Sea Cliff Residents Protest Glen Cove Waterfront Development Sea Cliff Mayor Considering Lawsuit Against Neighboring City

by Kevin C. Horton

Packing the Glen Cove City Council Chambers, Sea Cliff residents attended the Glen Cove Planning Board meeting of October 6, protesting the approval of the initial phase of the waterfront's development.

The Sea Cliff residents came to the meeting, in part, due to reading a letter to the editor printed in last week's Gazette from Sea Cliff Mayor Bruce Kennedy.

Available on the GlenIsle.com web site are renderings of the project. Above depicts the view from Sea Cliff's road, Cliff Way. Mayor Kennedy said, "I think it is incredibly out of character with the area. Additionally, since Cliff Way is considerably higher than the beach it minimizes the real appearance. Down on the beach and along the waterfront, the viewer will be looking UP at the building, and it will appear taller than the tree line - a lot taller." Kennedy said he requested a rendering from that vantage point but has not seen one to date.

Glen Cove United Party Will Appear On November Ballot

In a court decision Mayoral candidate Tony Gallo and his slate of City Council candidates, Nancy Hawkins, John Perrone, Philip Pidot, Carlos Shimabukuro, Efraim Spagnoletti, and Roderick Watson, will all be candidates of the Glen Cove United Party. The party line petitions had been challenged by the Republican party.

"Democracy has prevailed," said Gallo. "Hundreds of Glen Cove citizens petitioned for ballot access on this new line, to ensure people would have a choice in an election that otherwise would have featured the current mayor on every line resulting in an unopposed mayoral election. Having overcome these attempts to silence the people's voice, we will proudly and firmly represent their interests in this campaign and in City Hall."

To win in November, Glen Cove United will make its appeal to voters of all political affiliations. On the new party's founding philosophy, Gallo stated, "My team and I recognize that the problems that plague Glen Cove are not solely the product of Republicans or Democrats. Instead of partisan bickering, we need common sense solutions to our major self-inflicted problems: overdevelopment, fiscal mismanagement, and a refusal to speak honestly about our financial crisis."

"The developer of the proposed project, RXR, has requested to modify their proposal in such a manner that could have dire consequences on the entire North Shore," the Mayor wrote. "They have requested the elimination of the hotel/convention center and the creation of a 1,110 unit residential skyscraper right at the mouth of Hempstead Harbor. The amended plan calls for a monstrous 125 foot tall 635,000 square foot building on our waterfront. This building is 30% larger in mass than the previous ghastly proposal. This proposed structure is larger than either of the RXR towers in Uniondale. Development of this nature is not conducive to the bucolic character of the North Shore."

Noting the large crowd of residents, including Sea Cliff Mayor Bruce Kennedy, Planning Board Chairman Thomas Scott said, "This is not a public hearing," but in the interest of fairness, "I'll allow Mayor Kennedy a total of ten minutes to speak on the topic." He noted that public hearings had been held and publicized a number of times prior to this meeting.

Kennedy said, "The proposed Glen

Cove waterfront redevelopment, because of its tremendous density, is not just a Glen Cove issue – it is a regional issue. Former Mayor Tom Suozzi [in 2000] envisioned and proposed a true mixed use development for Garvies Point, consisting of shops, restaurants, office buildings, entertainment, and no more than 500 residential units. A planned hotel and conference center would draw visitors to Glen Cove, many via the proposed ferry. However, now the developer seeks to eliminate a substantial portion of the WATERFRONT continued on page 2

Community Mourns Herbert J. Schmidt Jr.

A sailor's sailor has finished his last race. Herbert J. Schmidt Jr., 86, of Glen Head, NY, loving husband, father, businessman, and friend to all, passed away on August 16, 2015, from complications due to Parkinson's disease. He is survived by his beloved wife of 60 years, Barbara, their children Karen (Karen Pinell), Linda (Michael Patton), and Keith (Sheilah), and four grandchildren William, Andrew, Karl, and James. A memorial service was held on Sunday, August 23, 2015 at the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club (MBYC).

Herb was born in December 1928 in Cleveland, Ohio to the late Herbert J. Schmidt Sr. and Emily Clayton Schmidt. He graduated from the Illinois Institute of Technology in 1951 with a B.S. in Civil Engineering. He served as a Lieutenant in the U.S. Navy Civil Engineering Corps. He was a registered Professional Engineer in California, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island, and a Certified Corrosion Engineer.

An internationally recognized expert and author in the field of corrosion protection of metal products. He was a pioneer, innovator and leader in the plant application of extended life protective coatings on steel reinforcing bars, steel piling and structural steel. He founded three successful businesses. He developed the world's first automated centrifugal abrasive blast cleaning and fusion bonded coating production line for coating multiple steel reinforcing bars simultaneously. In 1977, he was issued a patent for the design of an automated multiple transfer, indexing and loading device for rebars and dowel bars. He was responsible for the formation of the Fusion Bonded Coaters Association, which merged into the Concrete Reinforcing Steel Institute (CRSI). For many years, mixed use and dramatically increase the residential component to 1,110 units.” Mayor Kennedy stated that Sea Cliff’s two largest concerns were with the substantial increase in size of the largest building and the incremental increase in traffic by making it all residential.

