Capobianco Victorious In Glen Cove Election

Glen Cove's Own Joseph Capobianco (Republican) was victorious securing the City Council seat. Capobianco defeated Theresa Moschetta (Democrat) by roughly 280 votes for the position. Above, Glen Cove Mayor Reginald A. Spinello is pictured with Councilman-elect Joseph Capobianco, the Capobianco family, Deputy Mayor Barbara Peebles, Glen Cove GOP Committee Chairman Paul Meli; Committee President, Charles McQuair and members of the Republican Committee. Mayor Spinello said, "I welcome Joe Capobianco as the newest member of our City Council. I look forward to his participation in our City's government." State Senate: Republican Carl Marcellino (Republican) beat out challenger and local Sea Cliff Mayor Bruce Kennedy for the position of State Senator. Marcellino received nearly 45,000 votes while Kennedy received just over 28,000 votes.

North Shore Elementary Spooky Gyms

The North Shore elementary school gyms were transformed into spooky spectacles filled with exciting decorations, innovative games, and of course smiling faces under the direction of the Physical Education teachers. The students worked on improving their upper body strength while climbing the spider web, swinging over the snake pit, and scaling the spooky rock wall. Additionally, coordination skills were improved by flying under the bat cave, catching a flying spider, and picking pumpkins on the SmartBoard. Everyone would agree, the students enjoyed learning while actively participating in these new and exciting ghostly activities in the days prior to Halloween!

"The Sip"

with Michael Amendola from The Village Wine Merchant

With the fall weather fully upon us, we find a shift in the type and style of wines that we are drinking. Our wine choices can be determined seasonally in much the same way as our meals. At home, foods change from summer salads, vegetables, and grilling to roasting, baking, and preparing heartier foods like stews and braises. For wines, it means that we go away from the chilled, crisp wines of summer, like dry rosés and light bodied whites, into fuller and richer styles of wine.

In thinking about red wines, we want to choose ones that have the full body and structure to match the season and these types of dishes.

For drinking a wine on its own, choose a full bodied wine with low acidity and soft tannin, Cabernet Sauvignon from California or an Australian Shiraz is generally a good choice. Well-made Merlot has a delicious plummy fruit and soft mouth feel and is really overlooked and undervalued at present.

When pairing with a roast or a stew, look to a wine with earthier flavors, such as French wines like Bordeaux, Côtes-Du-Rhône, and Coteaux du Languedoc. If your dish is tomato based, then I prefer an Italian wine with a bit more acidic snap, say an Aglianico del Vulture or a full bodied Tuscan red. White wine is of course another great option and now is a perfect time to have a full bodied version. A ripe, broad Chardonnay with balanced oak is one of my favorite pairings for roast chicken.

At our shop or here in print, our mission at the Village Wine Merchant is to help you navigate the natural dance between food and wine, without pretense, and always at great value. We are excited about our fall season line up and invite you to enjoy it along with us!

Warmly,
Michael

Red Ribbon Week at Gribbin

Students from Gribbin School in Glen Cove joined students throughout the district and across the country in observing Red Ribbon Week.

This year's theme was "Love Yourself. Be Drug Free." The staff and students participated in a variety of activities that promoted a healthy lifestyle.

The week kicked off with a Red Ribbon assembly, which included a visit from two Glen Cove police officers who spoke to students about making good choices and staying healthy. Students were also invited to wear red along with the staff to show support for the school's commitment to healthy and drug free students.

Other activities included students wearing pajamas to show their promise to stay healthy and help future dreams come true, wearing their favorite hats for "Hats off to a Drug Free Life Day" and wearing tie dye and peace signs for "Peace Out to Unhealthy Choices."

A highlight of the week included a visit from members of Glen Cove High School's Student Athlete Leadership Team (S.A.L.T.) program. The high school students paired up and visited classrooms throughout the building, speaking to students about making safe and healthy choices.

According to S.A.L.T. member Caitlin Brown, the group discussions focused on safety, the importance of getting the appropriate amount of sleep, exercise and sportsmanship.

"Meeting with the students while they are at such a young age is extremely important because we can help prevent them from developing unhealthy behaviors and habits," Brown said. "We just want them to be safe and make good choices."

