Celebrating The End Of WWII

In honor of the 70th anniversary of the greatest day in American History, Spirit of 45' celebrates the end of World War II. Atria Glen Cove's residents enjoyed a day of nostalgia and American spirit with a show by the Manhattan Dolls. Each branch of the service was recognized through music, kisses and plenty of happy veterans! God Bless America! more photos page 2

DWI With Children In Car

A 35-year-old Pennsylvanian woman was arrested in Glen Cove by police officer Peter Grella for driving with her two children ages 11 and 7 for DWI under "Leandra's Law." The incident happened at 12:44am Saturday.

The woman, identified as Patricia Alamo, was also charged with Resisting Arrest, Obstructing Governmental Administration, two counts of Endangering the Welfare of a child, as well as other vehicle and traffic law violations. The woman was initially pulled over when Officer Grella observed her following another vehicle too closely while traveling on Walnut Road in Glen Cove. When the defendant was pulled over she refused to give the officer her drivers license, refused to be handcuffed and attempted to run away from the officers.

The defendant was arraigned in District Court on Saturday and is being held on $10,000 bail.

Shooting On Glen Cove Avenue

Two Glen Cove men were hospitalized after being shot by an unknown assailant at 02:10am Friday morning at 135 Glen Cove Ave.

According to Det. Lt. John Nagle, The two men, ages 35 and 55 years old were on the side of 135 Glen Cove Ave when the gunman approached from the Craft Ave side of the building and fired one shot at them. Apparently the round went through the 35 year old victims leg and hit the second victim in the ankle. Both victims were transported to the hospital and are being treated for non-life threatening injuries.

Detective Lieutenant Nagle said, "We are actively investigating this shooting and we are in the process of gathering evidence and information regarding this incident." Anyone with information regarding this shooting can contact the Glen Cove Detective Division at 676-1002 or leave a tip on the police departments email at tips@cityofglencoveny.org.

Adam Levine Recognized for his Rendition of the Star Spangled Banner

Assemblyman Charles Lavine met with Glen Cove Resident Adam Levine to present him with a citation for his courage and patriotism, for singing the national anthem at a Met's game, and for volunteering in community services such as Meals on Wheels, which sponsors a program that brings food from the Atria assisted-living facility in Roslyn Harbor to seniors in Glen Cove, Bayville and other areas.

Mr. Levine has performed the National Anthem at the beginning of a Met's home game once in each of the past six years. When he performed on August 5th he again received a thundering ovation.

Adam Levine was born with Down syndrome, but he continues to pursue his passion of music. He performs the National Anthem each morning at Nassau County AHRC which provides numerous services for adults and children with disabilities.

"The fact that Mr. Levine is disabled took nothing away from his performance," said Assemblyman Lavine. "In fact it adds an extra significance because each time that he steps up to the microphone, he is showing thousands of people what disabled people can accomplish if they are given a chance. Mr. Levine, by doing what he loves has given people hope and a fresh perspective in regards to people with disabilities. That is certainly deserving of our recognition and appreciation."

After 3 Youth Visit NCMA through Glen Cove Arts Council

Sixty four children from the After 3 Program, which is part of the Glen Cove Youth Bureau, were given a tour of the Nassau County Museum of Art courtesy of the Glen Cove Arts Council. The youth were separated by age and grade into four groups, each group accompanied by a museum docent and several After 3 leaders.

GCAC founder and president Victoria Crosby also accompanied the youth, in addition to Eve Califano, a board member of GCAC. The current exhibit is The Moderns, with a variety of works of art including Picasso, Miro, Chagall, Degas, and Dali. The children responded to the docent's questions and asked some of their own.

GCAC's mission is to expose adults and youth to the arts, by visits such as these to art museums, and to Tilles Center for opera, ballet and theater, also to give scholarships to LIAFA, the Long Island Academy of Fine Art in Glen Cove, to people with talent and a desire to study art ,who lack to the financial means to pursue their dreams.

For further information or to support the work of GCAC , a non-profit 501c3 charity, email GCartsCouncil@aol.com, or write to GCAC PO Box 27 Glen Cove NY 11542.

GLEN COVE VOTERS FOR ETHICS AND TRANSPARENCY IN GOVERNMENT

AN OPEN LETTER TO ANTHONY GALLO, JR.

Dear Councilman Gallo:

The Glen Cove voting public demands that you accept the offer of Mayor Reggie Spinello to debate him on September 3rd at 7:00 p.m. at the Glen Cove Mansion. Your explanation that you will only debate a “real Republican,” when you are not running against anyone else, is transparently ridiculous. It simply says, “I am afraid to debate the Mayor who I am trying to unseat.”

The Mayor challenged you to a debate when you tried to use City Council meetings to promote your candidacy. Your first response was an offer to debate him after the primary election. If that’s not clear evidence that you’re afraid to debate him, then what is?

Then, when he had to point out that debates take place before elections, you ducked him again, claiming the Mayor is not a registered Republican and you’ll only debate a Republican. Sir, are you unaware that you are challenging the sitting mayor in a Republican primary? If you don’t debate the Mayor, who do you propose to debate?

Following this second excuse, you sent the Mayor a letter claiming you would debate him under any reasonable parameters he desired, but this time you conditioned it upon him changing his political party despite the fact that he was already endorsed by the Republican Party and cross-endorsed by the Independence, Conservative and Democratic Parties.

