“The Giving Tree” returns to The Guardian Angel Family Boutique

The Guardian Angel of Sea Cliff announces its third annual “Giving Tree” event. The huge success of “The Giving Tree”, bringing so much joy and happiness to so many needy families has made it an annual event. This “Miracle on 34th Street” is located in Sea Cliff at the non-profit Guardian Angel Family Boutique, at 329 Glen Cove Avenue in Sea Cliff (between Littleworth and Lafayette Avenues). Choose a card from “The Giving Tree” and help make a child’s holiday dream come true! Many of the children of families who have fallen on economic hard times won’t be receiving any gifts this holiday season. “The Giving Tree” has cards filled out by these children listing a small gift they would like to receive under their tree. In the spirit of the season, won’t you stop in and choose one card with a child’s name and buy that gift. This is your chance to be a Guardian Angel to a needy child. It may be one extra gift for you to buy, but it may be the only gift that child will receive this holiday season. Imagine the joy on that child’s face when he/she opens it!! The Guardian Angel volunteers will be available to help you pick out a local family that would be blessed by your caring and loving gift for their child. While you’re there, be sure to see the festive holiday clothing, some new, others gently used for all ages of children and women. With the cold weather soon upon us, you will also find lots of warm jackets, coats, mittens, gloves, scarves, hats and boots, all at very reasonable prices. Bedding, linens, furniture and lots of baby items can also be found. This holiday boutique is sure to be a one-stop crowd pleaser for all your winter and holidays needs. Why waste time and gas money driving to a mall? Shop locally and know that all proceeds will go directly to help women in crisis situations. The Guardian Angel Family Boutique is now open Mondays through Saturdays from 11am - 4pm, call (516) 277-1068 to donate or volunteer your time.

City of Glen Cove Inauguration Ceremonies Set for January 1 at 12 noon Mayor Reginald Spinello and City Council Members to take Oath of Office

Glen Cove City Clerk Tina Pemberton announced today that the inauguration ceremony for Mayor Reginald Spinello will be held on Monday January 1, at 12:00 noon in the Main Chambers of Glen

Cove’s City Hall. Glen Cove residents are invited to attend as the official oath of office is administered to Mayor Reginald Spinello and City Council members Joseph Capobianco, Nicholas A. DiLeo Jr., Pamela Panzenbeck, Efraim Spagnoletti, Timothy J. Tenke and Roderick Watson. Judge Paul Meli and Judge Joseph McCann will be officiating the oath of office for these elected City officials. In keeping with tradition, immediately following the ceremony, Mayor Reginald Spinello and the City Council will convene the first City Council meeting of his second term. “The inauguration offers a time for us to reflect upon the progress we have made in key areas including illegal housing, business development, fiscal responsibility and improving our City’s programs and services,” said Mayor Spinello. “I look forward to continuing

Glen Cove Cheerleaders Place Third at Invitational

Glen Cove High School's varsity cheerleaders placed third in the Small Varsity Division at the Wantagh Warrior Invitational on Dec. 5.

The girls worked hard to show off a liberty sequence with a switch lib, power press, scale and arabesque, which ended in a twist down. Although it was a very difficult routine, the girls were not afraid of the challenge. The team also had a fabulous ending pyramid with many moving parts, including Tatiana Leto flipping from above her teammates' heads, only to be tossed backwards to do it again.

Coach Jessica Thompson congratulated the team on a great performance and expressed her pride on their accomplishments thus far. She also reminded the team to keep powering through at their upcoming competitions, saying, "You can achieve anything you set your mind to."

World Series Learning Fun at Gribbin

Second-grade students at Gribbin School in Glen Cove commemorated the New York Mets' trip to the World Series with classroom activities that highlighted the team's outstanding achievement while reinforcing the school's curriculum.

Dressed in the trademark Mets colors of orange and blue, the children rotated between three classes to create their own baseball cards, an exercise that included measuring their own height and writing personal information about themselves. In addition, they took part in a close reading exercise on the history of the Mets and broke into groups to create a poster on what they learned. Other activities included alphabetizing the Mets players' last names and sorting the team's individual averages from greatest to least.