Gribbin School Social Worker Kristin Brosnan organized the Red Ribbon Week activities and said having the S.A.L.T students visit gives the children attending Gribbin a chance to hear from positive role models, who they are familiar with.

"These are young people they look up to," Brosnan said. "They see them playing sports in the community and to our children it's almost as if they're famous,"

Members of Glen Cove High School's S.A.L.T. program visited students at Gribbin School.

Movie Review

Horns

A movie review by Katherine Kranz

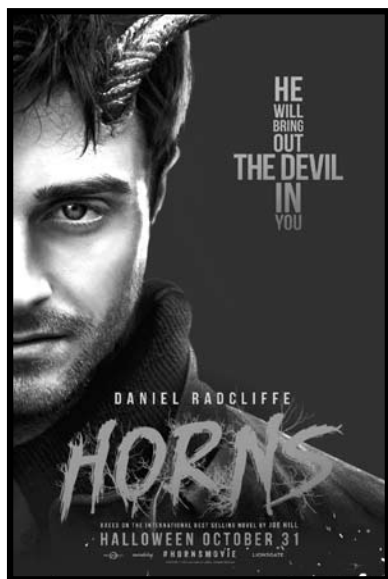

2014 (Wide release)

Runtime: 120 min

Rated R (Sexual content, violence, language, drug use)

Stars: Daniel Radcliffe, Juno Temple, Max Minghella

Only three years ago did audiences say goodbye to the “Harry Potter” series, and since then star Daniel Radcliffe has continued to prove he is more than the beloved boy wizard. The quality of these post-Potter movies aside, Radcliffe has shown the variety of characters he can portray, sometimes leading him to sexually explicit roles that would make those who grew up watching him in the cinema blush. Last year he turned in his best work with the biographical crime drama “Kill Your Darlings.” What makes “Horns” work when it could have very easily become a disaster is Radcliffe’s constant level of professionalism and understanding of his characters. If only the same could be said of those behind the camera.

Adapted from the novel of the same name by Joe Hill, son of horror master Stephen King, “Horns” follows Ig Perish, a young man seeking to prove his innocence in the murder of his girlfriend Merrin (Juno Temple). Each day he is bombarded by reporters hoping to twist his words into a headline and former friends hoping he faces the harshest of punishments. A suspicious fire at the forensics lab has destroyed the DNA evidence from the scene of the crime. Ig’s brother Terry (Joe Anderson) is supportive but does not know what to believe. Soon not even Ig himself is sure of how innocent he is.

After a night of mourning at Merrin’s memorial, Ig awakens to find horns sprouting from atop his head. They are very much real and irremovable. Moreover, everyone he speaks to suddenly becomes unable to hide their most shameful of thoughts, bringing out the worst in all of them. Everyone, except Ig’s childhood friend Lee (Max Minghella) who is helping him through the investigation and does not see the horns at all. Once the initial shock subsides, Ig realizes he can use these new abilities to find Merrin’s true killer and make them confess. Fueled by revenge, he finds that in order to defeat evil, he must embody evil.

Directed by maniacal Frenchman Alexandre Aja, known for such bloodbaths as “High Tension” (2003) and “The Hills Have Eyes” (2006), “Horns” is surprisingly light on gore and does not even attempt to be scary. He does however deliver with unsettling imagery and some satisfyingly inventive ways of incorporating the classic iconography associated with Satan. Where he and screenwriter Keith Bunin become lost is in the tonal inconsistencies. There are moments of twistedly dark humor that can only be found in the first half. Only a few scenes, particularly those set in the forest fully capture the whimsical, fantastical nature of the story. Uninteresting and stretched out tangents lead nowhere and, just like “Kill Your Darlings,” sex is relied upon much too heavily to push the plot forward.

Watching Radcliffe evolve his character and see him through a remarkable transformation is a joy to watch, yet the other characters seem too distant and should have been more incorporated. Having Ig’s brother Terry and Merrin’s grieving father (David Morse) play a more pronounced role in the murder investigation would have made for a denser mystery in this rather odd horror entry.

