Glen Cove Cheerleaders Place Second in Competition

Congratulations to the Glen Cove Varsity Cheerleaders! On Jan. 31, the girls went head-to-head with teams across Long Island at the Smithtown West Competition.

According to coach Jessica Thompson, it has been a long and bumpy road for these girls, who have shown dedication, perseverance and strength.

In the words of captain Lila Nolan, "No other sport wants you to look pretty while screaming like a man, holding another person in the air, tossing them, catching them and smiling!"

Cheerleading is a tough sport, but Thompson said the girls made it look easy. Congratulations on taking home the second-place trophy. The next stop is the Cheer Extreme Nationals by the Sea in Virginia Beach this March.

Glen Cove Athletes Attend Leadership Conference

Six Glen Cove High School athletes attended the 13th annual Student Athletes as School Leaders: Leadership On and Off the Field Conference, held at Hofstra University on Feb. 2.

The purpose of the conference was to celebrate, support and encourage positive student leadership throughout Nassau County school districts. The student leaders met with their counterparts from other high schools and shared ideas about the meaning and significance of leadership.

The day included a keynote address by Greg Dale, professor of sport psychology and sport ethics at Duke University and director of the sport psychology and leadership programs for Duke Athletics. Mr. Dale's address focused on the dialogue between student leaders, coaches, athletic administrators and principals, as well as communication skills training. Representatives from the Positive Coaching Alliance facilitated breakout sessions for the student leaders using prepared materials.

Senior Center Honors Coleen Spinello

By Jenny Weiss

On Tuesday, January 26th, more than 100 seniors and friends gathered for lunch at The Glen Cove Senior Center to honor Coleen Spinello. As Coleen and Mayor Reggie entered the room, her favorite song, "I'm Walking on Sunshine" was sung and played to her, and there was a standing ovation. The reason for this outpouring of love was to honor Coleen, who donated a kidney to a young girl named Mia. We love a party here at the Center, and this was the perfect occasion for one!

Heartfelt tributes to Coleen were given by Senior Center Director, Carol Waldman, Senior Advocate, Shirley Pinckney, Glen Cove Youth Bureau Director, Arlene O'Dell, and Mayor, Reggie Spinello. Additionally, Arlene presented Coleen with a beautiful bouquet, and the Senior Center made a donation to the National Kidney Foundation, in her honor. We had a "toast" of sparkling cider, and one senior from each table brought Coleen a single, long-stemmed peach rose, along with many hugs and kisses. Our entertainer, Elysa Sunshine played a jitterbug while Coleen and senior, Donald Blumhagen danced together. The jitterbug is a particular favorite of Coleen's, as it was the dance she used to do with her father.

I don't think there was a dry eye in the Senior Center, as hearts were joined together in this celebration of life-giving, inspired by our own angel, Coleen. It is clear to see that Coleen is a very humble person who does not seek to be in the spotlight. Her gift of new life to Mia was the outpouring of a loving soul. We celebrate life and new possibilities every day at the Senior Center, but this day was especially moving. At the close of our luncheon, we passed out hand-dipped chocolate angel lollipops to honor Coleen, who remains an angel in our eyes..

Cuban Ministry of Culture Offers Historic Invitation to North Shore High School Musicians

North Shore High School will be one of the first public schools to perform in Cuba since the embargo in 1960.

North Shore High School, Glen Head, NY - This February 2016, music students at North Shore High School will be doing something that most Americans haven't been able to do in over half a century - fly from New York City to Havana. The historic public school performance tour comes at the threshold of 21st Century global change as Cuba begins to open its doors to the United States. This year, the Music Department at North Shore High School will be one of the first schools in the United States to perform in Cuba since the U.S. lifted the embargo at the end of 2015. Additionally, it comes at the same time as North Shore celebrates its 10th anniversary performance tour. The North Shore band, orchestra, and choral ensembles will be performing in Cuba (approximately 71 students).

"Art has always been part of the vanguard of social change," says Michael Kerschner, Director of Choral Studies. "Part of the mission of our touring program is to be artistic ambassadors between the people of different cultures and nations. This tour is part of a long American tradition where artists encourage diplomatic progress by humanizing events." Mr. Kerschner added, "In Cuba, our students will have the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to experience Cuba as it transitions into this incredible and new political reality. The fact that these artists are our students makes this tour even more special."