Second-grade teachers and Met fans Coleen Brunhuber, Amy Gallo and Mark Glaviano worked together to organize the day's events.

Glen Cove's Single Stream Recycling Encourages Residents to Make Holiday Recycling a New Tradition

'Tis the season to start a new holiday tradition says Glen Cove's Department of Sanitation by recycling your paper holiday gift wrap, boxes and toys of yesteryear. As part of the Glen Cove's Single Stream Recycling program's "All In. One. Bin." City residents can now recycle more items and the holidays are the perfect time to take advantage of this new effort. "In the first four months of our Single Stream Recycling program we have seen a 30% increase in our City's commitment to recycling," said Mayor Reggie Spinello. "With the holidays upon us it's a great time to be on Santa's nice list by thinking green."

"When unwrapping holiday gifts, keep your recycling bin nearby to collect all of the wrapping paper (paper not metallic), cardboard boxes and paper gift bags and tags," said Doug Poncet, Department of Sanitation Supervisor. "I call it Santa's Blue Bin and we can each do our part to recycle not only the holiday paper goods but also all of the cans, bottles and aluminum trays used in holiday entertaining."

To stay on Santa's nice list this season, consider recycling the following holiday items: cards and envelopes, gift and cardboard boxes, non-metallic wrapping and tissue paper, paper bags and non-metallic gift bags and old plastic toys. Santa's Naughty list which features non-recyclable items which should be disposed of with regular garbage; those items include plastic wrap, bubble wrap, packing peanuts, ribbons and bows, and metallic bags and wrapping paper.

And, don't forget that Glen Cove Beautification also sponsors free Christmas Tree mulching at our Chip-A-Tree Event which will be held on Saturday, January 9th from 8:30 am until 12:00 noon at the Morgan Park parking lot. The first 50 residents will receive free evergreen saplings to plant at their homes and everyone can enjoy free coffee and donuts. Trees can also be dropped off prior to the event beginning January 4 at the designated Morgan Park parking lot location.

Deasy School Students Learn to Code

Glen Cove students at Deasy Elementary School received a lesson in coding during their recent STEM classes.

During the second-grade lesson, which was taught by STEM teacher Jessica Cialeo, students learned that computers and electronic devices do not have a brain and cannot think for themselves. Therefore, people called computer scientists need to "write" directions for the devices so they can perform tasks. The children were then introduced to coding and given guided practice using Code.org and the iPad applications Kodable and Daisy the Dinosaur. The students thoroughly enjoyed using the apps to create block coding, which allowed them to move BB8, a Star Wars: The Force Awakens character on their iPad screens.

Cialeo's lesson was coordinated as part of Computer Science Education Week and the Hour of Code, which is a global movement that reaches tens of millions of students in more than 180 countries. Deasy Principal Ken Craft and Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum, Instruction and Technology Dr. Michael Israel attended the lesson and assisted the children in their assignment. District elementary students in Ken Altamirano and Cheryl Carmody's STEM classes also participated in grade level appropriate coding lessons as part of the Hour of Code celebration.

STEM teacher Jessica Cialeo taught second-grade students about coding.

Deasy Principal Ken Craft looked on as second-graders Boglarka Molnar and Elier Granados worked on their coding assignment.

Glen Cove Teacher's Association Carries on Tradition of Giving Active Teachers and Retirees Donate Toys to Glen Cove Youth Bureau

For over 20 years the Glen Cove Teacher's Association (GCTA) has collected and donated toys for the City's less fortunate children. This tradition of generosity and giving continues in 2015 as Mayor Reggie Spinello joined the President of the Glen Cove Teacher's Association, Karen Ferguson and Glen Cove Youth Bureau director

Arlene O'Dell and program coordinator Sandra Potter to deliver the association's presents to Glen Cove City Hall

The GCTA donated over 300 toys and they will be distributed to children during the Glen Cove's Youth Bureau's annual Milk & Cookies with Santa event.

Leg. DeRiggi-Whitton Hosts Narcan Training.

