Commercial Property Tax Decrease in Spinello's Proposed Budget

A commercial property tax decrease is within Glen Cove Mayor Reginald Spinello's proposed 2015 budget. Commercial real estate taxes will decrease .84 percent which translates to a reduction of $80 in taxes per $500,000 of assessed value. The proposed budget includes a minimal increase of 1.17 percent in residential property taxes, or $38 for a home with an assessed value of $500,000.

"I have presented the 2015 budget to the City Council for their consideration. We will begin our discussions on the budget during the October 7 pre-council meeting. On October 10, budget books will be available to the public. A public hearing on the proposed budget is scheduled for October 14 during the City Council meeting. We will then continue our discussions until we take a final vote on the budget during the October 28th City Council meeting."

This is Mayor Spinello's first proposed budget for Glen Cove. It is the result of numerous meetings with each of the City's department heads, the City controller, and Glen Cove's first responders to discuss their needs for the coming year. Having received their input and keeping the City's taxpayers in mind, the Mayor formed the proposed budget.

NASSAU COUNTY POLICE Telephone Scams

County Executive Edward P. Mangano and Acting Police Commissioner Thomas C. Krumpert are urging citizens to be vigilant when receiving telephone solicitations or emails from persons identifying themselves as employees of the Internal Revenue Service.

It has come to the attention of the Nassau County Police Department that individuals are receiving calls from persons claiming that they or a family member owe money for unpaid taxes. In these cases individuals are contacted by scammers claiming that they are federal employees and that the individual called owes money. These victims are told they can avoid arrest, foreclosure or suspension/termination of services if they make payment.

The IRS does not and will not ask for credit card numbers over the phone, nor request a pre-paid debit card or wire transfer.

Other characteristics of this scam may include:

- Scammers using fake names and IRS badge numbers. They generally use common names and surnames to identify themselves.

- Scammers may be able to recite the last four digits of a victim's Social Security Number.

- Scammers spoof the IRS toll-free number on caller ID to make it appear that it's the IRS calling.

- Scammers sometimes send bogus IRS emails to some victims to support their bogus calls.

- Victims hear background noise of other calls being conducted to mimic a call site.

- After threatening victims with jail time or driver's license revocation, scammers hang up and others soon call back pretending to be from the local police or DMV, and the caller ID supports their claim.

Residents should also be aware that there are other unrelated scams (such as a lottery sweepstakes) and solicitations (such as debt relief) that the department sees from time to time.

These scams cost honest citizens thousands of unrecoverable dollars.

This information is being provided to residents to make them aware of these ongoing scams. If you believe you may have been a victim of any of these scams, please call 911 immediately.

Anyone with information that could lead to the arrest of the individual(s) responsible are asked to call Nassau County Crime Stoppers at 1-800-244-TIPS (8477). All calls remain anonymous.

Growing Up in Sea Cliff

By Carol Griffin

Sea Cliff Museum opened its current exhibit "Growing Up in Sea Cliff" on September 28 at the museum. Museum docents got a preview of the exhibit and then they and the rest of the community were invited to hear speakers talk about experiences of growing up in Sea Cliff. The speakers spoke about the various aspects people's lives.

Museum Director Sara Reres spoke of Sea Cliff's early history, noting Village's self sufficiency with its own movie house, two supermarkets, a post office, the beach pavilion and skating on Scudder's Pond. In a large sense people could do everything they needed to do in Sea Cliff she said. Village Historians Jean Davis spoke and relayed stories from her and Priscilla Waltz about early life in the Village. Jean herself was delivered by Dr. Bell she said. She lived on a street with 7 boys as friends. Everyone owned a dog that followed the kids to school, and spending a lot of time with a friend who lived in the old "Pinacle" that had overlooked the harbor. During the summer she said everyone went to the beach from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Pavilion had a food concession run by Mom and Pop Hall, Beanie who taught swimming and every family had their own locker she continued. Each church in Sea Cliff offered the community something said Jean. St. Luke's had plays, the Methodist Church had projects and at St. Boniface is where the teenagers learned to dance. In winter everyone went sleigh riding, and skating.

