Glen Cove's 2016 July 4th Weekend Celebration Children's Bike Parade, Three Free Concerts and Fireworks!

The City of Glen Cove's annual July 4th festivities celebrates great traditions with free concerts, fireworks and a children's bike parade. "Glen Cove is the place to be for July 4th weekend as we have the best of everything for our residents - fireworks, a classic child's bike parade, concerts downtown and in the park, beautiful beaches and picnic grounds," said Mayor Spinello.

Coordinated by the Glen Cove Youth Bureau, the annual July 4th Children's Bike Parade has become a morning holiday tradition for kids of all ages and their families. Children take bikes, scooters, wagons, strollers and battery-powered vehicles and roll down the streets of downtown Glen Cove to the Village Square with their spirited energy and patriotism in full view. The parade starts at 10:00 a.m. but children are asked to arrive at the Robert M. Finley Middle School at 9:30 a.m. to decorate their bikes/wagons etc. for a bike decorating contest. For the bike contest, one winner will be selected in three categories - Most Patriotic, Most Original and Best Group - with a special prize for each winner.

July 4th In Sea Cliff

Please join the Civic Association on Monday July 4 at 10 am at the village Green in Sea Cliff to celebrate Independence Day. There will be reading of the declaration, music, noisemakers, and followed by the reading will be a bicycle parade down Sea Cliff Avenue to Lincoln plaza by Metro Bistro. There will be refreshments as well.

We hope to see you there!

County Repairing Sea Cliff Seawall

The boat ramp along Prospect Avenue in Sea Cliff and adjoining wall have been crumbling and the foundation under the ramp washing away with storm tides. This has become a potentially hazardous situation since the ramp is sinking, causing it to be uneven and dangerous for a boat to use as a launching area for access to Hempstead Harbor.

Thankfully, Nassau County Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton was able to secure County funding to completely repair the seal wall and replace the boat ramp. "After receiving calls from my constituents, I met Nassau County Department of Public Works representatives and Sea Cliff Mayor Bruce Kennedy at the site," Nassau County Legislator Delia DeRiggi-

Whitton said. "It was immediately compromised. I am very glad to the wall and boat ramp completely secured now."

Children's Bike Parade, Three Free Concerts and Fireworks!

There will also be free refreshments, a July 4th arts and crafts project, giveaways and a Patriotic singalong.

After the morning bike parade, all residents are invited later in the day to Morgan Memorial Park for a 7:30 p.m. concert featuring the Northwinds Symphonic Band and a 9:15 p.m. fireworks display. Under the musical direction of Helen Bauer and guest conductor Barbara Sherwin, this year's program will feature familiar marches, patriotic favorites, selection from the King and I, and the music of Irving Berlin and John Williams. A Dixieland combo will feature G. Edward Smith on clarinet, Robert P. Evans on trombone, trumpeter Barry Schwalb, Kevin Weibley on Tuba and Caitlyn Cummings will "swing away" to When the Saints Go Marching In. Guest soloist and harmonica virtuoso, Jiayi, will dazzle the audience with Flight of the Bumblebee and Sousa's Harmonica Wizard accompanied by members of the band. Soprano Allison Tamburello will join the band for the Josh Grobin favorite, You Raise Me Up and God Bless America. To close the concert and honor the men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces, Northwinds will perform The Stars and Stripes Forever while Fireworks by Grucci brings bright bursts and a spectacular pyrotechnic artistry to the skies high above Morgan Memorial Park at 9:15 p.m.

In case of rain, the concert will be held indoors at St. Patrick's Church Parish Hall on July 4th and the Fireworks will be rescheduled for Tuesday, July 5 at 9:15 p.m. Residents are reminded that bags and backpacks are subject to search at Morgan Memorial Park for contraband including alcohol and fireworks. Parking restrictions will be in effect in the Landing neighborhood on July 4. Starting at 9 a.m. on Monday, July 4, there will be no parking on Germaine Street, Landing Road or McLoughlin Street west of Carpenter Street. Parking for individuals with Handicap Parking Permits will be available in the Morgan Park parking lot. For residents who watch the fireworks from the Long Island Sound, safe boating is encouraged.