To your obvious surprise, the Mayor took you up on your proposal to debate him and he arranged for a debate on September 3, 2015 at the Glen Cove Mansion at 7:00 p.m. That left you with nowhere to go except to either continue demanding that the Mayor change his party registration or to change tactics and move on to another subject. And that’s exactly what you did. You dropped the debate issue and moved on to the Glen Cove YMCA lease negotiations, blaming the Mayor for not fixing a problem in which he plays no role because it is between private parties, and then charging that he couldn’t fix anything because he was riddled with unspecified conflicts of interest.

Your shameless refusal to debate Mayor Spinello on the issues of the day demonstrates a complete separation from your professed claim that you’re “all about transparency.” If you were, you’d show up at the debate on September 3rd and let the voters of Glen Cove know just what it is that you stand for. Right now, it appears that the only thing you stand for is trolling for votes in a primary by making sure that the voters know nothing about you, your ideas, or your vision, if indeed you have one.

Your failure or refusal to show up and compare your candidacy and ideas against the accomplishments and vision of Mayor Spinello will just lead to the conclusion that you refuse to debate because you are in fact without ideas, without any vision and without the necessary gravitas to serve in the office for which you claim you are qualified.

Very truly yours,

The Golden Gallery Presents F-Stop x3

By SF Collins

Smile for the camera! Mark your calendar for Thursday, September 3; that's the day that "F-Stop x3" opens at the Glen Cove Senior Center with a fantastic reception at 1 p.m. "F-Stop x3" features the work of three well-known photographers: Ennid Berger, John Murello and Ken Spencer.

In 2013 Newsday described Ennid Berger as a "distinguished Long Island artist." An acclaimed photographer and painter, Ennid has found innovative ways to link the two distinct media. She is founder and director of the Critique Group of Long Island, a group of independent artists who meet and exhibit their art. Ennid has exhibited in New York, Key West and throughout Long Island, including the Parrish Art Museum, Heckscher Museum of Art and the Islip Museum of Art. She has been chosen every year to exhibit in the Long Island Biennial at Heckscher Museum and in 2010 was awarded "Best in Show" for her color photo, "Construction (Singapore)." Her work can be found in the permanent collection of Rutgers University's Zimmerli Museum of Art and several private collections. To view her portfolio, visit ennid.com.

John Murello is a graphic designer and a commercial and fine arts photographer. He was art director at RCA Records, Verve Records and Dell Publishing. His freelance clients included Random House, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Time-Life Books and Adelphi University, to name a few. His award-winning work has appeared in national and international graphic publications. He has exhibited extensively across Long Island. John is exhibiting his Polaroid Transfer prints at the Golden Gallery show. He mounts the negative portion of the Polaroid color film (which is usually thrown away) to another surface, e.g. watercolor paper, rice paper, cloth, etc. and hand colors the transferred image to create art that resembles watercolor paintings, lithograph prints and monoprints. Each print has its own individual character since duplication is impossible. Each and every print is an original work of art.

Connecticut native Ken Spencer graduated from Rochester Institute of Technology in 1964 with a BFA in Photographic Illustration. Minor White and Ralph Hattersley were two of his mentors. Before retiring in 2008, Ken worked as a professional photographer for newspapers and magazines, including 41 years with Newsday. He did mainly feature photography, photojournalism, portraiture, aerial photography, etc. for Newsday's Sunday magazine supplement. He picked up his first camera at age 10. Prior to the digital age, Ken has photographed landscapes using 4" x 5" format in color and in black and white. Having learned to fly, courtesy of the U.S. Air Force, and earning a pilot's license, Ken has specialized in low altitude landscape photography. In 2006 he started a photo blog and has posted one photograph every day since. He and his wife, Katherine, have been married for 48 years and have two grown daughters.

"F-Stop x3" is on view at the Golden Gallery of the Glen Cove Senior Center, 130 Glen Street, Glen Cove from the beginning of September through October. The gallery is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The public is invited to attend the opening reception from 1-2 p.m. on Thursday, September 3 to meet these three talented and personable artists and to view their photographs. Admission is free. For more information, call the senior center at 759-9610 or visit www.glencoveseniorcenter.com.

Gold Coast Concours/Bimmerstock 2015 Car Show Set for September 20 in Glen Cove Proceeds to benefit the Diabetes Research Institute

The Gold Coast Concours/Bimmerstock 2015 Car Show committee announced today that the 2015 event will be held on Sunday, September 20, 2015 (Rain or Shine) from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Glen Cove, New York. Presented by Martino Auto Concepts with all proceeds benefitting the Diabetes Research Institute, this annual event is attended by thousands of local residents and car enthusiasts. According to show organizer, Joe La Padula of Martino Auto Concepts, in the past five years the Car Show has raised $338,000.00 with all proceeds dedicated to supporting research to find a cure for diabetes. "We are incredibly grateful for the support of Martino Auto Concepts, the City of Glen Cove, Exotics4Life.com and the owners of the more than 700 exotic, European and custom vehicles that exhibit each year to support this worthy cause," said Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton, a Diabetes Research Institute Foundation board member.

Embarking on its eighth anniversary, show founder Joe La Padula of Martino Auto Concepts said, "It is a privilege to work with the Long Island car community on creating an event that has raised such a large amount of money to help people with Diabetes." "The Gold Coast Concours/Bimmerstock is a highly anticipated event in downtown Glen Cove and we welcome the opportunity to support special events that can make a difference for families coping with Diabetes," added Mayor Reggie Spinello.

