Landing/Sea Cliff Fire Department, just to name a few!

North Shore High School students showed their school spirit by designing decorative floats and banners, wearing face paint, and waving flags and balloons. Elementary children and teachers from Glenwood Landing, Glen Head, and Sea Cliff enthusiastically held banners and walked with their respective principals including Mrs. Bridget Finder, Mrs. Lori Nimmo and Mr. Chris Zublionis. North Shore Middle School was represented along with Principal Dr. Ferris and Assistant Principal Rachel Green. High School Assistant Principals Dr. Kevin Kurrus and Ms. Jen Imperial accompanied many of their high school students with their floats and banners in the parade. Also, many school clubs and sports teams/travel sports teams proudly walked in the parade. In addition, the NS High School Homecoming King & Queen (Brendan Zbikowski and Eloise Parisi), as well as the Senior Citizen Queen (Mary Maminski), proudly waved to the crowd! To their delight, enthusiastic community residents happily lined the streets, applauded and cheered, for the North Shore Homecoming festivities! Additionally, sirens could be heard all over the North Shore as the Sea Cliff/Glen Head Fire Departments happily sounded their horns for the North Shore Homecoming day!

The parade culminated at the high school where students participated in Homecoming games and events organized by Don Lang, NS Athletics Director, the Physical Education Departments, and respective principals and assistant principals. For hours, children of all ages happily engaged in fun games including an Elementary Obstacle Course, MS Color War, and HS Flag Football. Live music was organized by the Arts Angels and included many North Shore talented musicians. You could see the joy on everyone's faces as teachers and students led various games and activities, parents joined in the fun, and administrators with the homecoming committee even helped serve hotdogs and hamburgers to the crowd! But, that wasn't all! The Athletic Booster Club grilled delicious food for everyone to enjoy at the concession stand, and the Parent Organizations along with high school classes sold various North Shore merchandise in support of our schools and programs. Many thanks to the Homecoming Committee, the parent associations, the Arts Angels, the Athletic Booster Club, Kiwanis Club, and members of the NS Key Club for a wonderful day!

At 1:30 PM, the large crowd moved into Stadium Field for the pre-game show including the annual Kindergarten Fun Run, fantastic Pulse dance performances, and the exciting Viking Football game. David Soto, the High School Band Conductor, led the band and drum line in the "Star Spangled Banner." At 2 PM, the Vikings took to the field to a thunderous round of applause by all those in the stands. Some highlights of the game included North Shore Ryan Aughavin running for 157 yards and Frank Castiglione intercepting a pass approximately eight minutes into the third quarter to stop a South Side drive to seal the game for the Vikings! Congratulations go out to the Vikings Football Team and their coaches for an exciting victory, beating South Side 32-7!

Board Recognition and ScholarChip Presentation in Glen Cove

Members of Glen Cove City School District's Board of Education were honored for their tireless work on behalf of the district's students at its recent board meeting.

Superintendent of Schools Maria Rianna thanked each board member in attendance and presented them with a certificate and small token of appreciation. The recognition commemorated New York State School Boards Association's School Board Recognition Week, which runs from Oct. 26-30. The week enables school board members to be thanked for their volunteer service to their schools and community.

"I know the work you do is from your heart to help support the children of the district," Rianna said. After the Board recognition, Glen Cove High School Principal Antonio Santana presented information on ScholarChip, a student management system being implemented at the high school. Santana said the technology helps to monitor attendance, offers campus safety and can eventually be used for student transactions. Currently, students are using their individual Smart Cards to tap into the attendance kiosks upon arrival at school.

IT'S MUCH TOO BIG! 1,110 UNITS

Glen Cove and the North Shore of Nassau County have always been a suburban area. Now the Mayor of Glen Cove, the City Council and The Planning board, along with mega developer RXR, have teamed up to bring us an "URBAN" development on what could be our most precious resource.

For many years, in fact from its inception, both public officials and residents have been saying, "It is much too big" when referring to the proposed waterfront development. "It must preserve our suburban quality of life" however, the developer(s) and our elected officials have totally ignored these outcries and have just pushed through whatever they want. The time has come for us to demand that our elected officials and RXR listen to us. We have been ignored throughout this entire process and it is time for our voices to be heard.

The developers have changed their plans so often that it appears to be a fast moving target which you never know what direction it will go next. They have used the excuse that the economy has changed and therefore, they need this and they need that. What about what our community needs? We need to preserve our quality of life!

Much has been touted about the anticipated financial gain this development will bring to Glen Cove. However, follow the money and you will see that there are none:

- Originally the land sale price was $32,500,000 Now the Mayor says it is $15,000,000.