Dalia Rodriguez, North Shore Schools Director of Fine and Performing Arts said, "We're part of a massive historic shift in the world. Our teachers appreciate that the arts draw from so many sources and historical layers. Our students will have the opportunity to understand a country whose music weaves a story of its history." David Soto, Director of High School Bands added, "The fact that we are performing in Cuba is groundbreaking. It amazes me. It's astounding and exciting to be part of a community and administration that supports bold and courageous opportunities for our students."

For a decade, North Shore musicians under the supervision of their

been invited to play in famous music halls and cathedrals around the world, performing for numerous people while also embracing their various cultures. In Cuba, our musicians will be touring famous sites in Havana, Old Havana, and Santa Clara including Plaza de las Armas, Plaza de la Cathedral, Jose Marti Park, El Templete, Valle Palace, Government Palace, Caridad Theatre, Camren Palace and Ernesto Guevara Masoleum. Additionally, they will be performing at Teatro Marti, Teatro Terry, and La Caridad Teatro.

unfamiliar, our students become more naturally curious and energized. It's incredible to witness as a teacher." What makes this anniversary year special is the trailblazing nature of the tour. North Shore students will have the unique opportunity to share their art and develop relationships that will empower students to embrace their global neighbors. Over the years, North Shore students have consistently remarked that these tours have been truly life changing. Not only have they allowed them to pursue their love and passion for music, but also these unique and remarkable experiences will remain with them forever as they go to college and embark on their careers.

Many thanks to the administration, Board of Education, Arts Angels, and our North Shore community who continue to offer their assistance and support for these exciting musical and educational journeys. Additionally, thank you to the parents who are not only funding this trip but enabling their talented children to bring home memories that will last a lifetime.

"Musicians of the Fine and Performing Arts Department will be traveling to a country that is responsible for the creation of several musical styles. We will have an historical opportunity to perform for and alongside Cuban musicians," said Jason Domingo, Orchestra Director. "After decades of barriers between students from our two countries, we will be communicating through our shared musical language." He concluded by saying, "Our students and the Cuban music students will be at the center of an extraordinary, cultural exchange."

The SAFE Glen Cove Coalition coordinates prevention education workshop by Michael's Hope in celebration of National Drug and Alcohol Facts Week

When it comes to teens and drugs it is all about choices and consequences. In honor of National Drug and Alcohol Facts Week the SAFE Glen Cove Coalition's School Committee participated in a week long campaign by creating a program for students at Glen Cove Finley Middle School and Glen Cove High School (GCHS). The School Committee's efforts were targeted at arming students with the facts to help them make the right choices surrounding drugs and alcohol.

National Drug and Alcohol Facts Week was originally launched in 2010 by the National Institute on Drug Abuse as a prevention awareness campaign aimed at educating youth on the facts surrounding drugs and alcohol. "The school committee understands the importance early on regarding the truth behind drinking and drugging. Teens often don't understand the progressive nature of substance abuse and the long term effects of early use" stated Ashley Ferrufino, SAFE Glen Cove Coalition Liaison.

The campaign included the announcements of drug facts every morning during the traditional morning announcements. During health classes at Finley and at GCHS students in health classes played the WreckEd Card game. An educational game that is designed to teach teens to think more introspectively about their decisions regarding drugs and alcohol. This program not only encourages youth to look at their own behavior, but also to reach out and look out for their friends who may be making the wrong unhealthy decisions.

This year GCHS Students had the opportunity to listen to a nonprofit organization named Michael's HOPE. According to Paul Maffetone the founder of Michael's Hope, the goal of this organization is to present "stories from those who have been directly affected by addiction. We aim to raise awareness of the current epidemic we are living through, how addiction comes to pass for many, and very passionately for us the tremendous hopes of being a helping hand in ending the negative stigma connected to addiction as a whole. We have a saying here at Michael's HOPE which represents everything we stand for: 'The ugliest disease lies in the most beautiful people'."

Speakers Trevor Murray and Jordan Stierle spoke to students about their own struggles with substance abuse, the progressive nature of the disease and living a life of recovery. Both speakers discussed how their own substance use led them to do things they never imagine doing. The SAFE Glen Cove Coalition facilitates these educational presentations within the community in an effort to continue to work to change societal norms about alcohol and substance abuse through ongoing prevention, intervention and education activities and events.

SCO Family of Services Holds Second Annual Taft Academy

Caption: Huldah Schutt, a Teacher Assistant at SCO's Westbrook Preparatory School, shares her group's answers during a breakout session at the 2nd Annual SCO Taft Academy Conference.