Glen Cove's July 4th festivities are made possible through support provided by The Glen Cove Mansion, Garvies Point, Phillips Lytle LLP, Zarin & Steinmetz, D&B Engineers & Architects, P.S., Anker's Electric Services, American Paving & Masonry Corp., Bowne AE&T Group, Newport Engineering, Turner Miller Group, Glen Cove PBA, North Coast Subaru and Gannet Flemming.

Finley Cellist Earns Scholarship

Finley Middle School eighth-grader Axelle LaBaw, a cellist in the school's string orchestra, received a scholarship from the Nassau Music Educators Association to attend Usdan Summer Camp for the Arts.

Axelle has a strong desire and passion to study music and develop her skills on the cello. She was recognized for her performance at NYSSMA and her leadership role in the middle school orchestra. Orchestra instructor Chris Lippe, the Glen Cove Music Department and the Glen Cove School District would like to congratulate Axelle on her hard work and achievement and wish her the best of luck on her future musical endeavors.

The Secret Gardens of Sea Cliff

July 9th a Sat. 10am-3pm Summer Refreshments 1pm-4pm
Tickets $25

Come! Follow the sweet scent of roses, honeysuckle, phlox and lilies. They will lead you along with us on a joyful and playful treasure hunt of gardens bursting with color and with a special surprise around every corner...big treasure, little treasures... artistic creativity is very much alive and it plays out beautifully in this little Victorian Village overlooking Hempstead Harbor.

How difficult it is to have a favorite! Gardens are as unique and imaginative as the gardeners. There are waterfalls, ponds, garden structures, unusual perennials and artful terracing, designs, and patterns tucked away in unsuspecting corners. What a wonderful delight!

Share the day with your friends and neighbors wandering through eight secret gardens.

At tours end you can relax and enjoy some light refreshments in a lovely garden shaded with a high canopy of walnut, maple, and oak trees with thoughts of flowers dancing in your head. As Mr. Burbank wrote, "Flowers are sunshine, food and medicine for the soul." They are happy things.

Come join us on Saturday, July 9th.

Tickets available for advanced purchase at Sherlock Homes Realty 305 Sea Cliff Ave, Sea Cliff and Danial Gale Realty 266 Sea Cliff Ave.

Day of the tour tickets will be available 9:30am at Peri Park on Sea Cliff Ave. Across from KC Gallagher's Restaurant at 325 Sea Cliff Ave

Senate Members Raise Money and Awareness

Glen Cove High School's Student Senate, under the guidance of adviser Ellen Lynch, sponsored a team for the Relay for Life hosted at North Shore High School.

One of the team's fundraisers was to tape Glen Cove High School Assistant Principal Allen Hudson to a wall, which assisted them in raising $200 in approximately 45 minutes! During the Relay, the students played games, including kickball. They also got up on stage to sing karaoke and participated in a scavenger hunt. Glen Cove High School's Student Senate took part in a Relay for Life at North Shore High School.

Yankee Doodle Dandy at NSHM 6/29

Put on your red, white and blue, and come celebrate Independence Day at the North Shore Historical Museum as board member Barry Rivadue gives a little tap dance tribute performance, and some history on the life of Great Neck resident George M. Cohan, before the showing of the 1942 film Yankee Doodle Dandy, on Wednesday June 29 at 7pm. Light refreshments will be served. Admission is $5 for museum members and $10 for non members.

This is the final film in the Pistilli Film Series.

The current exhibit at NSHM is North Shore Worships, celebrating the history of the many faiths represented in the area, which will continue until August 20.

Letters to the Editor

Rest Jack Prince

To the Editor,

Last Friday at Calverton National Cemetery, a nineteen year old U.S. Marine, from Bellrose, Pfc Jack Prince, was laid to rest. Jack Prince has been nineteen since he was killed on Tarawa Atoll in the Gilbert Islands on 20 November 1943. His earthly remains were recently uncovered in a burial trench near the battle site—and he has finally come home for a fitting burial.

Jack Prince went out and, like many others, did his best for his country in the second war. In the process his future was forfeited.