The Diabetes Research Institute at the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine leads the world in cure-focused research. As the largest and most comprehensive research center dedicated to curing diabetes, the DRI is aggressively working to develop a biological cure by restoring natural insulin production and normalizing blood sugar levels without imposing other risks. The Institute is now developing the DRI BioHub, an integrated "mini organ" that mimics the native pancreas and restores natural insulin production. Created for one reason – to cure diabetes, the Diabetes Research Institute is the best hope for a cure.

For more information about the event and sponsorship and journal ad opportunities please call the DRIF Jericho Office at 516-822-1700 or go to: diabetesresearch.org/gold-coast-concours-bimmerstock-2015.

Letters to the Editor

What's the Problem?

To The Editor,

Four years ago both Reggie Spinello and Tony Gallo ran and were elected for City Council on the same Glen Cove Republican ticket. No problem for Tony. Two years ago, Reggie was elected Mayor and Tony was re-elected to the Council on the same Republican Ticket. Again, no problem for Tony.

This year apparently, Tony has a problem with Reggie. For the past two years Tony sat on Mayor Spinello's City Council, with nary a complaint. He never introduced any legislation on his own. He rarely spoke up to criticize anything the Mayor proposed, and he did virtually nothing to separate himself from the rest of the Council. Of course he did have that curious vote against the health and safety legislation to do water testing at Crescent Beach.

Now, Tony has decided he desperately wants to be Mayor. He speaks to the press through his out of town campaign managers and consultants. He agrees to a debate, but later ducks out of it. He surrounds himself with a few disgruntled former Spinello supporters. He puts out inane campaign ads that say nothing.

Tony Gallo has no record, no vision, and has given the voters no reason to vote for him, except that he really does not like the present Mayor. Mayor Spinello on the other hand has kept a lid on taxes, aggressively gone after substandard and illegal housing, and fostered a climate that has attracted new businesses into Glen Cove for the first time in years.

I urge everyone who cares about keeping Glen Cove on the right track, to give Mayor Spinello another two years. We really can't afford the alternative.

Nancy Furlong

Parking

To The Editor,

Kudos to the Village once again. The parking lanes on Summit Avenue have been repainted. As of Thursday, August 12th, anyone with any size non-commercial vehicle can now park legally on Summit Ave., without any kind of retribution. It's a wonderful thing!

Now if the vehicle owners who park on Summit Ave. will be respectful of owners' driveways and not block them, we can all live in peaceful harmony. It would be a beautiful thing!

Carol Voelger

HUH?

To The Editor,

You just can't make this up. Tony Gallo says he wants to be Mayor of Glen Cove. He also says he wants to run for Mayor on the Republican line. Unfortunately, the Republican Party has endorsed Mayor Reggie Spinello for re-election. So Tony has gone out and barely gotten the minimum number of signatures to run in a Republican primary against Mayor Spinello.

So far as anyone can tell, there are only two candidates running for Mayor in the Republican primary – Mayor Spinello and Tony Gallo.

Mayor Spinello has offered to debate Tony Gallo in a public forum so that the voters will know, before voting in the primary, what each candidate stands for. But Mr. Gallo refused to participate in a debate until after the primary election was over.

When the Mayor pointed out to him that primary debates are held before, not after, the primary, Mr. Gallo had to change his excuse for ducking a debate with the Mayor. So he and his handlers came up with this one: "I'm happy to debate any Republican seeking the nomination," declaring that the Mayor, who's already been endorsed by the Republican Party isn't his kind of Republican. Mr. Gallo apparently concludes, therefore, that the only Republican running for office is him. If that's true, however, then why is he running in a primary?

If Mr. Gallo really believes he's the only one running to be on the Republican line, then who does he think he's running against? The answer, of course, is quite simple. Mayor Spinello easily obtained more than enough signatures from Republican Party members to be on the ballot for the Republican nomination.

But Mr. Gallo still refuses to debate the Mayor before the primary. Why? Well, the only conclusion that anyone can reasonably come to is that he's just plain scared to get on a stage and match his ideas against the Mayor's. It's just that simple. He's running a popularity contest in Glen Cove, giving away pizza, snacks, and all other kinds of food and goodies to raise funds for his non-campaign-campaign that he refuses to talk about.

If you think about it, Mr. Gallo's refusal to acknowledge that he has an opponent in the upcoming Republican primary, insisting he's the only one who can debate himself, is like listening to the sound of one hand clapping.

Contrasts

To The Editor,

Cecil, a beautiful lion, was sadly lured from his refuge and killed for a hunter's trophy. This travesty rightfully instilled incredible outrage around the world.... Every media had headlines, and the social media online "blew up" with horror.

Almost simultaneously, doctors at Planned Parenthood were recorded, cavalierly discussing over cocktails, the process of how to control an abortion so that the body parts could be harvested and sold on the market for "research". In this case, far more horrific than the first in its implications, THE SILENCE WAS DEAFENING! No front pages, not much in the media except for one or two channels, spots given to PP to cover their u know what in order not to lose funding, but other than that, just buried.