The SCO Taft Academy is a unique professional development initiative for 700 staff from SCO Family of Services working with children and youth with special needs who attend SCO's five residential schools located in Nassau, Suffolk, Queens and Bronx counties. Through an array of staff development opportunities, the SCO Taft Academy advances high quality care for children and youth with developmental disabilities and behavioral challenges, helping them reach the greatest degree of self-sufficiency, family engagement and community integration possible.

SCO held its Second Annual Taft Academy Conference January 26-27, at the New York Institute of Technology in Glen Head, Long Island. Lee Thomas, Emmy award winning broadcaster and author of "Turning White: A Memoir of Change", provided the keynote address. Centered around this year's theme, "Collective Impact: Creating a Positive Ethical Environment," the conference opened with remarks from SCO's Executive Director, Douglas O'Dell who noted:

"We face ethical issues every day. We will engage in a conversation today as to how we can enhance, improve and build upon our established strong ethical foundation."

SCO's Taft Academy enhances staff skills and performance through educational and professional development opportunities and establishes a culture of performance excellence through consistent practice and interdisciplinary and collaborative approaches. Building upon the expertise and experiences of staff at each campus, SCO's Taft Academy provides a conduit to sharing and infusing best practices between each residential program and school, as well as among the five campuses. Principals, program directors, direct care workers, psychiatrists, social workers, nurses, teachers and teachers' aides participate in an innovative and collective approach to staff and leadership development and campus-improvement initiatives.

The Taft Academy comprises the following staff development components:

- Classroom Instruction, focused on helping to establish nurturing and responsive relationships that support and advocate for youth served;
- Learning Laboratories where staff volunteer to participate in a practicum-like experience on each campus to apply classroom learning to campus-based improvement initiatives;
- Online Learning, that reinforces classroom instruction across the five campuses and provides staff with access to 200 course hours of specialized content in the field of developmental disabilities;
- Mentorships; and
- Tuition Assistance.

"The Taft Academy has had the greatest impact on our direct care staff," said Patricia Daniels, Principal of The Christopher School for youth with developmental disabilities, located in the Bronx. "They are provided an opportunity to collaborate with colleagues not only on their own campus but across SCO's five campuses and they come to realize that they are not alone in the daily challenges they face."

"Having a strong ethical standard can always help one to persevere and make the best of any situation," said Melissa Ficara, Special Education Classroom Teacher at the Tyree Learning Center in Sea Cliff, LI.

The SCO Taft Academy is made possible with a grant from The Taft Foundation.

Outside In At Portledge School

On Friday, January 29, 2016 Portledge students took a trip to LIU Post to see their work "Outside In" first-hand. "Outside In" is a site specific art installation created by Portledge School students exclusively for the Goldsmith Atrium.

Portledge School is the first school on Long Island to be granted the opportunity of creating a site specific art installation for the Goldsmith Atrium. Art Under Glass, the organization whose mission it is to "present artists and their visions on the Atrium canvas," primarily only works with professional artists.

The cloud themed art installation was conceived of and led by Doris Benter, Department Head for Visual Arts at the Portledge School. Marc Mucciaccio, a recent Portledge School alumni and student at The Bernard and Anne Spitzer School of Architecture, along with current eleventh grade student Antonia Benter and local architect Peter Benter, were instrumental in envisioning the installation of the clouds within the atrium space.

The installation, consisting of over twenty large scale cloud sculptures that are suspended from the Atrium ceiling, has been under construction for the past two years. Students as young as two through fifth grade worked collaboratively on the individual clouds, while connections were nurtured between art, science and grade level curriculums.

Portledge is an independent pre-nursery to 12th grade school and offers a competitive college preparatory program in a warm, inclusive community where students are inspired to realize their individual potential by developing the critical thinking skills and moral courage necessary for lifelong learning in an increasingly complex world.

Robotics Competition at Finley

Finley Middle School hosted the iDesign and Masters School with Glen Cove 2016 VRC Qualifier robotics competition on Jan. 16.

At the event, the district's robotics team, "The Men in Black," which is comprised of Finley Middle School and Glen Cove High School students, was honored with the Sportsmanship Award. The Men in Black used two robots in the contest, competing against 30 teams from approximately 20 schools.