Is “Horns” the most thrilling, atmospheric, engaging horror film in recent memory? Certainly not. There are neither scares nor lingering haunting feelings after it ends. But it is too enthusiastically peculiar to miss.

Mayor Spinello Delivers State of the City Update to IAC

The Glen Cove Interagency Council (IAC) recently held its monthly meeting at City Hall. The guest of honor was Mayor Reggie Spinello who provided IAC members with an update on various projects around Glen Cove.

Mayor Spinello has been in office for 8 months and feels that things are continuing to move forward. Construction is ready to start on Panera Bread and the demolition of the balance of Village Square will begin later this year. Development of the waterfront is also moving forward. Landing Cove, a housing development adjacent to Congregation Tifereth Israel for people aged 55 and over, has broken ground.

The City offered City employees a voluntary separation agreement. Fifteen employees took advantage of it, resulting in a cost savings to the City of approximately $400,000. The mayor praised City employees and mentioned that in particular, the Public Works employees are responding in a positive and timely manner to requests from constituents. He also said that the police force is fully staffed, including a detective unit and CPU unit.

The Mayor thanked Francine Koehler, Executive Director of the Downtown BID for doing a great job with the Friday concerts in Village Square. The concerts were well attended by residents and out of towners, both of whom brought business to downtown restaurants.

The Mayor said that his administration is beginning to make an impact on illegal housing. The City hired a special investigator to handle complaints as soon as they come in. During the first six months of this year, the City collected more in fines than was budgeted for the entire year. Recidivists will be punished.

The Mayor continues to meet with different companies that are interested in locating in Glen Cove. There is a micro-brewing company opening at the waterfront and Massage Envy is interested in locating in the Staples shopping center.

Overall, it has been a busy eight months and the Mayor feels good about the progress that has been made, but realizes there is still lot to accomplish.

The Glen Cove IAC includes community leaders representing a variety of human and social service agencies throughout Glen Cove. It reflects Glen Cove's rich cultural, religious and ethnic diversity and meets regularly to identify and address changing needs in the community. This network has resulted in numerous projects and collaborations that benefit Glen Cove residents on a daily basis. For more information about IAC, please visit iacglen Cove.org.

Glen Cove Youth Bureau Seeks Donations For Thanksgiving Food Baskets

Each year, the Glen Cove Youth Bureau collaborates with other social service agencies in Glen Cove to provide families in need with all the fixings for Thanksgiving dinner. Working together, the agencies provide dinner to over 350 families each year, approximately 100 of which originate with the Youth Bureau. This effort is only possible with the donations the Bureau receives from the public.

Would you like to help with this project? The Youth Board is looking for donations of the following non-perishable items: canned vegetables (peas, beans, corn, sweet potatoes, etc.), potatoes, stove-top stuffing, macaroni and cheese, cornbread mixes, cake mixes, icing, jello and fruit cocktail.

The Bureau is also looking for gift certificates to local grocery stores and cash donations, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase turkeys and hams for the families. Checks should be made payable to "Friends of the Glen Cove Youth Board" and mailed to Glen Cove Youth Bureau, c/o Thanksgiving Food Drive, 128B Glen Street, Glen Cove, NY 11542.

Non-perishable donations may be brought to the following locations: Glen Cove Youth Bureau (128 B Glen Street – behind 126 Glen Street), Glen Cove Public Library (near magazine area), Glen Cove Chamber of Commerce (264 Glen Street) or The Atria (146 Glen Street). If you would like to donate a frozen turkey or fresh vegetables/fruit (potatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots, apples, oranges), please bring your donation to the Youth Bureau during the week of November 17.

Donations of non-perishables will be accepted until November 21. If you have any questions or need additional information, please contact Cindy Rogers at 671-4600 or email crogers@cityofglen-coveny.org. The Youth Bureau thanks you for your generosity.

The Glen Cove Youth Bureau is busy collecting food for its annual Thanksgiving Food Drive. The Youth Bureau provides dinner to approximately 100 families each year and is currently accepting donations. Please consider donating non-perishable food items, turkeys, hams, gift certificates or cash to this cause. For more information, call Cindy Rogers at 516-671-4600.