Deduct the following:

1. amount due to EPA for cleanup of contamination
 2. Partial repayment of HUD "108 Loan" for property purchase
 3. Balance of HUD "108 Loan" to be paid to Environmental Facilities Corp.(EFC) for contamination cleanup expenses
 4. Additional reimbursement of contamination cleanup money to EFC
 5. Deduct any Agency (IDA/CDA) costs
 6. the anticipated tax revenue we would have received if the City had not given the project PILOTs (Payment in Lieu of Taxes).
- In so doing, instead of the developer paying us taxes, we taxpayers will be subsidizing the developer.
7. $100 million TIF (Tax Increment Financing) whereby the City will take out a bond to provide the funds for the developer to build the project
 8. Deduct as a credit to the purchase price any costs incurred by the Redeveloper for remediation of the properties to bring them to an acceptable level of cleanup for residential development
 9. Deduct dollar for dollar cost for an Environmental Insurance Policy to protect Redeveloper and City from future LAWSUITS based on environmental problems at the site
 10. Deduct costs of upgrades to the City sewer system, water supply, electrical capacity, etc.
 11. Deduct the cost of relocating the Angler's Club from City property being sold to the Redeveloper
 12. Deduct the costs of infrastructure improvements, including but not limited to, roads, relocating the Firehouse, etc.
 13. Deduct repayments to the City for interest payments made on behalf of the IDA on the HUD "108 Loan", which was bonded
 14. Deduct the unforeseen expenses which have not been identified here

It is easy to see that the proclaimed huge sums of money we are supposed to see, may NEVER materialize. That is the financial reality of this development.

Now consider the severe, dire, health risks which these properties pose.. Upon review of the EPA and DEC analyses, the high levels of arsenic, lead, carcinogenic compounds and radio-active materials found in the soil and the ground water exceeds acceptable levels. Protection of public health is the goal of all the environmental agencies. They have stated that exposure to the current levels of contamination at the waterfront site would put a person at risk. In addition, it is common knowledge that the plume(s) from adjacent and nearby parcels have spread and have the potential to gravitate to the drinking water. In addition, there is residual contamination from the previous attempts to cleanup the site.

For all of these reasons in addition to the enormous population explosion resulting in a severe traffic impact, the need for additional municipal services such as police, fire and schools, the tremendous impacts which this project, taken in conjunction with all the other proposed projects, would have on Glen Cove and the entire North Shore of Nassau County, it is unconscionable for our governing officials to approve this development and it MUST BE STOPPED IMMEDIATELY!

Does He Have the Moves?

To The Editor,

The coming mayoral election poses an interesting conundrum. The current mayor has extensive business and management experience in the corporate world and the contender is a teacher of physical education in the school district.

To add to that we have a $78 million dollar corporation (the city) with multiple departments handling all aspects of city operation, federal, state and county agreements, grants and regulations, contracts, complex land management and development, social responsibilities, and a plethora of other commitments that require expertise, knowledge and the ability to oversee all successfully; plus the ability to work with a city council.

I fully support anyone getting involved in the community, including political office, regardless of ability or experience or qualifications because it provides their ideas and input and show interest in the locale in which they live.

However, when I look at who will manage my taxes and the $78 million in other taxpayers contributions to the smooth and effective running of a city like Glen Cove, I have to evaluate whether a gym teacher who has only managed a salary and a lesson plan, had a Union negotiate his contract, managed basketball games, and other sports, has the background and qualifications to make the jump from the bush leagues to the major leagues and go from a high school sports coach to a coaching the equivalent of the Yankees or Mets, and compare this to the current city management.

And here I come up with another problem. If the mayoral contender has no real qualifications for the position, then if elected who will really be running the city and making certain the $78 million and all associated services and duties are done to the best advantage of the taxpayers.

Well, maybe the rules of the basketball court can be applied to management of a multimillion dollar corporation, but it certainly gives one pause.

In any event, I have a policy to evaluate candidates on qualifications, interest, a positive proactive campaign, and proven track record.

Wishing all running the best.

Glenn Howard, Jr.

Fitting Final Tribute

To The Editor,

On September 18, 2015 our family had to say goodbye to a beloved son, brother and uncle after a courageous battle with Cancer. We could not have expected the turnout at Trinity Lutheran Church and we, as a family, would like to thank and acknowledge the City of Glen Cove Police Department, Mayor Reginald Spinello, and all the motorcycle members that Manny so loved to ride with. The procession of vehicles was quite extensive and if not for the work of the above mentioned services and individuals we don't know how we would have managed. This action made for a memorable and honored tribute to a gentle soul who was clearly beloved in the community. The escort and procession to Locust Valley Cemetery was truly a beautiful and lasting memory in our hearts.

Challenger Likes Where He Is

To The Editor,

There comes a point in every election when a candidate sees success looming ahead. Glen Cove City Councilman Anthony Gallo Jr., who is challenging former colleague Reginald Spinello for mayor, has reached that point. Gallo is not being overconfident, just comfortable that the momentum toward the November 3 election has shifted his way. All he must do now is go with the flow..

Whether the Spinello campaign admits it or not, Gallo is the undeniable "favorite son" in this race. Born and bred in Glen Cove, Gallo has already proven to be the city's biggest vote-getter while being elected to the city council. He is a physical education instructor and one of the most popular teachers in the school district. Being the favorite of hundreds of school children generally pays dividends with their parents at the polls.

Also in his favor is that Gallo almost did not make the ballot. Spinello, who was helped by Gallo to get elected mayor in 2013, tried to have Gallo's candidacy ruled invalid because of "faulty petitions." The court decided otherwise. Seeing this scenario coming, the Gallo campaign formed a new party line, Glen Cove United, which fits Gallo's plans as mayor and is not just a slogan. During the past two years Gallo has lost his confidence and trust in Spinello. Gallo firmly believes he will make a better mayor than Spinello. Gallo felt the voters of Glen Cove deserved to have a choice at the polls. That is why he threw his hat in the ring much to the chagrin of Spinello's people.