Whether peer pressure, curiosity or boredom is to blame is irrelevant. What is relevant and critical is the fact that heroin addiction, overdoses and heroin-related deaths are a result of an epidemic that is growing on Long Island faster than many other areas of our country.

Heroin-related deaths are growing the fastest among those under age 21 and this drug knows no social, economic or other barriers. Honors students, athletes and even children as young as 12 are experimenting with this highly addictive drug that costs less than a pack of cigarettes to purchase.

Narcan, or naloxone hydrochloride, is an opiate antidote injection that reverses an opioid overdose. Emergency medical professionals have used Narcan for decades. Now, every Nassau County police officer is trained to administer this life saving medication.

To help save the lives of people who are overdosing from heroin, Nassau County Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton is co-hosting a Narcan training session with fellow Legislator Don MacKenzie. The session is scheduled for Wednesday, January 27, 2016 from 7:00-9:00 p.m. in the North Shore High School auditorium, 450 Glen Cove Avenue, Glen Head. Note that all attendees must pre-register by emailing elaikin@nassaucountyny.gov.

Anyone age 18 or older can register for the training, which also covers warning signs of drug addiction, treatment options, personal stories of recovery and administering life-saving Narcan injections. There is no fee and each trainee will receive a free Narcan kit, which contain two prefilled syringes of naloxone (Narcan), two atomizers for nasal administration, sterile gloves and a booklet on the use of the drug. A 2006 New York State law allows citizens to administer Narcan without fear of liability.

The County has provided Narcan training for over 4,000 people in the past three years. Dozens of these trainees have already saved lives of overdosing people. While the program is clearly not the same as stemming the epidemic, it is certainly a step in the right direction.

Nassau County and the Long Island Crisis Center offer a mental health substance abuse helpline that operates 24/7. Call 516-227-TALK (8255) if you or someone you know has substance abuse concerns. Feel free to contact Leg. DeRiggi-Whitton's office any time at 516-571-6211 or dderiggiwhitton@nassaucountyny.gov.

Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club Serves Thanksgiving Dinner to Community

On Tuesday, November 24, Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club hosted a bountiful Thanksgiving Dinner for the Glen Cove community. The Club, along with Andrea Correale and Elegant Affairs and 71 volunteers and staff members, served the dinner to 410 guests.

Andrea Correale and her team at Elegant Affairs prepared and donated all the trimmings for the dinner and cooked the 34 turkeys contributed by members of the Club's board. "Elegant Affairs believes strongly in giving back to the community. We are so impressed with the work that Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club does for the children of Glen Cove that it is our pleasure to support the Club for the past 15 years," said Andrea Correale, President of Elegant Affairs.

"Our Thanksgiving Dinner is truly a collaborative affair and one that brings together our members and their families, our volunteers and the Glen Cove community to share in a feast and enjoy the festivities of this thankful season," said GCBGC Associate Director, Desirae O'Neill, who organized the dinner. Jack McDougal, board member and Retired Sargent of the Glen Cove

Police Department, gave the blessing while volunteers and board members helped serve the turkey and the delicious traditional thanksgiving fare including stuffing, mashed potatoes and gravy, and macaroni and cheese. As always, the Sundae stations were a favorite among the kids.

In addition to hosting the Annual Thanksgiving Dinner, the Club also held a Thanksgiving Basket Drive. Thanks to the generous donations and contributions from the board and community including Jessica Tuntunjan, Happiness is Belonging, The Green Vale School, Stop & Shop, Glen Cove Beer Distributor, Kristie Werz, The Greek Orthodox Church of the Resurrection and St. Catherine's Philoptochos, the Club was able to provide complete Thanksgiving Dinners for 112 families to prepare at home on Thanksgiving Day.

SAFE Coalition Implements Peer Mentoring Program

Student Athlete Leadership Team Helps To Bolster Life Skills

The Finley Middle School's sixth grade class was recently visited by members of SALT (Student Athlete Leadership Team). SALT members discussed life skills they learned through their participation in after school activities and the impact those skills have had on their later lives. SALT members encouraged middle school students to get involved in after school activities be it sports or other activities that interest them as an alternative to idle time where many negative behaviors begin.