If you have not seen these videos,

I strongly urge you to do so. They are revolting and beyond comprehension and belief. As of this writing you can Google "Planned parenthood videos" and take a look at what comes up. If you are not profoundly affected by these, but were outraged by the death of Cecil, perhaps help is required.

Abortions in this country since the 1973 Roe V Wade decision number over 57.7 Million: Babies who were never allowed to see the light of day or bring to the world the gifts of Music, Art, Science, and the Compassion for others so badly lacking today. People, wake up; this number of persons represents a generation or more!

Curious the term "fetus" now seems confined to PRIOR "counseling" of the poor souls confronted with this so called choice, but suddenly becomes "babies" for sale, whole or in part, AFTER the abortion. One of the videos actually records the doctor using the word, "a baby boy", whose arms, legs, etc are anticipated to be used for their nefarious purposes. There is even a price list, although some price adjustments can be negotiated; the doctors actually joking that she had to get her Lamborghini.

I wonder how many patients were told of the results of the abortion, and would have consented under those circumstances. Too bad PP was successful in their fight to NOT have to show prospective patients the sonogram of the baby. Technology has advanced light years since the Roe V Wade decision, and we are now able to see, in color, the little human being every future mother carries within her almost from conception. It is a growing, feeling, being and that can no longer be denied. The pain to the baby during the abortion process would not be tolerated for any other living thing. To say that fetal tissue is required for scientific study is to make us no better than those who participated in Hitler's Nazi experiments prior and during WWII. (Reference Nuremburg Trials).

Future generations will look at what is being done today and will mark us as Barbarians, no different than those on other continents today taking life in the name of whatever purpose they choose. They will wonder how so many stayed silent in the face of the proof that now exists. Would you have an answer? Does anyone?

Marie Coyle

One, Two, Three

To The Editor,

I notice some degree of support in the community for incumbent Mayor Spinello, but my own impressions of him have not been so positive. In dealing with certain issues, I detect a certain degree of intransigency on his part - and not keeping an open mind.

There are some issues in a city that can be quite complex and may require multiple levels of discussion. But there are some issues that can be resolved one-two-three. Let me describe two situations which are of the one-two-three variety, where their solutions are so simple that I am amazed that they remain unresolved since March of this year.

One is that there are two sets of double doors entering City Hall on Glen Street, and only one of the double is ever unlocked. I fear the consequence of 100 people needing to escape a fire and panicking when they discover doors that will not open. Common sense dictates that those double doors should be completely unlocked whenever City Hall is open. The mayor opts to take a calculated risk and hope there will be no fire.

The other is that there is no street sign at the intersection of Charles Street (one-way westbound) and Glen Cove Ave, right next to the firehouse. So far as I can determine, this may be the only intersection in the entire city without a street sign. It happens to be a very busy intersection. The mayor has stated that he sees no need for one. How can that be?

Bob Prayer

The Silent Councilman

To The Editor,

Anyone who attended the Glen Cove Pre-City Council meeting on August 18, was shown the number one reason why the upcoming primary may be the most important election in our city's recent history.

For almost an hour, the City Council, with Councilman Spagnoletti noticeably absent, discussed a number of issues that will be voted on at the full City Council meeting on August 25. The Council discussed finance issues; Councilman Gallo was silent. The Council discussed purchasing issues; Councilman Gallo was silent. The Council discussed hiring and human resource issues; Councilman Gallo was silent.

Finally the Council members were asked to discuss various plans presented for the future of Coles School. In the past few weeks Councilman Gallo's campaign has issued press releases touting his plan to somehow find the astronomical sum of 9 million dollars to renovate Coles School for a City run Recreation Center. Surely, this was the opportunity for Councilman Gallo to make his case for his 9 million dollar Rec Center. Instead, as the Mayor and the other council members discussed the future of the school, Councilman Gallo was silent.

North Shore High School Student Chosen to Attend the Apple World Wide Developer Conference (WWDC)

Congratulations go out to Grant Goodman, a fifteen year old at North Shore High School student, who was chosen to attend the prestigious World Wide Developer Conference (WWDC) hosted by Apple Inc. in San Francisco this June 2015. This is the second time that he participated in the respected WWDC conference where Apple's renowned developer community (over 1,000 Apple engineers) comes together to learn about the future of Apple products. This year, it included, the revamped iTunes Radio, streaming music led by a new Apple Music subscription service, and the debut of new tools allowing developers to build native Apple Watch apps. Grant has already published five apps on the Apple Store!

In just two years, Grant Goodman has gone from attending Yale Tech camp to becoming CEO of his own software company. He said, "I have always been interested in computers since four years old and received my first computer from my grandfather when I was nine." He continued, "I have always used Apple products because of their modern design, simple user interface, and how well they treat their consumers." He attributes his passion of computer coding and developing to his "love of languages". Currently, Grant is studying German, Russian, Arabic, Mandarin, and Latin, just to name a few! Additionally, he is in the process of programming an app for North Shore High School that will allow students to remotely sign up for community service events and track their hours through an iPad or cell phone.

Grant is also a member of the North Shore High School FIRST Robotics team who won the Long Island SBPLI Regional Championship under the direction of Mr. Peroni and Ms. LeMar. Coach Peroni stated, "Grant is an asset to our robotics team. He took the initiative to develop our team's website creating a layout that was more user friendly. Next year, he will work on embedded projects involving coding our robot, creating apps to control our competition robot from an iOS device, and developing a scouting app that we can implement during our competitions." He added, "When you speak with Grant, you can instantly tell he is full of knowledge and potential."