“The visual impact from Sea Cliff will be dreadful and the increase in vehicular traffic through small Sea Cliff streets will create dangerous conditions.” He made reference that, “F. Scott Fitzgerald would be rolling in his grave if he knew what was being proposed to be built at the site of the green light on Daisy’s dock,” referring to the book The Great Gatsby. He pointed out that the 635,000 square foot building, the structured proposed to be the closest to the Sea Cliff shore, would be one of the largest buildings in either Nassau or Suffolk Counties. Kennedy insisted that because of the multiple adverse environmental impacts that would result from the proposed amendment that an SEIS was beyond reasonable to be expected.

Broken Agreement?

After the meeting, outside, Kennedy told reporters and residents that he was considering all options including potential legal action against the city in part for a breach of a memorandum of understanding dated October 5, 2000 which was set by then Glen Cove Mayor Tom Suozzi and Sea Cliff Mayor Claudia Moyne along with the North Shore Environmental Alliance, Inc.

Kennedy said, “In 2000, Sea Cliff and Glen Cove were entangled in litigation over proposed plans to re-develop the Garvies Point waterfront... This agreement was signed to address the potential adverse impacts the overall development would have on all the North Shore communities. Among other things, this agreement stated that overall development (including the ferry terminal) would not exceed 700,000 square feet, that the proposed hotel/convention center would not exceed 250 rooms nor exceed the then current zoning height of 45 feet, and created safe-harbor hours when the ferry could not run. Most importantly, the agreement in recognizing the significant environmental impact this project would have on the regional communities called for the establishment of the Glen Cove Creek Redevelopment Commission. The objective of this six member Commission (chaired by the Mayors of Glen Cove and Sea Cliff) was to reach consensus and to render advice to the Glen Cove IDA regarding the scope of the environmental impact studies as it relates to the development of the waterfront. The parties were to share and respond to ideas and input regarding specific aspects of the development in order to promote harmonious resolutions of any concerns that may arise.

“All residents of the North Shore should insist that a Supplemental Environmental Impact Statement, which can properly address the impact of the modification, be mandatory. The effects of this substantial revision to the original plan is sure to have devastating effects on traffic in the area, the aesthetic beauty of the Harbor, water quality, sewage treatment capacity, damage to the newly recovering ecosystem, strain on the school system, burden on local water supply, and overburdening the fire and police services.” Kennedy added, “Most importantly, there is an agreement in place – a legally binding contract – between two adjoining municipalities. This is one of the reasons people don’t trust government anymore, because of broken promises and broken agreements. This development is bad for Sea Cliff and all surrounding communities and I think it will ultimately cause financial ruin for the people of Glen Cove.”

A site tour with balloon markers to define the buildings’ mass must be offered to the public before the Glen Cove Planning Board/ City Council makes a final decision.

Impact Most

Given ten minutes to speak on behalf of the residents Mayor Kennedy gave a few of his minutes to Sea Cliff resident and attorney Amy Marion who said, “The west side of this development project is what will impact Sea Cliff the most. Although the gross square footage of the private development is less, from 2,225,680 to 1,719,932 the west side building is larger under the amended master plan as compared to block A under the prior approved plan claiming that consolidating the density into just two development blocks on the west side has numerous design advantages for the city and public. The plan proposes to split block A into two separate towers, allegedly to break up the massing when viewed from the harbor; and that the Planning Board finds that the heights of the proposed buildings on Blocks A1/A2 and B2 would be comparable to the heights of the buildings previously approved under the 2011 PUD Master Development Plan, including the 12-story buildings on the prior Blocks A and C; and the height of the buildings on Block A1/A2 can be as tall as the treetop elevation of the ridgeline of Garvies Point Preserve.”

Marion also noted that additionally the restaurant will be relocated to the western point of the project site, “and other retail space and casual eateries along with 123 restaurant parking spaces, creating light pollution along with all sorts of other pollution.”

After letting Kennedy speak the Planning Board voted to approve the revision to the project as the packed audience shouted, “No, no.” All but one of the board members voted in favor.

Recent History

The proposed waterfront project has been a vision for the City of Glen Cove since Tom Suozzi as Mayor first considered it in the 1990’s. Most recently on September 16 at a public hearing, certain changes in the physical layout of the proposed redevelopment of only the west side of the Property as a result of eliminating the hotel changing the project to 1,110 residential units according to Marion.

Before the second public hearing began on September 16, 2015, Mayor Kennedy hand delivered to the Planning Board a three page letter from the Village’s Attorney, together with the Memorandum of Understanding from 2000.

The Planning Board notes that the Village participated in the prior SEQRA review of the approved 2011 PUD Master Development Plan- which contained a 12-story building on Block A at the Project’s westernmost end, and an up to 12-story hotel on block C also on the west side- including by submitting a comment letter to the board dated July 17, 2009, signed by the same Village Mayor, which raised, among other things, certain transportation and other aesthetic concerns, all of which were fully studied and addressed during the prior SEQRA review. Mayor Kennedy disputes that the Village’s specific objections were properly addressed in the EIS, in fact he states that many of the Village’s concerns were ignored.

Call For Balloons

In a letter writing campaign residents of Sea Cliff were encouraged to present letters to the City of Glen Cove reading, “I am writing this letter to let you know that I oppose the Amended Planned Unit Development application in connection with the Garvies Point Waterfront Redevelopment project.