Joe Krupinski

Gallo Wiling To Listen

To The Editor,

I am a concerned citizen of Glen Cove and often exercise my right to express my opinion at City Council meetings or in letters to the editor. I have spoken to many Glen Cove residents who are in fear of retribution for sharing their concerns and I have been made to feel this way as well. The Mayor had me escorted out of a public hearing for expressing myself and after a February city council meeting, Mayor Spinello approached me and told me that I better watch what I say and "watch out" after I wrote letter to the editor concerning the clear conflict of interest for the Planning Board Attorney to solicit the Nassau County Planning Commission on behalf of the Developer of the Villa. I was shocked and stunned

Glen Cove PBA & Others Endorse Judge Meli

The Glen Cove Police Benevolent Association has endorsed the candidacy of Judge Paul Meli as Judge of the Nassau County District Court, Fourth District.

In his endorsement letter, PBA President Dave Leon wrote that Judge Meli had "...long been a friend and supporter of the Glen Cove community and police..." further noting that, in his time on the bench, Meli had "...demonstrated exceptional judicial temperament and earned a reputation as fair-minded and hardworking".

In a statement made following receipt of the endorsement, Judge

Meli said that he was "truly honored to receive the support of the brave men and women who serve and protect the residents of Glen Cove so well". Meli added that he as "overwhelmed by the outpouring of support for my campaign", noting that he had also been endorsed by the Nassau County Police Benevolent Association, the Nassau County Detectives and Superior Officers Associations, the Nassau County Court Officers, Corrections Officers and Fire Marshall Benevolent Associations, and the New York State Fraternal Order of Police.

at being threatened by a person who is supposed to listen to my concerns and represent my best interest. I filed a police report with the Glen Cove police because I did not know what he might do as he has the police behind him and could do any type of harassment.

Public forums are the exact place where the community voice must be allowed to speak and be heard by decision makers. Without tolerance of freedom of speech and expression we are not living in a democracy. It is this type of injustice that leads me to believe that it is more important than ever to speak out and write letters.

I am supporting Tony Gallo and his team for Mayor and Council because they are willing to listen to the concerns of the community and they will not sell out to special interests. As many of you may know, I have a strong background in finance and rather than taking my suggestions regarding budgeting and planning which have been consistent with those of the NY State Comptroller, my concerns have been ignored by the current administration.

We are now at a cross roads in the financial future of this City and whether you like someone or went to kindergarten with them is not what makes a strong leader and problem solver. It is that person's willingness to listen to opposing views and those who might have objective expertise to offer. The failure of the current Administration is its failure to listen to the desires of the stakeholders and tax payers and to those who have the necessary expertise such as the New York State Comptroller.

It's time for Glen Cove to move in a vastly different direction. The time is right for Glen Cove United.

Marsha Silverman

In Support of Heuser

To The Editor,

As Election Day approaches, I am writing to ask you to consider supporting my friend Kristina Heuser for the Glen Cove City Council. She has secured the endorsement and is running on the Republican, Conservative, and Independent party lines.

I have known Kristina and her husband John, for some time and believe she will be an excellent addition to the City Council.

Mrs. Heuser made a decision several years ago to move to Glen Cove and raise two young daughters here. Since her arrival she has been active in numerous civic and community activities and has worked as a city attorney in our community prosecuting a multitude of code violations. Her professional efforts help maintain a better quality of life here in our City. As an attorney who practices locally, I can attest to her excellent and tireless work in her prosecution of dangerous conditions in our city. To say she is successful in her endeavors would be an understatement. Numerous properties with building and zoning code violations have been brought into compliance through her efforts. In addition, thousands of dollars in fines were paid to our City Court as a result of these prosecutions.

In her capacity as a Glen Cove City attorney, Ms. Heuser is also a moderator for the teen court where she works with Glen Cove High School students to educate them about our laws and the Court system. Her experience as a City attorney I believe gives her a unique prospective into problems within the community and this knowledge can only be a positive attribute once she is elected to serve as a city councilperson.

I believe when elected Kristina Heuser will work tirelessly to protect our cities finances, rejuvenate our downtown and most importantly encourage smart growth along our waterfront to increase our tax base. I also believe she is committed to monitoring overdeveloped and will diligently protect our environment.

I know one of her motivations for getting involved in community service is to make a difference so that she can provide her children and all our children a safe, healthy and prosperous place to live, work and play. Please join me in supporting her candidacy and I urge you to VOTE for KRISTINA HEUSER FOR GLEN COVE CITY COUNCIL on Tuesday, November 3, 2015

John Maaccarone Esq.

How Not To Campaign To The Editor,

Throughout the campaign, Tony Gallo has presented voters with ideas that have no substance. "I'm going to cut spending by 10%" is great rhetoric, but he has NEVER given the residents of Glen Cove the methods by which he plans on doing this. His proposal will be impossible given his stance on the Coles School, which will cost taxpayers an additional $11 million dollars if he is elected. Let's not forget his quote "Regardless of the cost, it is my intention to keep the Coles School"

Instead of informing voters on his actual plan, Mr. Gallo has decided to send out one negative piece of mail after another. I find this extremely hypocritical coming from someone who claims to be an educator and not a politician. No politician in recent memory has run a more negative campaign than Tony Gallo has this year. I truly commend Mayor Spinello for not sinking to his level.