This year, Grant was featured in an article in US News and World Report titled, "Teen App Developer Sets Sights on Future as Next Steve Jobs," and was interviewed on the FOX 5 News channel. This summer, Grant will be interning at a company that has agreements with Apple Inc. When thinking about the future, Grant said, "I want to attend MIT, Yale, or Harvard and see myself one day working for a large computer company." We at North Shore wish Grant the best of luck in all of his endeavors.

2015 Mayor's Snapper Derby Generations Turn Out For Morning of Fishing and Family Fun

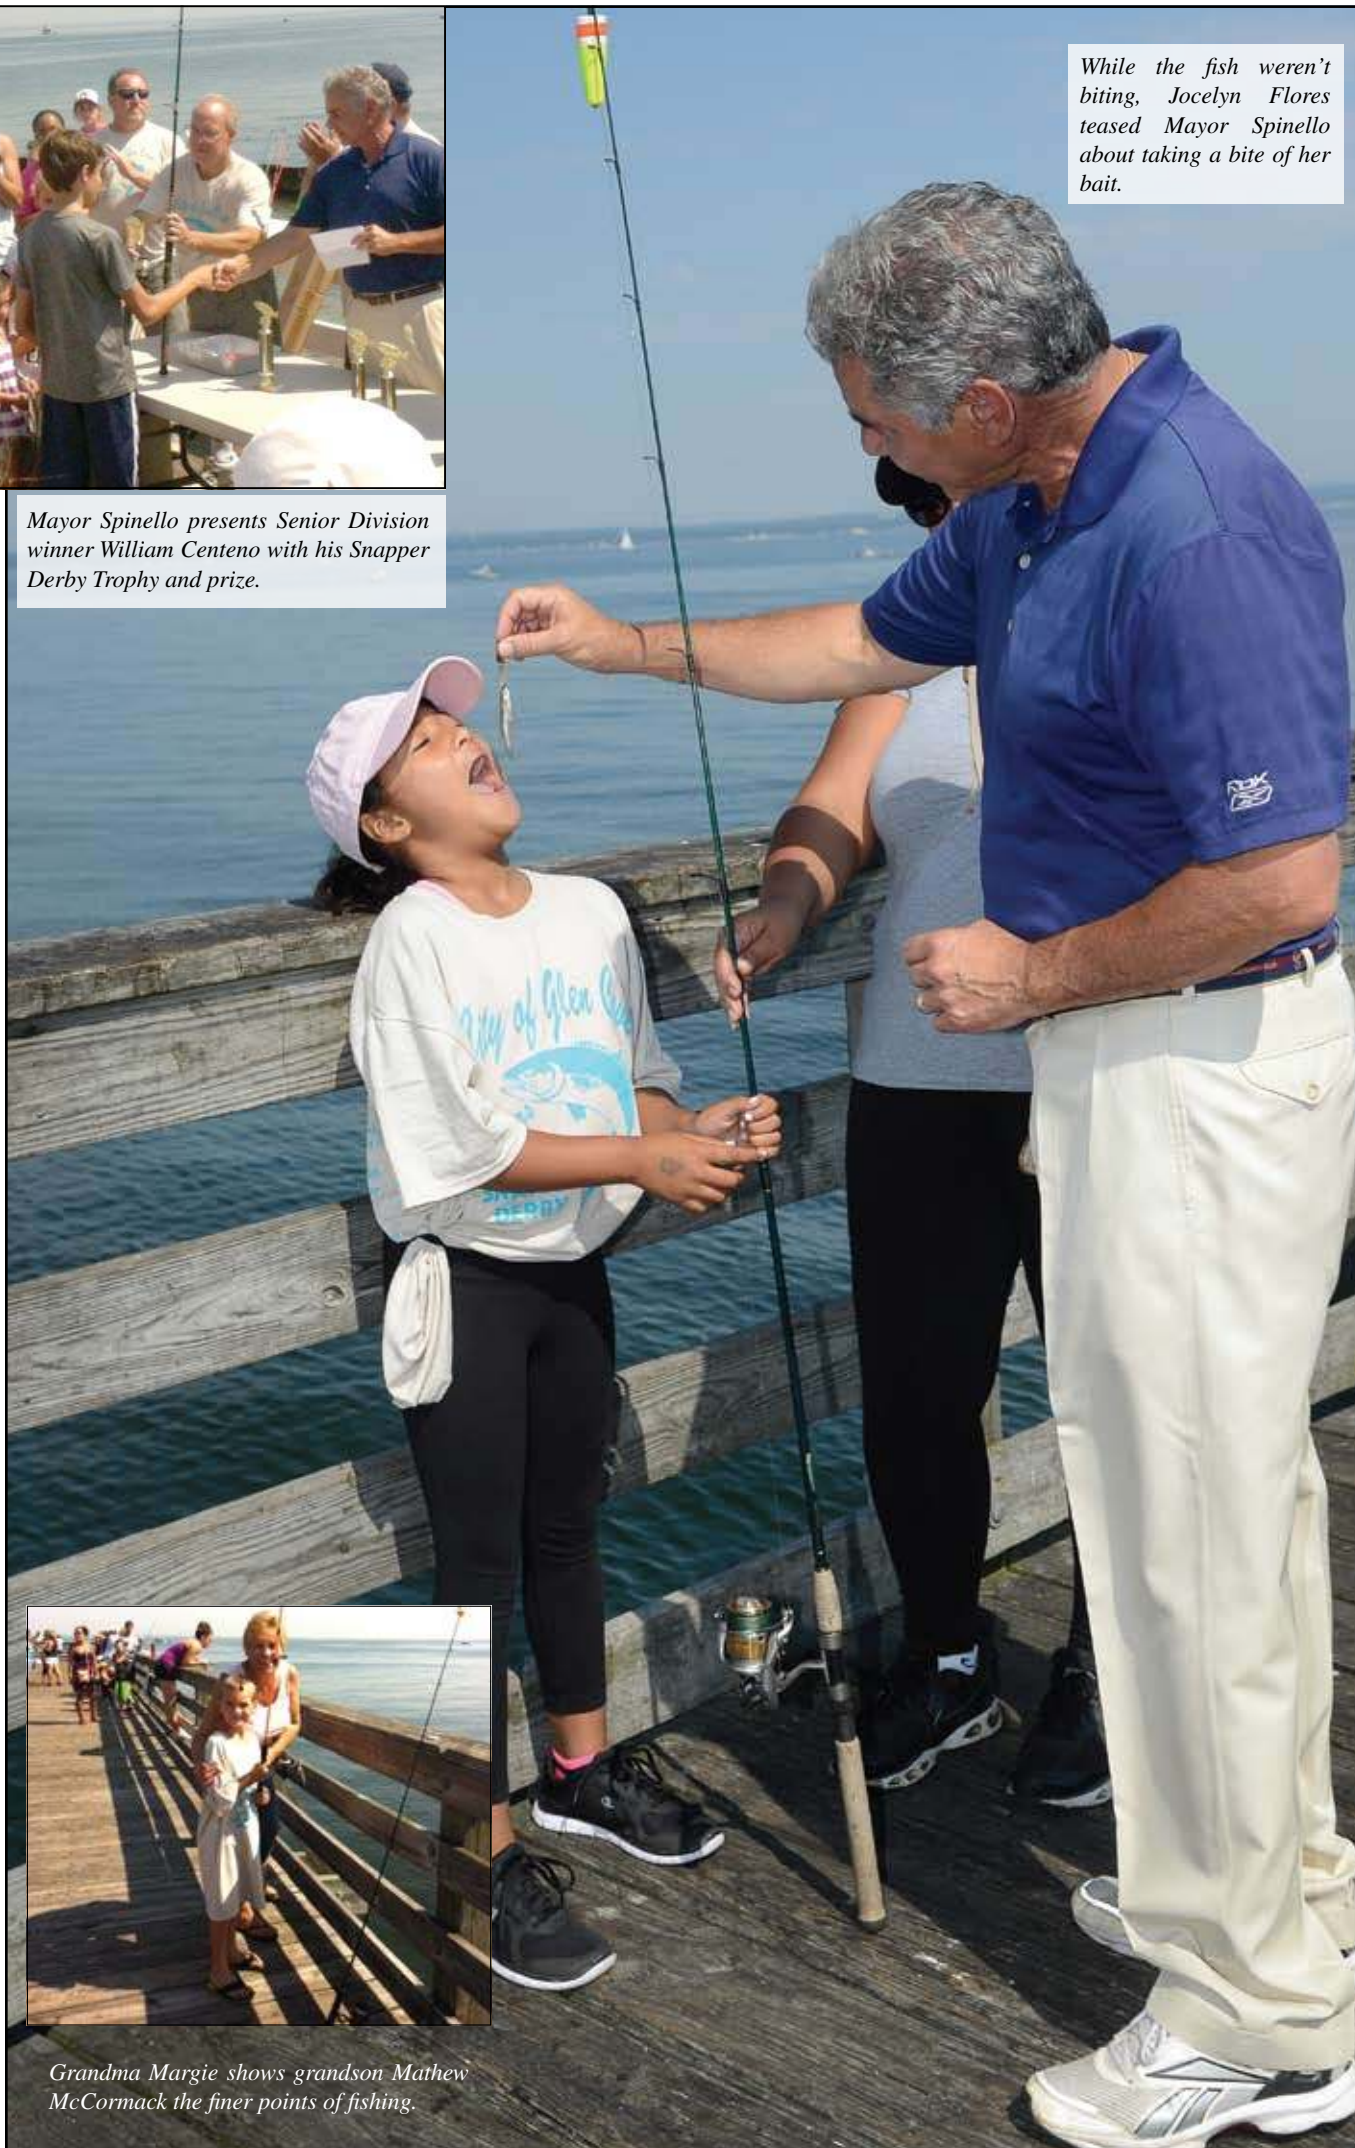

August 17, 2015...The 2015 Mayor's Snapper Derby hosted by the Glen Cove Anglers Club brought out 75 children to the Prybil Beach Fishing Pier for a morning of "reel" fun. While the fish didn't cooperate with this year's competition, kids and their families did catch a day of sun and surprises," said Glen Cove Mayor Reggie Spinello. "Every child was a winner," added Tom Manzione of the Glen Cove Anglers Club. "Thanks to generosity of our event sponsors each child received a free tee-shirt, hot dog and soft drink and a fishing accessory." And while it was a challenge to hook a big one, four participants did succeed in winning with their own catch of the day. Winners of the 2015 Mayor's Snapper Derby were:

Junior Division:
Sammy McCrindle, first place

Senior Division:

Mayor's Column

From the Desk of Mayor Spinello for Glen Cove

A Greener Glen Cove

For municipalities across the United States, one of the key priorities for local government is exploring new programs and initiatives to help their communities be more environmentally conscious, energy efficient and green. What cities have learned is that small gestures can make a significant difference. Within the scope of what it takes to think green, there are a number of areas that are covered. Those areas include efficiency in waste and energy management, recycling and evaluating the number of acres of land dedicated to community green space. For the City of Glen Cove and in partnership with our Department of Public Works, we have undertaken a series of initiatives to help reduce the amount of solid waste in our landfills, increase energy efficiency and are interested in exploring new areas including solar technology and green rooftops and buildings. We are also helping our residents pursue the opportunity to convert from oil to natural gas by working with the National Grid to respond to the needs of interested neighborhoods.

Single Stream Recycling

On August 3, we kicked-off our new Single Stream Recycling program. Under the campaign theme, "All In. One Bin," residents now have a more convenient way to recycle. This innovative and effective recycling program allows residents to place ALL of their recyclable materials into one blue recycling bin or use one of their own garbage cans (up to 32 gallons) with a Single Stream sticker for all recyclable products. Residents can put paper, newspapers, magazines, cereal boxes, cardboard, metal and aluminum cans, junk mail, glass bottles and jars, plastics and plastic containers labeled 1-7 all in the same Glen Cove blue recycling bin or a specially designated receptacle.

According to Doug Poncet, our Sanitation supervisor, Single Stream Recycling has been well received by the Glen Cove community as people are doing a great job in putting more recyclable materials into their bins – up to 25% to 50% more for some of our residents - and in separate containers with Single Stream Recycling stickers (remember free stickers are available at the Department of Public Works in City Hall). We greatly appreciate Glen Cove's enthusiastic response and look forward to everyone's ongoing commitment. In fact, many Long Island communities have seen recycling participation increase by up to 25 percent with this program and we would welcome the opportunity to follow their lead as the more people recycle, the more Glen Cove can save money and reduce the waste sent to landfills. To learn more about Single Stream Recycling, visit our web site, www.glencove-li.us, and view our new instructional video and informational materials.

Energy Efficient Lighting

Another area that is of interest to the City is reducing our energy costs by converting to energy efficient lighting. LED lighting has been installed at the DPW yard and the Pulaski Street Parking Garage. It's interesting to note that the LED lights in the garage were installed as part of a PSEG Rebate program and will save the City approximately $3,600 a month in lighting costs with the entire project paying for itself in 14 months. LED street lights are currently in use on New Woods Road and will soon be as part of the new Garvies Point Road improvement slated for next year. These new lighting choices save energy, money and time without comprising visibility and safety.

Solar and Green Buildings

Two other areas of interest for my administration is the use and potential installation of solar panels in key city facilities and researching the feasibility of green rooftops and green building structures in Glen Cove.

As Glen Cove continues to "Think Greener," we welcome suggestions from our residents and appreciate your continued support of Single Stream Recycling.

Community Mourns Fran Udell

Fran Udell, the former co-owner of London Jewelers, the five-store chain which started right here in Glen Cove, August 1 at the age of 94.

"Fran London Udell was the cornerstone of London Jewelers," says current president Candy Udell, Fran's daughter-in-law. "Retail was in her blood as she lived and breathed it everyday. She was a powerhouse, a force of nature, a woman who wore many hats at time when most women stayed home."

Fran Udell was the daughter of Charles London, a self-taught clockmaker who emigrated from Europe in 1923, hoping to make enough money to summon his wife and children. He started out going door to door selling his repair services and opened his first store three years later. It initially specialized in clocks but later grew to include jewelry to reflect the tastes of the Roaring '20s.

Six years after he left for America, London had earned money to bring over the rest of his family. Fran remembered her first time seeing the store: It was "our savior... a tiny, dark, humble shop built with dreams of freedom, hope, and joy."

Fran spent years working with her father, learning the business. In 1939, she went on a blind date with Mayer Udell, who had just emigrated from Europe at his family's urging at the start of World War II. Fran and Mayer were married seven years later; her father picked out the engagement ring. Mayer later became company chairman, running the business with his wife.

Fran Udell is survived by sons Mark, who serves as company CEO, and Ira; five grandchildren, three of whom work in the family business—Randi Udell Alper, Zachary Udell, and Scott Udell, who works alongside wife Jessica; and seven great grandchildren.

Mayer died in July in 2014.

Donations in her memory can be made to Siegel Multiple Myeloma Fund or Congregation Tifereth Israel in Glen Cove, N.Y.

Name the Celebrity

This week's celebrity was born on July 17, 1910 in St. Louis, Missouri. Reputedly a descendant of Irish kings, she was a multi-lingual and widely traveled. A graduate from Sarah Laurence College, she made her Broadway debut in 1933 in "Carrie Nation." Three years later, she appeared in "Ten Million Ghosts" with Orson Welles, prompting interest from Hollywood, where she made a career out of playing a succession of neurotic or sweetly dependable wives. Her best roles were in Director King Vidor's "Stella Dallas" (1937) with Barbara Stanwyck, Anne Shirley and John Boles and "All This and Heaven, Too" (1940) with Bette Davis and Charles Boyer.