“Although alternative plans to the original conceptual site plan were included in the Final Environmental Impact Statement, including market conditions and technical construction challenges which may have resulted in reconsideration of the original plan, I take exception with the relatively short notice given to the public to evaluate the impact of some significant changes.

“There was no outreach conducted to inform or get feedback from the public interest groups and other stakeholders before the announcement in June.

“The massive size of the consolidated 11/12 story structure and its impact on the surrounding landscape are difficult to imagine and unprecedented for Hempstead Harbor shoreline development.

“A site tour with balloon markers to define the buildings’ mass must be offered to the public before the Glen Cove Planning Board/ City Council makes a final decision.

“In addition, this new plan raises concerns regarding increased nitrogen run off, impact to the water supply system, traffic, and post-Sandy sea level rise and flooding.”

More than 3.5 Million

Before the Planning Board meeting the Glen Cove City Council along with Mayor Reginald Spinello held their pre-council meeting in which the Mayor rolled out his draft of the city’s budget. In it is a line item expecting the sale of the waterfront property of 3.5 million dollars to be used in the budget’s general fund with the final sale of the property expected to be before the end of 2015. The city also budgeted for an additional million dollars included in building permits, etc.

Residents who also attended the meeting were surprised at the figure, thinking the total sale was 3.5 million.

The Mayor later explained that the actual contractual sale was in excess of 15 million, agreed to by prior administrations. Of the 15 million prior loans are due for the city’s portion of the cleanup of the property, a requirement of the sale. “The city has paid out millions and now we’re going to start seeing that money come back.” He noted that the Federal Government, as part of the Brownfield Cleanup agreement, “paid close to $100 million as well.”

Spinello noted the push back from the neighboring community but said that the proposed amendment would be better for the area than the prior proposal. He also noted that the property will include 29 parks, open spaces, restaurants, boat ramps, retail space, etc. Excited he said the city is very happy with its relationship with the developer. “This will get rid of a blighted area of our city... It will turn Glen Cove around.”

Scouts Journey To Lake Grove

by Matt Hardie

On September 12 the boy scouts of Troop 43 set out for a long journey to Lake George. It was there that the scouts enjoyed lots fishing and swimming to a small island not far from the shore. Overlooking the campsite was Rogers Rock, a historical hill and a great hike. However, the most memorable part of the trip was by far the reenactment of Brown's Raid at Fort Ticonderoga. An action packed battle filled with cannons and muskets took place just feet away from the crowd and boy was it loud. The only thing wrong with this trip was the fact that we had to return home, but not before taking full advantage of the long weekend.

Mayor Spinello Joins Proud Parents to Celebrate Karate Graduation

Students performed martial arts moves for family, friends at St. Patrick's Church.

Over 150 members from GMA Martial Arts, located at 275 Glen St, gathered at St. Patrick's Church for a special graduation ceremony to celebrate the hard work and dedication put in by young martial artists over the last few months. The graduating class demonstrated a variety of karate techniques with both power and precision. In addition to technical knowledge, the students were required to show improvement in their behavior at home, focus in school, and overall physical fitness.

Mayor Reggie Spinello joined the ceremony and commended the parents for choosing martial arts lessons for their children. "I appreciate the efforts of Sensei Hender Alvarado and his staff for helping to develop our community's future leaders by instilling discipline and building confidence in our children through their martial arts training, said Mayor Spinello. "We sincerely appreciate the Mayor's presence at our graduation ceremony as well as the good relationship we have with St. Patrick's Church," said Sensei Hender, owner of the martial arts studio. "I want also extend our thanks to Father Daniel Nash for facilitating the use of the church's cafeteria." The next graduation is scheduled for December of 2015.

A Reunion at Landing

Landing Elementary School teacher Helen Greene met with students from her 1964 fourth-grade class during a reunion that included heartfelt reminiscing and a school tour.

The meeting was organized by Landing alumni David Summergrad, Pam Donaldson Panzenbeck and Debbie Sturm Rausch, with assistance from Dr. Michael Israel, the assistant superintendent for curriculum, instruction and technology. The visit began with Dr. Israel giving 14 of Greene's former students a tour of the building, which included a stop in their fourth-grade classroom. Rausch described the experience as "incredible."

"We were instantly transported back in time to the childhood in Glen Cove that we knew and loved," Rausch said. "We immediately knew which one was our classroom and were excited to see the desks are still set up in clusters of four."

Summergrad described the reunion as special and unique and took time to make a historical connection.

"Our original class photo was taken at the height of the Cold War," he said. "It's interesting that we gathered 53 years later as the United States and Cuba have just re-established diplomatic relations."

After their visit to Landing, Greene and her students enjoyed lunch at the View Grill in Glen Cove. Those in attendance had a wonderful time reconnecting with their childhood classmates and teacher.

26 Alicante Students Visit North Shore High School

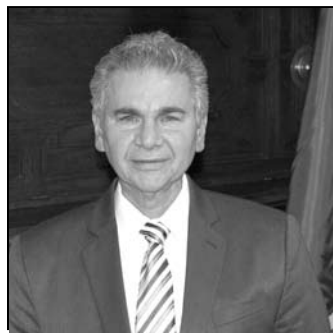

North Shore High School students in the Spanish program had the privilege of hosting exchange students from our sister-school, IES Playa San Juan, near the city of Alicante on the Costa Blanca in Spain. Twenty-six students, accompanied by their teachers, lived with North Shore families and attended the high school from September 8-22. Additionally, North Shore students hosted the Alicante children by touring them around Long Island and Manhattan, and graciously gave them a taste of what New York is like!