Jack Prince never experienced so many things: a career, marriage, parenthood, christenings, graduations, grandchildren—things so many of us have enjoyed because young men like Jack helped preserve our way of life.

Jack Prince is now home in the greatest country God ever created. That's got to count for something. May he rest in peace.

The Full Story

To The Editor,

Recent articles in Newsday only tell part of the story. The contract for sale of the 52 acres requires RXR Realty throughout the agreement and in subsequent amendments, and specifically Amendment 4, which states: "the Redeveloper shall be responsible for the funding and construction of all Public Amenities. The Agencies acknowledge that the Redeveloper may seek funding from third-party sources, other than the City of Glen Cove and its agencies, in connection with funding all or part of the Public Amenities...". So the Redeveloper (RXR) is responsible for all costs, not the City and the use of anticipated tax revenue is contrary to the contract for sale. Glen Cove derives no benefit in the use tax revenue to fund a private project when the tax revenue has always been anticipated to relieve some burden of our taxes.

Similarly, the Mayor's idea of retaining land is a contradiction of that same contract and in doing so would also violate Zoning regulations, invalidate the Planned Unit Development and reduce the intended relief of tax burdens on the residents of Glen Cove as well.

A subsequent article and column by the Mayor go on to misinform the public further. The "win-win" article in local papers informs the public that the road project will cost a projected 21 million. He forgets to note that the City has 10 million in grants designated for that road project. He notes that "Municipalities regularly provide the public infrastructure and amenities to support a project" Again he fails to advise the public that the contract for sale requires the developer to finance and build them. He not only fails to explain how a TIF works but also forgets to tell us that the anticipated tax revenue being used for this includes the portion of school tax that would have gone to our schools. Finally he advises us that RXR will maintain the properties making it sound like a concession on their part but in reality, RXR is required to maintain them by contract as well.

Posted on the City website by the Mayor are a number of other inaccuracies. The City doesn't get 15 million dollars. The CDA/IDA gets a check but that is reduced by payments already made by RXR to pay CDA/IDA loans. The City gets 3.5 million out of that which is in the budget but not yet realized. The City has no obligations to the County. The CDA/IDA does. The Mayor states that over the next 40 years we would realize 500 million in tax but doesn't subtract the 900 million he wants to give RXR in any equation nor does he explain that most of that is School tax. Any budget deficits should not be blamed on others, but by those who put one shot revenue into a budget and disregarded history that they should have learned from.

TIFs are not the answer, but holding RXR to the contract is.

The Interdisciplinary Balance Study at Glenwood Landing School

Glenwood Landing Elementary School students were asked the question, True or False, Is balance needed in all aspects of life?

After having completed a unit in science called Balancing and Weighing in the classroom, GWL students had the opportunity to engage in an interdisciplinary balance study found in music, art, and through yoga practice in the Glenwood Landing Outdoor Learning Classroom thanks to the Collaboration team. Mrs. Marcantonio said, "Today was a wonderful day of learning. The students in second grade experienced balance in a variety of interdisciplinary areas!"

GWL music teacher, Mrs. Cheung, encouraged students to play a musical instrument that was made out of natural resources (or manmade). These instruments resembled different sounds found in Mother Nature. She asked the kids to close their eyes and go on a trip in their minds of their groups choosing. One group chose the Rainforest, adding to the point of how Mother Nature can sound so beautiful "without any conductor telling them when to play." This exemplified finding balance in the sounds of different species communicating with each other and bringing harmony together (balance through different manmade instruments).

GWL art teacher, Mrs. Moran, asked her students what the difference between something Symmetrical and Asymmetrical was? In groups of two or three, the students were then asked to create a structure out of wood pieces that were either symmetrical or asymmetrical. Finding the balance in the process was difficult for some, but allowed for team work among the groups.

The process allowed for students to ask a number of important questions including What effects balance?, How does the position of weight effect balance? Do objects of equal volume or size weigh the same? Students enjoyed discussing these questions and putting them to the test in their structures.

Physical education teacher, Mr. Carpenter, explained to his students the difference between static and dynamic balance. Static balance was defined as being able to maintain equilibrium when stationary, while dynamic balance maintains equilibrium while moving. He explained the impact balance has on physical activity, using our eyes, ears, and body sense to retain our balance. It helps you move, think, and become happy and strong!