Scouts Hike and Camp

On October 18, the Boy Scouts of America in troop 43, from Sea Cliff, went scrambling up Breakneck Ridge near the town of Cold Spring, and camped overnight at Fahnestock State Park. Newsweek rated Breakneck Ridge as one of the top ten day hikes in America. The scouts enjoyed a challenging four hour scramble up the white trail along the Hudson River, and across from West Point Military Academy. For those unsure what a scramble is, it is more difficult than regular hiking being more similar to rock climbing, using both hands and feet. From each of the four peaks, the scouts were able to take in breathtaking views of the beautiful fall colors. The only hiccup in the journey was a bit of cloudy weather and drizzling at the beginning, but this was no setback for the spirited scouts. Over at the campsite the scouts enjoyed homemade dinners and a quiet and restful night in their tents.

County Funds for Glen Cove Sewer Project

Mayor Reginald Spinello today was notified by Nassau County's Executive and Legislative Offices that an agreement has been reached which allocates $12 million for studying, designing and installing public sanitary sewers in Glen Cove and neighboring communities that are not currently connected to the Glen Cove Wastewater Treatment Plant.

Mayor Reginald Spinello said, "Working together to do the right thing for our constituents is a true reflection of good government. I thank County Executive Mangano and Legislator DeRiggi-Whitton for their efforts. This investment is critical to the protection of our natural resources and our communities."

Sea Cliff Civic Association Hosts Newcomers Party

By Carol Griffin

Sea Cliff Civic Association held its annual Newcomers Party on October 19 at the home of Ann DiPietro, president of the organization, and her husband Dan. Ann said that they hosted about 59 newcomers to the event. The house was buzzing with all the guests. To introduce them to Sea Cliff, refreshments were provided by Metropolitan Bistro served by members of the Civic Association.

President Ann DiPietro welcomed everyone and told them about the wonderful advantages of living in Sea Cliff. Trustees Ed Liberman and Elena Villafane told them about various Sea Cliff events and the local government. Library Director Arlene Nevin talked about the advantages of having the Sea Cliff Library.

According to Ann DiPietro, the many newcomers at the party all seemed to enjoy the event.

Sea Cliff Veteran's Day

Veterans Day will be observed on Tuesday, November 11th. At precisely 11 a.m., the National Ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery will commence including a wreath laying at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Veterans Day ceremonies throughout our country are meant to honor and thank all who served in the United States Armed Forces.

The Village of Sea Cliff will hold its own brief observance at the large rock in Clifton Park. Veterans and Village residents, especially our young students, are asked to join us on November 11th at 11 a.m. so that we can demonstrate our appreciation to all those who have served and are serving in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, and Coast Guard. All Veterans are invited to lunch at the Sea Cliff Fire Department after the ceremony.

Grand Opening of New offices of Dr. Maxine Cappel Mayreis

Mayor Reginald Spinello was joined by Deputy Mayor Barbara Peebles, elected officials and members of the Glen Cove Chamber of Commerce last week, for a traditional ribbon cutting ceremony at the new offices of Dr. Maxine Cappel Mayreis. Dr. Cappel Mayreis' Family Chiropractic Care has relocated to 1 Dosoris Lane.

New Fall Boutique at Green Vale Runs November 6-8

The Green Vale School is pleased to announce the launch of our new Fall Boutique on November 6, 7 and 8. Formerly called the Vendor Fair, the Fall Boutique reflects its roots as a holiday shopping event and will showcase 22 new brands, in addition to some returning favorites.

Some notable new vendors are: Andraab from Jaipur, India, specializing in hand embroidered pashminas; Collared Greens, a men's wear brand with a distinctly Southern feel; jewelry by Jennifer Creel and Pamela B. Dutton; women's outerwear by Ellsworth & Ivey; and Hi Rise Hive, a New York City beekeeper who manufactures skin and body care products from her local hives.

Some returning brands are Frank Rostron, a custom men's tailor from Manchester, UK; Charlotte Brody, a women's fashion label from Manhattan; Blazers by Design from Hamburg, Germany; cashmere essentials by Portolano; and Joey Wolffer's Styleliner, the world's first mobile luxury treasure chest.