Another speaker talked about Henry Hollman's essay with rules of the pavilion. "Let's go to the Beach." Old buildings like Fosters, the Cliffside Club, the two story Pavillion were noted, swimming and boating, and hurricanes, where Shore Road washed over the road to Scudder's Pond.

Another woman, Dale Napolin Bratter told about the formation of a small Jewish community with about 12 families that came together and shared and sang and had Hanukah parties. The Hunt children, still growing up, talked about appreciating things like Sunset Serenade, the library and meeting lots of other children in Sea Cliff. The closing speaker, Jennifer Dawson, read a humorous poem "Our Times" written by Barbara Thill Schreiber about happy times in Sea Cliff in the 1950s. The reading really summed up the many happy memories growing up in Sea Cliff had and continues to offer.

The afternoon proved to a very enjoyable one for everyone who attended.

Fall Hydrant Flushing to Commence

Mayor Reginald Spinello advises Glen Cove residents that fire hydrants are going to be opened in the beginning of October for the semi-annual flushing of dead-end water mains. This is to get rid of accumulated dissolved mineral sediments in the water mains.

During the hydrant flushing period, residents may detect some water pressure fluctuation and water discoloration. The discoloration poses no health risk. Customers may choose to keep a supply of clear water in the refrigerator for drinking and cooking during periods of any discoloration in the water. Thank you all for your patience.

Grenville Baker's Golf Tournament Honoring The Macdonalds Is A Big Success

On Monday, September 15th, Grenville Baker Boys & Girls Club held its annual Alumni and Friends Golf Tournament at the Muttontown Club in East Norwich. This year's outing honored the MacDonald family: Barbara (King), Jim, Rob and Mary. The event was sold out with 120 participants playing golf and more than 150 guests attending the dinner and auction. The day proved to be a warm and sunny one as a happy group played 18 holes in the company of friends to support the Club.

A dedicated team of volunteers made sure the tournament ran smoothly throughout the day. For the men and women respectively, Shulyer Winter and Mary Grabowski shot the low gross individual scores and David Powers won closest to the pin. The low net winning men's team included Robert Deans, Peter Quick, Donald Tansill and Shulyer Winter. For the ladies, the low net winning team included Camille Brienza, Mary Grabowski, Ivette Vasquez and Joan Vigliotti. The winner of longest drive for the men was Dan McCaffrey and for the women Camille Brienza. The most accurate drive was earned by Brendan O'Brien and Judy Bartolomeo.

A dinner and auction was held immediately following the golf. As a Past President and longtime friend of the MacDonalds, Hon. Colin F. O'Donnell spoke of their dedication to the Club spanning three generations. James MacDonald spoke on behalf of the family and thanked the attendees for their support and spoke fondly of how important Grenville Baker Boys and Girls Club was to their family. Board member, H. Thomas Hogan III, the event's Auctioneer, closed the evening with an exciting Live Auction.

Executive Director Ramon Reyes thanked the participants, volunteers, honorees and members of the golf committee chaired by Paul Annunziato, including Club President Susan Carusi, Past President John Campbell, Chip Gresalfi, Rich Hagner, Hogan, John Kinta, Dan Knopf, Eamon Lavin, Drew McMahon, O'Donnell, Ed Orski, and Dr. Robert Schmitz.

Meanwhile, back at the Club, over 200 kids enjoyed a day of fun thanks to the generosity of all.

Youth Of Thanks

To The Editor,

On behalf of the Glen Cove Youth Bureau, I would like to thank all of the individuals, businesses and organizations that so generously donated school supplies and monetary assistance to this year's Fill-a-Bookbag program. I would also like to thank Mayor Reggie Spinello for supporting not only this year's drive, but also for his overall and continued support of youth programming in the City.

As you may know, each year, the Youth Bureau collects back to school supplies for disadvantaged youth in the Glen Cove School District. Through the assistance of many, we were able to assist 254 students this year – 147 in elementary school, 73 in middle school and 34 in high school. The number of items that we distributed was astounding – 230 bookbags, over 350 composition books, 280 spiral notebooks, 535 folders, 439 highlighters, 200 pairs of scissors, 466 glue sticks, thousands of pens and pencils, as well as many other items.