All of the participants took part in the game "Nothing but the Net," which tasks students with operating their robot to drop balls into a net, without making contact with the net. Four robots making up two teams compete in each match. According to Lisa Pignataro, the team's adviser, the robots are programmed with four ways to get the ball in the net, which include low lift, high lift, low goal or high goal.

Finley Middle School will also host the Southern New York VEX VRC State Championship on March 5.

Glen Cove Board Honors Football Athletes

The Glen Cove High School varsity football team was recognized by district administrators and the Glen Cove Board of Education at the Feb. 1 meeting.

The team was celebrated for being named Conference III Big Four Champions, after a terrific season of hard-fought wins. In addition to recognizing the team's accomplishments, Coach Pete Kopecky was honored for his 100th career win. Linebacker Gaetano Famiglietti, recipient of the Bill Piner Award and quarterback Mike Payton, recipient of the National Football Foundation's Scholar-Athlete Award, were also applauded for their success on and off the field.

Glen Cove High School Principal Antonio Santana was in attendance and presented the team's captains with a commemorative gold football that was given to the high school by the National Football League Super Bowl High School Honor Roll on behalf of Glen Cove graduate Joe Rizzo (1969). The honor roll celebrates high schools and communities that have contributed to Super Bowl history.

Superintendent of Schools Maria Rianna told the team she couldn't be any prouder of all they had accomplished.

"You played beautifully. You never gave up, and you have made Glen Cove very, very proud," Rianna said.

Leg. DeRiggi-Whitton Co-Hosted Narcan Training

Delia and Sea Cliff Mayor Bruce Kennedy ensure they are well versed with their Narcan kits, ready to save a life, if needed.

Heroin-related deaths are growing the fastest among those under age 21 and this drug knows no social, economic or other barriers. Honors students, athletes and even children as young as 12 are experimenting with this highly addictive drug that costs less than a pack of cigarettes to purchase and is growing at an alarming rate on Long Island.

Narcan, or naloxone hydrochloride, is an opiate antidote injection that reverses an opioid overdose. Emergency medical professionals have used Narcan for decades. Now, every Nassau County police officer is trained to administer this life-saving medication. The County has also sponsored Narcan training for over 4,000 civilians in the past three years alone. Dozens of these trainees have already saved the lives of overdosing people.

The latest training session, co-hosted by Nassau County Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton took place on January 27 at North Shore High School in Glen Head. Over 70 attendees received training in how determine whether someone is likely overdosing or not and how to administer Narcan. All attendees left with a complete Narcan kit. Parents who lost their children to heroin overdoses spoke, along with an addict who kicked the habit.

A particularly compelling speaker was RoseMarie Sherry, who took Narcan training just in case she could save someone's life someday, having no idea that she would someday need her kit to save the life of her own son. Ms. Sherry's children were good students and boy scouts who were raised in a good home. So, she is the perfect spokesperson for the, "If it happened in my family, it can happen in anyone's" awareness crusade.

Nassau County and the Long Island Crisis Center offer a mental health substance abuse helpline that operates 24/7. Call 516-227-TALK (8255) if you or someone you know has substance abuse concerns.

Feel free to contact Leg. DeRiggi-Whitton's office any time at 516-571-6211 or HYPERLINK "mailto:dderiggiwhitton@nassaucountyny.gov" dderiggiwhitton@nassaucountyny.gov. Other sessions are planned for later this year in Glen Cove and Port Washington.

Deasy School Students Defeat the Bully without Fighting

Glen Cove, New York, January 13, 2016 – Principal Ken Craft invited GMA Martial Arts & Life Skills, located at 275 Glen Street in Glen Cove, to deliver two assemblies to the 300 Kindergarteners through Second graders who attend Deasy Elementary School in Glen Cove. Though the martial arts is frequently viewed as a physical endeavor, Sensei Hender Alvarado and Sensei Andrew Goldberg gave the students a mental workout by teaching them effective strategies for "Conflict Avoidance" through the valuable character developing lessons of the martial arts. Topics included "Strong Body, Strong Mind," "The Slight Edge Principal," "The Anti-Bullying Pledge," and "The Courage to be an Upstander."