There will be day and evening hours for shopping. Eddie's Pizza Truck, one of New York City's premier Food Trucks, will sell their famous Bar Pies on Friday from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00p.m. Visitgreenvaleschool.org for a complete list of Fall Boutique vendors!

Fall Boutique Hours:

Thursday, November 6, from 11:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 6:00 pm to 8:00 pm.

Friday, November 7, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Saturday, November 8, from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Middle School Great Win

The Glen Cove Middle School Football team improved their record to 3-1 with a tough win over Plainview on Friday October 24th. The game started with Glen Cove quarterback Mike Vaughan throwing a perfect pass to tight end Tasheed Vasquez for a 64 yard TD. The defense stopped the Plainview offense cold and quickly scored again with Sal Guastella scoring from the 2 yard line. Glen Cove scored again in the 1st quarter when QB Vaughan scored on a 56 yard TD run. The 2nd quarter saw the Plainview team score two touchdowns of their own making the score 18-14. In the third quarter Mike Vaughan scored his 3rd TD of the day with a 30 yard run. Sal Guastella ran in the extra point. The Glen Cove defense shut down the next Plainview drive causing them to punt. Unfortunately for Plainview, Devon Thurmond took the punt and returned it 50 yards for a Glen Cove TD. Keith Simpson ran in the extra point giving Glen Cove a 32-14 lead. The fourth quarter saw Plainview score 2 TD's making the score 32-26. In the optional 5th quarter Glen Cove scored on a 45 yard TD run by Dajour Gibson and Devon Thurmond scored his second TD of the game on a 8 yard TD run. Sal Guastella added the extra point run making the final score 46-26. Great games were turned in by Juan Fernandez, Zymon Frye, Mayan Letellier, and Arham Jamil. Glen Cove's next game will be away against Bethpage on Tuesday October 28th.

Grant to benefit science department

Glen Cove High School's science department will see capital improvements thanks to a $250,000 grant secured by New York State Assemblyman Charles Lavine for the Glen Cove City School District.

Superintendent of Schools Maria Rianna and members of the Board of Education thanked Assemblyman Lavine for his support with a Certificate of Commendation during a recent Board of Education meeting. The board indicated the monies from the grant will be utilized for capital improvements and will be targeted to the facilities that house the science labs.

"You are a great member of our community and a great supporter of the Glen Cove Schools," Rianna stated. Assemblyman Lavine told those in attendance no "thank-you" was required.

"My children attended the Glen Cove City School District and we are so proud," he said. "We thank each and every one of you for the hard work that you do."

Curriculum Topped Pizza

Students from Deasy School in Glen Cove enjoyed harvest salad pizza topped with delicious herbs and vegetables grown in the school's organic garden.

The garden, which is multi-purpose according to Principal Nomi Rosen, reinforces the math and science curriculum while supporting the school's healthy eating initiative.

"Our second grade students are studying soil, so the soil and the planting are integrated in to the curriculum," Rosen said. "We also plant seedlings with grow lights in the classroom and transplant them into the garden."

Eggplant, tomatoes, basil, celery and kale were just some of the delicious toppings that garnished the pizza, thanks to Hengameh Shirazi, a kindergarten mom who volunteered to harvest the garden so the vegetables and herbs could be utilized.

"There's nothing like growing your own food," Rosen said. "I also think the students are more apt to try it because they grow it and some of these things they may not try at home."

Vegetables from the organic garden are also used to supplement the cafeteria salad bar at Deasy. Students will have additional opportunities to eat what they have grown throughout the school year.

Mayor Spinello Welcomes Junior Wheelchair Basketball Games

The Wheelchair Sports Federation brought the Junior Wheelchair Basketball Games to Glen Cove on November 1, 2014. The Glen Cove High School gym was filled with excitement as Mayor Reginald Spinello welcomed the New York Fury and the Jr. Nets teams to our City. In addition to playing a basketball game the children, ages 7-12, also participated in the FIT Dribble Dish & Swish basketball clinic. The players are from the Tri-State area and are competing on many levels including dribble, pass, and getting the ball in the net! Having completed this round in Glen Cove, the winners continue to the regional competition with the final championship game played during the NBA All-Star game next year. Mayor Spinello thanked Michael Zangari, a member of the Glen Cove Recreation Commission (and a tireless, dedicated fan of ensuring that basketball play is available to all children) for coordinating this event. He also expressed his appreciation to the Glen Cove School District for providing the gym and to John Hamre of the Wheelchair Sports Federation.