While in New York, the students engaged in many educational and enjoyable activities and events. These included day trips to the United Nations, Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island, Washington Square Park, China Town, and Central Park. On Long Island, students also visited Jones Beach and Sagamore Hill, the home of Theodore Roosevelt in Oyster Bay.

The North Shore High School students remarked, "It was a great experience having the Alicante kids here!" In February 2016, the students who hosted will be traveling to Alicante to do a homestay, as well as travel in Spain.

Listening to the Needs of the Glen Cove Residents

Autumn is in the air. With crisp days, roaring crowds cheering for Glen Cove High School's football team and our residents picking the final fruits and vegetables of the season, fall brings a renewed energy for finishing the year's to do lists and planning for the year ahead. Listening to what's top of mind for Glen Cove residents, here are a series of updates on our key initiatives for the City.

Taxes

My 2016 budget presentation to the City Council and public will take place in October. As always my number one priority will be to keep our taxes stable. Real estate taxes are the main revenue source municipalities use to offset the continued rising costs of goods and essential services needed to run the City. With the New York State property tax cap set at .73%, I continue to search for new revenue streams so tax payers don't have to bear the burden of meeting our annual financial obligations. When I took office in 2014 we held the line on taxes and even decreased taxes for commercial businesses. This continues to be a challenging task as with each new fiscal year, the City's expenses increase. Those increases are due to contractual obligations, the rising cost of everything from rock salt to replacing outdated equipment and dealing with whatever Mother Nature sends our way. To cover that financial gap, new revenue generating opportunities are pursued. For Glen Cove, those revenue opportunities may include new developments, new businesses, new programs like Single Stream Recycling and the sale of underperforming assets.

Reducing the Need for Speed

At a recent City Council meeting one Glen Cove resident referred to a road by their home as a "raceway." Each week the Glen Cove Police Department receives many calls on this very topic – speeding on neighborhood streets. But lead foot drivers beware as Chief William Whitton and Deputy Chief Chris Ortiz of the Glen Cove Police Department has pinpointed speeding as one of Glen Cove's top safety concerns. A new program will be introduced later this month that will focus on education and enforcement to encourage drivers to watch their need for speed and drive within the speed limit on various roadways that are connector streets that pass through thickly settled residential areas.

Quality of Life

Glen Cove's Code Enforcement team and City Attorney's office are the unsung heroes of our City's effort to reduce illegal housing and enhance the quality of life in Glen Cove's neighborhoods. Working in partnership with Code Enforcement, our City Attorney Charles McQuair and his team have prosecuted over 70 cases and issued over $250,000 in fines under my administration.

Making Inroads on Glen Cove Road Repairs

Please note that road repair is scheduled for the following streets with work to begin the first week of October: Garden Place, Glengariff Drive, Lincoln Place, Cleveland Place, McKinley Place, Milford Lane, Preston Ct., Norman Ct., Scott Ct., The Outlook, Center Street, Marietta Rd., Highfield Road, Pratt Blvd., Frost Pond Road, Comp Lane and Putnam Avenue. Also, Nassau County has advised us that repairs of the 13 roads they maintain in Glen Cove are in their 2015 capital resurfacing budget. Sections of the roads targeted for repairs include parts of Forest Ave., Dosis Lane, Cottage Row, Town Path, Shore Road, Highland Road, Glen Cove Ave., Elwood St. and others.

Water Department Now Accepting Online Payments

Beginning this month, Glen Cove Water bills can now be paid online at glen Cove.ezonlinepayments.com. As we look ahead to 2016 we are hoping to have this online feature available for property and school tax payments.

Seniors

Membership at the Glen Cove Senior Center does have its privileges as Carol Waldman, executive director of the Center and her team does an outstanding job in offering programs and services that enrich the lives of our senior community members. With the Center's membership expanding, we recently announced that there is now additional parking available at Coles School with free shuttle bus service to the Senior Center. I am also proud of Glen Cove's participation in the Virtual Senior Center program. Homebound seniors have the opportunity to join classes five days a week from their home. Program participants are provided with a free Touch Screen computer and training so that they may enjoy being a part of the Senior Center's activities, virtually.

Recovery Month And Substance Abuse Trends

Every September, the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) sponsors Recovery Month to increase awareness and understanding of mental and substance use issues and celebrate the people who recover. Recovery Month spreads the positive message that behavioral health is essential to overall health, that prevention works, treatment is effective and people can and do recover.

According to SAMHSA, in 2014, an estimated 66.9 million people aged 12 or older were current tobacco users.

SAFE Inc. is the only prevention agency in Glen Cove dedicated to the elimination of alcohol and substance abuse in Glen Cove. The agency continues to work to change societal norms about alcohol and substance abuse through ongoing prevention, intervention and education activities and events. Through the SAFE Glen Cove Coalition, local substance abuse trends are identified and addressed to maintain an ongoing prevention effort.