Through the efforts and donations of many, this year's drive was very successful; however, there are a few people and organizations that deserve special thanks. Over the summer the Downtown BID graciously spread the word at the Downtown Sounds Concert Series. Thank you, also to the Glen Cove Library, and Glen Cove City Clerk for serving as collection points for donations from individuals.

We also extend a special thank you to the many organizations and businesses that made donations – in particular the North Shore Lions, First Presbyterian Church, Greek Orthodox Church of the Holy Resurrection, members of the Glen Cove Senior Center, staff and residents at The Regency and The Atria, Astoria Bank, Long Island Cares, First Central Savings Bank, PSEG, SYEP students and Restoration Fellowship. Their donations, combined with individual in-kind and cash donations allowed us to equip for the new school year every Glen Cove student who came to us in need of supplies.

We wish all students the best for the new school year and are sincerely grateful to everyone who made this year's drive such a success.

Sincerely,
Arlene O'Dell
Executive Director

Unobtrusive Little Village

To The Editor,

A most profound message was delivered to us by Sea Cliff Civic Association president Ann DiPietro at the Independence Day (July 4) celebration to the estimated crowd of 150 people who packed the Library Green before marching to the dedication of a new pocket park called Lincoln Plaza at the corner of Sea Cliff and Roslyn Avenues. Ann peered over her eyeglasses and slowly scanned the gathering with her eyes, as if addressing each individual personally, before paraphrasing a favorite author: "I believe that Sea Cliff is a community of Poets and Saints." More than a few people reported goose bumps at the moment she made that proclamation.

A similar opportunity to show off Sea Cliff's tremendous heart a few Thursdays ago instead became a sparsely attended memorial tribute to those victims of 9/11. For some reason the 13th annual event was not publicized anywhere, even though the informative Village Bulletin with its complete calendar of events arrived at our homes a convenient 10 days before. Our competent editor, Barbara Murray, said she was never informed of the event by its organizers. Neither was Ted Kopczynski, keeper of the village wreath for such occasions.

While I am at it, I must also make a comment concerning Lincoln Plaza, a pleasant place to bask in the sun, converse with a friend or enjoy lunch on the benches like the girls from Dr. Steve Ruden's dental office around the corner do. All well and good, but why did we decide to erect a large permanent bronze plaque on the wall, the same exact size as the inspiring Abe Lincoln quote, which brashly announces what village officials happened to be in elected or appointed office at the time?

For posterity sake! As equally important as John Burns Village Green at the entranceway to our library and museum or Henry Hollman Boulevard that takes us by our beautiful beach? Those were at least two long-time village leaders deserving of such recognition. Elected and appointed officials who just happen to be in the right place at the right time are not. Are we trying to keep up with those ego-centric politicians at the town, county or state level? We are a proud yet unobtrusive little village, folks. If we like it that way, let's keep it that way.

Memo To My Legislator: "Get Your Hands Out Of My Pocket"

Here's a hypothetical question: What are the chances that the Nassau County Legislature will do away with speed cameras after they've given out nearly a half million tickets and raised more than $30 million to fill their budget hole?

Okay, here's the hypothetical answer: The chances are somewhere between zero and none. Once they've got that kind of an income stream in place, there's no shot that they'll ever go back to the days when government was not in our pockets at every turn. In fact, it's more likely that they'll just keep adding more equipment to the existing speed and red light cameras, and once they've Glen Cove student-musicians Samantha Smith and Ryan Carmody have been selected to perform in the All-National Honor Ensembles presented by the National Association for Music Education (NAfME) at the Grand Ole Opry House in Nashville, Tennessee.

Smith, who has been playing the clarinet since third grade, is performing as part of the All-National Concert Band and is Glen Cove's first student to be selected for this notable honor.

"This is going to be an amazing experience, to perform at the Grand Ole Opry and to meet students that are just as interested in music as I am is very exciting," Smith said.