The Republican primary spoke volumes as to how voters receive a negative campaign. Mr. Gallo lost by a significant margin to Mayor Spinello. Hopefully we have the same result on November 3rd

Anthony Pizziatolla

Kristina Heuser. A light in darkness.

To The Editor,

It is no secret that Glen Cove politics have been surrounded by controversy and adversity for years. It is time to put fresh blood and bright minds and hearts into the government of Glen Cove.

My name is Bonnie Spence Burke, I am a New York State Licensed Social Worker, Psychotherapist, Addiction Counselor, Mother of four children, Grandmother of six and much more.

I have lived in Glen Cove for almost 17 years. I am now writing this letter with a heartfelt caring for the community that holds so many positive memories for me. I also write this letter to broadcast to the people of Glen Cove a very important message for them to know. I write with my mind, and I share from my heart. I believe that action talks louder than words.

In my lifetime I have often believed people who promise the moon but way too often they do not carry out their promises or live up to their expectations. This has happened to all of us. So how does one tell the difference in who will stand by us and keep their word when the going gets tough? This is an important question to ask when voting someone into politics. I believe that how someone has helped others in their time of need tells you who they really are. Anyone can be nice and friendly and helpful when there are no problems, or struggles and an abundance of money. What is unique and special is to find a person who is smart, caring, brave, resourceful and giving during the tougher times and real problems. I am talking about the problems that rip at a persons heart and soul.

If a person can handle the toughest of times then I believe that they can handle the best of times. Kristina Heuser is such a person. I have seen her do it for me and others. Kristina is a brilliant resourceful attorney who is tough enough to stand up bravely to protect her clients against great evil. Kristina will kindly, intelligently and smartly take on the meanest and cruelest of enemies and problems to protect and fight for her clients. Kristina is what a lawyer should be. She fights the battles for the good people she will not support anything unethical or cruel to another person. She fights for the people that need help and who are good people. Kristina supports and fights darkness in this world and most importantly she never waivers when the obstacles get tough. Kristina doesn't give up on a problem or a person because they run out of money to pay her. She doesn't give up on them because the enemy they are fighting is more devious than she is. Kristina is a strong warrior against struggles of any kind.. She is brilliant brave and committed. She finds the loopholes to save the situation and the people who are hurting. She does this with an amazing calm that is so reassuring to those that put their trust in her. Kristina is confident, honest, and diligent. I know this because Kristina has represented me in two actions against great adversaries. She has advised and guided me through the toughest time of my and my sons life. If she had not jumped up to help us after a terrible court decision I honestly do not know if my son and I would still be alive.

I have gone up to her and said, "Tell me that you have this." She has replied "I have it" and when I looked into her eyes I knew that I literally could and was trusting my and my sons life to her wisdom and hard work. She has been true to her word.

I have also had the privilege of watching Kristina as a mother with her two beautiful daughters. The gentle compassion, love, and caring that she shows their every thought and desire is beautiful to see. Kristina carries herself with dignity and class, wisdom and fortitude..

If Kristina Heuser can do and be all of these amazing qualities for her clients and loved ones then I truly believe that she will bring the same greatness to her role as Glen Cove City Councilwoman. God knows that we need this kind of excellence in our government.

If Kristina Heuser becomes a Glen Cove City Councilwoman then you can all be proud of your representative. She will reflect the values of excellence that Glen Cove needs and deserves.

Kristina Heuser is everything that represents the best of America, Women and Politics. Gallonomics To The Editor,

Years ago, when Tom Suozzi ran for Mayor of Glen Cove, the first thing he did after the election was to raise taxes on homeowners by 28% to fix the City's fiscal woes. He figured that if he got that out of the way early on, the voters would forget the sting of that increase and he could get elected again claiming, "Hey, I haven't raised taxes in the last year."

Years later, Ralph Suozzi got elected and smacked homeowners again with a double digit tax increase as his first order of business. It worked for his cousin, so he figured it would work for him. He was right. The voters had no memory when re-election time came.

Now, Tony Gallo is seeking to be elected Mayor and he running around like Chicken Little claiming the sky is falling, the sky is falling. What he's referring to, of course, is the New York State Comptroller's report saying that Glen Cove is fiscally stressed. That's the same report that has been issued for the last 10 years, four of which have been on Tony Gallo's watch as a City Councilman. It wasn't until he decided to run for Mayor that this non-issue became "the issue."

Mr. Gallo is now declaring that the City should implement all of the State Comptroller's recommendations, and that's what he'll do. So here's what needs to happen if the City follows the principles of Gallonomics. Either taxes go up by at least 16% or salaries are cut by 20% (which in reality cannot be done because of existing contracts that preceded Reggie Spinello's election) or city services can be drastically cut.

During Mayor Spinello's first term in office, taxes were stabilized with a 1% increase in the first year, and there's no tax increase on the horizon for year 2. All of this was accomplished with what might be called "Smart Mayoring."

So if you like Gallonomics, then Tony's your guy, and take out your checkbook. But if you want to continue the progress that has been underway since Reggie Spinello became Mayor, then the choice is pretty easy.

Give People The Choice To The Editor,

Hello, I am Roderick Watson, a winner of the Republican primary for the Glen Cove City Council election on November 3, 2015. I want to discuss my thoughts regarding this year's upcoming election and my experience running for the Glen Cove City Council with the Republican Party.