Executive Director-Dr. Sharon Harris said, "SAFE's goal is early intervention and prevention education." Dr. Harris continued, "According to the 2014 Bach Harrison Prevention Needs Assessment Survey, administered to students in the 6th, 8th, 10th and 12th grades, Glen Cove's youth showed a rise in lifetime and 30-day Tobacco Use. Lifetime cigarette use continues to rise into the 10th grade (18.8%) and 12th grade (39.3%)."

According to Carol Meschkow, Coalition member and Nassau Project Coordinator for the Tobacco Action Coalition of Long Island, "For our youth, reducing initiation is the greatest weapon in the effort to prevent addiction. The New York State Tobacco Control Program continues to focus their efforts on youth for a very clear reason. 90% of smokers smoke their first cigarette by the age of 18. It is during these formative years that our youth are most vulnerable to Tobacco Marketing especially at the Point-of-Sale and we are grateful to partner with SAFE and their Coalition Members to prevent the next generation of smokers."

Glen Cove's "In the Pink" Tulip Planting and Fall Cleanup

A Beautiful Opportunity to Help Glen Cove Bloom & Grow on Saturday, October 17th

Each Spring the City of Glen Cove welcomes the blooming of thousands of pink tulips thanks to the annual pink tulip bulb planting and fall clean-up sponsored by the Glen Cove Beautification Commission and Glen Cove C.A.R.E.S. (Cancer Awareness Resource Education Source). Held annually during National Breast Cancer Awareness Month in October, the program was created by the late Terry Petikas, the founder of Glen Cove C.A.R.E.S. Volunteers plant pink tulips each year to raise awareness of the importance of early cancer detection techniques.

Glen Cove C.A.R.E.S. and the Beautification Commission invite volunteers to join them on Saturday, October 17th to plant over 1,000 tulip bulbs in a pink shade called "The Cure" and complete several small fall cleanup projects. In addition volunteers will have the opportunity to also plant mums at the various Adopt-A-Spot areas and in the City's public gardens. Community service hours will be provided to students who participate in the program. "We encourage all residents, community groups and passionate gardeners with a 'pink' thumb to lend a helping hand," said Darcy Belyea, Director of Glen Cove's Parks & Recreation Department. "It is a privilege to work with Glen Cove C.A.R.E.S. to raise awareness about breast cancer and the critical importance of early detection and mammograms."

Volunteers are asked to arrive at Glen Cove's Village Square at 9 a.m. on Saturday, October 17th, 2015. The rain date is Saturday, October 24. All supplies and assignments will be provided upon registration that morning. For more information, please call Department of Parks & Recreation at (516) 676-3766.

“Batter Up!” MS Principal Dr. Marc Ferris Takes the Field with 6th Graders

On a beautiful September afternoon, Principal Dr. Marc Ferris led his six grade boys and girls in a “pick up style” baseball game on the lower Softball field at North Shore Middle School. Dr. Ferris said, “The game was inspired when one of my sixth grade students learned that I used to play baseball in college and readily challenged me to a game!”

As the middle schoolers happily took to the field, Dr. Ferris was on the mound not only pitching for both teams but coaching each of the players as well! He stated, “I am pitching so they can enjoy hitting and playing ball with their classmates in a relaxed, fun setting!”

It was an exciting game where all of the players demonstrated their skills hitting, fielding, and showing sportsmanship to the delight of those in the audience including their peers, teachers, and Assistant Principal, Ms. Green who cheered the teams on from the sideline. Loudly calling the balls and strikes, plus giving her students pointers from behind the plate, was Ms. Larkin – a very enthusiastic umpire! It was clear to see, that everyone who participated had a ball!

Community Mourns Herbert J. Schmidt Jr.

he was an active member of numerous technical committees for the American Society for Testing and Materials (ASTM) that developed the standards for epoxy coated steel reinforcing bars. He pioneered the commercial development of epoxy fusion bonded coating materials in conjunction with the Federal Highway Administration’s National Experimental and Evaluation Program (NEEP) for Extended Life Concrete Bridge Decks.

Several years ago, WindCheck magazine interviewed Herb for their monthly ‘SoundPeople’ column, which said this about Herb, “Every once in awhile a man comes along who, in his own quiet way, makes a big difference to those of us who escape the bustle of everyday life by going sailing. We are not talking about a difference in a national or world arena, but at the community level, where it is so important to spread the word of the joys of sailing. Herb Schmidt does just that; he gathers young and old, those new to sailing or the totally uninitiated and gets them out on the water. He single-handedly developed Sonar Fleet #11 in Manhasset Bay.” In 2008, the inaugural Sonar Long Island Sound Series Award was named the Herbert J. Schmidt, Jr. Perpetual Trophy. The award was created in recognition of the foresight, inspiration, leadership, and dedication of Fleet Founder and Captain Herbert Schmidt. Herb was the founder of the Sonar Fleet at MBYC and had been the Fleet Captain for 27 years.