The School Committee of SAFE's Coalition is Chaired Denise Kiernan, Director of Health, Physical Education and Athletics at Glen Cove School District. Kiernan stated "The SALT mentoring program is for students at Finley Middle School to learn about healthy decision making skills while working with student leaders in the High School athletic program who demonstrate positive leadership skills. This program encourages students to become leaders on and off the field."

As a part of the presentation, SALT team members broke students into small groups to demonstrate the importance of team building activities. This gave students the opportunity to work together to accomplish a common goal. Students responded well to this activity and engaged actively appearing to enjoy it.

SALT members believe that by sharing their personal stories they can help younger students learn the importance of perseverance and overcoming difficult obstacles ranging from a sports injury to a difficult class. "The goal of SAFE Inc., is early intervention and prevention in an effort to teach kids how to make healthier decisions in the future. The SALT student led workshops aim to enhance SAFE's Life Skills Training that works with middle school student to develop healthy self-images. It is important that kids learn to develop peer resistance skills needed early on to resistance engaging in unhealthy behaviors" stated Ashley Ferrufino, SAFE Coalition Liaison. The SALT program will continue to visit the Finley Middle School throughout the year to discuss topics ranging from peer resistance skills to the negative effects of alcohol and substance use.

For more information about SALT or other SAFE Coalition initiatives contact SAFE at: 516-676-2008 or visit the website at www.safeglen Cove.org

The Circus Comes to Glen Head School

The National Circus Project came to Glen Head Elementary for a week-long event that combined determination and skill. With much practice and proficiency, their confidence builds as each student masters his or her activity with a "never give up" attitude.

The fifth graders were able to choose from eight different acts to become their specialty for their own performance. The acts included plate spinning, juggling, devil sticks, diabolos, clowns, acrobats, balancers, and stilt walkers. At the conclusion of the week, they put on an amazing in-school show for the whole student body to watch and then an evening performance for their parents, families and friends!

an innovative cultural arts organization, which promotes student participation in school arts and physical education activities, using "circus" as its theme. The National Circus Project sends teams of internationally acclaimed circus performer/instructors to schools throughout the U.S.A. Students are encouraged to practice repeatedly the circus skills. Special thanks to the Glen Head PTO and the students for such an exciting event!

IAC Celebrates the Holidays at The View Grill

The Glen Cove Interagency Council (IAC) celebrated the December holidays with a festive breakfast at The View Grill. Ann Marie Thigpen, Director of the Long Island Center for Non-Profit Leadership at Adelphi University presented a very interesting speech on the history of nonprofit organizations in the United States. She also spoke about the importance of developing a board of directors that reflects the philosophy and culture of the nonprofit organization.

The Glen Cove IAC includes community leaders representing a variety of human and social service agencies throughout Glen Cove. It reflects Glen Cove's rich cultural, religious and ethnic diversity and meets regularly to identify and address changing needs in the community. This network has resulted in numerous projects and collaborations that benefit Glen Cove residents on a daily basis. For more information about IAC, please visit iacglencove.org.

The Glen Cove IAC celebrated the December holidays with a festive breakfast at the The View Grill. Ann Marie Thigpen, Director of the Long Island Center for Non-Profit Leadership at Adelphi University was the guest speaker. She was warmly welcomed by Glen Cove Mayor Reginald Spinello and IAC President Carolyn Willson.

Happy Holidays!

To all our Glen Cove Community,

I always love the holidays! It's such a special time for families, friends and neighbors to celebrate the wonders of the season. It is an opportunity to worship, to give thanks, and to help those who are less fortunate. A time to share a meal, share a story, and stop to remember the importance of being together.

As my family and I gather once again for our annual holiday celebration, I would like to thank all of you for your support. It means so much to me. As each new year begins, I am increasingly grateful to you for investing your trust and confidence in me as your Supervising City Court Judge. In the twenty seven years since I first came on board as Associate Judge, I have consistently strived to rise to the challenges of the court with fairness and integrity.