At times I have questioned why Glen Cove's GOP does everything it can to dishonor the people's choice and ignore my primary victory on September 10th. In April 2015, Tony Gallo asked me to run for city council on his Team Gallo slate. Prior to going into the race (and even now), Tony was the only Republican running for Mayor and was not given any support by the GOP. At the time, I was worried about how I would be treated as a black Republican, because we don't see too many people of color in the party running locally. Nevertheless, I appreciated the opportunity and agreed to run. I am a specialist in medical social work for veterans, and my decision flowed naturally from my commitment to service and to those who have served this country under the most difficult challenges. I was glad to support all of Team Gallo on a platform promoting the real change we need to make Glen Cove great again.

I never could have imagined the obstacles placed in front of Team Gallo to run for public office. We went through the tedious process of successfully collecting petition signatures required by the Nassau County Board of Elections to run on the Republican Party ballot for the primary. However, our valid petition signatures were challenged in court by Glen Cove GOP executive leader David Zatlin and the Glen Cove Republican machine. This forced members of Team Gallo and I to seek legal counsel who went to court for us, and the judge ruled in Team Gallo's favor, noting the signatures as being valid. The Glen Cove and Nassau County Republican parties then continued to do all they could to delegitimize us, even telling Councilman Gallo not to attend their meetings. This disrespected not only us as candidates, but also the Republican voters of Glen Cove, who were entitled to a democratic forum to meet all the candidates they would have the opportunity to vote for on primary day. To make matters worse, we were excluded in favor of candidates who were not even registered Republicans: Mayor Spinello (Independence Party member), Nick Dileo Jr. (non-party affiliated), Tab Hauser (Independence Party member), and Danielle Willis (non-party affiliated).

The peculiar behavior of the Glen Cove GOP machine did not end on primary night. Even though I was declared the primary winner on September 10th, David Zatlin challenged the absentee ballots of those voting for me, only to later withdraw his petition against me. I never received any acknowledgment or congratulations from him—or from anyone on behalf of the Nassau County Republican Committee. It was suspicious that the Republican signs placed around the City of Glen Cove did not have my name on it, but continued to have the names of Hauser and Willis, the two candidates who lost the Republican primary.

On one occasion prior to the primary, I saw a photo taken at a Nassau County Republican function with a caption claiming I never showed up to their event. I was appalled at this claim, because I was never invited to any Glen Cove or Nassau County Republican Party function.

My suspicions of the worst were confirmed when I saw the Glen Cove GOP state on its Facebook page that the party would not support me or Efraim Spagnoletti, the other member of Team Gallo who won the Republican primary. They replied “Absolutely not” to a voter who asked if they would hand out a bumper sticker for Spagnoletti or me. The newspaper ads they are running still depict the two candidates who lost the primary. Adding insult to injury, those candidates are not even registered Republicans. Of course, endorsing them does not make it likely they will win—they will only be on the Conservative line (despite not being registered Conservatives!)—but is a clear effort to take enough votes away from me and Spagnoletti that the Democratic incumbents running against us will win.

If elected on November 3rd, I will become the first African-American Republican candidate elected in the 21st century to political (i.e. non-judicial) office not only in Glen Cove, but also in Nassau County. Earlier, I hoped that the local or county party bosses would have made some effort to support me—even a modest gesture to wish me good luck or congratulate me on my victory. I even thought the local Republican Party might take advantage of an opportunity to do more to embrace more people of color. Now I face the nightmare of my own party treating me, a registered Republican since I was 18 years of age and now the winner of a Republican primary election, as if I were their enemy. Sadly, this behavior only confirms it is the party bosses who have lost their way.

My family and I would like to thank everyone who supported and continues to support my teammates and me. I am disappointed by the poor treatment I have received by the GOP machine, but I draw comfort knowing that I am in the same boat as my Glen Cove neighbors, who have also been let down by party bosses who are dismissive of the well being of those who are not part of their small circle of insiders. Rest assured, Glen Cove, my team and I are undaunted, and we will continue to work hard to make our city great again. We hope you all (Republicans, Democrats, non-affiliated, EVERYONE) will make it to the polls on November 3rd and vote for Tony Gallo, the entire Glen Cove United line and me.

In Support of DeRiggi-Whitton To The Editor,

We need people in office that care about the taxpayers. Nassau County Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton is the top financial watchdog in the legislature: her well-known commitment to accountability in government will promote an atmosphere of openness in the area of government finances. On numerous occasions she has called out the current administration on millions of dollars of contract assignments that evaded legislative oversight on a technicality.

We need someone that cares for our environment. Delia is a champion of environmental issues and is very focused on the water quality in Hempstead Harbor and surrounding Manhasset Bay. She secured County funding for an important study of unsewered areas near Hempstead Harbor and pockets of Port Washington. For Delia, this is both a responsibility to our generations and a legacy to the future.

We need someone who looks out for others. I served with Delia for the past 10 years on the “Best Hope for a Cure” fundraiser for the Diabetes Research Institute where she acquired respect and admiration for her generosity, intelligence, and dedication to a cause very close to her heart. Thanks to Delia’s efforts, the DRI has amassed over 1 million dollars towards research for a cure. Additionally, as a County Legislator, she has started a wonderful program giving roses to senior citizens on their birthdays, is working with the Nassau County bus service to provide rides for the disabled, and has sponsored clinics to help Veterans find work. These efforts have a real positive impact on people’s lives.