Herb was very active in his local community. He served as both President and Vice President of the North Shore School Board, Chairman of the Community Scholarship Fund, and President of the Hill Terrace Civic Association (for many years playing Santa Claus to the local children as well as at the Glen Garden Club’s annual winter luncheon). He served St. Luke’s Episcopal Church, Sea Cliff, as a Vestryman and Chairman of the Design and Construction Committee for the rebuilding of the Rectory. He was a former member of the Matinecock Rod and Gun Club, Masonic Lodge, and the Kismet Temple of the Shrine, and the Rotary Club (Paul Harris Fellow). He was Secretary and Trustee of the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club and former President of the New York Metropolitan Alumni Association of the Illinois Institute of Technology. IAC Learns about Mental Health Services provided by Melillo Center

The Glen Cove IAC recently held its monthly meeting at St. Rocco's Church in Glen Cove. Members were warmly welcomed by Coleen Spinello and enjoyed a delicious breakfast prepared by volunteers at the Church.

The guest speaker was Nicole Del Giudice of the Melillo Center. She spoke about various services that are available at the Melillo Center. Approximately two years ago, the chemical dependency program transitioned from Glen Hospital to the Melillo Center. At the beginning, there were approximately 40 patients and a handful of therapists. Today, the program has grown to 20 staff members serving 170 clients.

The Center runs two chemical dependency programs for women: intensive and non-intensive. Both are outpatient programs. Women in the intensive program meet for three hours a day, Monday through Friday. Childcare is provided. The women receive individual and group therapy, attend workshops and participate in yoga classes. Seventy five percent of the women in the intensive program are also on a psychotropic medication to treat a mental condition. Women in the non-intensive program meet less frequently. Depending upon their need, they receive from 1 group/1 individual meeting per week to up to 3 group/2 individual meetings per week.

The Melillo Center also works with the court system. Legally mandated patients receive a special evaluation. They are referred to Melillo Center for DWI and other offenses. There is a specific curriculum for DWI cases. Other programs offered by the Melillo Center include a co-occurring disorders program, adolescent program and significant other program. The majority of patients have Medicaid; however, the Melillo Center takes most insurance plans and will not turn anyone away for lack of funds. The Center also treats approximately 65 patients in the field who are unable to come to the Center.

The Melillo Center also has three group homes on the North Shore, a forensic home for those who were in jail and a respite home for short term stays to give family members a break. The Center also rents over 100 apartments in Nassau County, four of which are for families with children.

The Glen Cove IAC held its monthly meeting at St. Rocco's Church in Glen Cove. Coleen Spinello told IAC members about St. Rocco's rich history and contributions to the Glen Cove community. Nicole Del Giudice of the Melillo Center spoke to IAC members about the mental health services that are available through the Melillo Center.

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Elisabeth Risdon. Often playing stern, autocratic elders, her composure and customary dignity were distinctly ruffled when she was literally spanked on her bottom by a grizzly George "Gabby" Hayes in the John Wayne 1944 mystery-western, "Tall in the Saddle". Elisabeth was "Aunt Clarissa" in "The Howards of Virginia" (1940) with Cary Grant and Martha Scott. She was "Mrs. Polverdine" in "The Canterville Ghost" (1944) with Charles Laughton and Robert Young. She played Claudette Colbert's mother in "The Egg and I" (1947), based on Betty MacDonald's novel, and also starring Fred MacMurray. This movie also debuted Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride as "Ma & Pa Kettle". Her last film was in 1952 with Stewart Granger, Eleanor Parker and Janet Leigh in "Scaramouche." On Dec. 20, 1958, she suffered a stroke and died, at the age of 71. Her body was donated to medical science.

War On the Shore

by Steve Tripp

The Glen Cove Big Red and the Vikings of North Shore took to the field on Friday for the 2015 version of the "War on the Shore." Like two heavyweight boxers, the teams took to the rainy, wind-swept Mitchel Field trading touchdowns instead of punches.

The Big Red took the early lead, as Danny Neice recovered a fumble on the opening kickoff. The left-right combo of GC halfbacks Will Beglin and Tim Hogan put the Big Red out in front 7-0, covering 50 yards in just two plays. The Vikings stormed right back, on the arm and the legs of QB Ryan Aughavin. Aughavin's 11 yard run and 40 yard pass to receiver Peter Bodo put the Vikings up 13-7.

Beglin put GC ahead once again, with a flashy 65 yard touchdown run that saw him reverse field twice, as time expired in the first quarter. But Aughavin answered with another Viking score, stunning the Big Red and putting North Shore ahead 19-14. From here the Big Red delivered the knockout blows, as Michael Payton capped a 10 play 88 yard drive. Brian Shannon's extra point gave GC a lead they would never relinquish.

Three Viking miscues would turn into three Hogan touchdowns for Glen Cove. Corey Dinkins, Andres Sican recovered NS fumbles, and Hogan intercepted an Aughavin pass, and Glen Cove led comfortably at the half 41-19.

In the second half, David Bull turned a Fernando Aguilar fumble recovery into another Big Red score, followed by a Sican score capping a 7 play 80 yard drive. Backup QB Joey Grella would run one in from 20 yards, and then strip the NS running back and of the ball, and take it into the endzone for a defensive score! Shannon would kick his 6th extra point on the day giving the Big Red a commanding lead. The Vikings continued to battle though and halfback Antonio Evangelista finished the day with a 20 yard score for the Vikings.

The Big Red, now 3-1, will be home this weekend welcoming in the Golden Eagles of Bethpage, and welcoming back Big Red alums at the annual homecoming game. Game time is 7pm on Saturday at J. Cameron Maiden Field at the Glen Cove High School.