Carmody will perform with the All-National Mixed Choir. The high school senior said he's been singing as long as he could remember and is very excited to go to Nashville.

"This a huge musical place and it's an honor to perform there," Carmody said.

The NAfME All-National Honor Ensembles represent the top performing high school musicians in the United States. Students chosen for this prestigious honor will work for several days with some of the most renowned conductors in the United States, before performing in concert at the Grand Ole Opry House on Oct. 29.

down from 40 mph to 20 mph in a span of fifty feet. It's not just the money at stake here, it's the matter of government being in our pockets and our lives at every turn.

Had too much government? Well, here's one way of dealing with the problem. Speak up!! Let your Legislator know that in the next election, if he or she voted for the installation of these new speed cameras, you're voting for the opponent no matter who it is. And by the way, you want to know who voted for these cameras, making the bogus claim that they're needed for safety purposes because crossing guards don't work anymore? Yep, every one of them.

The Regency At Glen Cove: Real Relationships, Real Warmth, Real Care

Dear Editor,

The Regency at Glen Cove is a premier assisted living facility enabling you or your loved one to enjoy all of the amenities of a boutique hotel along with the peace of mind provided by assisted living, in an ambiance of warmth and comfort.

Recently, it has come to the Regency's attention that a small group of individuals in the Glen Cove community have misrepresented the financial state of the Regency. The Regency has been involved in a financial restructuring to permit further renovations and improvements at the property including an Alzheimer's and dementia care addition. This will enable the Regency to provide a continuum of care for its residents should it ever be needed. The Regency has not defaulted on any of its bond payments as some have suggested as it has been operating pursuant to an interest only forbearance agreement as part of its financial restructuring.

We invite the public in at any time to see the renovations already in progress including newly renovated assisted living apartments and completed updated beautiful common areas. The Regency is committed to providing the best possible standard of living for you or your loved one. For further information, please contact me at 516-674-4144.

Sincerely,
Beth Evans

It's simple. Our County Legislature is made up 100% of people who don't

Inference through art in Glen Cove

The interpretation of a work of art is in the eye of the beholder; a lesson recently experienced first hand by first-grade students at Deasy School in Glen Cove.

The children enjoyed a classroom visit from Nassau County Museum of Art representative Rebecca Hirschwerk as a precursor to an upcoming field trip to the museum itself.

"I love these visits because it gives students an understanding of what we do," Hirschwerk said. "They recognize us and feel comfortable."

Hirschwerk met with students in Diane Depietro and Jen Russo's classes, showing them several works of art and asking them to describe what they thought was going on in each picture. Students participated with enthusiasm, excitedly raising their hands while offering interesting explanations.

"This process makes the students feel safe because there's never a right or wrong answer," Principal Nomi Rosen stated.

According to Rosen, the visit bolsters students' visual thinking strategies and serves as a lead-in to close reading and textual evidence. In addition to the classroom and museum visits, students will also be asked to write about the works of art and to describe what they see.

A student in Jen Russo's first-grade class describes what he sees to Nassau County Museum of Art representative Rebecca Hirschwerk and his classmates.

Students listened intently as their friends came up with descriptions of what was going on in each piece of work of art.

A student in Diane Depietro's class noticed hockey sticks in this work of art.

Eyewitness News reporter visits Glen Cove

Kristin Thorne, a Long Island correspondent for WABC-TV's Eyewitness News, visited students in Glen Cove's TV Production 1 and Broadcast Journalism classes offering career advice to the budding communication arts students.

Thorne's visit, orchestrated by media communications teacher Christopher Barry, marks the first in a series of professionals who will visit the high school classes, providing students with insight on what it takes to do certain jobs and how to achieve their career goals.

"They can hear me talk until I'm blue in the face, but to actually sit with someone in the television business, it registers differently," Barry said.