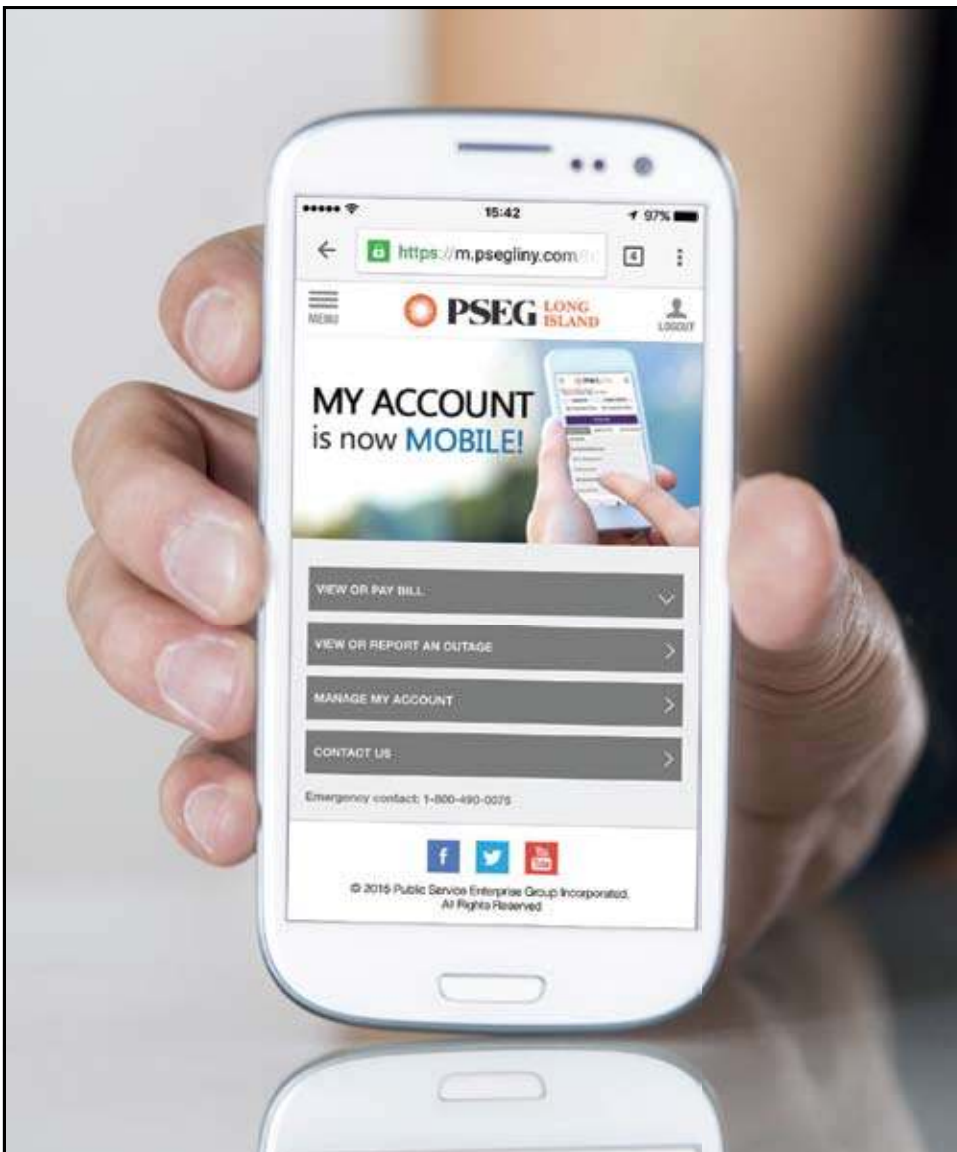

The assembly began with an interactive discussion of the many life-skills that martial arts training develops. Select students were then invited up in front of their classmates to role-play various tactics to deal with bullying. "Since I was bullied as a child and understand the emotional and sometimes physical pain that bullying causes, I really wanted to teach the students some strategies that they can start using immediately," remarked Sensei Andrew. The assembly culminated with Principal Craft wowing the students by dramatically performing a wooden board break in front of the student body. "Principal Craft, the teachers, and the students were very hospitable and we look forward to continuing to partner with Deasy Elementary School and other schools in our community to enrich the educational environment," said Sensei Hender, owner of the karate school.