Letters to the Editor

For Eve

To The Editor,

I have had the privilege to know Dr. Eve Lupenko both personally and professionally for 29 years. Eve has to be one of the most caring individuals that I know. She is always there to help people in need, whether it is in her dermatology practice or her community. Eve is a loving wife and mother to Alex, Christopher, and her husband John. She is also an actress and participates in many plays with her children.

What I admire about her the most is her warm heart, her smile, and knowing she is always there for her friends and the community!!!

I am very lucky to call her my friend.

Please let me know you received this email.

Sincerely,
Dawn McNamara

Thank You Sea Cliff-Glen Head Lions Club

On August 15th, Crash the Beach 2 Concert Fundraiser was held at the Sea Cliff Beach to support Mutual Concerns. Last Thursday evening I was presented with a very generous check from the Sea Cliff-Glen Head Lions Club for the proceeds from this event.

On behalf of the Mutual Concerns Committee, I would like to extend my sincere thanks to Shane Dommin, Ed Lieberman, Marc Neil, Kathleen DiResta, the Sea Cliff Arts Council, and the Sea Cliff-Glen Head Lions Club for their generous donation to our organization. I would also like to thank all those who participated in that festive beach event. Many thanks to all of you for recognizing this need and enabling us to help those who need help the most.

Many people do not realize that there are people in our area that need food. Some are seniors living on a limited income, some are handicapped residents that need extensive help, some are single parents just trying to make ends meet, and some are people between jobs that just need a helping hand occasionally.

Sincerely,
Peggie Como
Mutual Concerns Committee

The Fact Is...

To the Editor,

In a letter attributed to Tony Gallo, the writer blames, among other things, "the electoral system in place," for his recent misadventures at the polls and at the Board of Elections. An examination of the facts however, would focus Mr. Gallo's anger at a much more obvious target.

The fact is, Tony Gallo's name appeared on the September 10 Republican Primary ballot. The fact is Tony Gallo was soundly defeated by Mayor Spinello.

The fact is, Tony Gallo boasted about how many signatures his supporters obtained to put him on that ballot. The fact is, 40% of those signatures were found invalid by a bipartisan panel at the Nassau County Board of Elections.

The fact is, the men and women of the Glen Cove Republican Committee take meticulous care to obtain only valid signatures of their eligible Glen Cove friends and neighbors. The fact is, Mr. Gallo's supporters obviously do not.

The fact is, a bi-partisan panel at the Nassau County Board of Elections found Tony Gallo's petitions to form a new political party, deficient. The fact is, it is Gallo's supporters who are now challenging that ruling in court.

A few weeks ago, Tony Gallo's handlers were calling this election a "war," and exhorting their followers to "take it to the streets." Now it seems that they are reduced to issuing misinformed statements from deep inside their bunker.

David Zatlin
Chairman, Glen Cove Republican Committee

David vs. Goliath

To The Editor,

On Monday, October 5th, the beginnings of a biblical event transpired. David vs. Goliath will be reenacted in the City of Glen Cove this coming Election day. Emerging victorious from the 7th lawsuit, whose sole purpose was to keep them off the November 3rd ballot, Team Gallo was successful in defending the rights of every Glen Cove voter to have a choice in the voting booth.

Realizing that Team Gallo's Glen Cove United petition was about to be vindicated, the opposition withdrew their challenge. But not before wasting the time, effort and expense of up to eight lawyers for five days. The copy bill alone for this specious action was over $2600: an appalling sum and a waste of natural resources. The average citizen would not be aware that their right to vote, their right to choose, a process that every American holds sacrosanct, was to be stripped from them PRIOR to the election in a legal tangle that would have made the Kremlin proud. The current Mayor will be featured on the Republican, Democrat, Independent and Conservative lines. In other words, YOU, the voter, would literally have had NO choice but to vote for the incumbent Mayor; and that's exactly how they wanted it.

However, our David wouldn't roll over for the Party Bosses and their anointed ones. Team Gallo kept on fighting and Glen Cove United has earned a right to be on the ballot, thanks to hundreds of concerned voters' signatures. If you are happy with high taxes, Vote Spinello. If you are happy with the prospect of a 625,000 square foot building on the waterfront at Garvies Point and the $100 million loan that the current Mayor wants to place on the backs of the Glen Cove taxpayers, vote Spinello. If you are satisfied to be told that Glen Cove is on track for a budget surplus in campaign flyers and at city council meetings, when the NY State Comptroller is downgrading the financial ratings of our fair city, Vote Spinello. If you are happy with the prospect of Glen Cove without the YMCA, vote Spinello.

If not, you have a clear choice on Election Day, November 3rd. Responsible development, responsible fiscal management, responsible governance. Vote for Team Gallo and Glen Cove United – People over Politics, putting Glen Cove first!

Sincerely,
Nancy Toher Hawkins
Candidate for City Council of Glen Cove

Irresponsible

To The Editor,

It appears that Tony Gallo has again put his foot in his mouth in his efforts to disparage Mayor Spinello. The recent statements made in Newsday by Mr. Gallo and his cohort, Phillip Pidot are deceptive and misleading at best.