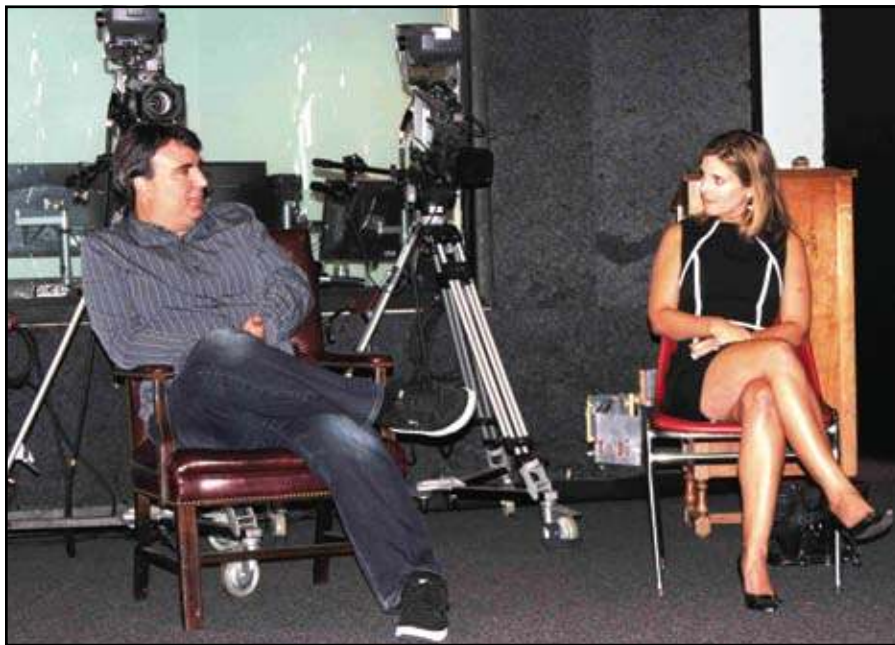

Thorne provided students with specific information of what her job entails, including writing, long hours and the importance of her appearance. She also indicated her love of breaking news and storm coverage, telling students she has been fascinated by storms since she was a young girl.

Students were completely engaged throughout the visit, especially when Thorne spoke of how she secured her first reporting job out of college. She explained that she had emailed and phoned a news director in Connecticut and when she didn't hear back, she decided to take a "road trip" to the newsroom. Once there, she met with the news director and convinced him to give her a chance.

"You have to put boots on the ground," Thorne said. "You will not get a job from an email. You have to set up an informational meeting."

During her meeting with Broadcast Journalism students, the WABC-TV correspondent reviewed footage of students' classwork, giving them tips on framing shots and how to hold a microphone. She also told students it didn't matter what career path they chose, as long as they had passion for it.

"Don't be afraid," Thorne said. "Find what you like, what makes you happy and go for it."

WABC-TV Eyewitness News Correspondent Kristin Thorne visited Christopher Barry's TV 1 Class.

TV 1 students were given advice on how to secure their first job out of college.

Phyllis Martin

MARTIN, Phyllis of Glen Cove, NY on September 24, 2014 age 86. Wife of the late Howard. Mother of Candice Nugent, Carol Richards (Brian) and Thomas (Marie) of Oyster Bay. Sister of Rita and Marian. Grandmother of Alex and Heaven. Reposed at Dodge-Thomas Funeral Home, Glen Cove. Service and interment held privately.

Kathryn (Katie) Grella

Kathryn was called Katie when she was a little girl and some of her friends still called her that. She was a fairly good athlete and demonstrated this skill in a game at a fair when she threw a rolling pin at a scare crow that was at least 100 ft away and hit it square in the head.

She had to leave High School in 9th grade because of the depression but that didn't stop her from becoming self educated in many areas. She was hired by Photocircuits Corporation to run the newly built cafeteria where she did all the ordering, supervised the cooking, did the hiring and kept the books. Quite an accomplishment !

After working there for about 20 years, she thought she had retired but sitting still was not in her makeup. So she decided to start doing some volunteer work at Glen Cove hospital, the Senior Center and at Saint Rocco's church where she and her friends served Sunday breakfast and made most of the food for the St Rocco's feast. That lasted for about another 20 years.

She had a full hip replacement at 92 but was walking without any problems within 6 months.

She suffered a stroke at 94 but again was able to work her way back to good health. She was a strong woman for sure and had an unlimited supply of energy.