We need someone that knows the needs of our area. Delia is a lifelong Glen Cove resident and a Glen Cove High School and Hofstra University graduate. She is very active and involved in both Glen Cove and the surrounding communities and is well liked and respected across our area where she lives with her three children.

We need Delia. It is with proud enthusiasm that I support Delia DeRiggi-Whitton as candidate for County Legislator in the 11th District.

Gallo’s Wife Speaks Out To The Editor,

I am writing to express my thoughts about the current Mayoral race and about my husband Tony Gallo Jr.

Tony and I have been in Glen Cove all our lives – born and raised here. We met in the Glen Cove middle school and we are completely dedicated to making Glen Cove the charming vibrant town we experienced and the community it once was.

Tony has a vision which includes the input of the community, fiscal responsibility and common sense. He and his team will listen to the true stakeholders, residents and tax payers – not special interests.

Tony is a thoughtful sensitive person and not someone who would ever say a negative thing about anyone, particularly something untrue. He is very careful in the words he uses and he respects all people. For this reason he will be a fair and objective leader.

In order to bring the proper community vision to Glen Cove it is crucial to know from where it came. Tony has that history in Glen Cove.

This election has been extremely difficult as I have had to witness the struggle of Tony and Team Gallo fighting against a system that is being used to prevent voter choice. Thankfully through the perseverance of Team Gallo, the voters of Glen Cove will have a choice for Mayor in the upcoming election. What this fight has demonstrated is that Team Gallo will fight for Glen Cove and for you with an open mind and strong heart.

As a community we need to be united - Tony and his team will unite us.

More His Niche

To The Editor,

Over the past few months I have had several OPED pieces in your paper concerning the efforts of Mr. Anthony Gallo, a tenured public school teacher in Glen Cove presently running for the Office of Mayor, City of Glen Cove. You will note that none of my comments ever criticized Mr. Gallo per se as a teacher. In fact, except for the fact he has never been a Department Head, I let it be known that I admired him as a teacher and coach. I still do. Our country needs good teachers and athletic coaches like him.

Notwithstanding, based solely on what I see as gaps in his particular public service background, formal education, life’s experience, and specialized educator training it might seem to some of your readers also that Mr. Gallo has not been fully provided with the same levels of CEO needed knowledge, skills, and abilities the City of Glen Cove would then and there expect from him as a newly elected Mayor. By comparison or contrast I think a lot of your readers might agree that our present mayor has proven to be a pretty gifted CEO type guy in both the private and public sectors.

If what I have learned over the past few days is accurate it would seem to me that Mr. Gallo may have violated some sort of ethical or other specified NYS Department of Education standard if he did in fact knowingly, willfully, deliberately, and without proper authority from local school administrators, hand out some of his campaign materials to students on public school property during public school hours asking them to bring these materials home for the sole purpose of encouraging or influencing the student’s parents, or anyone else, to cast their mayoral votes for him on election day.

I concur that Mr. Gallo has the right to run for any elected public office when and if he sees fit to do so. However, is it possible that by doing what he is alleged to have currently done as is described above that he may in turn have crossed any barrier(s) that might exist between his role in public education as a public school teacher and his personal political ambitions, e. g., election as the Mayor of Glen Cove?

If I had but one goal in this entire issue, Mr. Gallo and your readers may be assured it would be to have him remain as a school teacher and coach. These roles may be more his “niche” than that of being a Mayor.

In closing, I remain

*Very truly yours,
Bob Pemberton, MA, MS*

James Foote Exhibits at The Golden Gallery

By SF Collins

The Golden Gallery of the Glen Cove Senior Center proudly presents, "The Beauty of Landscapes as Envisioned by James W. Foote." Many of you know James Foote as the Theodore Roosevelt re-enactor. What you might not know about James is that he has many diverse talents. One such talent is that James is a very accomplished artist.

James started painting after the tragic death of a dear friend in 1991. His artwork is influenced by and reminiscent of the Hudson School of Art. His distinguished career as a Theodore Roosevelt re-enactor has afforded him the opportunity to view outdoor landscapes across the United States, and elsewhere, from which he draws his inspiration and a reference point for his original compositions. James strives to capture both the physicality and feeling or essence of the landscapes he visits and paints. He credits painting teachers Jeff Webb and Suzanne Young of the Huntington Art League for teaching him painting techniques while he posed as Theodore Roosevelt for their classes.

James won Honorable Mention in a juried IAS art show in Hicksville, New York. His art has been exhibited in the Longworth Congressional Office Building in Washington, D.C., as well as in Colonial Williamsburg and Admiral's Row in Norfolk, Virginia. In addition, James has had several one man shows and his paintings are in several prominent collections.