Letters to the Editor

Hospital

To The Editor,

This week I attended the town hall meeting regarding Glen Cove Hospital plans to be a Specialized Treatment Center for those infected with the Ebola virus. I learned that as of ten short days ago our little Hospital is equipped & CDC approved to treat one (1) Ebola patient with a designation to treat up to Two (2) in the works. Before I proceed, please note I am a fan of preparedness and applaud Cuomo's proactive stance across New York State. *See list below for designated facilities. Further, I understand the science and find a level of comfort in such. My concern is I do not have an equal level of comfort that Glen Cove Hospital is the best choice. The other Ebola treatment centers are much larger university and research hospitals such as Emory. Conversely, Glen Cove is a small community based facility, residing and servicing a relatively small community. Yes, it is part of the larger North Shore/LIJ Health System; nevertheless it is no Emory. In fact, not more than a year ago the hospital was cutting personnel by more than half and closing departments. Now we are told that Glen Cove is a "state of art facility". This maybe the rushed case, since as of those ten days ago the bio-containment unit of the hospital, aka the vacant 3rd floor, has purportedly been reassigned and equipped to treat the aforementioned. But unlike Emory, we are under staffed and those courageous volunteer medical personnel that remain post cuts; have received only days, not years to prepare and train. Moreover, The AP reports: that in general, "the smaller the facility, the less prepared, less funded, less staffed and less trained it is to fight Ebola and other deadly infectious diseases". It very well maybe the case that Glen Cove, in less than two weeks, has replaced its cut staff, had an infusion of funding, and has received intensive training to meet the charge...this is a big maybe. Hopefully, Glen Cove will not receive an Ebola patient anytime soon; God-willing perhaps never. The question remains: is Glen Cove hospital really the best choice to safely treat Ebola and infectious disease patients on Long Island compared to the other hospitals in the North Shore/LIJ System? Can this small hometown hospital rise to the stringent staff and facility protocols without fault; doing so next door to residential homes and a Taco Bell?

Special Thanks

To The Editor,

On behalf of the Mutual Concerns Committee, I would like to express my sincere thanks to Jack Pierce and the Sea Cliff Fire Dept. Hook & Ladder Co. #1 for organizing the food drive which was held last Saturday. For several years, Jack Pierce has been holding food drives to service our community. This is a tremendous undertaking to organize and physically deliver all this food. I would also like to extend a huge thank you to everyone who donated food. The overwhelming support of this event confirms that the people of our community are committed to helping all those in need.

Along with delivering Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter Baskets to those in need, Mutual Concerns stocks an emergency food pantry, which assists people all through the year. We could not do what we do without the support of this wonderful community. Thank you.

Peggie Como, President Mutual Concerns Committee

Glen Cove Veterans' Day Honoree is Alan Frederick LaMere

This year's City of Glen Cove Veterans' Day Honoree is Alan Frederick LaMere, US Navy. The ceremony in honor of all veterans is on Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 11 a.m. in front of the Doughboy Monument at the Glen Cove Library. All are welcome to join Mayor Reginald Spinello, the City Council, our elected officials, and the members of our local veterans organizations to express our thanks to our nation's men and women who served and are serving in the armed forces.

Senior Moments

This column features a life-altering event that has had a great impact on a senior citizen's life, molding that person into who he or she is today. The people interviewed are all members of the Glen Cove Senior Center.

There was always music growing up. That's how Marilyn fondly describes her childhood household. Her father, Bennie Bonacio, was a professional musician. He was the master of the saxophone and clarinet, a composer and music publisher. During the 1930s he was first chair in the Paul Whitman Band. Bennie, of Italian descent, met his lovely wife, a Jewish woman of Romanian ancestry, in a music publishing company when she was 16 years old. They married in 1929. When Marilyn's younger sister was born, Frances insisted that Bennie quit the band because road tours took him away from his family for months at a time.