Katie suffered a second stroke in April, 2014 and this was one battle she couldn't overcome.

Try as she did, she lost this battle on Sept 15, 2014.

We'll miss you Katie !

Woman's Club Plans Fashion Show

As the school busses began to roll through the streets of Glen Cove, the Woman's Club of Glen Cove held their first meeting of the 2014/2015 season. During the meeting plans were discussed for this year's Fashion Show to be held at the Milleridge Cottage on Tuesday April 21, 2015. Once again committees were formed and many women volunteered to do their share to make this Fashion Show as successful as last year. In June checks were distributed to the recipients of last years Fashion Show. They were the Melillo Center, North Shore Sheltering Program, The Sage Foundation and United Cerebral Palsy of Nassau County. Because of the programs they offer, many residents of Glen Cove and the surrounding areas are able to enjoy life more fully.

Besides the Fashion Show, the Woman's Club makes generous donations of food certificates to needy families in the Middle School, as well as the Senior Center, during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, keeping the spirit of giving alive throughout the year.

If you would like more information regarding the Woman's Club of Glen Cove, visit their web site at www.womansclubofglen Cove.org or contact them at P.O. Box 349, Glen Cove, NY 11542.

Name the Celebrity

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was David Paymer. He has mentioned that he felt as though "his passport was stamped" after his two big breaks in "City Slickers" and "Mr. Saturday Night" both with Billy Crystal. He was quickly in demand by directors such as Steven Spielberg ("Amistad", 1997), Robert Redford ("Quiz Show", 1994), Oliver Stone ("Nixon", 1995), David Mamet ("State & Main", 1999), Steven Soderbergh ("Ocean's 13", 2007) and Sam Raimi ("Drag Me to Hell", 2009). Chameleon-like in his portrayals, Paymer has since starred in hundreds of roles in films and TV, notably "The American President", "Get Shorty", "Payback", "The Hurricane", "In Good Company", Francis Ford Coppola's "Twixt", "Taxi", "L.A. Law", "Happy Days", "Ghost Whisperer", "Law & Order: SVU" and Kenneth Branagh's "Jack Ryan: Shadow One". Paymer received Golden Globe Award nominations for "Mr. Saturday Night" and for HBO's "Crime of the Century". He became a hyphenate...now there's a 50 cent word... in 2002, directing the acclaimed comedy short, "Candor City Hospital" for Showtime. He has since directed over 60 episodes for broadcast TV, including such hits as "Grey's Anatomy", "The Mentalist", "Brothers & Sisters", "Medium", "The Unit" and "Gilmore Girls". He is also a producer and director in the CW series "Hart of Dixie". Paymer lives in Santa Monica, Calif. with his wife and two daughters.

Correct Callers

Don Adams, Mario Moccia, Will and Babs Hutchins, Anna Moore, Roberta Pezza.

This week's celebrity was born in Columbus, Ohio on March 29, 1889. He claimed to have an early pre-disposition towards show business "I discovered a boy a block away who would eat worms and swallow flies for a penny. For one-third of the profits, I exhibited him in a tent." When he was 9, his widowed mother moved to San Francisco where following the earthquake of 1906, his family lived in a tent for two weeks "in mortal terror of the fire." By 1910, he was in vaudeville and from there went on to Broadway plays and movies. A matinee idol in the silent films, he came to prominence as the "Cisco Kid" in "In Old Arizona" (1928), for which he won an Oscar. He went on to star with Myrna Loy in "Penthouse" (1933) and to what many considered his best role, that of the doctor who treated President Abraham Lincoln's assassin in "The Prisoner of Shark Island" (1936). That year his $284,000 income topped the industry.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
I am very excited about MiniMart Sunday, October 4. I love walking around town and meeting up with neighbors and friends- old and new- but late in the day when the crowds are heading home, I like to sit with a good book and read for a few hours. Do you have something short but challenging?
Mini Mart Maven