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was born

Aldo Da Re but later changed it to Aldo Ray. His first film with his new name was "The Marrying Kind" (1952) with Judy Holliday. He also starred opposite Rita Hayworth in "Miss Sadie Thompson" (1953) which was a remake of the W. Somerset Maugham story "Rain" (1932), a pre-Hays Code film with Joan Crawford and Walter Huston. This began the most productive period of Aldo's career. In 1955, he was featured in starring roles in "Battle Cry" with Anne Francis, Van Heflin and James Whitmore, "Three Stripes in the Sun", and one of his best-loved films, "We're No Angels" with Humphrey Bogart, Peter Ustinov, Basil Rathbone, Leo. G. Carroll and Joan Bennett. In 1956, he tried his hand at radio, working as a personality and announcer at Syracuse's hit music station WNDR. In 1958, he starred with Robert Ryan, Jack Lord and Buddy Hackett in "God's Little Acre" based on Erskine Caldwell's 1933 novel of the same name. As the 1960s ended, Hollywood's appetite for Ray's machismo started to wane. Though he worked steadily in the 1970s, the quality and quantity of his roles diminished, and he was typically cast as gruff and gravelly rednecks. On March 27, 1991, he died of throat cancer at the age of 65.

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
With just a few weeks until school reopens, I'd like to get some serious reading time in, but there are two great concerts coming up in the next few days: Chicken Head at Memorial Park on Thursday and The Rusty String Band opened by Boehm and Barker at the Beach on Friday. Do you have a fast moving, thought-provoking novel I can get into over the next week?
Not Wanting Summer to End

Dear Not Wanting Summer to End,
I have just the thing to cap off your summer: the Sea Cliff Civic Association is planning a new event : Muppets Movie, Music, and More- a family social on Sunday, August 30 from 6:30 to 9:30pm at Roslyn Park so make sure you give yourself enough time to finish THE NEW NEIGHBOR by Leah Stewart, this week's recommendation. Ninety-year-old Margaret Riley lives on a mountaintop in Sewanee, Tennessee- lonely, angry, and very secretive- when a new neighbor moves in across the way. This new neighbor Jennifer, also lonely and angry, is guarding a dangerous secret. In alternating chapters, the women begin to reveal intimate details of their lives - from Margaret's World War II horrific battlefield memories as an army nurse to Jennifer's painful years with an abusive addict husband. The local librarian whom Margaret finds intrusive, the helicopter parent Jennifer befriends, Milo her young son, Margaret's aggrieved niece... all make for wonderful background stories, but the book's greatest strength lies in its ability to create an aura of dark suspense. Highly recommended!

Honoring Harbor Patrol

Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton was pleased to honor the Glen Cove Harbor Patrol for going above and beyond in keeping the public safe in Glen Cove waters. A recent example of how a situation can become life or death very quickly on the water happened off Prybil Beach. On regular patrol, Officers Montesano and Biundo and Lt. Dominguez spotted a swimmer in trouble. A woman was swimming off a boat and had been caught in a strong current and was struggling. A friend had jumped in to help her and was also in trouble. The Patrol threw out a lifeline and was able to bring them both on board the Patrol boat, check that they were OK and return them to their boat. The Glen Cove Harbor Patrol has many duties; they assist boaters, enforce marine ordinance, ensure public safety, conduct safety inspections and rescue operations. They assist and collaborate with the Nassau County Police Marine Bureau, the Town of North Hempstead, Rye and Larchmont Harbor Patrols. The Patrol covers 6 miles of shore line and 32 square miles of water, including all of Hempstead Harbor and the Sound from Execution Lighthouse to Peacock Point. Photo: pictured Sgt. Grenville Baker Boys & Girls Club Participates In The 2015 Warrior Dash

On Saturday, August 8th, Grenville Baker Boys & Girls Club Keystone Club traveled to Millville, New Jersey for the 2015 Warrior Dash. This year's Warrior Dash was a 3.1 mile race through the woods that included twelve physically challenging obstacles. Some of the obstacles included climbing cargo ropes, crawling through dirt tunnels, scaling mountains of mud, and jumping over fire. The Club's Keystoners had an amazing time running the race and defeated all of the obstacles, using their teamwork and months of training to overcome the challenges. Participating in the Warrior Dash was the culmination of GBBGC's "Stronger Than Yesterday" Summer Campaign, which promotes healthy habits and regular exercise to the Club's members. This is the second year the Keystone Club has participated in the Warrior Dash and they are already looking forward to next year's event and obstacles.

The Keystone Club at Grenville Baker Boys & Girls Club is a nationally chartered leadership and service club for teenagers ages 14-18. Now entering its 51st year, Keystone is Boys & Girls Clubs of America's premier teen leadership program. Keystone Clubs are teen leadership groups within Boys and Girls Clubs that focus on leadership development through community service projects. Over the past year, the 26 members of Grenville Baker's Keystone Club have performed more than 2000 hours of community service including volunteering at the Mary Brennan Inn Soup Kitchen in Hempstead, running a fundraiser to donate funds to the Wounded Warrior Project at the Veteran's Day Parade in New York City and helping our younger Club members with their homework.

For Sixty-Five years, the Club has served as a cornerstone of our community. Today, Grenville Baker plays an important role, filling the need for a safe place for kids to learn and to have fun.