Bennie got a job with pit orchestras, playing in various Broadway shows. As a child, Marilyn went to every Broadway show in which her father was a member of the orchestra. Sometimes she sat in the orchestra pit alongside her father as he played during the show and she always went backstage after the final curtain. Marilyn's eyes light up and a smile graces her face as she recalls meeting the incomparable Ezio Pinza. Bennie enrolled Marilyn and her sister Lola at the prestigious Julliard School of Music to study piano. She has a natural vocal ability and a deep seated love of music. She fondly remembers seeing her first opera, Tosca, as a very young child and being completely enthralled by both the story and the spectacle.

Marilyn was graduated from Forest Hills High School and received both her Bachelor's and Master's Degrees from Queens College. She married Harry in 1951 and soon the family grew to include two daughters and a son. Her son had difficulties reading so, being a devoted mother and an activist, Marilyn returned to school earning an M.S. in Reading from Adelphi University. She worked her entire professional life as a high school Social Studies teacher and Reading Specialist. Her family moved to Glen Cove in 1983 when Marilyn became a tenured teacher at Locust Valley High School. After retiring in 1990, she formed the Retired Teachers Chapter at Locust Valley High School which is still going strong today. She is a champion of women's rights and has found satisfaction in serving her community. She is a life member of the National Council of Jewish Women, Hadassah and the Glen Cove Woman's Club, as well as, a reader in her synagogue.

In 1973 Marilyn and Harry travelled to Israel and Rome. While in Rome she came across a telephone book that had been left open to the page listing her uncle's name and telephone number. With the help of the tour guide, she telephoned and met her uncle in Rome. Upon returning to the United States, Marilyn started studying Italian to enable her to communicate with the Italian half of her family. She regularly telephones her cousins in Sicily with the assistance of a friend who helps translate.

The children grew to adulthood and left the nest to pursue lives of their own and, after 48 years of marriage, Harry passed away in 1999. Soon after, she became a member of the Glen Cove Senior Center. Always the consummate teacher, she volunteered to teach Bridge and Mahjong which she has been doing for the past 10 years every Monday and Wednesday, respectively. Each Monday she leads the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and the singing of a patriotic song prior to lunch. On Fridays she calls Bingo. To enliven the game, Marilyn calls the numbers in English, Italian and Spanish, much to the delight of the players. "I love to teach. Coming to the Senior Center and teaching gave me a new purpose in life."

After undergoing back surgery, Marilyn became disabled. Walking became extremely difficult and she must rely on the aid of a walker. Yet her disability does not limit nor define her. She participates in the YMCA exercise program offered by the Senior Center three times weekly. When you get to know Marilyn you no longer see the walker but instead see a meticulously groomed, attractive and intelligent woman who is extremely personable and friendly. You also see a woman who loves teaching and willingly shares her wealth of knowledge with everyone. Marilyn is truly a valuable asset to the senior community.

Name the Celebrity

This week's celebrity was born on Nov. 4, 1919 in the Bronx, NYC. He caught the acting bug in high school where he participated in the drama club. After high school, he continued his interest in acting by attending Manhattan's progressive New School. When WWII broke out, he was called to service in his early twenties. After the war, he was lucky to secure a position as an usher at Radio City Music Hall in NYC. By 1947, he was honing his craft at the Actors Studio in NYC, which allowed him training in the famous Stanislavsky method. In later years, he continued to periodically return to "The Studio".

Despite his excellent training, he had to prove himself, just like any up and coming young actor. He began on Broadway in the late 1940s, but it wasn't until 1951 that he experienced real success in Tennessee Williams' "The Rose Tattoo". After his Broadway success, he had a few minor TV roles before his big break came when he joined the cast of Marlon Brando's "On the Waterfront" (1954). He had recurring roles on popular TV shows such as "The United States Steel Hour", "The Philco-Goodyear TV Playhouse" and "Studio One in Hollywood". In 1957, he was able to prove himself on the big screen once again, with a prominent role in "12 Angry Men" (1957), directed by Sidney Lumet and starring Henry Fonda.