Dear Mini Mart Maven,
Mini Mart is also one of my favorite Sea Cliff holidays; in fact, my neighbor Lou Campi and I agree it might be up there with Christmas and Thanksgiving! This week my book group finished a short novel that just might fill the bill for you: BORDER CROSSING by Pat Barker. Tom Seymour is a child psychologist who, thirteen years before, had served as an expert witness at the trial of Danny Miller, a ten year old accused of murdering an elderly neighbor. Danny has just been released from prison and has begun a new life with an apartment, a job, and a new name- all provided by the British social services system. Danny tracks down Tom in an attempt to understand what happened those thirteen years ago. More a psychological study than a mystery, the book gradually reveals the imperfect borders that exist between good and evil and we are left to wonder what is innocence, what is guilt?

Highly recommended!

Odin's Bounty Deli Opens in Sea Cliff

by Carol Griffin

Speaking with Christopher Calleo owner of the newly opened Odin's Bounty delicatessen and catering business at 602 Glen Cove Avenue, across from North Shore High School, he told me his plans for the new delicatessen and catering business. He was originally trained at the Culinary School of America and helped open Metro Catering Hall in Howard Beach and has been a private chef with clients in Center Island, Brookville and Locust Valley.

After Labor Day, he said he plans to extend the deli to hours to be open 6 days a week serving the best Lavazza coffee, homemade soup and dressings for sandwiches, salads, paninis and wraps. The bread is freshly baked from the Old Fashioned Bakery and bagels from a deli in Glen Cove. Everyday there will be a rotating hero or paninis special for $4.99. There will also be a rotating hot table that changes every day.

"Being across from the high school, we are here to serve the kids," he said. "In addition to the daily menu, we intend to have a full line of catering with the same first class deli sandwiches."

With a background as a butcher, his turkey breast is cooked nothing added, and as he mentioned earlier, the soups and dressings are also made from scratch using home-grown products.

Chris said the head chef is Robert Cintro, who has a lot of experience in the business. In closing Chris added, "we strive for cleanliness and quality in this business."

The phone number is 801-4370 and www.odinsbounty.com is their email number. They are open on Monday to Friday from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Saturday & Sunday from 5 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sea Cliff Fire Department Holds Third Annual Car Show

By Carol Griffin

Sea Cliff Fire Department held its third annual car show at Tappen Beach on September 14, 2014. The weather was clearly in their favor with a bright mild fall day encouraging a large crowd of vintage fire trucks and cars to arrive for the show. The event was chaired by Jimmy O'Donnell with a large crew of helpers to run the show. Each entry took home a plaque with a photo of their vehicle. Chickenhead provided the music, and several vendors sold goods along the sidelines. There was a raffle with great prizes for the winners. All in all it was a very enjoyable and very successful day.

Successful International Coastal Cleanup at Pryibil Beach

The International Coastal Beach Cleanup at Pryibil Beach on September 20, 2014 was a tremendous success. Fifty-five volunteers joined the Glen Cove Beautification Commission at Pryibil Beach ready to make a clean sweep. Wearing gloves and armed with picks and trash bags provided by the Commission, they collected and then tallied all the trash on log sheets. Almost 3,000 pieces of trash were picked up from the beach. This includes 1,082 cigarette butts, 298 food wrappers and 227 plastic bottle caps to name just a few of the things. These numbers serve to remind us that our beaches should not be treated like dumping grounds and that we all need to help keep our shoreline clean.

The Glen Cove Beautification Commission sends special thanks goes to Boy Scout Troop B, Girl Scout Troop 1495, the Glen Cove Youth Bureau, students from Deasy and Landing Elementary Schools, the Glen Cove Volunteer Fire Department, Glen Cove Christian Church, Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club, the Thompson Park Neighborhood Association, Finley Middle School students and to St. Patrick's Church. Thanks to Frank's Beer and Soda for the water and Landing Bakery for the pastries.

The staff and members of the Glen Cove Boys and Girls Club and the Glen Cove Youth Bureau joined the Glen Cove Beautification Commission; Glen Cove Beach Captain Joan Bessette; Mayor Reginald Spinello and his wife, Coleen; and City Councilwoman Pam Panzenbeck at Pryibil Beach.