Students practiced different yoga poses, including breath control, meditation, and being able to keep themselves level-headed and achieve balance. After each student had been to all three stations, there was a discussion on their learning. New understandings as to why balance is needed for your body, in nature, and art/music were conversed.

During this time, Mrs. Marcantonio, had discovered a bird's nest hidden in a tree with three Robin's eggs inside. Thus, adding to the balance of nature, and the roles that all species play in it. It was truly a great experience for students to gain new understandings, and the perspective of balance needed in all aspects of life.

High School Musicians Compete in Music in the Parks

The Glen Cove High School wind ensemble and orchestra traveled to New Jersey on June 3 to compete in the 2016 Music in the Parks competition.

Both ensembles performed for a panel of judges and competed against high schools from all over the tri-state area. The wind ensemble was awarded first place in their division, while the orchestra was awarded second place in their division. Teachers Brittney Frank Rifkind and James Guarini could not be more proud of how the groups performed and the level of musicianship and professionalism that was demonstrated.

Deasy Students Celebrate Father's Day

Deasy School first-graders had an opportunity to spend quality time with their dads when the school held its annual Father's Day celebration on June 14.

During the morning event, students and their fathers played kickball, under the guidance of physical education teacher Christopher MacDonald. They also enjoyed a snack and constructed wooden toolboxes, thanks to Home Depot. The retail chain donated the materials for the toolbox activity, which included work aprons for the students. The first-grade dads were also presented with pictures and stories that the students had created.

Name the Celebrity

It was Marlon Brando's film debut.
Last Week's Celebrity

This week's celebrity was born in Shippensburg, Pa. on Jan. 16, 1887. His father was not only the local store clerk but was also appointed Shippensburg trustee for the State Superintendent of Public Education. So it was a forgone conclusion that our celebrity would receive extensive schooling. Unlike most others of his generation and background, the area being a farming community, he attended Dickinson College and Shippensburg State Teacher's College. However, he opted to forego teaching for a stage career. After becoming an actor, he worked for Broadway plays and in touring theatrical companies for many years prior to his 1930 movie debut. He was in the original Broadway company of the 1922 play "Seventh Heaven" and would appear in the 1937 movie re-make of the same name with Simone Simon and Jimmy Stewart. The 1927 silent version starred Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor.

In 1930, at the age of 44, he made his film debut, costarring with Donald Meek, in a series of 2-reel S.S. Van Dyne whodunits, "The Skull Murder Mystery" and "The Wall Street Murder Mystery", filmed at Vitaphone's Brooklyn studios. Vitaphone's parent company, Warner Bros., then bought him to Hollywood in 1937, where he remained for the rest of his career. He appeared in "This is My Affair" (1937) with Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck, "The Roaring Twenties" (1939) with Jimmy Cagney and Humphrey Bogart, "Meet John Doe" (1941) with Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck and played "District Attorney Bryan" in John Huston's "The Maltese Falcon" (1941) with Humphrey Bogart and Mary Astor. Just a little teaser... Do you remember who played La Poloma ship's "Capt. Jacobi", who had been shot and stumbled into "Sam Spade's" office with the Maltese Falcon? Our celebrity was the justice of the peace, that married Marlon Brando's and Teresa Wright's characters in "The Men" (1950), a story of a WWII lieutenant, who is seriously injured in combat and the struggles he faces as he attempts to re-enter society.

Last week's celebrity was English actress Joanna Pettet. Along with movies listed last week, she also appeared on the TV series "Banacek", "McCloud", "Mannix", "Police Woman", and "Murder, She Wrote". In 1984, she appeared as herself in a "James Bond" tribute episode of "The Fall Guy", starring Lee Majors, alongside ex-Bond girls Britt Ekland and Lana Wood. She also starred in the NBC miniseries "Captains and Kings" (1976) and guest starred four times on the classic Rod Serling anthology series "Night Gallery", which was recently televised on the new station "Decades" (Cablevision Ch. 112). She has also appeared in the 1977 NBC anthology series "Quinn Martin's Tales of the Unexpected", "Fantasy Island" and "The Love Boat". In 1983, she had a recurring role on "Knots Landing", the "Dallas" spin-off, as "Janet Baines", an LAPD homicide detective investigating the murder of Lisa Hartman's character, singer "Ciji Dunne". She also starred opposite Jane Alexander, John Cullum and Randy Quaid in "Sweet Country" (1987), a film set in Chile during the military take-over of 1973.