If our celebrity was alive today, he would probably be found telling a great story, which would go something like this: "I was once married to the actress, Patricia Van Patten, and our daughter, Talia, was once married to the actor, George Clooney. That was in 1989 before he got "big" and they got divorced in 1993. After their divorce, George swore he would never marry again. In fact, Michele Pfeiffer and Nicole Kidman bet him $10,000 that he would have children by age 40, and sent him a check shortly after his birthday. Clooney returned the funds and bet double or nothing he wouldn't have children by age 50. Now, there's a guy with a goal!"

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was George Lloyd Murphy. In 1964, he was elected as a Republican to the Senate having defeated Pierre Sallinger, the former press secretary in the Kennedy White House, who had been appointed several months earlier to serve the remainder of the late Claire Engle's unexpired term. Murphy was the first notable U.S. actor to make the successful transition to an elected office in California, predating Ronald Regan, Arnold Schwarzenegger and Clint Eastwood. Murphy served from Jan. 1, 1965 to Jan. 3, 1971. He is credited with beginning the U.S. Senate tradition of candy on the desk. In 1967 and '68, the year Richard Nixon was elected to the Presidency, Murphy was the Chairman of the Republican National Senatorial Committee.

In 1970, he ran for re-election but was defeated by Democratic U.S. Representative John V. Tunney, the son of famed heavy-weight champion, Gene Tunney. By the way, Tunney's successful senate race in 1970 was reportedly the inspiration for the 1972 Robert Redford film, "The Candidate." During his Senate term, Murphy suffered from throat cancer, forcing him to have part of his larynx removed. For the rest of his life, he was unable to speak above a whisper. After leaving office, Murphy, subsequently, moved to Palm Beach, Florida, where he died on May 3, 1992, at the age of 89, from leukemia.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
 With Sea Cliff's Chill Out on Friday and the Sea Cliff Civic Association's annual Progressive Dinner Saturday night, I can hardly contain my excitement. But by Sunday, I know I will want to relax with something interesting to read, but probably not a novel. Any suggestions?
Chilling and Dining Out in Sea Cliff

Dear Chilling and Dining Out in Sea Cliff,
 I just read a fascinating book A SPY AMONG FRIENDS: KIM PHILBY AND THE GREAT BETRAYAL by Ben Macintyre. Philby was born shortly after the end of World War I into an eccentric, aristocratic British family. His life's trajectory began when, after expressing to family friends an interest in government, he was immediately offered a position in Britain's elite spy service- MI6. Thus began his parallel existence as a double agent. While there have been many books written about the Cambridge Five- the notorious post World War II spies who graduated from Cambridge University and rose through the ranks of England's most prestigious establishments only to be revealed as long standing Soviet agents- this book focuses on Philby and his betrayal not only of his country but also of his friends. George Elliot was the closest of these friends- colleague, drinking partner, roommate, constant defender, and finally the person who likely arranged his escape to Moscow. E.M. Forester, the renowned British writer, has said "If I had to choose between betraying my country and betraying my friends, I hope I should betray my country." Philby betrayed both and his story is an amazing tale of intrigue and deception- strongly recommended!

Harry Davison at NSHM

Harry Davison gave a lecture and showed a film at the North Shore Historical Museum recently on The Millionaire's Unit, a film about his grandfather F. Trubee Davison, a pioneering Long Island aviator, and founder of the First Yale Unit.

NSHM's Vice President of Administration, Victoria Crosby, introduced Mr. Davison to the attendees.

Mr. Davison's telling of this story was both moving and humorously entertaining, and fit perfectly with the current exhibition of World War I, which, incidentally has been extended to the end of the year due to the popularity of this exhibit. A fact that Davison didn't mention, as he is quite modest, was that his illustrious ancestor Frederick Trubee Davison was on the cover of Time Magazine on August 24, 1925, and has a section of the Cradle of Aviation Museum in Garden City dedicated to him.

The lecture series is organized by NSHM board member Linda Darby. Refreshments were served to guests following the program.

North Shore Historical Museum, located at 140 Glen Street in Glen Cove, is open on Wednesdays from 2pm-6pm and Saturdays 11am- 3pm.

For further information call Museum Director Lauren Brincat at 516 801- 1191 or visit northshorehistoricalmuseum.