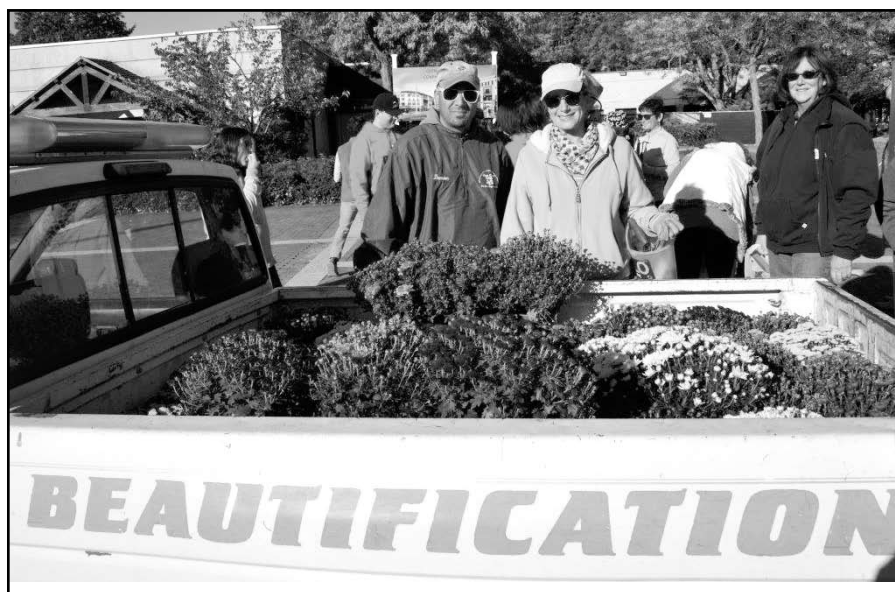

This is a rare opportunity to see this prolific artist's work and to meet the man behind the genius. His paintings are on view at the Golden Gallery of the Glen Cove Senior Center, 130 Glen Street, Glen Cove from November 5 through December. The gallery is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The public is invited to attend the opening reception from 1-2 p.m. on Thursday, November 5 to meet the talented and personable James W. Foote and to view his oil paintings. Admission is free. For more information, call the senior center at 759-9610 or visit www.glencoveseniorcenter.com.

Glen Cove Community Plants Blooms and Pink Tulip Bulbs to Beautify City During Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Young gardeners joined Mayor Reggie Spinello, the Glen Cove Beautification Commission, Glen Cove C.A.R.E.S. (Cancer Awareness Resource Education Source) and volunteers from the Glen Cove Boys and Girls Club and Glen Cove High School DECA Club to plant beautiful mums and pink tulip bulbs during a recent community planting event and fall clean-up day. This annual program is sponsored by the Glen Cove Beautification Commission and Glen Cove C.A.R.E.S. (Cancer Awareness Resource Education Source) and over 40 volunteers lent the program their green thumbs to help plant 1,000 pink tulip bulbs and 50 mum plants. The event was created by the late Terry Petikas, the founder of Glen Cove C.A.R.E.S to recognize National Breast Cancer Awareness Month in October and raise awareness of the importance of early cancer detection techniques.

Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club Awarded Citation for Cultivating Positive Communication Between Kids and Law Enforcement

Nassau County Comptroller George Maragos presented Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club Board Member Jack McDougal with a Citation for Community Service and his efforts in facilitating the Snacks with Officer Jack program at the Club.

While so many communities around the country are struggling with tarnished relations between law enforcement and community, Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club is taking a proactive role in cultivating communication and encouraging positive attitude between police and youth through the Snacks with Officer Jack program. The brainchild of board member Carla Hall D'Ambra and facilitated by retired Sergeant Jack McDougal, Snacks with Officer Jack strives to help build trust with law enforcement while encouraging youth to maintain positive outlook and engagement with police officers. "Children are getting mixed messages about police officers. At Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club we wanted to create a program where our children learn that police officers are our helpers and are there to watch out for us and keep us safe. We are also teaching our kids to be respectful, not only of police officers, but of each other as well. It is a wonderful program," said Ms. Hall D'Ambra. Snacks with Officer Jack also addresses important issues relevant to today's youth culture including bullying, empathy, compassion, sportsmanship, Club and community pride, current events, and what it means to be a police officer. Members read stories, join in fun activities and participate in engaging discussions and thought provoking subject matter.

"When Carla approached me with her proposal for Snacks with Officer Jack, I was very interested in the idea because I have always enjoyed interacting with the youth in the community whether as a school resource officer for Glen Cove Police Department, a mentor or coach for one of the various sports teams. The program gives members of the Club the opportunity to discuss with a former police officer questions relating to police and community relations in addition to current events and other relevant topics. The informal after school format became an immediate success with the children keeping me on my toes each week with their challenging questions and comments," said Sergeant McDougal. Snacks, donated by board members and volunteers, are a major component of the weekly program. "I thought the snack would be the star of the show in our Snacks with Officer Jack program, but not so! Without a doubt, Officer Jack McDougal is the star. The kids love him," added Ms. Hall D'Ambra. 11 year-old Club member Anna G agrees wholeheartedly, "Officer Jack is kind and he deserves this award because he helps us kids by teaching us all right from wrong, and what it means to be a great police officer."

"Seeing the joy from the children that came to honor Sergeant Jack McDougal truly made it an honor and a privilege to present him with a citation recognizing his many years of outstanding community service. Officer Jack has made a world of difference in the lives of many children over the years," said Nassau County Comptroller George Maragos. Senior Asset Manager Anthony Geneva, who accompanied Mr. Maragos, said, "I must say the citation given to Jack is very well deserved. Jack has contributed and touched many lives within the City of Glen Cove. As I stood and watched the Comptroller present the citation to Jack I could see the admiration the children have for Jack, it was truly extraordinary. It was great to witness the presentation and the Glen Cove Boys & Girl Club is quite fortunate to have Officer Jack. He promotes great citizenship."