Whenever you spot me around town – at City Hall, at the Senior Center, at the National Night Out Against Crime or enjoying the music at our downtown concert series – please be sure to say hello. You, our citizens, are what make this city a wonderful place to live and work. I look forward to serving another year as your Glen Cove Supervising City Court Judge. I hope you and your family have a wonderful and blessed holiday season!

Best Wishes,
The Hon. Richard J. McCord

Friends Academy announces new Head of School for 2016-17

Andrea Kelly, Assistant Head of The Packer Collegiate Institute, begins July 1st

Assistant Head of The Packer Collegiate Institute Andrea Kelly will become Friends Academy's next Head of School and the first woman to lead the 140-year Quaker co-educational independent school.

"From the start, my goal was to demonstrate that by virtue of my depth of experience and personal qualities I was the right leader for Friends Academy," said Kelly. "It doesn't fall short on me that I now stand among very few female heads of school leading large, Pre-K to 12, co-educational and independent schools," she noted.

The eight-month selection process yielded a group of nationally renowned finalists who met with the entire Friends community – from students, parents, faculty and staff to alumni and Board members.

"During the in-depth interview process, Ms. Kelly's energy and enthusiasm for our school and mission were evident to all," remarked Board of Trustees President Debra Del Vecchio. "An exceptional educator with 30 years in diverse teaching and leadership positions in both public and independent education, Andrea brings a rich understanding of the educational landscape and the learning needs of today's students," Del Vecchio added.

For Kelly, the rigorous interview process ultimately reinforced her belief that Friends Academy was the next step of her journey, as well as theirs. "In my short time on campus, I felt an immediate and positive connection to the many people I met, including students, parents, faculty, staff and school leaders," she recalled. "As I made my way through more than 30 meetings, it became abundantly clear that the members of the Friends community had a strong sense of the kind of leader their next head should be, on a personal level and for the school."

Andrea began her career as a Special Education teacher, which became an important factor in her understanding of the different ways in which students learn. After additional experience as a public elementary school teacher, she became the Director of Maple Street School in Brooklyn, and in 1996 began what has become a 20-year tenure at The Packer Collegiate Institute in Brooklyn, a Pre-Kindergarten through grade 12 school of 1,028 students. In her current role as Assistant Head, Andrea's chief responsibility has been to lead Packer's three divisions through the implementation of a strategic plan that encompasses a Master Plan for long-range facility improvements and expansion. Her work has included guiding the school in its adoption of multiple innovative curricular initiatives; collaborating with department head and divisional leadership in the creation of a new school-wide master schedule; and refocusing professional development of the faculty to meet the school's strategic goals.

"I find it a thrill to be a school person today. Schools are immersed in a time of transformative change and pioneering institutions and thought leaders in the field are reshaping traditional definitions of teaching and learning. As an educator, I relish the opportunity to design curriculum that promotes inquiry and challenges students at the highest levels of rigor," said Kelly.

A graduate of the State University of New York at Geneseo, where she earned a bachelor's degree in Special Education, Kelly went on to Nazareth College where she was awarded a Master of Science degree in Education. She and her husband, Tim, are the parents of two children, a daughter, Julia, age 23, and a son Daniel, age 21. Kelly will begin her term on July 1, 2016.

"I am proud to serve Friends Academy for this reason – holding true to the Quaker testimony of equality, Friends Academy has taken an important step in selecting a female head as the next leader for the school. Just as the men who have come before me, I intend to serve as a strong, just and caring leader for the entire community.

Friends Academy is now accepting applications for the 2016-17 school year. The Admissions Office will host the final Open Houses for Middle and Upper School students on Tuesday, January 5 at 8:30 a.m. and a Lower School Open House on Thursday, January 7 at 8:30 a.m. RSVPs are required for both events and parents are asked to call the Admissions Office at 516-393-4244.

Enrolling 770 students from age 3 through Grade 12, Friends Academy is guided by its Quaker heritage and the principles of integrity, simplicity, patience, moderation and a peaceful resolution of conflict. The school is located on 65 acres at the intersection of Piping Rock and Duck Pond roads in Locust Valley/ Glen Cove. Connolly's Noah Kopetic Wins Spelling Bee

The top fifth-grade spellers from Connolly School in Glen Cove went head to head in a Scripps Spelling Bee contest on Dec. 2.