Her last acting appearance, to date, was in a 1990 "bad action film" called "Terror in Paradise" that was produced by Roger Corman. He was an independent film producer, director and actor, known as "The Pope of Pop Cinema". He mentored and gave a start to many young film directors such as Francis Ford Coppola, Ron Howard, Martin Scorsese and James Cameron and helped launch the careers of Jack Nicholson and Peter Fonda. During the filming of "Terror in Paradise", in the Philippines, Pettet was held hostage by rebels, led by Gregorio Honansan, attempting to overthrow Philippine President Corazon Aquino, and Pettet managed to escape the hotel where she was being held, before fleeing the country. By then, she had lost her enthusiasm for acting and decided it was time to bow out gracefully from the entertainment business. Tragically, the July 7, 1995 death of her only child, 26 year old Damen Zachary Cord, from a heroin overdose, pushed her to retreat Hollywood even further. She moved to London and was the companion to British actor, Alan Bates, when he died in 2003, at the age of 69, from pancreatic cancer. She presently resides in London.

North Shore Middle School: NY State National Model School to Watch Designation Ceremony & Celebration

Only school in NY State this year to be named a 2016 Essential Elements School to Watch

Pictured is Principal Marc Ferris (center) from North Shore Middle School, which was named a 2016 Essential Elements School to Watch, surrounded by Trustee Toni Labbate, Trustee Sara Jones, Assistant Superintendent of Instruction Rob Chlebicki (back), Superintendent Dr. Edward Melnick, Assistant Principal Rachel Green, Trustee Lara Gonzalez, and Mr. Brian Sherman and Dr. David Payton, two representatives New York State Essential Elements: Schools-to-Watch Program. Article and photo by Shelly Newman

On June 10th, North Shore Middle School students, faculty, staff, MS PTSO members, NS administrators, and members of the Board of Education all gathered in the gymnasium to participate in a School to Watch Designation Ceremony & Celebration. Congratulations go out to Principal Dr. Marc Ferris and Assistant Principal Rachel Green as well as the entire North Shore Middle School community for being the only school in NY State this year to be named a 2016 Essential Elements School to Watch (EE:STW).

To an enthusiastic audience, Dr. Ferris kicked-off the ceremony by congratulating his students, faculty, and staff for contributing to this high honor. He spoke about the importance of the E3 philosophy (Everyone Matters, Everyone Cares, Everyone Learns) at North Shore Middle School and how it is integral to the success of his students and the whole building. He reiterated, "I am so proud of the work that our teachers and students at North Shore Middle School are accomplishing every day."

After a beautiful performance of Imagine (written by John Lennon) by the North Shore Middle School band and chorus under the direction of their music teachers, Dr. Ferris presented the following students with awards for their outstanding E3 efforts and for making a difference in our community. Awards went to Jack Levin (Juvenile Diabetes Foundation), Richard Perez (American Cancer Foundation, Kick Brass, and Relay for Life), Mackenzie Olitsky (Multiple Sclerosis Foundation), Kyle Soscie (Tech Buddy Program), Zoe Varkaris (toiletries for the homeless in NYC), and Lola Scarpone (toiletries for the needy in South Africa). Then Dr. Ferris presented Social Studies teacher, Tom Curtin, with a plaque for his years of dedication to the North Shore School District and wished him luck in his retirement.

Following, Dr. David Payton and Mr. Brian Sherman, two representatives from EE:STW, presented Dr. Ferris with the 2016 Essential Elements School to Watch Award. A banner with this designation is currently on display on the front of the school building. North Shore Middle School was praised for being the only school in NY State this year to be named a 2016 Essential Elements School to Watch and one of 14 schools in the nation to receive this prestigious designation. Dr. Ferris will be formally honored at the upcoming National Schools to Watch Conference on June 22-25, 2016 in Washington D.C.