Using the recently released State Comptroller's report as the backdrop, Mr. Gallo attempts to sway the voters into believing that the criticism of this report is the result of Mayor Spinello's fiscal mismanagement, yet Mr. Gallo fails to mention the role he played in the adoption of the inherited 2014 budget from the prior administration.

During the proposed budget process for 2014, both Mayor Spinello, at the time a sitting councilman, and Mr. Gallo voted no for its adoption.

Mr. Gallo then wavered during the lame duck period prior to Mayor-Elect Spinello taking office and voted yes with the prior administration to add additional jobs to an already imperfect 2014 budget. Mayor-Elect Spinello voted no. This yes vote by Mr. Gallo further burdened the City's taxpayers by adding approximately $300,000 in additional costs to the 2014 budget inherited by Reggie Spinello on his first day as Mayor.

As a councilman, Mr. Gallo's continued wavering and the consistent changing of his position concerning city finances, development, or quality of life issues proves that he is not capable of making a decision and standing by it.

It should be expected that an elected official sitting on the City Council for 3 ½ years would be well versed in the City's financial structure. Unfortunately, it has become quite apparent that Mr. Gallo has failed to learn the lessons of the City's fiscal history as well as its financial structure.

In 2006, the prior City administration requested that the State perform an audit of the City's finances. In the midst of this audit, the State realizing the magnitude of the City's fiscal situation, changed course to a severe fiscal stress audit.

As a result of this audit, in 2007, the prior administration then borrowed $12.8 million dollars in Deficit Finance Bonds. Any municipality entering into deficit financing is then subject to 10 years of state scrutiny. The result of this 10 year scrutiny is the annual issuing of a critical report from the State Comptroller's Office.

It is clear that the fiscal crisis the State Comptroller's office references in its criticism of 2014 began long before Mayor Spinello took office.

If Mr. Gallo has been so concerned with the City's fiscal health, then why has it taken him 3 ½ years to voice his concerns? His continual wavering on city issues along with his reckless, misleading, irresponsible statements in the hopes of garnering votes should be of the utmost concern to every voter in the City of Glen Cove.

In Support for Eve Lupenko for Glen Cove City Council To The Editor,

Eve Lupenko is the most honest, thoughtful and caring person I have ever met. I have known her for the past 15 years and we have become close friends. I first met Eve at the Glen Cove YMCA where our children took swimming lessons together. Eve later served on the Board of the YMCA for many years.

I learned that Eve was a dermatologist and she took care of my daughters when they became teenagers. My daughters adore Eve. Eve is a very kind and caring doctor. Her patients have become her life-long friends. Eve is a doctor who takes her time with each of her patients and doesn't push you out of the office, a rarity these days.

Eve is very reliable and will never say no to lend a helping hand to you. Eve is always willing to donate her time and money to any charitable event. Eve never waivers on her principles, nor does she ever tire of doing the right thing. Eve repeatedly has gone out of her way to help her friends, including helping me with the loss of my mother several years ago.

Eve is the most caring, honest and thoughtful person I have ever met. I highly recommend that Eve Lupenko be elected to the Glen Cove City Council. My children adore Eve and her children.

Sincerely,
Maria R. Noto

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
With the upcoming Columbus Day weekend, I am looking for a good novel to read. First , of course, I will attending the Sea Cliff Museum's opening of its 1960's retrospective that curator Sara Reses has organized. It sounds like great fun especially with everyone being encouraged to come in 1960's attire. But back to that novel, any recommendations?
Sea Cliff Museum Supporter

Dear Museum Supporter,
I am certainly looking forward to Friday night's Museum reception and I do have a fast moving, topical novel to recommend: A WINDOW OPENS by Elisabeth Egan. Alice Pearse is happily living in an affluent suburban community, her husband is on the partner track at a prestigious New York law firm, she works a few days a week as a magazine book reviewer while helping her best friend run a local bookstore, her three young children are well adjusted, her devoted parents live nearby, and she has Jessie, the perfect babysitter. Shortly into the book, everything changes and there is one major villain (other than the vagaries of life): Scroll-her new employer- a fictional combination of Amazon, Google, Facebook, and Apple. Scroll is developing plans "to reinvent reading as Starbucks reinvented coffee" with lounges featuring leather chairs, e-reader terminals, foot massages, plastic-encased first editions, and artisanal refreshments. Midway through the story, the company decides to shift its focus from books to video games, but meanwhile Alice finds herself caught in a nightmarish trap of electronic servitude reminiscent of Dave Eggers's THE CIRCLE. This book, while predictable in many ways, was surprisingly poignant in its depiction of family and work relationships. Recommended!

Celebrating A Milestone In Grand Style

In true-to-form style, Glen Cove resident and local business owner James Coniglione celebrated his 50th birthday in larger-than-life-style.

Embracing the milestone birthday, Jimmy, who is the owner of Scoopy Doo Dog Waste Removal, gathered his friends and relatives for a grand celebration over the summer.

This wasn't your average summer pool party, it was far more. It was enhanced with not only the usual ice-cream and cake but with a vintage fire truck, "Engine One Pizza," parked in the driveway serving pizza, hot dogs, etc.

On the front lawn- A mechanical bull, which was a huge hit with the kids in the afternoon and later embraced by the parents, giving everyone an opportunity to be a cowboy!

The evening was wrapped up with a fireworks display.