The 10 vying students, who were selected for the competition after placing first and second in their individual class spelling bees, took turns spelling words off the Scripps Spelling Word list, presented by AIS teacher Nancy Cox in front of the entire fifth-grade class. After several intense rounds between Noah Kopetic, Matthew Bailey and Eli Rodti, Kopetic prevailed and will now have an opportunity to compete in the Hofstra Long Island Regional Scripps Spelling Bee.

Principal Rosemarie Sekelsky commended fifth-graders Matthew Bailey, Jake Delgado, Carlene Genova, Christopher Gielbeda, Eric Graziouse, Noah Kopetic, Shefali Mahapatro, Eli Roditi, Lisbeth Sanchez and Adel Waly on their outstanding performances.

Glen Cove Y Hosts Annual Snack with Santa and More

After the outdoor Christmas tree lighting and caroling were completed at the Glen Cove Y, children and adults alike entered the Preschool classrooms to participate in a variety of activities, such as cookie decorating and letter writing to Santa, under the direction of staff members of the Y as well as volunteers from Capital One Bank, who also were on hand to act as Santa's Elves. The gymnasium was transformed into a beautiful Holiday Boutique for the night. Of course, the highlight of the evening was a visit from Santa Claus. After talking to Santa each child then received a picture with him. Board Chairman Angelo T. Stanco (third from left) commented, "It's wonderful to see such a great turnout for this event. We are very delighted that so many families signed up to participate in all of the various activities. Liberty Ledesma, the Y's Preschool Director, Judy Parker, and Michele Walthers as well as the Y's staff members deserve our thanks for the many hours of work that helped to make the evening's festivities go so smoothly. Snack with Santa has become a tradition at the Glen Cove Y, and we are all grateful that so many children and adults enjoy being able to take part in it." The Glen Cove Y would like to extend its thanks to all those who helped to sponsor the event: Capital One Bank, North Shore LIJ at Glen Cove, Starbucks in Glen Cove & Sea Cliff, Downtown

Café, Vito's Pizza, Send in the Clowns, H. Schrier Food Distributor, and Stop and Shop. For more information on other events and programs at the Glen Cove Y, please log onto www.ymcali.org and click on locations.

Youth and Family Events During The Holiday Season at Gold Coast Public Library

Families had a sweet time building their own gingerbread houses in late November, then coming back to the Gold Coast Public Library to decorate Snow Globe Greeting Cards on the night of the Glen Head Rotary's Tree Lighting in December.

Holiday programs continue with the Grade K-5 "Let It Snow Organizer" on Tuesday December 15th at 4:30 PM, the "Winter Storytime" for Ages 2 1/2 -5 years old on Tuesday, December 22nd at 6 PM, and "Crafty Kids: Color-Me Animals" for Grades K-2 on Tuesday, December 29th at 2:30.

For Teens, they can learn how to "Fingerknit their Own Scarf" on Saturday, December 26 at 2 PM, or receive "Babysitter or Mother's Helper" training on Saturday December 19th from 11 AM to 5 PM.

For Tweens, Grades 3-6, they can build a "Lucky Penny Stepping Stone" on Monday, December 28th from 3-4 PM. Parents and children who love to read together can join Mrs. Schuldner's Grade 3-5 "Parent-Child Book Club," meeting Thursday, December 17th at 6:30, to discuss the book Flunked by Long Island's own Jen Calonita. Then they can join teens in meeting the author on Thursday, January 7th, at 6:30 PM, where she will discuss how to become a full time author in our Teen Entrepreneurial Academy.

Registration is required for all programs and can be done in person at the library, 50 Railroad Avenue, Glen Head, by calling the library at 516-759-8300, or online at www.goldcoastlibrary.org.

Name the Celebrity

produce color films, produced before teaming with David O. Selznick to form Selznick International Pictures. The first two films (both in 1937) of that collaboration were "A Star is Born" with Janet Gaynor and Fredric March and "Nothing is Sacred", with March and Carole Lombard.