Name the Celebrity

This week's celebrity was born in New York City on Oct. 17, 1947 and was raised in our own Sea Cliff. His career began in Pittsburg while a student at Carnegie Tech. The actor, David Lander, was a fellow student, at the time. They became comic partners and, after graduation, that partnership grew even more, as part of the comedy group "The Credibility Gap" with Harry Shearer (voice of multi-"Simpsons" characters) in Los Angeles. Our celebrity and Lander got their real big break in 1976 when he joined the cast of "Laverne & Shirley" portraying "Lenny" and "Squiggy" (Lander). Our celebrity directed one episode, and the characters became something of a phenomenon, even releasing an album as "Lenny & the Squigtones", which frequently played on the "Dr. Demento Show" out of Pasadena. Our celebrity also played his character in an episode of "Happy Days". After leaving "Laverne & Shirley" in 1982, he played "David St. Hubbins" in the comedy "This is Spinal Tap" with old pals, Christopher Guest and Harry Shearer. Having already appeared as a musical guest and then host of "Saturday Night Live", he joined the cast in 1994 and remained until 1995. At the age of 46, he was the oldest person to ever join the "SNL" cast, at the time. His record was later surpassed by Leslie Jones, who joined in 2014, at the age of 47. However, celebrity stills holds the distinction of being the only person to be a musical guest, host and cast member in that order.

Last Week's Celebrity

Last week's celebrity was Jon Hart. Although he played mostly minor roles in some fairly well known films, he was probably best known for having replaced Clayton Moore, in 1952, for one season of television series, "The Lone Ranger." Based on the assumption that the masked character, rather than the actor, was the true star of "The Lone Ranger", the program's producers fired Moore, presumably over salary differences, and replaced him with Hart, who was of a similar build and had a comparable background in westerns. However, the public never accepted Hart as "The Lone Ranger" and by 1954, producers returned Moore to the role. According to Clayton Moore's autobiography, "I Was the Masked Man", Moore never knew why he was replaced with Hart and also stated that he had not sought a pay increase.

Hart's last theatrical film appearance was in 1981's "The Legend of the Lone Ranger", in which he appeared as a newspaper editor. He appeared in the TV series "Happy Days" as "The Lone Ranger" in the episode "Hi Yo, Fonzie Away" (Feb. 9 1982), only a short 34 years to the day this columnist is writing this! In this episode, "Fonzie", played by Henry Winkler, gets to meet his childhood hero for his birthday. Mr. Hart passed away on Sept. 20, 2009, at the age of 91, by natural causes.

Dated: January 29, 2016 THE NASSAU COUNTY TREASURER
MINEOLA, NEW YORK

St. John's of Lattingtown Welcomes Rev. Mark Fitzhugh

The Rev Mark Fitzhugh was recently installed by Bishop Lawrence Provenzano as the eighth Rector of St John's of Lattingtown Episcopal Church in Locust Valley. Assisting the Bishop was Canon Thomas Orso, who had worked with the search committee at St John's guiding them in the long process of calling a new rector.

The pews were full to capacity as the service began. Friends and family from Fr. Mark's previous parishes, in Florida and Connecticut, and his home state of Alabama were there to offer support and participate in the ceremony with Bible readings and other parts of the ceremony. Also participating was Rev Fitzhugh's wife, Cherri Smith and their daughter Ella, the Vestry and church wardens. The St John's choir under the direction of Eric Milnes sang several hymns including the popular Amazing Grace. Following the service a reception was held in the Parish Hall catered by Mary Williams and Jan Hagnar, who are parishioners at St John's. A cake with the words Welcome Father Mark was served, as the celebration continued.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

*Dear Great Book Guru,
My family and I are going away for a Presidents' week vacation and I am looking for a book to bring along. With the primary elections so much in the news, I would like to read something with a political twist- preferably non-fiction. Any recommendation?
Obsessed with Presidential Politics*

Dear Obsessed,
Daniel DiPietro gave me a fascinating book for my birthday: DARK MONEY by Jane Mayer. Dark money is the term used to describe political spending by groups whose funding does not have to be revealed. Mayer details the enormous power and animus of these American billionaire donors and the subsequent rise of the radical right. She begins with a richly detailed history of the Koch brothers, tracing the family's enormous wealth back to Fred Koch's alliances with Stalin and Hitler in the 1930's. His sons Charles and David have gone on in a myriad of ways to control not just who rules the country but how the country thinks. In this highly readable account, Mayer underscores the lengths they and their billionaire allies have gone to in order to achieve their goals- whether it be climate change denial, the formation of the Tea Party, or the systematic takeover of local and state governments. DARK MONEY is ultimately a horrifying look at how the United States has been fundamentally and probably irrevocably changed by this billionaire cabal. Highly recommended!