Principal Ferris stated, "It is a really nice feeling to be recognized as a model middle school in both N.Y. State and across the Nation. In the near future, representatives from other middle schools across the United States will visit our school and learn what a truly outstanding middle school looks like." He concluded by stating, "This high honor sends a clear message to our students that when adults in an organization collaborate and work hard, it pays off."

SAFE, Inc. encourages Seniors to Lock Up Your Meds!

Ashley Ferrufino, the SAFE Glen Cove Coalition Liaison visited seniors at the Glen Cove Senior Center on May 17th to share some information on securing and safeguarding prescription drugs. She offered them national and local statistics related to prescription drug abuse and misuse, discussing steps they could take to reduce use utilizing the "Lock Up Your Meds!" campaign.

The "Lock Up Your Med's" is a national campaign supported by National Family Partnership. The campaign utilizes a multi-media approach to educate communities about what adults can do to stop prescription drug abuse among youth.

In Glen Cove statistics indicate that prescription drug use on the whole is one the downside, however there is still potential for youth to engage in abuse. According to the results of the 2014 Bach-Harrison Prevention Needs Assessment Survey that was given to Glen Cove students grades 6,8,10, &12, lifetime rate of prescription narcotic abuse has increased for the students in the 10th grade. Results also indicated the 10th grade lifetime use rate of prescription narcotics has increased from 2.6% in 2012 to 4.3% in 2014.

"It is important that we educate the community on prescription drug abuse because family and friends have become the unwitting suppliers in this epidemic" Ferrufino said. "With increasing accessibility to prescription medication in the household teens are able to begin experimenting at younger ages". It is important that the community become aware of this growing problem and what actions they can to prevent and reduce use.

During the presentation SAFE Inc., distributed Medication Tracking cards that can be used to keep inventory of all household medications. By tracking medication the individual is quickly alerted if any medication has gone missing. Seniors were encouraged to speak with grandchildren about the risk and dangers of both over-the-counter and prescription medication. Ferrufino discussed misconceptions and potential reasons youth may lean towards prescription drug abuse with seniors.

Great Book Guru

- Ann DiPietro

Dear Great Book Guru, I am looking forward to a myriad of wonderful summer events here in Sea Cliff beginning this week with the Sea Cliff Civic Association's iconic Ice Cream Social held every year in Spooky Park. While I am waiting for the fun to begin, I would love a good book to start the summer off just right. Any ideas? Fan of Sea Cliff Summers

Dear Fan of Sea Cliff Summers, My book club just finished a novel that was not very well received by my friends, but one that I much enjoyed : THE DOOR by Magda Szabo. Szabo is a renowned international author who has written over twenty award winning books, but is little known in America. This beautifully crafted jewel of a novel is a great introduction to her work. It is the story of two women: Magda- a young intellectual novelist married to an older physician- and Emerence- an elderly servant who becomes an integral part of their household. It is a deeply moving psychological mystery that seeks to uncover why these two women become so intimately connected. Gradually we come to realize Emerence for all her intimidating and seemingly cruel behavior is actually a Christ-like figure whose love encompasses humans and animals alike. When she dies, literal and metaphorical doors open, with Magda realizing how small a person she herself is and the depth of Emerence's goodness. This is a very moving albeit challenging book that reminds the reader how impossible it is to truly know another. Recommended!

Glen Cove Police Department Outreaches to Local Stores for SCAM Education Effort

With the growing concern about the impact of telephone scams and fraud, the Glen Cove Police Department is launching an outreach effort to engage local drug and convenience stores and pharmacies to help educate the Glen Cove community as a preventive measure against this growing area of crime.