As a last clue, our celebrity played "Madame Barabas" in "Satan Met a Lady" (1936) with Bette Davis. This film was the first adaptation of Dashiell Hammett's "The Maltese Falcon" and, also, the first film of many that caused Bette Davis to revolt against Warner Bros. for roles she considered "tripe".

This week's celebrity name may not come quickly to the reader's mind, even though her face may be familiar, such is the fate of the character actor. She was an English stage and screen actress, born in London on July 25, 1863. Her first stage appearance was at London's Daly's Theatre in 1894. Her first American performance came the following year at the NYC Broadway Theatre where she sang in a light opera "An Artist's Model". She traveled back and forth between England and the U.S. over the next few years and performed on both stages. Her first American film was in 1912, a short, "A Mardi Gras Mix-Up". After several "silents", she successfully joined the "talkies" in such roles as "Lady Kitty Melrose" in Samuel Goldwyn's 1930 Pre-Code comedy-mystery version of "Raffles" starring Ronald Coleman. She was "Countess" in "Madame Racketeer" (1932) with George Raft and as the "Duchess" in the 1933 version of "Alice in Wonderland" with a parade of notables including Cary Grant, Edna Mae Oliver, Gary Coper and Edward Everett Horton. She was "Miss Crawley" in "Becky Sharp" (1935) starring Miriam Hopkins, who received an Academy Award for Best Actress in her role. This film was the first feature film to use the three-strip process, which created a separate film register for each of the three primary colors. As an aside, "Becky Sharp" was the second to last film that John Hay "Jock" Whitney and Cornelius Vanderbilt, who together had formed Pioneer Pictures, specifically to

Last Week's Celebrity

Born Jessie Ralph Chambers, last week's celebrity was known professionally as Jessie Ralph. Although she made her Hollywood debut in 1916, she only became a permanent Hollywood actress in 1933, when she left Broadway behind. She was nearly 70, at this time, so her roles were restricted to those of dumpy old ladies, but her expertise at stealing scenes captured the imagination of cinema-goers of the time. Her best-known roles as Greta Garbo's maid in "Camille" (1936) and as W.C. Fields' battleax of a mother-in-law in "The Bank Dick" (1940). She was "Mrs. Barlow" in the 1935 B/W Errol Flynn swashbuckler "Captain Blood" and "Katharine Forrest" in "After the Thin Man" (1936) with William Powell and Myrna Loy. She was the "Applewoman from Brooklyn" in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" (1936) with Freddie Bartholomew. This was the first film produced by David O. Selznick, by himself, as Selznick International Pictures and was the studio's most profitable film until "Gone With the Wind" (1939).

She starred in 55 movies altogether, 52 between 1933 and 1941. She retired from Hollywood in 1941, after her leg was amputated. She died on May 30, 1944, in her hometown of Gloucester, Mass, at the age of 79.

Glen Cove Students Designated All-County

The Nassau Music Educators Association designated thirty-four students from the Glen Cove City School District as All-County musicians.

These students have been selected based on last year's New York State School Music Association scores and teacher recommendations. Performances will be held at the Tilles Center for the Performing Arts in January.

The Glen Cove Music Department and members of the administration congratulate these students on this outstanding musical achievement.

Sea Cliff Elementary K-Kids Toothpaste And Toothbrush Drive

The Sea Cliff Elementary School K-Kids played host to the North Shore INN at their meeting on November 24th. The agenda was to partner with the North Shore INN for their second annual Toothpaste and Toothbrush Drive.

K-Kids faculty advisor Mark Mihopulos greeted NS INN volunteer committee co-chairs Harriet Lewis and Beth Fedirko and K-Kid members welcomed them with a hearty round of applause. The K-Kids Toothpaste and Toothbrush Drive project, with the theme "give back to our community" involves the entire Sea Cliff Elementary School to participate in helping others who are in need. The goal is to have as many as possible new individually packaged toothbrush and/or a new 4 oz or smaller tube of toothpaste to be sent to the NS INN for distribution to those less fortunate in our community.

