tallulah Bankhead in Thornton Wilder's new play, "The Skin of Our Teeth". Bankhead had previously signed a contract forbidding an understudy for the "Sabrina" role, which Myerberg breached when hiring Scott. He did this because Bankhead tried to control the production by not showing up. Scott had always acknowledged that Myerberg used her to keep Bankhead under control. Broadway legend has it that Bankhead was being victimized by Scott, who was the real-life "Eve Harrington" and referred to in Mary Orr's short story, "The Wisdom of Eve" (1946), the basis of the 1950 film "All About Eve" with Bette Davis and Anne Baxter. The irony is that Scott never substituted for Bankhead, as Scott's presence guaranteed Bankhead's!

Correct Callers

Don Adams, Mario Moccia, Will and Babs Hutchins, Anna Moore, Roberta Pezza.

Last, Last, Week's Celebrity oops, we left it out last week... Last week's celebrity was Ann Shoemaker. She came from a nautical family. Her brother was Rear Admiral W.R. Shoemaker and her father, Captain Charles Shoemaker, was head of the U.S. Revenue Cutter Service. She retired from film/stage, more or less, by 1950, but returned to acting following the death of her husband, actor Henry Stephenson. They had one daughter Ann Hall, who was a song lyricist. She is fondly remembered for playing FDR's mother, Sara Delano Roosevelt, after replacing Anne Seymour on the Broadway stage. She also played her in the film version of "Sunrise at Campbello" (1960) with Ralph Bellamy and Hume Cronin. She also portrayed Harry Truman's mother in the TV movie "Collision Course: Truman vs. MacArthur" (1976). She was 85 at the time. She died of cancer, on Sept. 18, 1978, at the age of 87.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
After the last couple of fun-filled weekends here in Sea Cliff, it is sad to realize Summer is really over and Fall is about to begin, but I can seek comfort in a good book, right? Any suggestions? Adjusting to Autumn

Dear Adjusting to Autumn,
I just finished a very interesting book- a book that reminded me in some ways of Sea Cliff: PERFECTLY MISERABLE: GUILT, GOD, AND REAL ESTATE IN A SMALL TOWN by Sarah Payne Stuart. Having left her childhood hometown of Concord, Massachusetts when she was eighteen, Payne returns fifteen years later, married and pregnant with her third child. Her goal is to gain her parents' approval, show them have had they were at parenting, and, yes, give her children the childhood she thought she'd had. Needless to say, a recipe for disaster. Real estate agents, home renova-tors, and PTA officials are all described in humorously biting detail as are the Alcotts, Thoreaus, and Emersons of 19th century Concord fame. But Payne's most humorous and painful descriptions are saved for her mother. A descendent of a wealthy, literary family, now married to a mattress salesman, she never had the money or grace to live as she wanted. But the book is much more than a family memoir- it is also a story of zoning battles, architectural review boards, tear downs, landmarks, preservationists versus modernists... Sound familiar?

“The Adventures of Piper” Continues

Glen Cove resident Mariah Leal and her now well known service dog “Piper” a Bullmastiff are proud to announce the release of their third book in the series “The Adventures of Piper”. “Piper Goes to School” is the third in a five book series written by Leal. The series which includes the published titles “Piper Gets a New Home” and “Pipers’ First Experiences” are geared towards children to educate them on the importance of training and socializing puppies. Leal’s goal is to help cut down on the number of dog bites affecting children and also helping lower the number of dogs relinquished to shelters simply because they have had no training or socialization. The books told through “Pipers’ eyes are not only delightful stories but teach children about responsible dog ownership. Many lessons “Piper” learns correlate with those children must learn including respecting others, good manners, and dealing with bullying. “Piper Goes to School” will be released the end of September 2014. Along with the books, Mariah and “Piper” also do workshops for children at libraries where Leal uses her knowledge and experience from her years working in the animal field along with visual aids. The second part of the workshop “Piper” comes in and demonstrates the commands ALL DOGS should know in order to be good canine citizens. She of course meets each child individually as well. You can find out more about Mariah and “Piper” at www.mariahleal.com and her community page on facebook at Mariah Leal Author.

Armor Museum invites vets and their families to a “khaki carpet” of their own as WW II movie premiere slated for NY

Not invited to the red carpet for the upcoming premiere of Brad Pitt’s WW II movie epic “Fury?”

Not to worry. You and your family are invited to the “khaki carpet” and a parade of WW II armor at the Museum of American Armor at Old Bethpage Village Restoration the weekend of October 11th and 12th between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. where the program will honor the real stars of our nation: our fighting men and women.

Participate in an historical encampment dedicated to the military with demonstrations of the life and times of the soldier throughout history, from Rome to today’s modern army. Living historians will present field tactics and demonstrations as rolling armor from World War II operates throughout the weekend.

Mark Renton, director of the Museum of American Armor stated, “I guess for most of us the invitation to the opening premier of the movie Fury has gotten lost in the mail. From its promotional trailer we know the film honors the tankers who served in Sherman tanks similar to the one we have on operational display at the museum. What better way to better appreciate what is depicted in that movie than to attend your own ‘khaki carpet’ ceremonies where we will roll vintage armor through fields reminiscent of France in 1944 and where Long Island families can connect with the heroes in their own families.”

Among those invited are Jim and Sophie McCabe of Glen Cove. A Korean War veteran, he served about the battleship USS Missouri as a metalsmith 2nd Class. They are joined by Museum of American Armor volunteers Chris Suhr and Mark Renton.

ADMISSION AND LOCATION

Admission for the day is adults $10, $7 for children (between 5-12) seniors and veterans (60+) while children under five years old are free. The museum is located off L.I. Expressway exit 48, 1 mile south at 1303 Round Swamp Road

For information please call 516-572-8400, www.nassaucountyny.gov/parks or www.museumofamericanarmor.org

Opened in cooperation with Nassau County and County Executive Edward P. Mangano, The Museum of American Armor at Old Bethpage Village Restoration, 1303 Round Swamp Road, Old Bethpage, is a living tribute to every American who has worn the uniform and those who continue to defend our nation today. Its collection includes World War II tanks, artillery, armored cars and weapons that broke the back of the Axis powers some seventy years ago.

Hailed by the History Channel’s chief historian Dr. Libby O’Connell, the Museum of American Armor has added a new dimension to the county’s Old Bethpage Village Restoration, inviting visitors to this national treasure of restored farm houses and country lanes. It is open Wednesday through Sunday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Passing the Torch at Glen Head Elementary School

Article and photos by Shelly Newman

Students, faculty and staff at Glen Head Elementary School gathered together for their annual Convocation Ceremony where a torch is passed from fifth graders to a new generation of kindergarteners. This signifies a tradition of welcome at Glen Head Elementary School.

At the morning assembly, Principal Lori Nimmo welcomed everybody to another exciting year and introduced all of her new teachers and kindergarten students to a warm round of applause by the entire student body. Dressed in maroon and white (the school colors), everyone participated as the “Sunshine Kids” led the school in various well-known songs. Kindergarteners also had an opportunity to not only walk in to a wonderful round-of-applause by everyone in attendance, but sang a special song as well. To conclude, the teachers performed a song describing their favorite pastimes called “Jump In, Jump Out!” Each faculty member was dressed in clothing corresponding to their favorite activity!