"Being the guardians of the public safety it is our obligation to help Glen Cove residents understand that there are unlawful practices beginning conducted by criminals who prey on people to steal their money," said Glen Cove Police Chief William Whitton. "These criminals telephone residents and falsely threaten them with legal action, jail time or claim that a family member has been kidnapped or arrested – all to get them to give up their hard earned money." One of the most pressing issues is that the criminals ask residents to buy a pre-paid credit card at a local store to pay off their "debt", ransom or for the cost of a lawyer. According to Detective Lieutenant John Nagle, "These criminals can be very convincing on the phone by evoking the names of the Internal Revenue Service, the U.S. Treasury Department, Nassau Court System and LIPA while also getting residents to share the names of their family members. They ask for pre-paid credits cards and its pin number as the payment is untraceable and there is no recourse for a resident to get their money back."

"With knowledge as power, the Glen Cove Police Departments efforts are aimed at engaging the support of store managers and their employees as a preventative measure," said Mayor Spinello. "They are asking the stores to alert their cashiers about how to ask a few simple questions when an individual is purchasing a large amount of pre-paid credit cards can help detect a scam."

Stores are being asked to educate their employees about telephone scams by posting a flyer and prompting cashiers to ask this question: Do you know scammers are urging people to buy these cards to pay off debts that really are not owed? In addition, the flyer suggests that customers call the Glen Cove Police Department at (516) 676-1000 before completing the transaction or calling a criminal back with a Pre-Paid credit call number.

28th Annual John Maccarone Golf Tournament to Benefit Glen Cove Student-Athletes

Hit the links for a good cause this July with the Glen Cove Hall of Fame's 28th Annual John Maccarone Golf Tournament. The tournament will be held 7:30 a.m. Monday, July 18th at the Glen Cove Golf Club. Proceeds from the event are awarded as scholarships to exceptional Glen Cove High School graduating student-athletes each year in memory of John Maccarone, former Glen Cove Recreation Director. Over $150,000 has been raised and distributed throughout the 27 year history of the tournament and this year $7,000 in scholarships will be awarded to Glen Cove High School Class of 2016 seniors Amanda Heavey, Catherine Hatala, Michelle Melfi, Grace Blinkoff, Christian Guevara and Gaetano Famiglietti.

Students are chosen for their dedication to excellence both in the classroom and on the field.

This annual tournament is held at the beautiful Glen Cove Golf Club, featuring spectacular views of the Long Island Sound. Tickets are $125 per golfer and they include a continental breakfast, greens fees, carts, BBQ lunch and a gift. In addition to the 18 hole tournament, competitors may partake in contests including closest to the pin, closest to the line and longest drive. Trophies will be awarded to top participants.

For sponsorship opportunities or to register to play, call the Glen Cove Recreation Department at 516-676-3766.

Photo Caption: 2016 John Maccarone Scholarship recipients: Amanda Heavey, Catherine Hatala, Michelle Melfi, Grace Blinkoff and Sidney Canararick Scholarship recipient Christian Guevara are pictured with Glen Cove Hall of Fame Committee Members Darcy Belyea, Leslie Maccarone Baptista and Jacquie Gow. ## Rotary Club of Glen Cove to Host 21st Annual Golf Outing

By: Mary Grace Donaldson

GLEN COVE, N.Y. – The Rotary Club of Glen Cove will hold its annual flagship fundraiser, the club’s 21st Golf Outing, on July 25, 2016. The golf portion of the day will be held at the Glen Cove Golf Course on Lattingtown Road. Sign-in begins at 11:00 A.M, with a barbecue prior to the 1 P.M. tee-off Dinner and awards will immediately follow at the Metropolitan in Glen Cove.

A new feature of this year’s outing is an instructional golf option, which, upon request, invites novice golfers to participate in the outing with instruction from a golf pro.

The club will honor two former Rotarians, Nicholas DiLeo and Peter Patrissi. Both honorees are being recognized together for the third consecutive year. DiLeo was a member of the Glen Cove club prior to his passing in 2014.

Proceeds from the outing directly benefit the Glen Cove club’s winter project, Dress-A-Child. Members of the club accompany area children, who are in need of winter coats and accessories, on a shopping trip to Target each November. The children leave with bags filled with winter weather clothes. The club participates in several service projects throughout the year.

The event team is still seeking golfers and tee sponsorships. For additional information, golfer registration, dinner only reservations or sponsorship, please contact event chair Martin Wertheim at (516) 671-0427.