Harriet Lewis and Beth Fedirko kicked off the meeting by explaining the mission of the NS INN then followed it up with a most effective question and answer period. Looking on were Olga Scileppi, North Shore Kiwanis K-Kids Liaison and Past President Herb Schierhorst.

The dialog exchanged during this meeting showed the commitment and dedication the K-Kids have in making this world a better place in which to live by helping others in our community. Their enthusiasm and willingness to offer their services is astounding and takes one's breath away. K-Kids motto is "We Build" with an objective to provide opportunities for working together in service to school and community. The North Shore Kiwanis Club is proud to be their sponsor and congratulations them for their outstanding accomplishments. For more info: go to North Shore Kiwanis.org

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru,
All over town there are holiday parties and some of the most fun are cookies swaps and the best and oldest is Elizabeth Weinstein's' For 26 years Elizabeth has been hosting her elegant celebration of sweets and friendship. Well, this year I have my cookies baked and ready to go, so I have time for a good book. Do you have something short I could read before the party?
Cookie Swap Connoisseur

Dear Cookie Swap Connoisseur,
 I just finished a very short, very touching semi-autobiographical novel (146 pages) by a young Italian physicist Paolo Giordano: LIKE FAMILY. A young husband and wife hire Mrs. A, a middle-aged widow as an aide, then housekeeper, and eventually nanny for their young son. She quickly becomes the center of their family life with her quirky steadfast devotion to each of them. When she falls ill, the couple are confronted with their own mortality, their commitment to one another, and their diminished expectations for themselves and their child. The husband/narrator brings us effortlessly from past to present as we see Mrs. A- their Babette from "Babette's Feast," cope with life's cruel challenges. The four members of this "family" share much, defining themselves in relation to each other so when one is removed, all must be reexamined. Beautifully written and very compelling- recommended!

Volunteers Render Thanksgiving At North Shore Inn

The Interfaith Nutrition Network (INN) addresses the issues of hunger and homelessness on Long Island, and on the local level, the North Shore INN (aka Glen Cove Soup Kitchen) makes a commitment to help fulfill this mission. This operation is totally run by volunteers where individuals, schools, religious and community groups and businesses donate much of the food.

There are many layers of preparation involved in planning and completing a warm, pleasant, fulfilling Thanksgiving for the many family and guests who attend the Soup Kitchen throughout the year. Estelle Moore, President, sets the wheels in motion by promptly responding to the various donors who generously contribute to this cause. The major donor for over 100 non-perishable traditional Thanksgiving food items which includes all the trimmings was made by St. John's Episcopal Church of Lattingtown as they have done for several years. Guests, who are in need, receive these items the Friday before Thanksgiving. As an added bonus, children from their Sunday School class donated and created small, "favor" bags colorfully decorated by hand adding a loving note for all guests. This year, over 150 turkeys were donated by the Unitarian Universalist Congregation at Shelter Rock and distributed the Monday before Thanksgiving. As an assurance that all are taken care of, tickets are dispensed to the regular guests a week prior to Thanksgiving and others who are in need, until all turkeys are depleted. Other generous donors consist of the following organizations to supplement further needs: Apple Bank, Locust Valley Reformed Church, Congregation Tifereth Israel, and Grace's Market.

The Grace Flieschman Foundation sponsored the Thanksgiving meal, where Soup Kitchen volunteers spent their Thanksgiving afternoon serving the many families and guests who needed a place to go. This year, the guests once again expressed their appreciation by commenting how the gregarious volunteers helped make their Thanksgiving a warm and fulfilling day to be remembered for many years to come. Volunteerism is a contribution to our society which is extremely gratifying, by reaching out to others who are in need and knowing you make a difference by enriching their lives. It is priceless!

Estelle Moore extends the INN's deepest thanks and appreciation for all who participated and contributed in making this Thanksgiving a day of joy and camaraderie. The NS INN meets every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday in the basement of the First Baptist Church located at 7 Continental Ave., Glen Cove. Mailing address: Box 168, Glen Cove, NY 11542.