Snacks with Officer Jack, now in its second year, started out as a weekly program for younger members of the Club. A mega success amongst the kids, the program was extended to accommodate teens, who are equally excited to participate in the curriculum. "Through this program, our members are learning to respect and understand the important role law enforcement plays in all of our lives. More than that though, we encourage our kids to participate in a number of constructive and productive programs and activities focusing on education and career development and character and leadership development, all designed to promote positive youth development that result in successful futures and good citizenship. With juvenile arrests taking place every three minutes, the more children that walk through our doors, the more children we can positively impact and keep off the streets," said GCBGC Executive Director, Franca Trunzo.

Mayor Spinello Announces Available Funds for Residential Rehab Program Income Eligible Seniors and Disabled Persons Asked to Apply For Home Improvement Needs

Glen Cove Community Development Agency (CDA) Chairman, Mayor Reggie Spinello, announced today that additional funds for the Residential Rehabilitation Program are now available for eligible Glen Cove residents. Income eligible seniors ages 60+ and handicapped persons are encouraged to apply for the program which provides funding for home repairs including energy conservation, code violation remediation, and handicap accommodation installations. "Since the reinstatement of this program in 2014, the CDA has been able to fund three home repair projects for Glen Cove seniors which included roof repairs, boiler installation, siding repair, window replacement, door hanging, and a hot water heater installation," said Mayor Spinello. "For Glen Cove seniors and disabled individuals, funding from this program can make a substantial improvement to the quality of their home life."

Applicants must have owned and lived in their current home for more than one year, meet income guidelines, and be up-to-date in the payment of their school and property taxes. A pre-screening application is available in English and Spanish on the agency's website – www.glencovecda.org – click on the Programs tab, and then click on Residential Rehab Application. Applications will be reviewed on a first come, first serve basis, and funding is limited. For further information on the program or to request a pre-screening application by phone, please call Camille Byrne, Executive Assistant of the Glen Cove CDA at (516) 676-1625, Extension 112 or email Ms. Byrne at cbyrne@glencovecda.org. Tipi Ted Visits Sea Cliff and Glenwood Landing Schools

As an introduction to the Native American unit of the fourth grade curriculum, "Tipi Ted," head of the Traveling Wilderness Museum and king of the longhouse, visited Sea Cliff and Glenwood Landing Schools to help teach students about Native American life on Long Island.

Students had the opportunity to examine various wildlife specimens including deer hides, animal bone tools, and shell rattles thanks to Enrichment Teachers Diane Krupin and Audra Marcantonio. Additionally, students engaged in hands-on activities including corn grinding, drumming, and wampum necklace making; and played Native American games including "pick-up bones! Students also had the opportunity to study inside an authentic longhouse!

"Tipi Ted" along with Chris Puleo, otherwise known as Two Feathers, has annually brought this enrichment program to all three North Shore Elementary Schools. The goal of the program is to help illustrate to the students in an educational and interactive way how Native American tribes lived, gathered food, and even enjoyed games many years ago on Long Island.

Glen Cove Youth Bureau Accepting New Participants for RAK Program Effort Gives Residents Yard Work Assistance While Helping Teens Earn Money

With the crisp fall wind in the air and tree leaves creating a canvas of color on lawns across the City, the Glen Cove Youth Bureau would like to remind residents that their Rent-A-Kid (RAK) program is year-round initiative and is continually accepting new participants.

The RAK program matches homeowners with students ages 12-18 to work raking leaves, gardening, cleaning yards and shoveling snow. Interested Glen Cove residents can register with the Glen Cove Youth Bureau. Homeowners and students are matched by neighborhood, and students receive ten dollars an hour (with a minimum of ten dollars per day), for the work performed.

For more information regarding the RAK program, please contact Jacki Yonick at 516.671.4600 or jyonick@cityofglencoveny.org.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
 We have had a great couple of weeks here in Sea Cliff- Starry Starry Night, the Progressive Dinner, Cider Social, - all organized by the Sea Cliff Civic Association- and now the Pet and Puppet Parade at noon on Halloween - what fun! Do you have a serious but short book for me to read this busy holiday weekend?
Halloween Happening Enthusiast

Dear Halloween Happening Enthusiast, I met recently with Eileen Heneghan, a voracious and discriminating reader, and we both agreed THE THIRTEEN WAYS OF LOOKING by Colum McCann is one of the finest books either of us has read this year. A collection of short fiction- a novella and three short stories, this book delves into the inner lives of its characters in a manner reminiscent of James Joyce. In the 143 page novella, an elderly judge goes about his day contemplating the indignities of aging, mourning his late wife, planning the rituals of a good meal, while in alternating chapters the police are scanning a myriad of surveillance videos that have recorded his actions up to and including his murder. We see what he sees but we also see what the videos have recorded and there are huge discrepancies. What really did happen? The three short stories while wonderful, do not have the sharp impact of the opening novella. An elderly nun catches a glimpse on camera of a man who had kidnapped and brutalized her decades ago, a middle-aged woman fears her autistic son has drowned because of her carelessness, and a young writer struggles to complete an assignment. All are excellent, but if time is short, make sure you read the opening tale. Highly, highly recommended!
